Nation's Pigskin Powers Thunder Past Opposition

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With Louisiana State and Northwestern leading the way, the big-wigs of college football thundered past the halfway point of the season Saturday.

There was hardly an upset to be found. LSU, Mississippi and Syracuse, among the top 10 teams in the current Associated Press Poll, shut out their opposition.

Texas, No. 3, played Rice under the lights, and Georgia Tech, No. 9, had an arclight date with Tulane.

LSU

Louisiana State, No. 1 and roaring toward the Southeastern Conference championship, whipped Florida 9-0 in a league game. The victory was the 18th straight for the Bengals from the Bayou.

Northwestern, No. 2, downed Notre Dame 30-24 with John Talley tossing three touchdown passes and scoring once himself. Notre Dame scored all three of its touchdowns on Northwestern mistakes.

Mississippi, No. 4, whitewashed Arkansas 28-0. The Razorbacks are No. 10, and rated Texas' main threat for the Southwest Conference title. But they couldn't do a thing against Ole Miss.

Southern California, No. 5, the Pacific Coast untouchable, behind for three quarters, rallied for a 30-28 victory over Stanford. Oregon, No. 11 in the AP poll, was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks by Washington 13-12.

Crackdown In Cuba Sees 50 Arrested

Heads Demand Extradition Of Former Major

HAVANA (UPI) — The government arrested more than 50 "counter - revolutionaries" Saturday and demanded extradition from the United States of former Air Force Maj. Pedro Diaz Lanz in connection with a rebel "air raid" last Wednesday.

The crackdown came amid reports of fresh rebel air activity in the provinces. A dispatch from Las Villas said an unmarked twin-engine airplane strafed a moving train near the town of Caibarien, but was driven off by gun fire from a military escort aboard the train.

Diaz Lanz was accused of "manslaughter, wounding and imperfect assassination" in an incident Wednesday in which an airplane dropped anti - government leaflets on Havana. Two persons were killed, supposedly by persons incited by the leaflets.

FLED

Diaz Lanz, a former chief of the Cuban air force, fled last summer to the United States where he testified before a U.S. Senate subcommittee investigating Communist subversion in the Cuban government and armed forces.

Minister of State Raul Roa said telegrams had been sent to the Cuban embassy in Washington and to the consulate in Miami, where Diaz Lanz now resides, demanding that U. S. authorities arrest him and extradite him to Cuba as "a common criminal."

Thirty of the persons arrested Saturday were accused of plotting

New Efforts Launched To End Strike

No Details Told By Spokesmen On Proposals

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Union and industry negotiators launched new peace efforts Saturday under prodding from President Eisenhower to keep talking until they achieve a voluntary settlement of the record 102-day steel strike.

The renewed negotiations, first since week before last, were arranged on orders of the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Spokesmen for the United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry declined comment on whether either was prepared to submit fresh proposals.

President Eisenhower made his latest plea for settlement of the dispute at his vacation headquarters in Augusta, Ga. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President sincerely hopes both sides "realize fully the obligation they owe to the United States and that they remain in consultation and negotiation until they settle it."

URGED

In Philadelphia, the head of Eisenhower's special three-man fact-finding panel denied a published report he had asked the President for permission to resume mediation efforts. Hagerty also issued a denial.

Dr. George W. Taylor said only that he had been in touch with Joseph Finnegan, chief of the Federal Mediation Service.

"All we talked about was the present problems as to how we can best cooperate in the event the fact-finding board is reconvened," Taylor said. "That's all I know."

The Third Circuit Court is studying the union's appeal from a Taft-Hartley injunction directing the 500,000 strikers to return to their jobs for 80 days. A decision is expected early this week.

Government attorneys obtained the injunction in U. S. Dist. Court here Wednesday. But its enforcement was delayed by the appellate court pending disposition of the union appeal.

Under Taft-Hartley, both sides are required to continue negotiations with the help of federal mediators during the life of the injunction.

If the strike ban is upheld—and barring further legal roadblocks—Finnegan must initiate mediation action.

Finnegan said if the negotiations get bogged down, he will summon both sides to Washington.

Taylor said the fact - finding board also would be reconvened.

Train-Truck Collision Fatal To Six; 13 Hurt

3 Others Listed As Missing

PARKLAND, Alta. (AP) — A passenger train and a trailer - truck carrying household gas collided at a crossing Saturday. Officials said six persons were killed and three others are missing.

Thirteen were injured and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman for a funeral home said earlier estimates of dead, that ranged as high as 12, were probably due to the condition of the bodies. The same factor made identification difficult, he said.

An explosion and fire followed the collision, engulfing the truck and the second coach of the Canadian Pacific Railway train in flames.

There were 25 persons in the coach and one person in the truck. It had been believed earlier there were two men and a woman in the truck.

REPORTS

First reports said some of the injured were in critical condition, but hospital authorities in Claresholm, 30 miles south of Parkland, later reported most were suffering from cuts and shock.

The diesel train was a so-called dayliner, made up of only two passenger cars.

"It was a terrible sight," one woman told reporters. "Bodies of a man and woman were lying on the track and the train and truck were burning."

First to reach the scene was a farmer, Ellis Oviatt, and his hired man, Paul Terlesky.

Terlesky said he was watching as the truck and train met and the truck exploded.

They dragged four persons through the rear door of the second coach. Fierce flames prevented them from rescuing others, they said.

The first coach was not derailed. The second was flaming and was tipped by the impact, but was prevented from falling over by the coupling with the forward coach.

Weapon Test Ban Parley Will Reopen

Authorities View Issue As Crucial Point

WASHINGTON (AP) — The East-West parley on banning nuclear weapons tests reopens Tuesday in what shapes up as a crucial phase of the year-old conference at Geneva.

Some U.S. authorities regard a test ban agreement as a necessary forerunner if there is to be success at the broader 10-nation disarmament conference slated to get under way early next year.

If the Soviet Union will not agree to inspection controls aimed at detecting banned nuclear explosions, it is contended, then there is scant chance of a pact on other types of arms reduction where the West insists controls also are necessary.

HOPEFUL

U.S. negotiators are hopeful the resuming test-ban talks will produce agreement. But they have no word that Moscow has changed its basic position.

When the talks recessed two months ago, the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union had reached agreement on a substantial range of items in the proposed treaty. Moscow had softened demands for a sweeping veto and had agreed there ought to be some controls.

But Moscow balked at a scientifically based control and inspection system which the West said

Red Czechs Free Soldier From Prison

WUERZBERG, Germany (UPI) —Communist Czechoslovakia Saturday released an American soldier held in jail 14 months for violating the Iron Curtain frontier and returned him to U.S. Army authorities.

Pvt. John R. Kennedy, 26, of Philadelphia, was turned over to the 3rd Infantry Division at the border town of Waldhaus, Germany, and flown by helicopter to Wuerzberg for a physical examination and questioning by intelligence officers. He faced possible court martial for illegally crossing the border and being absent without leave.

Kennedy was "hungry, but feeling pretty good to be back," an Army spokesman said.

RELEASED

He was released at almost the exact point where he and SP-4C1 Cole J. Youngert of Detroit, wandered over the border Aug. 24, 1958.

A Czech court convicted both men of crossing the frontier illegally and jailed them. Youngert was released last June 24.

Kennedy was held in a jail at Prague for most of his 14 months of captivity.

Division intelligence officer Lt. Col. Paul Fromer said the Army wanted Kennedy to get "a little comfort" and some time to himself.

"We don't want him to feel he's being railroaded into anything," Fromer said.

Before they disappeared, Kennedy and Youngert, members of the 10th Engineer Battalion of the 34d Division, were last seen by a German taxicab driver. He said both apparently had been drinking.

On his release, Youngert was court martialed and sentenced to six months imprisonment and a $300 fine for violating border regulations and being absent without leave. The prison sentence later was suspended.

Kennedy faced the same charges, but an Army spokesman said any decision would await completion of the investigation of his case.

POLICE HUNT HUSBAND

Woman Reveals Pact Of Suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Central Intelligence Agency employe was swept away and lost in the Potomac River rapids Saturday after leaping in with his wife, who told police it was a suicide pact.

The wife, Mrs. James A. Woodbury, 32, was pulled from the swirling water in tears. Rescuers forcibly prevented her from jumping in again.

A search of the river did not disclose the fate of her husband, also 32. Police said the search would be resumed Sunday.

Police Pvt. C. H. Simpson of Fairfax County, Va., quoted Mrs. Woodbury, an attractive strawberry blonde, as saying her husband had a lot on his mind and that: "They wanted to put him in a psycho ward and we figured it best to do away with ourselves."

Simpson said she did not elaborate on her reference to "they."

SPOT

The incident occurred at Great Falls, a spot about 12 miles above Washington where the Potomac River plunges over an outcropping of rugged rock. The falls are a sightseeing attraction, visible from both the Virginia and Maryland shores of the river. There have been many drownings there.

A CIA spokesman described Woodbury only as a veteran employe. Neighbors said the couple had returned to their Arlington, Va., home only recently from a two-year tour of duty in Germany.

Pvt. Simpson said Mrs. Woodbury told him she and her husband had sat for some time on a rocky ledge about 300 feet upstream from the Great Falls Park administration building, contemplating the swirling waters.

Simpson said she told him her husband asked her just before they jumped, "Do you want to go first?" She declined, she said, and they plunged hand in hand 30 feet into the rapids and were swept through "The Spout," a

Auto Collision Here Injures 4, One Critically

Most extensively injured was Mrs. Winnie Mae Powell, 37, of 604 South 3rd, who was near death late last night in St. Francis hospital.

Her husband, Everett Powell, 41, was also hospitalized from injuries received in the accident, but attendants said his condition was not critical. Powell, with his wife, was taken to the hospital by Peters Funeral Home ambulance.

Two other persons, both in the other vehicle involved, were taken to the hospital by Mulhearn ambulance, but were released later.

CUTS, BRUISES

They were identified as James Hammett, 30, of 1109 South 4th, who was driving; and a passenger, H. C. Chandler, 42, who gave his address as Edwards Garage, Monroe. Reports indicated the two sustained various bruises and cuts in the mishap.

According to investigating officers of the Monroe police department, the accident occurred about 6:50 a.m. yesterday as Hammett's auto, which was heading west on Texas Avenue.

Witnesses told police officers that the Hammett vehicle ran a red light when the crash occurred. After the initial impact, both cars skidded "approximately 66

Warehouse Hit By Huge Fire; Nobody Hurt

EMPIRE, La. (AP) — A smoldering fire, fanned by high winds, caved in the roof of a big fish packing warehouse here and caused damage estimated at least $250,000.

There were no injuries reported. Five firefighting companies, one from Belle Chasse, 40 miles away, battled the fire for over two hours before bringing it under control.

Origin of the fire in the warehouse owned by Empire Menhaden Company Inc., was not known, a company spokesman said.

Employes discovered the fire shortly before noon. By 1:30 p.m. flames caused the roof to buckle.

About half the building, a large corrugated iron structure where tons of trash fish is processed into chicken feed, was destroyed or heavily damaged.

Jack Styron of New Orleans, company vice president, said, "A conservative estimate of the damages would be at least $250,000."

He said the fire started in the packaging end of the warehouse, where a large part of its electrical equipment is stored.

During the week about 60 work in the area, but only a skeleton crew was on duty at the time of the fire.

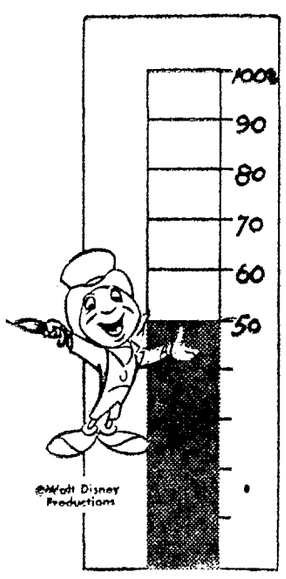

Benson Enters Army Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was admitted to Walter Reed Army Hospital Saturday for treatment of an abdominal ailment.

His temperature, pulse and respiration were described as normal and his condition satisfactory.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Candidates Plentiful In Franklin Parish

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles on politics in Northeast Louisiana. Today's story is about Franklin Parish.)

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Political candidates are so numerous in Franklin Parish that they're running over each other. No less than eight have come out for sheriff alone.

Only courthouse official unopposed is the coroner, Dr. Brashear Earle. All other top office holders have opposition.

But the political loo-loo belongs to the sheriff's race where incumbent Hiram B. Waller has seven opponents. That should be enough to make this the top political attraction in the parish.

To make the sheriff's race even more of a rarity a woman is running. Women often run for office, but seldom for sheriff.

Because of the number of candidates, observers expect the sheriff's race to go into a second primary. Waller still is considerd the man to beat.

He's been in the office for three terms and few disregard his ability as a vote-getter.

The field offers a variety to say the least. Some consider J. W. (Kit) McCain, a pulp wood contractor who has run for sheriff before, and A. J. (Steve) Stephens, a businessman who once served on the Police Jury, as Waller's two top opponents.

Other observers believe, however, that David Carter, a heavy machinery dealer, will run a good race.

Running too are Roy O. Garner,

COUPLE WED AT LAST

Romance Of 1939 Leads To '59 Rites

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This romance was only a tight little bud 20 years ago. It had no chance to blossom, because it withered in the sun of the woman's marriage to somebody else. For the disappointed man it was September song, indeed.

But it all came out just fine Saturday, matching the best happy endings of the story books. The two were married at noon in suburban Drexel Hill.

The groom is 92, the bride 57.

George A. Nutt and Marian Dotti met in the summer of 1939. He was a psychology professor at the University of Colorado. She was in his class.

"I took a liking to her," Nutt related, beaming upon his wife of a few hours, "and what's more, she was just about the finest student I ever had. I dated her several times."

In the fall of that year she returned to her home in Paulsboro, N.J., across the Delaware River from Philadelphia, and started teaching.

That Christmas, Nutt used his vacation to travel across the country to see her. The next summer she toured the West, stopped off to see him. It was their last meeting until this year.

In those years Nutt taught in Colorado and Wyoming. He, to, married. His wife died in 1947. At 30 he was still teaching—and coaching basketball teams. Final-

Thirteen were injured and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman for a funeral home said earlier estimates of dead, that ranged as high as 12, were probably due to the condition of the bodies. The same factor made identification difficult, he said.

An explosion and fire followed the collision, engulfing the truck and the second coach of the Canadian Pacific Railway train in flames.

There were 25 persons in the coach and one person in the truck. It had been believed earlier there were two men and a woman in the truck.

REPORTS

First reports said some of the injured were in critical condition, but hospital authorities in Claresholm, 30 miles south of Parkland, later reported most were suffering from cuts and shock.

The diesel train was a so-called dayliner, made up of only two passenger cars.

"It was a terrible sight," one woman told reporters. "Bodies of a man and woman were lying on the track and the train and truck were burning."

First to reach the scene was a farmer, Ellis Oviatt, and his hired man, Paul Terlesky.

Terlesky said he was watching as the truck and train met and the truck exploded.

They dragged four persons through the rear door of the second coach. Fierce flames prevented them from rescuing others, they said.

The first coach was not derailed. The second was flaming and was tipped by the impact, but was prevented from falling over by the coupling with the forward coach.

Red Czechs Free Soldier From Prison

WUERZBERG, Germany (UPI) —Communist Czechoslovakia Saturday released an American soldier held in jail 14 months for violating the Iron Curtain frontier and returned him to U.S. Army authorities.

Pvt. John R. Kennedy, 26, of Philadelphia, was turned over to the 3rd Infantry Division at the border town of Waldhaus, Germany, and flown by helicopter to Wuerzberg for a physical examination and questioning by intelligence officers. He faced possible court martial for illegally crossing the border and being absent without leave.

Kennedy was "hungry, but feeling pretty good to be back," an Army spokesman said.

RELEASED

He was released at almost the exact point where he and SP-4CL Cole J. Youngert of Detroit, wandered over the border Aug. 24, 1958.

A Czech court convicted both men of crossing the frontier illegally and jailed them. Youngert was released last June 24.

Kennedy was held in a jail at Prague for most of his 14 months of captivity.

Division intelligence officer Lt. Col. Paul Fromer said the Army wanted Kennedy to get "a little comfort" and some time to himself.

"We don't want him to feel he's being railroaded into anything," Fromer said.

Before they disappeared, Kennedy and Youngert, members of the 10th Engineer Battalion of the 34d Division, were last seen by a German taxicab driver. He said both apparently had been drinking.

On his release, Youngert was court martialed and sentenced to six months imprisonment and a $300 fine for violating border regulations and being absent without leave. The prison sentence later was suspended.

Kennedy faced the same charges, but an Army spokesman said any decision would await completion of the investigation of his case.

POLICE HUNT HUSBAND

Woman Reveals Pact Of Suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Central Intelligence Agency employe was swept away and lost in the Potomac River rapids Saturday after leaping in with his wife, who told police it was a suicide pact.

The wife, Mrs. James A. Woodbury, 32, was pulled from the swirling water in tears. Rescuers forcibly prevented her from jumping in again.

A search of the river did not disclose the fate of her husband, also 32. Police said the search would be resumed Sunday.

Police Pvt. C. H. Simpson of Fairfax County, Va., quoted Mrs. Woodbury, an attractive strawberry blonde, as saying her husband had a lot on his mind and that: "They wanted to put him in a psycho ward and we figured it best to do away with ourselves."

Simpson said she did not elaborate on her reference to "they."

SPOT

The incident occurred at Great Falls, a spot about 12 miles above Washington where the Potomac River plunges over an outcropping of rugged rock. The falls are a sightseeing attraction, visible from both the Virginia and Maryland shores of the river. There have been many drownings there.

A CIA spokesman described Woodbury only as a veteran employe. Neighbors said the couple had returned to their Arlington, Va., home only recently from a two-year tour of duty in Germany.

Pvt. Simpson said Mrs. Woodbury told him she and her husband had sat for some time on a rocky ledge about 300 feet upstream from the Great Falls Park administration building, contemplating the swirling waters.

Simpson said she told him her husband asked her just before they jumped, "Do you want to go first?" She declined, she said, and they plunged hand in hand 30 feet into the rapids and were swept through "The Spout," a

Auto Collision Here Injures 4, One Critically

Most extensively injured was Mrs. Winnie Mae Powell, 37, of 604 South 3rd, who was near death late last night in St. Francis hospital.

Her husband, Everett Powell, 44, was also hospitalized from injuries received in the accident, but attendants said his condition was not critical. Powell, with his wife, was taken to the hospital by Peters Funeral Home ambulance.

Two other persons, both in the other vehicle involved, were taken to the hospital by Mulhearn ambulance, but were released later.

CUTS, BRUISES

They were identified as James Hammett, 30, of 1109 South 4th, who was driving; and a passenger, H. C. Chandler, 42, who gave his address as Edwards Garage, Monroe. Reports indicated the two sustained various bruises and cuts in the mishap.

According to investigating officers of the Monroe police department, the accident occurred about 6:50 a.m. yesterday as Hammett's auto, which was heading west on Texas Avenue.

Witnesses told police officers that the Hammett vehicle ran a red light when the crash occurred. After the initial impact, both cars skidded "approximately 66

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Candidates Plentiful In Franklin Parish

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles on politics in Northeast Louisiana. Today's story is about Franklin Parish.)

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Political candidates are so numerous in Franklin Parish that they're running over each other. No less than eight have come out for sheriff alone.

Only courthouse official unopposed is the coroner, Dr. Brashear Earle. All other top office holders have opposition.

But the political loo-loo belongs to the sheriff's race where incumbent Hiram B. Waller has seven opponents. That should be enough to make this the top political attraction in the parish.

To make the sheriff's race even more of a rarity a woman is running. Women often run for office, but seldom for sheriff.

Because of the number of candidates, observers expect the sheriff's race to go into a second primary. Waller still is considerd the man to beat.

He's been in the office for three terms and few disregard his ability as a vote-getter.

The field offers a variety to say the least. Some consider J. W. (Kit) McCain, a pulp wood contractor who has run for sheriff before, and A. J. (Steve) Stephens, a businessman who once served on the Police Jury, as Waller's two top opponents.

Other observers believe, however, that David Carter, a heavy machinery dealer, will run a good race.

Running too are Roy O. Garner,

Parish 4-H'ers Garner Honors

Ouachita parish 4-H'ers exhibiting entries in the junior poultry division at the State Fair in Shreveport, yesterday returned home with top honors.

Charlotte Smith of Okaloosa Elementary School 4-H Club had the grand champion poultry display of all breeds entered. Her entry earlier also won as champion display of the White Plymouth Rock division.

Sandra Duchesne, also from the Okaloosa club, exhibited the grand champion pullet of the junior show. It was also champion pullet of the White Rock division.

Other parish 4-H'ers won second place ribbons with their entries. They are Pat Stout, Logtown; Brenda Davis, Woodlawn, and Dennis Bratton, Woodlawn. Elliott Branch is assistant county agent in charge of Ouachita parish 4-H work.

Fair And Cooler Looms For Area

Generally fair skies are expected for the Twin Cities area today through tomorrow, with slightly cooler temperatures. Yesterday's high was 70, low was 53, as compared to Friday's readings of 73 and 66.

Across the state, skies will be partly cloudy through tomorrow with slightly cooler temperatures in most areas.

In Arkansas skies will be generally fair during the next two days, with frost developing in scattered northwestern portions of the state.

COUPLE WED AT LAST

Romance Of 1939 Leads To '59 Rites

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This romance was only a tight little bud 20 years ago. It had no chance to blossom, because it withered in the sun of the woman's marriage to somebody else. For the disappointed man it was Septemoer song, indeed.

But it all came out just fine Saturday, matching the best happy endings of the story books. The two were married at noon in suburban Drexel Hill.

The groom is 92, the bride 57.

George A. Nutt and Marian Dotti met in the summer of 1939. He was a psychology professor at the University of Colorado. She was in his class.

"I took a liking to her," Nutt related, beaming upon his wife of a few hours, "and what's more, she was just about the finest student I ever had. I dated her several times."

In the fall of that year she returned to her home in Paulsboro, N.J., across the Delaware River from Philadelphia, and started teaching.

That Christmas, Nutt used his vacation to travel across the country to see her. The next summer she toured the West, stopped off to see him. It was their last meeting until this year.

In those years Nutt taught in Colorado and Wyoming. He, to, married. His wife died in 1947. At 30 he was still teaching—and coaching basketball teams. Finally, at 84, he decided to retire.

Casting about for useful ways to employ his time, he went to the adult blind home in Denver and read to those who could not see.

In a year or so his own eyesight failed. For a time he was blind. Two years ago an operation restored partial sight.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Dotti, teaching in suburban Upper Darby, began to think about her old admirer. She thought it would be fun to go see him.

Thus it came about that the two were reunited last August. A week ago Nutt flew from Denver to Philadelphia. The marriage plans were made.

The newlyweds will live here until Mrs. Nutt retires.

Then, said the bride, "I think we'll go back west. We both like it so much."

Winnsboro used car dealer, W. M. Hickingbottom, a farmer, and another Winnsboro man in business, D. C. Stringer.

The lady in the race is Mrs. Annie Mae Moore of Winnsboro.

But other political wars are developing to a point of interest around the Franklin courthouse.

For instance, Clerk of Court J. W. Donnell is stepping out after many years of service. His chief aide, Robert Lowe, is running after several years of work in the clerk's office.

But before Lowe can clear the hurdle to the clerk's job, he must defeat a young Gilbert farmer, George Broadway.

Assessor Willie Reems, completing his first term, has a fight too. Three other candidates have announced for assessor.

This is the year the pendelum is supposed to swing and King, a veteran of three terms, may have a battle if the shuffle attempts to take him in.

Running against the Winnsboro physician in the 33rd Senatorial one each from Richland and Catahoula parishes— are two men, one each from Richland and Catahoula.

Conducting a vigorous campaign is J. C. (Sonny) Gilbert, who is in the farming business at Sicily Island. Politics is not new to Gilbert, since he serves on the Police Jury in Catahoula.

Politics is not new either for Ellis W. Sehon at Delhi. An automobile dealer, Sehon was a senatorial candidate in the last campaign but withdrew in the second primary.

On the House side, Rep. Lantz Womack, finishing out the term of the late Walter Chachere after defeating Mrs. Chachere over a year ago, is up for re-election.

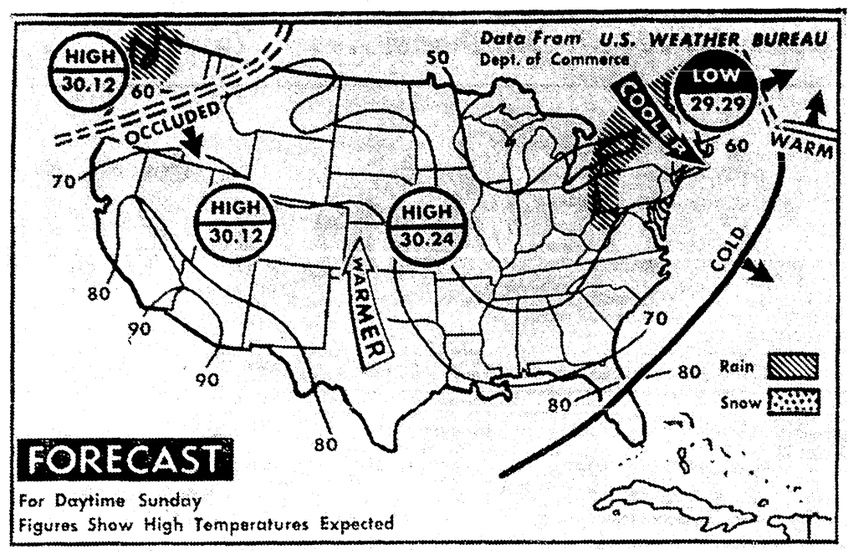

Womack has two opponents in Solon Chambley, a Wisner merchant, and young Joe Parker of Crowville. Parker at present is in the service, but is making his political bid regardless.

Yale the only, undefeated, untied, unscored-on major team in the country, kept its flawless record intact with a 21-0 triumph over Colgate. The Elis are ranked 19th, the highest of any Ivy League team in many a year. Penn, the other undefeated Ivy League club, tied Navy 22-22.

With Illinois' defeat by Penn State, Purdue and Wisconsin became the major threats to Northwestern for the Big 10 title. Purdue virtually eliminated Iowa, the defending champions, 14-7, while Wisconsin scored its first victory over Ohio State in 13 years, 12-3.

Army bounced back with a 25-6 intersectional triumph over Colorado State University, while Oklahoma, struggling to get back near the top after two defeats, squeezed past Kansas 7-6 in a Big 9 game. It named the Sooners 74th league game without defeat.

Anti-American feeling continued to run high in the wake of Castro's attack on the United States and he was expected to renew his charges that the United States permitted attacks on Cuba by American-based planes during a million-man rally scheduled in Havana on Monday.

Adding fuel to Castro's charges that "war criminals" of the ousted regime of Dictator Fulgencio Batista were operating against him from America was the FBI report that Diaz Lanz admitted in Miami that he staged Wednesday's leaflet "bombing" raid on Havana.

Week at the college here. Young women will have gum and candy for upperclassmen, furnished on request.

Men of the class will be provided with shine rags and black and brown shoe polish. They will shine the shoes of upperclassmen quite freely, also freshmen will carry books and meal trays when their upperclass members make such requests.

Men will be dressed in the fashion of typical Indian braves and women will be attired as squaws, replete with short Indian skirts, colorful makeup and head feathers. These new Northeast Indians will wear these costumes as as they attend classes during a two-day period.

Yearbook

The new edition of the college yearbook, The Chacahoula, has been received with an unusual amount of enthusiasm. The specially designed maroon cover bears the book's title in raised gold letters and the gold class ring with a red stone. The volume is the largest ever published by Northeast, and pictures give a complete account of the year's activities. Among the features of great interest is the two-page photograph of students near beautiful Bayou DeSiard, which runs along the campus. The view in four colors and many tones is a genuine work of art.

Celebration

The North Monroe Kiwanis Club has set November 9 to celebrate Ladies' night at the Saddle and Spur Restaurant. The early date was selected to precede Thanksgiving events.

Drive

Cub Scouts will aid the Kiwanis Club in the waste paper drive, which is scheduled November 7. Kiwanians will start their rounds to collect the paper. Vehicles will leave the 400 block of Hudson Lane at 9 a.m. They will cover the area from Louisville Avenue to Forsythe Avenue and North 18th Street to Riverside Drive.

Membership

Mrs. Ruth Ketner of Monroe has just received word that her granddaughter, Johnie Ruth Duvall, senior in an Opelousas high school, has been awarded a life membership in a national club. The recognition was given for superior attainments and ability. Miss Duvall lived in Monroe before going to South Louisiand to reside.

Road Blocked By Landslide

FRANCONIA NOTCH, N. H. (AP)—A thunderous landslide Saturday night blocked Rt. 3—Boston to Canada highway—and partially isolated communities to the north from vehicular traffic.

The slide piled 25 feet of boulders and earth on the highway where it passes between the Great Stone Face, known to tourists as "The Old Man of the Mountain," and another steep mountain slope directly opposite.

swift outpouring just off the Virginia shore.

Roy N. Willingham, 42, of Ft. 1, Vienna, said he had just walked out on the lookout ledge below "The Spout," and looked upstream. He saw a man jump or fall into the rapids and watched him bob through them until he was sucked into "The Spout." He next saw him briefly in the whirlpool below before he was pulled under, not to reappear.

At the time, Willingham said, he didn't know the woman also had entered the river, but a few minutes later he helped her up the rocky bank.

Willingham said he escorted Mrs. Woodbury up to a pavillion.

At one point, Willingham said, she tried to twist from his grasp saying: "I've got something to do. I'm going to do it and no one can stop me."

Finally, Willingham said, Mrs. Woodbury identified the man seen in the river as her husband. He asked if they had fallen in, he said, or if she had fallen in and her husband had tried to rescue her, but Mrs. Woodbury replied, "No, we both went in together."

A neighbor who asked anonymity described the Woodburys as "a quiet congenial couple—very nice people who minded their own business." They are the parents of two boys, Jeff, 10, and Parris, 8, both of whom were playing in the vicinity of their home, unaware of the tragedy at Great Falls until police located them hours later.

and "its function is to report to the President at certain times on specific status of the issues."

Along with the union, 96 strike-idled steel companies were named defendants. The industry did not oppose the injunction.

These 96 companies make nearly 90 per cent of the country's steel.

David J. McDonald, USW president, Friday invited representatives of all 96 companies to meet with union committees in Pittsburgh Monday.

A short while later the 12 biggest producers, who have been carrying the industry fight in the contract dispute, suggested Saturday's meeting, with the companies' regular four-man bargaining team headed by R. Conrad Cooper of U. S. Steel Corp.

McDonald and his aides agreed. But the union leader said this did not mean shelving of plans to meet with the 96 companies individually if they concur.

Negotiations between the union and industry on a new contract started last May. The strike started July 15 and has become the longest industry-wide shutdown in steel history.

Both sides have softened their original positions somewhat. But the basic issues remain the same: union demand for wage-benefit improvements and industry insistence on contract changes regarding local plant work rules.

Prior to the strike, according to the U. S. Labor Department, Steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour. This included overtime and week-end premium pay.

is needed to make a test ban reasonably foolproof. The Russians also rejected Western proposals for a special study on how to detect underground nuclear blasts.

U.S. conferees have no new proposals to present as the Geneva meeting gets under way again. They will try to convince the Soviet Union there is need for a study on how to spot underground explosions.

If the control issue is settled, prospects are regarded as reasonably good for agreement on the veto question. The Soviet Union has narrowed its talk about the veto mainly to the matter of financing a control system.

The negotiators have a deadline of sorts. The United States has extended to Jan. 1 its suspension of atomic weapons tests but hasn't said what it will do after that.

The British say they will hold off testing as long as the negotiators are making progress. The Russians say they'll hold off as long as either of the others. The United States is expected to continue its test suspension at least for a time beyond Jan. 1 if the talks are going on.

of the East, crushed West Virginia 44-0, while Penn State, No. 8, another pretender to the Eastern throne, cut down Illinois 20-9.

Yale the only, undefeated, untled, unscored-on major team in the country, kept its flawless record intact with a 21-0 triumph over Colgate. The Elis are ranked 19th, the highest of any Ivy League team in many a year. Penn, the other undefeated Ivy League club, tied Navy 22-22.

With Illinois' defeat by Penn State, Purdue and Wisconsin became the major threats to Northwestern for the Big 10 title. Purdue virtually eliminated Iowa, the defending champions, 14-7, while Wisconsin scored its first victory over Ohio State in 13 years, 12-3.

Army bounced back with a 25-6 intersectional triumph over Colorado State University, while Oklahoma, struggling to get back near the top after two defeats, squeezed past Kansas 7-6 in a Big 9 game. It named the Sooners 74th league game without defeat.

Anti-American feeling continued to run high in the wake of Castro's attack on the United States and he was expected to renew his charges that the United States permitted attacks on Cuba by American-based planes during a million-man rally scheduled in Havana on Monday.

Adding fuel to Castro's charges that "war criminals" of the ousted regime of Dictator Fulgencio Batista were operating against him from America was the FBI report that Diaz Lanz admitted in Miami that he staged Wednesday's leaflet "bombing" raid on Havana.

Week at the college here. Young women will have gum and candy for upperclassmen, furnished on request.

Men of the class will be provided with shine rags and black and brown shoe polish. They will shine the shoes of upperclassmen quite freely, also freshmen will carry books and meal trays when their upperclass members make such requests.

Men will be dressed in the fashion of typical Indian braves and women will be attired as squaws, replete with short Indian skirts, colorful makeup and head feathers. These new Northeast Indians will wear these costumes as as they attend classes during a two-day period.

Yearbook

The new edition of the college yearbook, The Chacahoula, has been received with an unusual amount of enthusiasm. The specially designed maroon cover bears the book's title in raised gold letters and the gold class ring with a red stone. The volume is the largest ever published by Northeast, and pictures give a complete account of the year's activities. Among the features of great interest is the two-page photograph of students near beautiful Bayou DeSiard, which runs along the campus. The view in four colors and many tones is a genuine work of art.

Celebration

The North Monroe Kiwanis Club has set November 9 to celebrate Ladies' night at the Saddle and Spur Restaurant. The early date was selected to precede Thanksgiving events.

Drive

Cub Scouts will aid the Kiwanis Club in the waste paper drive, which is scheduled November 7. Kiwanians will start their rounds to collect the paper. Vehicles will leave the 400 block of Hudson Lane at 9 a.m. They will cover the area from Louisville Avenue to Forsythe Avenue and North 18th Street to Riverside Drive.

Membership

Mrs. Ruth Ketner of Monroe has just received word that her granddaughter, Johnie Ruth Duvall, senior in an Opelousas high school, has been awarded a life membership in a national club. The recognition was given for superior attainments and ability. Miss Duvall lived in Monroe before going to South Louisiand to reside.

Road Blocked By Landslide

FRANCONIA NOTCH, N. H. (AP)—A thunderous landslide Saturday night blocked Rt. 3—Boston to Canada highway—and partially isolated communities to the north from vehicular traffic.

The slide piled 25 feet of boulders and earth on the highway where it passes between the Great Stone Face, known to tourists as "The Old Man of the Mountain," and another steep mountain slope directly opposite.

Woman Reveals Suicide Pact

swift outpouring just off the Virginia shore.

Roy N. Willingham, 42, of Ft. 1, Vienna, said he had just walked out on the lookout ledge below "The Spout," and looked upstream. He saw a man jump or fall into the rapids and watched him bob through them until he was sucked into "The Spout." He next saw him briefly in the whirlpool below before he was pulled under, not to reappear.

At the time, Willingham said, he didn't know the woman also had entered the river, but a few minutes later he helped her up the rocky bank.

Willingham said he escorted Mrs. Woodbury up to a pavillion.

At one point, Willingham said, she tried to twist from his grasp saying: "I've got something to do. I'm going to do it and no one can stop me."

Finally, Willingham said, Mrs. Woodbury identified the man seen in the river as her husband. He asked if they had fallen in, he said, or if she had fallen in and her husband had tried to rescue her, but Mrs. Woodbury replied, "No, we both went in together."

A neighbor who asked anonymity described the Woodburys as "a quiet congenial couple—very nice people who minded their own business." They are the parents of two boys, Jeff, 10, and Parris, 8, both of whom were playing in the vicinity of their home, unaware of the tragedy at Great Falls until police located them hours later.

New Efforts Launched To End Strike

and "its function is to report to the President at certain times on specific status of the issues."

Along with the union, 96 strike-idled steel companies were named defendants. The industry did not oppose the injunction.

These 96 companies make nearly 90 per cent of the country's steel.

David J. McDonald, USW president, Friday invited representatives of all 96 companies to meet with union committees in Pittsburgh Monday.

A short while later the 12 biggest producers, who have been carrying the industry fight in the contract dispute, suggested Saturday's meeting, with the companies' regular four-man bargaining team headed by R. Conrad Cooper of U. S. Steel Corp.

McDonald and his aides agreed. But the union leader said this did not mean shelving of plans to meet with the 96 companies individually if they concur.

Negotiations between the union and industry on a new contract started last May. The strike started July 15 and has become the longest industry-wide shutdown in steel history.

Both sides have softened their original positions somewhat. But the basic issues remain the same: union demand for wage-benefit improvements and industry insistence on contract changes regarding local plant work rules.

Prior to the strike, according to the U. S. Labor Department, Steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour. This included overtime and week-end premium pay.

nurses in the association will hold meetings and elect section officers. In addition, the annual business meeting and election of officers of the association will be held at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 29.

Nominees for association president are Miss Jimmie Allen, assistant director of nursing service, Lafayette Charity Hospital, Lafayette, La.; and Miss Etta Anne Hincker, assistant dean of the School of Nursing, Northwestern State College, Natchitoches.

The newly - elected president will succeed Miss Myrtle A. Olstad, chief of nursing service, Veterans Administration Hospital, New Orleans.

Mrs. Jimmie Blasengame, is president of the Monroe district, Louisiana State Nurses' Association, hostess group for the annual convention.

Weapon Test Ban Parley Will Reopen

is needed to make a test ban reasonably foolproof. The Russians also rejected Western proposals for a special study on how to detect underground nuclear blasts.

U.S. conferees have no new proposals to present as the Geneva meeting gets under way again. They will try to convince the Soviet Union there is need for a study on how to spot underground explosions.

If the control issue is settled, prospects are regarded as reasonably good for agreement on the veto question. The Soviet Union has narrowed its talk about the veto mainly to the matter of financing a control system.

The negotiators have a deadline of sorts. The United States has extended to Jan. 1 its suspension of atomic weapons tests but hasn't said what it will do after that.

The British say they will hold off testing as long as the negotiators are making progress. The Russians say they'll hold off as long as either of the others. The United States is expected to continue its test suspension at least for a time beyond Jan. 1 if the talks are going on.

CHALLENGE

Gas Company May Contest Tax Ways

WASHINGTON (UPI) — El Paso Natural Gas Co. may go to court soon with a challenge of the Federal Power Commission's rate-making tax policies.

If it does, it will join a long line of similar protestants who have had little success winning reversal of commission thinking on tax problems.

The commission on Aug. 10 ordered El Paso to refund more than $15,000,000 after cutting in $18,841,000 suspended wholesale rate increase to $14,500,000. The suspended rates were in force from April 15, 1955, to Dec. 31, 1957, when they were superseded by proposed new rates.

On Oct. 9 the commission denied El Paso and five intervenors a rehearing but stayed the Aug. 10 order in El Paso's case for 85 days so El Paso could appeal for a court review.

The dispute hinges on whether depletion and intangible tax benefits should be treated as profit or part of the cost-of-service rate base.

El Paso wanted tax benefits amounting to an 8.61 per cent return on its well-mouth properties in addition to 6 per cent on those same properties—a total return of 14.61 per cent—plus a big increase in the tax allowance so the 6 per cent would be tax clear.

It arrived at these figures by adding $9,304,518 to its cost-of-service, of which $4,466,176 would be return at 6 per cent, and $4,838,342 would constitute additional tax.

The commission granted a 6 per cent return on no -well properties, and 8.61 per cent on the well-mouth holdings. It said this added up to an overall return of 6.35 per cent on El Paso's entire $549,563,775 rate base.

But it said El Paso had made o showing that financially it needs the 14.61 per cent return on its well-mouth properties and that such a return, "unless supported, would impose a wholly unjustified burden on distributing companies and consumers."

"In other words," the commission addded, "we could not mechanically allow the 6 per cent return and pedmit El Paso to retain the tax advantage in addition."

El Paso argued that the amounts it would receive from tax incentives were not really return but "compensation for service, not wells drilled or petroleum proleum produced."

The commission said this was in error. It said the source of return is "not the significant aspect." Rather, it was the tax incentives — $6,410,760 — representing revenue "above and in addition to the expenses of doing business, and however labelled and whatever their source, are in effect return and provide El Paso with compensation for service and use of its capital."

PATIENCE REWARDED

The work, entitled "Vincent" and concerned with the life of French impressionist Vincent Gogh, is a current off-Broadway hit. A number of times through the years it was optioned for production, but something always prevented.

"I never actually lost faith in it," he says, "but now I'm amazed about its success."

PHONY 'COLLEGES'

Easy Enough To Get 'Doctorate'

By LOUIS CASSELS

It takes from three to five years of hard work to earn a Ph. D. degree at a reputable American university.

But if you aren't too choosy about your alma mater, you can acquire a "doctorate" with far less trouble. All you have to do is mail a check to one of the numerous phony "colleges" and "institutes" that specialize in exchanging spurious academic prestige for real cash.

There are at least 200 of these diploma mills now functioning in the United States. They take in—the expression is used advisedly—about 750,000 "students" a year. Their gross income is estimated at 75 million dollars annually, and it's nearly all clear profit since they aren't burdened with the expense of maintaining a faculty or a campus.

This racket has been flourishing for many years, and only a few sporadic efforts have been made to stamp it out. Many educators who were aware of its existence have tended to shrug it off on the grounds that anyone foolish enough to buy a worthless degree should be allowed to go ahead and waste his money.

An abrupt change in this laissez-faire attitude is now brewing. The highly respected American Council on Education, an organization that is fairly awash with legitimate Ph. D.'s, is girding to do battle against the purveyors of bogus degrees.

The reason for the council's concern is made clear in a special report which it will make public in Washington this week.

The report discloses that America's mail-order degree factories are now going in big for international trade. Through glittering advertisements in foreign newspapers and magazines, they are misleading thousands of students in other countries into believing that they can get a bona-fide correspondence course education by scraping up enough dollars to "enroll" in the phoney American schools.

Students in undeveloped countries, who attach high value to an American degree., are easy targets for this kind of fraud. So many of them have been bilked the council says, that foreigners are beginning to "question the integrity and quality of all American education."

Many U. S. officials abroad have reported the racket to the State Department, warning that it is heavily damaging American prestige in countries where the United States is eager to win friends.

The report points out that it is difficult for the State Department, or any other federal agency, to take effective action against the racket. Under the American system, control over educational institutions—real and phony—is a state and local responsibility.

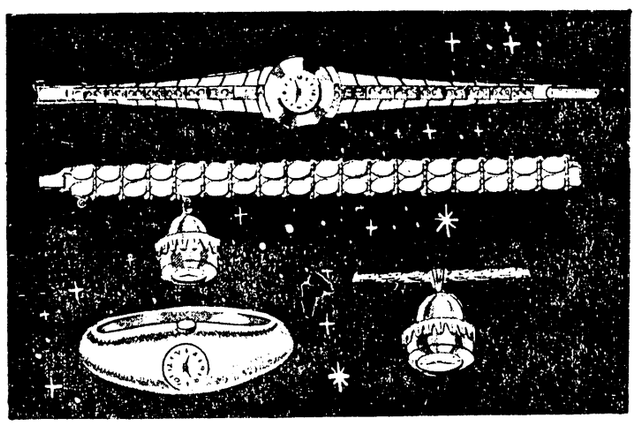

A few states, like New York, California, Arkansas and Virginia, have tough licensing laws which can be used to crack down on diploma mills. But a large majority of states have no effective legislation on the subject, according to the report, and "twenty-six states have no legal control whatever over educational institutions granting degrees."

To clean up the situation, the council says, the basic need is for nationwide adoption of uniform state legislation to set minimum standards for licensing and operation of all institutions of higher education, particularly those that grant degrees. The Council of State Governments has already indicated readiness to sponsor this effort.

TITLE SWITCHES

NEW YORK (AP) — Title juggling continues to be a frequent byproduct of theater production.

A drama on off - Broadway switched from being called "Guitar" to "Somewhat a Lute," then back to the original. One Broadway show 'L'Hurluberlu" is now called "The Fighting Cock" after an interim title, "Time's Fool."

CHALLENGE

Gas Company May Contest Tax Ways

WASHINGTON (UPI) — El Paso Natural Gas Co. may go to court soon with a challenge of the Federal Power Commission's rate-making tax policies.

If it does, it will join a long line of similar protestants who have had little success winning reversal of commission thinking on tax problems.

The commission on Aug. 10 ordered El Paso to refund more than $15,000,000 after cutting in $18,841,000 suspended wholesale rate increase to $14,500,000. The suspended rates were in force from April 15, 1955, to Dec. 31, 1957, when they were superseded by proposed new rates.

On Oct. 9 the commission denied El Paso and five intervenors a rehearing but stayed the Aug. 10 order in El Paso's case for 85 days so El Paso could appeal for a court review.

The dispute hinges on whether depletion and intangible tax benefits should be treated as profit or part of the cost-of-service rate base.

El Paso wanted tax benefits amounting to an 8.61 per cent return on its well-mouth properties in addition to 6 per cent on those same properties—a total return of 14.61 per cent—plus a big increase in the tax allowance so the 6 per cent would be tax clear.

It arrived at these figures by adding $9,304,518 to its cost-of-service, of which $4,466,176 would be return at 6 per cent, and $4,838,342 would constitute additional tax.

The commission granted a 6 per cent return on no -well properties, and 8.61 per cent on the well-mouth holdings. It said this added up to an overall return of 6.35 per cent on El Paso's entire $549,563,775 rate base.

But it said El Paso had made o showing that financially it needs the 14.61 per cent return on its well-mouth properties and that such a return, "unless supported, would impose a wholly unjustified burden on distributing companies and consumers."

"In other words," the commission addded, "we could not mechanically allow the 6 per cent return and pedmit El Paso to retain the tax advantage in addition."

El Paso argued that the amounts it would receive from tax incentives were not really return but "compensation for service, not wells drilled or petroleum proleum produced."

The commission said this was in error. It said the source of return is "not the significant aspect." Rather, it was the tax incentives — $6,410,760 — representing revenue "above and in addition to the expenses of doing business, and however labelled and whatever their source, are in effect return and provide El Paso with compensation for service and use of its capital."

PATIENCE REWARDED

The work, entitled "Vincent" and concerned with the life of French impressionist Vincent Gogh, is a current off-Broadway hit. A number of times through the years it was optioned for production, but something always prevented.

"I never actually lost faith in it," he says, "but now I'm amazed about its success."

PHONY 'COLLEGES'

Easy Enough To Get 'Doctorate'

By LOUIS CASSELS

It takes from three to five years of hard work to earn a Ph. D. degree at a reputable American university.

But if you aren't too choosy about your alma mater, you can acquire a "doctorate" with far less trouble. All you have to do is mail a check to one of the numerous phony "colleges" and "institutes" that specialize in exchanging spurious academic prestige for real cash.

There are at least 200 of these diploma mills now functioning in the United States. They take in—the expression is used advisedly—about 750,000 "students" a year. Their gross income is estimated at 75 million dollars annually, and it's nearly all clear profit since they aren't burdened with the expense of maintaining a faculty or a campus.

This racket has been flourishing for many years, and only a few sporadic efforts have been made to stamp it out. Many educators who were aware of its existence have tended to shrug it off on the grounds that anyone foolish enough to buy a worthless degree should be allowed to go ahead and waste his money.

An abrupt change in this laissez-faire attitude is now brewing. The highly respected American Council on Education, an organization that is fairly awash with legitimate Ph. D.'s, is girding to do battle against the purveyors of bogus degrees.

The reason for the council's concern is made clear in a special report which it will make public in Washington this week.

The report discloses that America's mail-order degree factories are now going in big for international trade. Through glittering advertisements in foreign newspapers and magazines, they are misleading thousands of students in other countries into believing that they can get a bona-fide correspondence course education by scraping up enough dollars to "enroll" in the phoney American schools.

Students in undeveloped countries, who attach high value to an American degree., are easy targets for this kind of fraud. So many of them have been bilked the council says, that foreigners are beginning to "question the integrity and quality of all American education."

Many U. S. officials abroad have reported the racket to the State Department, warning that it is heavily damaging American prestige in countries where the United States is eager to win friends.

The report points out that it is difficult for the State Department, or any other federal agency, to take effective action against the racket. Under the American system, control over educational institutions—real and phony—is a state and local responsibility.

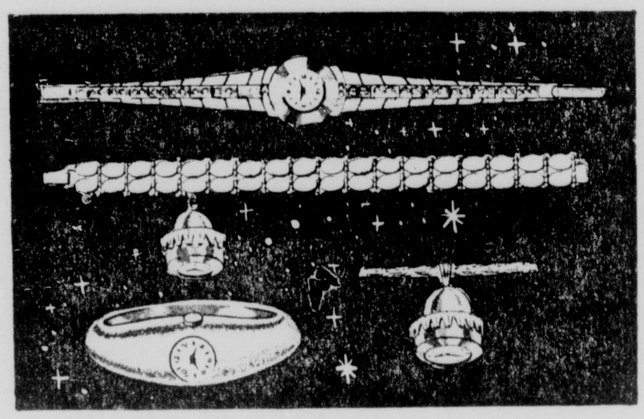

A few states, like New York, California, Arkansas and Virginia, have tough licensing laws which can be used to crack down on diploma mills. But a large majority of states have no effective legislation on the subject, according to the report, and "twenty-six states have no legal control whatever over educational institutions granting degrees."

To clean up the situation, the council says, the basic need is for nationwide adoption of uniform state legislation to set minimum standards for licensing and operation of all institutions of higher education, particularly those that grant degrees. The Council of State Governments has already indicated readiness to sponsor this effort.

TITLE SWITCHES

NEW YORK (AP) — Title juggling continues to be a frequent byproduct of theater production.

A drama on off - Broadway switched from being called "Guitar" to "Somewhat a Lute," then back to the original. One Broadway show 'L'Hurluberlu" is now called "The Fighting Cock" after an interim title, "Time's Fool."

Others who gained even more money on similar telecasts, along with national reputations for brains, may be summoned.

In addition, it is possible that a New York grand jury may wish to pose a few further queries also. It already has on record one set of answers from many of the leading lights of the former Q. and A. programs.

Only Friday two top TV quiz luminaris strode into the office of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan to make what was termed substantial changes in earlier statements concerning their participation in "Twenty-One."

Hogan turned aside questions about further grand jury appearances or the possibility of perjury prosecutions. Such things, he said, would have to be decided later.

Van Doren, 33, an English instructor at Columbia University, got a $50,000-a-year consultant's job with NBC as a result of his activities on "Twenty-One."

In the midst of all the furor, CBS President Frank Stanton ordred cancellation of all network quiz shows still on the air and announced a policy of dropping such things as canned laughter on filmed programs.

Scene inside the embers

Embers Sets Opening Of New Addition

Eddie Merhige, owner-manager of the Embers, yesterday announced the opening of a new addition to the Embers, the Persian Room.

Built with a mid - East touch, the Persian Room will offer an elegant atmosphere for persons seeking a "fine place for their entertainment," Merhige explained.

By having enough room to seat 94 persons, the new addition will enable the Embers to entertain more people. A dance floor and comfortable furniture are included.

SELECTIONS

Besides having a Stero - music system with good selections, the Persian Room will bring to Monroe, according to Merhige, out-of-town entertainers.

Chella and the Fellows, a girl singer and a vocal group, will perform with four trios scheduled to follow, offering live, professional entertainment through the winter season.

Focal point of the Persian Room is an oil painting depicting the invasion of the Balkins by the Turks. Merhige explained that the painting came from John Jacob Aster's home in New York.

With carpet on the floor and an atmosphere unsurpassed anywhere, the Persian Room, Merhige said, will give people a "fine place" to go in Monroe.

"We built the Persian Room to give our customers an added attraction," he said. "I invite them to come and visit. They won't be disappointed."

The Persian Room will be restricted to coats and ties all six nights of the week that it will be open.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday arrested Dave Beckwith, Monroe Negro, on charges of disturbing the peace and theft. He was placed under $300 bond, officers reported.

Morris Brown, 33, was charged with aggravated battery and placed under $500 bond by police.

Woodrow Varner, 40, posted $500 bond after he also was arrested on charges of aggravated battery.

WEST MONROE

Two persons were charged by the West Monroe police department yesterday with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

The two were identified as Joe D. Dyer, 33, of Fort Worth, Texas; and C. W. Winborne, Jr., 29, of 106 Coleman.

Police in West Monroe also arrested John L. Dade, 32, of 107 Cherry Street, and charged him with aggravated battery.

Hinsch To Be Speaker At Jaycee Meet

Bob Hinsch, district supervisor of a national company, will be the featured speaker at a meeting tomorrow of the Monroe Jaycees and Jaynes at 7 p.m. in the Paragon Supper Club.

According to local Jaycee president Luke Daniel, a number of out-of-town guests from other chapters are slated to attend the meet.

Hinsch, who with his wife travelled inside Russia during 1957, will talk to the group on events during the travels, as well as his observations and impressions of the everyday life of a typical citizen of Moscow and the USSR.

The speaker's talk will be based on a number of colored slides which he selected from a collection of 400 pictures taken on the European trip. Approximately 50 slides are to be shown.

"Bob Hinsch has spoken to over 300 civic, social, and church groups concerning his trip inside Russia," stated Billy Hargiss, local Jaycee chairman for the event," and delivers a most interesting and informative message which should be of direct concern to every member of our community." He requested all Jaycee members to call in reservations for the event to Mrs. David Masur.

Soviets Tell Plans For Huge Dam

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets today reported plans for a huge dam in Bering Strait between Alaska and Siberia—a dam which they said could transform arctic wastes into fertile fields. Close Soviet - American cooperation would be needed for the project.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the idea is for a 46-mile barrier of reinforced concrete pontoons between the western tip of Alaska and the Chukchi Peninsula. Designs for the dam have been completed by a Soviet engineer and details have been published in Literary Gazette.

Exactly how the dam would be positioned was not disclosed. Forty-six miles would not be enough to bridge the 55-mile gap between Chukchi Peninsula and Alaska.

Thoughts Of A Moslem On Government

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—The bearded Moslem farmer shuffled his bare foot in the dust of a rural cattle market, thinking about his strongman government.

"It's improved a lot of things," he said in Bengali. "It got rid of the black market in my village. But conditions still aren't good. The price of rice is no lower."

Some problems solved, many remainng—that seems to be the report most often given Pakistan's one - year - old military administration. In the floodd rice paddies of East Pakistan and on the du ty plains of the west wing-1,000 miles of India away-there is the feeling that it might be the best government in sight.

One year oo, corruption was widspread in a political government that lacked a popular mandate. Living standards were pinched with prices high, some goods scarce.

The world's sventh most populous nation, and America's oost important ally in South Asia, was mired in political bankruptcy.

Then the burly, British-trained army chief of staff took over. Gen. Mohammad Ayub Khan pitched out the politicians last Oct. 7 and established a tough-looking martial law administration.

It started off in a hurry to solve long - festering problems. It crushed black marketing, a clean-up that drew enthusiastic popular support. Some prices wre forced down, coruption was attacked, land reforms introduced, the nation's financial position improved.

The big, tough problems remain. Raising enough food for more than 85 million persons is one. Reversing the tendency toward greater poverty in ovrpopulated areas is another.

The politicians are naturally against this regime since its xistence is testimony to their failure. Legislative and parliamentary halls are silent. Politicians grumble quietly, restricted by ordinances against political activity.

However, Ayub Khan is no dictator whose photograph blossoms in every building. With only 18 per cent of Pakistan's peopl literate, his name is not even known in some rural areas.

On the books, Pakistan has an extremely harsh military rule. Contravention of martial law regulations or helping others do so is punishable by death. Wilfully damging public property carries a possible death penalty and so does smuggling. The maximum penalty is 14 years rigorous imprisonment for hoardino, black marketing, offering a bribe and many other crims.

These laws have been used to scar people, to set examples. But there are no reports to indicate that this is an oppressiv military dictatorship. It appears more a civil service government.

Nomads Slate Monday Meeting

The Swami Santha No. 102 Nomads of Avrudaka have scheduled a meeting Monday night in Castle Hall, 127½ St. John Street.

Rani Alla Ferguson and Rajah Angelo Kanelos invited all officers and nomads to attend the important Darbar - Covered Dish Supper in the dining hall at 7 p.m. Each nomad was asked to wear Fez and bring a covered dish.

A Darbar ceremonial is slated in Castle Hall, with "Lesson on Loyalty" and the Eight Order presented.

Joe E. Smallings, secretary of El Donna Temple No.44 in El Dorado, Ark., will show a number of colored films of the Nomad and Dokey convention held this year in Denver, Colo.

Nomads from El Dorado, Ark., Shreveport, and points in Mississippi are expected to attend Monday's session, officials said.

State Singing Meet Is Slated For Twin Cities

The Louisiana Singing Convention, slated here October 31 and November 1, will officially get underway with a first session at 7:30 p.m. in the West Monroe High school auditorium.

The next day — Sunday — will see convention activity beginning at 9 a.m. through 4 p.m. Delegates at the convention last year voted unanimously to stage the annual meet in the Twin Cities.

Last year's session drew an estimated total 5000 attendance, and officials expect increased attendance this year — around six or seven thousand.

Many outstanding figures in the singing field have indicated they will attend this year's event, according to Videt Polk, state president from Baton Rouge. Other officers of the singing organization include U. C. Cockrell, West Monroe, vice president; and Miss Waunilla Walters, Rayville, secretary - treasurer.

Embers Sets Opening Of New Addition

Eddie Merhige, owner-manager of the Embers, yesterday announced the opening of a new addition to the Embers, the Persian Room.

Built with a mid - East touch, the Persian Room will offer an elegant atmosphere for persons seeking a "fine place for their entertainment," Merhige explained.

By having enough room to seat 94 persons, the new addition will enable the Embers to entertain more people. A dance floor and comfortable furniture are included.

SELECTIONS

Besides having a Stero - music system with good selections, the Persian Room will bring to Monroe, according to Merhige, out-of-town entertainers.

Chella and the Fellows, a girl singer and a vocal group, will perform with four trios scheduled to follow, offering live, professional entertainment through the winter season.

Focal point of the Persian Room is an oil painting depicting the invasion of the Balkins by the Turks. Merhige explained that the painting came from John Jacob Aster's home in New York.

With carpet on the floor and an atmosphere unsurpassed anywhere, the Persian Room, Merhige said, will give people a "fine place" to go in Monroe.

"We built the Persian Room to give our customers an added attraction," he said. "I invite them to come and visit. They won't be disappointed."

The Persian Room will be restricted to coats and ties all six nights of the week that it will be open.

Tranquilizers Discussion Set

Two speakers will discuss "The Nature And Use of Tranquilizers" on the second Public Program of the Northeast Chapter of the Louisiana Association for Mental Health on Thursday, October 29, at 7:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium of Northeast State College.

R. L. Schmidt, Representative of Smith Kline and French Laboratories will speak on the nature and purposes of the various kinds of drugs. Dr. H. G. Haynie, Jr., Medical Director of the Monroe Area Guidance Center will discuss when the use of drugs is medically indicated.

The program is open to the public.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday arrested Dave Beckwith, Monroe Negro, on charges of disturbing the peace and theft. He was placed under $300 bond, officers reported.

Morris Brown, 33, was charged with aggravated battery and placed under $500 bond by police.

Woodrow Varner, 40, posted $500 bond after he also was arrested on charges of aggravated battery.

WEST MONROE

Two persons were charged by the West Monroe police department yesterday with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

The two were identified as Joe D. Dyer, 33, of Fort Worth, Texas; and C. W. Winborne, Jr., 29, of 106 Coleman.

Police in West Monroe also arrested John L. Dade, 32, of 107 Cherry Street, and charged him with aggravated battery.

State Singing Meet Is Slated For Twin Cities

The Louisiana Singing Convention, slated here October 31 and November 1, will officially get underway with a first session at 7:30 p.m. in the West Monroe High school auditorium.

The next day — Sunday — will see convention activity beginning at 9 a.m. through 4 p.m. Delegates at the convention last year voted unanimously to stage the annual meet in the Twin Cities.

Last year's session drew an estimated total 5000 attendance, and officials expect increased attendance this year — around six or seven thousand.

Many outstanding figures in the singing field have indicated they will attend this year's event, according to Videt Polk, state president from Baton Rouge. Other officers of the singing organization include U. C. Cockrell, West Monroe, vice president; and Miss Waunilla Walters, Rayville, secretary - treasurer.

Hinsch To Be Speaker At Jaycee Meet

Bob Hinsch, district supervisor of a national company, will be the featured speaker at a meeting tomorrow of the Monroe Jaycees and Jaynes at 7 p.m. in the Paragon Supper Club.

According to local Jaycee president Luke Daniel, a number of out-of-town guests from other chapters are slated to attend the meet.

Hinsch, who with his wife travelled inside Russia during 1957, will talk to the group on events during the travels, as well as his observations and impressions of the everyday life of a typical citizen of Moscow and the USSR.

The speaker's talk will be based on a number of colored slides which he selected from a collection of 400 pictures taken on the European trip. Approximately 50 slides are to be shown.

"Bob Hinsch has spoken to over 300 civic, social, and church groups concerning his trip inside Russia," stated Billy Hargiss, local Jaycee chairman for the event," and delivers a most interesting and informative message which should be of direct concern to every member of our community." He requested all Jaycee members to call in reservations for the event to Mrs. David Masur.

Soviets Tell Plans For Huge Dam

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets today reported plans for a huge dam in Bering Strait between Alaska and Siberia—a dam which they said could transform arctic wastes into fertile fields. Close Soviet - American cooperation would be needed for the project.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the idea is for a 46-mile barrier of reinforced concrete pontoons between the western tip of Alaska and the Chukchi Peninsula. Designs for the dam have been completed by a Soviet engineer and details have been published in Literary Gazette.

Exactly how the dam would be positioned was not disclosed. Forty-six miles would not be enough to bridge the 55-mile gap between Chukchi Peninsula and Alaska.

Thoughts Of A Moslem On Government

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—The bearded Moslem farmer shuffled his bare foot in the dust of a rural cattle market, thinking about his strongman government.

"It's improved a lot of things," he said in Bengali. "It got rid of the black market in my village. But conditions still aren't good. The price of rice is no lower."

Some problems solved, many r-mainng—that seems to be the report most often given Pakistan's one - year - old military administration. In the floodd rice paddies of East Pakistan and on the du ty plains of the west wing-1,000 miles of India away-there is the feeling that it might be the best government in sight.

One year o0, corruption was widspread in a political government that lacked a popular mandate. Living standards were pinched with prices high, some goods scarce.

The world's sventh most populous nation, and America's oost important ally in South Asia, was mired in political bankruptcy.

Then the burly, British-trained army chief of staff took over. Gen. Mohammad Ayub Khan pitched out the politicians last Oct. 7 and established a tough-looking martial law administration.

It started off in a hurry to solve long - festering problems. It crushed black marketing, a clean-up that drew enthusiastic popular support. Some prices wre forced down, coruption was attacked, land reforms introduced, the nation's financial position improved.

The big, tough problems remain. Raising enough food for more than 85 million persons is one. Reversing the tendency toward greater poverty in ovrpopulated areas is another.

The politicians are naturally against this regime since its x-istence is testimony to their failure. Legislative and parliamentary halls are silent. Politicians grumble quietly, restricted by ordinances against political activity.

However, Ayub Khan is no dictator whose photograph blossoms in every building. With only 18 per cent of Pakistan's peopl lit-erate, his name is not even known in some rural areas.

On the books, Pakistan has an extremely harsh military rule. Contravention of martial law regulations or helping others do so is punishable by death. Wilfully damging public property carries a possible death penalty and so does smuggling. The maximum penalty is 14 years rigorous imprisonment for hoardino, black marketing, offering a bribe and many other crims.

These laws have been used to scar people, to set examples. But there are no reports to indicate that this is an oppressiv military dictatorship. It appears more a civil service government.

Nomads Slate Monday Meeting

The Swami Santha No. 102 Nomads of Avrudaka have scheduled a meeting Monday night in Castle Hall, 127½ St. John Street.

Rani Alla Ferguson and Rajah Angelo Kanelos invited all officers and nomads to attend the important Darbar - Covered Dish Supper in the dining hall at 7 p.m. Each nomad was asked to wear Fez and bring a covered dish.

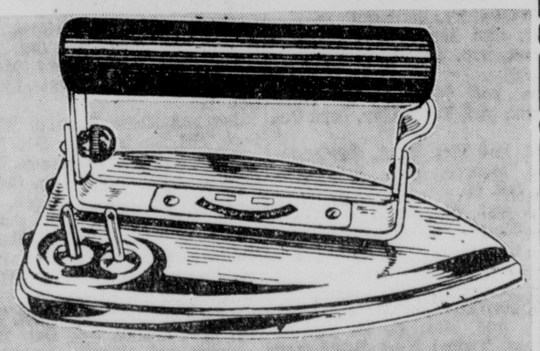

A Darbar ceremonial is slated in Castle Hall, with "Lesson on Loyalty" and the Eight Order presented.

Joe E. Smallings, secretary of El Donna Temple No.44 in El Dorado, Ark., will show a number of colored films of the Nomad and Dokey convention held this year in Denver, Colo.

Nomads from El Dorado, Ark., Shreveport, and points in Mississippi are expected to attend Monday's session, officials said.

Medical Writing Award To Doctor

NEW ORLEANS (Special) —Dr. Carlos O. Welch, Jr. of Monroe, was the recipient, in absentia, Friday night of the Annual Ochsner Foundation Award for Excellence in Medical Writing, it was announced yesterday.

The presentation was made by Dr. John C. Weed, president of the medical staff of Ochsner Foundation Hospital, at the opening program of the twelfth annual reunion of the Fellows Association of Alton Ochsner Medical Foundation, Dr. Hurst B. Hatch of the Ochsner staff received the award for Dr. Welch.

AWARD

The award, consisting of $100 and an inscribed certificate, was established in 1949 to stimulate investigative research, and is annually presented to the doctor in training who has authored the best medical report. Dr. Welch's paper, "The Significance of Smoking on Determination of the Carbon Monoxide Diffusion Capacity by the Infrared Analyzer" was based on research conducted prior to completion of his specialty training at the Foundation in July of this year.

Dr. Welch, a former Foundation Fellow in internal medicine, is presently on active duty with the U. S. Air Forces, assigned to the School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks A.F.B., San Antonio, Texas.

Dr. Welch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Welch, Sr. of 115 Masonic, Ave., Monroe. Dr. Welch is a graduate of Neville High in Monroe and Centenary College in Shreveport. He received his M.D. degree from Louisiana State University Medical School, and following internship training at Southern Baptist Hospital in New Orleans, was appointed to a Fellowship at Ochsner Foundation in July 1956. Dr. Welch holds the rank of Captain with the U. S. Air Forces.

He is married to the former Shirley Marie Sherwood of New Orleans. Dr. and Mrs. Welch met at Baptist Hospital during his internship, at which time she was serving on the nursing staff of the hospital.

Attending the annual - two day reunion and scientific sessions, at which the presentation was made, were 60 physicians presently in training and some 75 alumni members of the Fellows' Association. The Association's present memberhsip numbers more than 400 physicians from 41 states and 20 foreign countries. These doctors received, or are receiving, their specialty training in their various medical and surgical specialties under the Ochsner Medical Foundation's programs of graduate medical education, established here in 1944.

Principal speaker on the opening program was Dr. Abou D. Pollack, associate professor of pathology at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.. Participating in the annual scientific session were various members of the Ochsner Clinic staff.

Bob Kahle, 18-year-old southpaw swinging first baseman from Tomahawk, Wis., has been signed to a 1960 contract with Palatka, Fla., by Cincinnati scout Dale McReynolds.

TO END WAR

How Important Is De Gaulle Try

By ARTHUR L. HIGBEE

PARIS (UPI)—How important is Gen. Charles de Gaulle's attempt to end the Algerian war?

—On the outcome hinges the fate of France.

Those are the stakes. These are the players:

—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, President of France, unquestionably one of the most powerful figures in Europe today. Brought to power in May, 1958, he has set himself one main object — the restoration of France's greatness. To do it he must settle the costly, bloody war in North Africa.

—The Algerian rebels, known as the National Liberation Front (FLN). They are a group of men controlling an army of guerrillas which has kept the French army tied down in Algeria non-stop since they started fighting five years ago next month. Their object: Independence from France, the establishment of their own government.

—The French "settlers" in Algeria, and their counter-parts on the French mainland. Fiercely nationalistic, proud of their role in building up Algeria, they are determined to stay. Their enemy is De Gaulle, with his ideas of "self-determination," as well as the FLN. Last year they rose up in revolt against the leadership of the Fourth Republic and paved the way for De Gaulle's return. They believed he would be the symbol of French determination to keep Algeria in France's hands forever. But De Gaulle had different ideas and now they feel he has double-crossed them.

—The French army, the paratroopers, their colonels and their generals. Many of them have been fighting almost since 1939, first in the World War, second in Indo-China, and since 1954 in Algeria. Fed up with "political compromise," they joined hands with the Algerian settlers in May, 1958 to stage the near-revolution which swept De Gaulle back into power.

DE GAULLE OFFERS PLAN

What has happened up to now? For nearly five years the French have been fighting against a shadow army they have been unable to beat on the field.

The agony, despair and bloodshed led last year to the collapse of the Fourth Republic under which France had been ruled since the war's end.

Last month De Gaulle, in an historic and monumental move, offered the Allgerians eventual "self-determination" — the choice to pick their own future.

The FLN leadership welcomed this. But the main stumbling block to peace was De Gaulle's condition that there was no chance of the French negotiating politically with the FLN leaders. This point the FLN opposed.

Does this mean stalemate and more fighting? More immediate fighting, yes; stalemate, not necessarily.

"Discreet contacts" may take place between the French leadership, "Independents" like President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia or King Mohammed V of Morocco, and the FLN to try to find a middle course.

SETTLERS POSE THREAT

But there is one other factor which can determine the future of the war and the future of France —the reaction of the French settlers in Algeria. All signs from Algiers are that they are returning to the mood which led them to destroy the Fourth Republic last year.

The French in Algeria say, "We made this country, we built it up, so we stay."

For millions of other Frenchmen there is the bitter belief that France has given up too much already — Syria, Indochina, Morocco, and Tunisia. They say Algeria is a part of France; not a colony. To keep it they will fight.

DARKNESS WILL LAST

Strike Effects Spawn Clouds

NEW YORK (AP)—It depends on where you were looking in the business sky whether you saw clouds or sunshine the past week.

Effects of the steel strike continued to spawn thunderheads which will be hanging over the economic scene a long time.

But elsewhere the atmosphere was bright and cheerful as fat earnings reports tumbled out of corporation directors' meetings.

Many were trying to assess the immediate and potential cost of the strike. Steelworkers have lost more than a billion dollars in pay. Steel industry losses can be figured in excess of four billions. But it's impossible to calculate the cost in the automobile, transportation, coal, and other industries caught in the tentacles of the strike.

The cost burrowed down as far as the tax receipts of mill towns. Relief funds were dwindling in areas hardest hit.

Auto production was down more than 20,000 units from the previous week's 157,384 because of the steel shortage. The outlook for coming weeks is worse.

The total idle in General Motors' auto-building empire is 115,000.

New related layoffs include 3,700 over the next two weeks at General Electric's Louisville, Ky. Appliance Park, and 2,000 at Eectric Autolite's Bay City, Mich. plant.

The trade magazine Iron Age says: "Additional layoffs in manufacturing plants are inevitable for at least a month after steel production is resumed."

However, those looking for encouragement in general business found it easily in the cascade of third-quarter and nine - month earnings reports. "Record sales" and "record profits" stood out boldly.

Some of the companies reporting new highs in sales and-or earnings are American Tobacco, Radio Corp. of America, Union Carbide, National Distillers & Chemical Corp., National Gypsum Co., Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co., E. I du Pont de Nemours, and Eastman Kodak.

In the auto field, Ford reported nine-month profits were a record $339,100,000; Chrysler showed a $23,800,000 profit despite a third quarter loss of $34,200,000; Studebaker - Packard had $15,473,000 profit, compared with a $22,532,511 loss a year ago.

Retailers bubbled with anticipatory Christmas cheer. The Federal Reserve Board reported the previous week's department store sales were 10 per cent above the similar week in 1958. The head of a big New York buying house predicted Christmas sales will top record volume of the 1958 season by 4 to 4½ per cent. Chicago mail order houses say they are expecting excellent yule business.

Cost of living, as measured by the government, hit a new high. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' index climbed three tenths of one per cent to 125.2 of the 1947-49 average. The average family paid more for every item in its budget except transportation.

Briefly over the business scene: Chairman Jesse W. Tapp of Bank of America predicts a half-billion-dollar U. S. economy in 1960 .... Wholesale food prices inched up the past week after a four-week decline.... Prosperity note Demand for $3,000 full-length mink coats and $1,400 jewel-studded smoking pipes is up.... Americans' personal debt has climbed more than twice as fast as their disposable income since 1950. It's 172 billion dollars.... Five Soviet economists studying the U. S. private enterprise system visited Wall Street the past week.... A Chicago bank has started mailing interest to depositors in monthly installments. Minimum deposit required is $3,000.... Transportation notes: American Export Lines is studying plans for a streamlined transatlantic liner accommodating 1,600 passengers. The Missouri Pacific Railroad ordered 1,080 boxcars costing $9,400,000. American Airlines will inaugurate service with the first of its fleet of DC7 freighters the coming week.... You can't get away from commercials In St. Louis, scales deliver a six-second advertising blurb along with your weight. Cost to the advertiser, $25 a month.

SHE FOUND OUT

What Happens To Girl In Uganda?

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take a Chicago-born girl, put her in Uganda, and soon the natives are eating corn on the cob and singing American folk songs—in English.

At least that's what happened during Josephine Frabek's six-year stay in Central Africa. Recently returned and now awaiting a new assignment, Josephine is a member of The Grail, an international lay apostolic movement designed to spread civilization as well as the faith.

At the 10th annual meeting of Catholic mission-sending societies here this week, Josephine talked about her stint in Uganda as though it was the most fun in the world to find snakes nesting under laying hens, and monkeys in the tomato vines.

"It's very exciting to be a pioneer," said the attractive lay missioner, one of hundreds who have been quietly working revolutionary changes in far-way places under a new boom in the lay missionary movement.

START BOARDING SCHOOL

She and Brooklynite Alice McCarthy were sent to Uganda to start a boarding school for African girls in the real bush country. The nearest parish, manned by Africans, was two miles away. The nearest Europeans were 20 miles away in Masaka, the nearest town in the British protectorate.

About once every two weeks they would pile into their station wagon, a gift from Henry Ford Jr., and head for Maska for canned goods and other items to supplement the native diet of steamed bananas, sweet potatoes and meat. (Goat meat is "delicious" but the meat from native cows is often tough, she said.)

The rest of the time they were busy at first settling and then expanding their new school in Kalisizo. For the first two years, they lived out of suitcases in temporary quarters near the parish church until the school and its outbuildings were completed—the British government paying the cost.

Josephine didn't go to Uganda until after a stint at Grailville, in Loveland, Ohio, where she began learning the native language, teaching methods and tended the missionary school's 400-acre farm.

NEEDED HELP OF NATIVES

This experience equipped her for starting the gardens for the school. But she still needed the help of Africans—chiefly women who do most of the farming in Uganda—to plant 1,000 banana trees, fields of pineapple and pawpaw, orange and lemon trees and the tomatoes and corn. Uganda, she said, is lush and beautiful.

Besides teaching teen-age African girls the arts of domestic science, Math, homemaking, nutrition and English, the two American women also helped form a community women's club that gave the mothers a chance to come to the school once a week to learn to sew and master other household arts as well as to speak English and read and write their own language.

Will her mastery of the language be of help in her new assignment?

"No," she said, smiling. "Next March I'll be leaving for Ruandi-urandi, a Belgian trusteeship south of Uganda. We'll be speaking French there and a different native tongue."

Funt, Candid Cameraman, Is Turning Soft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Allan Funt, the candid camerman, is turning soft.

Funt, who has received some criticism in his time for being a bit too harsh with his unsuspecting subjects, is taking a new approach with the candid camera vignettes he's producing weekly for Garry Moore's Tuesday night variety hour on CBS.

"What we're after now," Funt said, "is observation of people in humorous or slightly embarrassing situations. We are trying to avoid those situations that cause a subject to blow his top with possibly unhappy repercussions all around.

"Here's an example of the new approach. We filmed a candid feature in a bowling alley. The idea was to see how people reacted when they missed an easy spare; what their actions were, what they said. We didn't set up any tormenting situations of our own. We didn't embarrass them. We simply made a filmed report."

Funt has been in the business of catching people with their guard down — or, as he puts it, "in the act of being themselves" —since 1947 when he started in radio with his candid microphone series. Not long after he switched to film for movie and television use.

The Moore alliance is new with this season. Each of the shows devotes about five minutes to the Funt vignette and Moore and his TV regulars, Durward Kirby and Marion Lorne, often participate in the episodes. Funt appears in some fashion in most of them.

"One you'll see soon," Funt said, " has Garry playing the role of a substitute principal at the Trinity Episcopal Church School in Manhattan. He will sit in the office and hear the excuses the boys give for being late. The hidden camera, of course, will record all.

"Hre's one I've got in the planning stage. I want to use four or five staff members of the Moore show and one subject. They'd all be on a bus line together. The staff members would have instructions to do certain things such as all turning around at the same time or looking up at the same time. The subject, we hope, would do the same. Finally, the staff members would walk away from the line, leaving the subject alone. The idea is to see if he will stay and become the nucleus for a new line or walk away like the others. I'm betting that he'll walk away."

All subjects caught by Funt's candid camera are informed of the fact after a stint is over. Compensation is given those who eventually appear in a filmed feature.

—On the outcome hinges the fate of France.

Those are the stakes. These are the players:

—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, President of France, unquestionably one of the most powerful figures in Europe today. Brought to power in May, 1958, he has set himself one main object — the restoration of France's greatness. To do it he must settle the costly, bloody war in North Africa.

—The Algerian rebels, known as the National Liberation Front (FLN). They are a group of men controlling an army of guerrillas which has kept the French army tied down in Algeria non-stop since they started fighting five years ago next month. Their object: Independence from France, the establishment of their own government.

—The French "settlers" in Algeria, and their counter-parts on the French mainland. Fiercely nationalistic, proud of their role in building up Algeria, they are determined to stay. Their enemy is De Gaulle, with his ideas of "self-determination," as well as the FLN. Last year they rose up in revolt against the leadership of the Fourth Republic and paved the way for De Gaulle's return. They believed he would be the symbol of French determination to keep Algeria in France's hands forever. But De Gaulle had different ideas and now they feel he has double-crossed them.

—The French army, the paratroopers, their colonels and their generals. Many of them have been fighting almost since 1939, first in the World War, second in Indo-China, and since 1954 in Algeria. Fed up with "political compromise," they joined hands with the Algerian settlers in May, 1958 to stage the near-revolution which swept De Gaulle back into power.

DE GAULLE OFFERS PLAN

What has happened up to now?

For nearly five years the French have been fighting against a shadow army they have been unable to beat on the field.

The agony, despair and bloodshed led last year to the collapse of the Fourth Republic under which France had been ruled since the war's end.

Last month De Gaulle, in an historic and monumental move, offered the Allgerians eventual "self-determination" — the choice to pick their own future.

The FLN leadership welcomed this. But the main stumbling block to peace was De Gaulle's condition that there was no chance of the French negotiating politically with the FLN leaders. This point the FLN opposed.

Does this mean stalemate and more fighting? More immediate fighting, yes; stalemate, not necessarily.

"Discreet contacts" may take place between the French leadership, "Independents" like President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia or King Mohammed V of Morocco, and the FLN to try to find a middle course.

SETTLERS POSE THREAT

But there is one other factor which can determine the future of the war and the future of France —the reaction of the French settlers in Algeria. All signs from Algiers are that they are returning to the mood which led them to destroy the Fourth Republic last year.

The French in Algeria say, "We made this country, we built it up, so we stay."

For millions of other Frenchmen there is the bitter belief that France has given up too much already — Syria, Indochina, Morocco, and Tunisia. They say Algeria is a part of France; not a colony. To keep it they will fight.

DARKNESS WILL LAST

Strike Effects Spawn Clouds

NEW YORK (AP)—It depends on where you were 'looking in the business sky whether you saw clouds or sunshine the past week.

Effects of the steel strike continued to spawn thunderheads which will be hanging over the economic scene a long time.

But elsewhere the atmosphere was bright and cheerful as fat earnings reports tumbled out of corporation directors' meetings.

Many were trying to assess the immediate and potential cost of the strike. Steelworkers have lost more than a billion dollars in pay. Steel industry losses can be figured in excess of four billions. But it's impossible to calculate the cost in the automobile, transportation, coal, and other industries caught in the tentacles of the strike.

The cost burrowed down as far as the tax receipts of mill towns. Relief funds were dwindling in areas hardest hit.

Auto production was down more than 20,000 units from the previous week's 157,384 because of the steel shortage. The outlook for coming weeks is worse.

The total idle in General Motors' auto-building empire is 115,000.

New related layoffs include 3,700 over the next two weeks at General Electric's Louisville, Ky. Appliance Park, and 2,000 at Electric Autolite's Bay City, Mich. plant.

The trade magazine Iron Age says: "Additional layoffs in manufacturing plants are inevitable for at least a month after steel production is resumed."

However, those looking for encouragement in general business found it easily in the cascade of third-quarter and nine - month earnings reports. "Record sales" and "record profits" stood out boldly.

Some of the companies reporting new highs in sales and-or earnings are American Tobacco, Radio Corp. of America, Union Carbide, National Distillers & Chemical Corp., National Gypsum Co., Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co., E. I du Pont de Nemours, and Eastman Kodak.

In the auto field, Ford reported nine-month profits were a record $339,100,000; Chrysler showed a $23,800,000 profit despite a third quarter loss of $34,200,000; Studebaker - Packard had $15,473,000 profit, compared with a $22,532,511 loss a year ago.

Retailers bubbled with anticipatory Christmas cheer. The Federal Reserve Board reported the previous week's department store sales were 10 per cent above the similar week in 1958. The head of a big New York buying house predicted Christmas sales will top record volume of the 1958 season by 4 to 4½ per cent. Chicago mail order houses say they are expecting excellent yule business.

Cost of living, as measured by the government, hit a new high. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' index climbed three tenths of one per cent to 125.2 of the 1947-49 average. The average family paid more for every item in its budget except transportation.

Briefly over the business scene: Chairman Jesse W. Tapp of Bank of America predicts a half-billion-dollar U. S. economy in 1960 .... Wholesale food prices inched up the past week after a four-week decline.... Prosperity note Demand for $3,000 full-length mink coats and $1,400 jewel-studded smoking pipes is up.... Americans' personal debt has climbed more than twice as fast as their disposable income since 1950. It's 172 billion dollars.... Five Soviet economists studying the U. S. private enterprise system visited Wall Street the past week.... A Chicago bank has started mailing interest to depositors in monthly installments. Minimum deposit required is $3,000.... Transportation notes: American Export Lines is studying plans for a streamlined transatlantic liner accommodating 1,600 passengers. The Missouri Pacific Railroad ordered 1,080 boxcars costing $9,400,000. American Airlines will inaugurate service with the first of its fleet of DC7 freighters the coming week.... What Happens To Girl In Uganda?

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take a Chicago-born girl, put her in Uganda, and soon the natives are eating corn on the cob and singing American folk songs—in English.

At least that's what happened during Josephine Frabek's six-year stay in Central Africa. Recently returned and now awaiting a new assignment, Josephine is a member of The Grail, an international lay apostolic movement designed to spread civilization as well as the faith.

At the 10th annual meeting of Catholic mission-sending societies here this week, Josephine talked about her stint in Uganda as though it was the most fun in the world to find snakes nesting under laying hens, and monkeys in the tomato vines.

"It's very exciting to be a pioneer," said the attractive lay missioner, one of hundreds who have been quietly working revolutionary changes in far-way places under a new boom in the lay missionary movement.

START BOARDING SCHOOL

She and Brooklynite Alice McCarthy were sent to Uganda to start a boarding school for African girls in the real bush country. The nearest parish, manned by Africans, was two miles away. The nearest Europeans were 20 miles away in Masaka, the nearest town in the British protectorate.

About once every two weeks they would pile into their station wagon, a gift from Henry Ford Jr., and head for Maska for canned goods and other items to supplement the native diet of steamed bananas, sweet potatoes and meat. (Goat meat is "delicious" but the meat from native cows is often tough, she said.)

The rest of the time they were busy at first settling and then expanding their new school in Kalisizo. For the first two years, they lived out of suitcases in temporary quarters near the parish church until the school and its outbuildings were completed—the British government paying the cost.

Josephine didn't go to Uganda until after a stint at Grailville, in Loveland, Ohio, where she began learning the native language, teaching methods and tended the missionary school's 400-acre farm.

NEEDED HELP OF NATIVES

This experience equipped her for starting the gardens for the school. But she still needed the help of Africans—chiefly women who do most of the farming in Uganda—to plant 1,000 banana trees, fields of pineapple and pawpaw, orange and lemon trees and the tomatoes and corn. Uganda, she said, is lush and beautiful.

Besides teaching teen-age African girls the arts of domestic science, Math, homemaking, nutrition and English, the two American women also helped form a community women's club that gave the mothers a chance to come to the school once a week to learn to sew and master other household arts as well as to speak English and read and write their own language.

Will her mastery of the language be of help in her new assignment?

"No," she said, smiling. "Next March I'll be leaving for Ruandi-urandi, a Belgian trusteeship south of Uganda. We'll be speaking French there and a different native tongue."

Funt, Candid Cameraman, Is Turning Soft

Funt, who has received some criticism in his time for being a bit too harsh with his unsuspecting subjects, is taking a new approach with the candid camera vignettes he's producing weekly for Garry Moore's Tuesday night variety hour on CBS.

"What we're after now," Funt said, "is observation of people in humorous or slightly embarrassing situations. We are trying to avoid those situations that cause a subject to blow his top with possibly unhappy repercussions all around.

"Here's an example of the new approach. We filmed a candid feature in a bowling alley. The idea was to see how people reacted when they missed an easy spare; what their actions were, what they said. We didn't set up any tormenting situations of our own. We didn't embarrass them. We simply made a filmed report."

Funt has been in the business of catching people with their guard down — or, as he puts it, "in the act of being themselves" —since 1947 when he started in radio with his candid microphone series. Not long after he switched to film for movie and television use.

The Moore alliance is new with this season. Each of the shows devotes about five minutes to the Funt vignette and Moore and his TV regulars, Durward Kirby and Marion Lorne, often participate in the episodes. Funt appears in some fashion in most of them.

"One you'll see soon," Funt said, " has Garry playing the role of a substitute principal at the Trinity Episcopal Church School in Manhattan. He will sit in the office and hear the excuses the boys give for being late. The hidden camera, of course, will record all.

"Hre's one I've got in the planning stage. I want to use four or five staff members of the Moore show and one subject. They'd all be on a bus line together. The staff members would have instructions to do certain things such as all turning around at the same time or looking up at the same time. The subject, we hope, would do the same. Finally, the staff members would walk away from the line, leaving the subject alone. The idea is to see if he will stay and become the nucleus for a new line or walk away like the others. I'm betting that he'll walk away."

All subjects caught by Funt's candid camera are informed of Labor Union Leaders Charged With Thefts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor - Management Committee charged Saturday that officials of three big labor unions have been feathering their nests through extortion, thefts and sinister deals.

The committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), aimed the allegations at bigwigs in the Teamsters, Carpenters, and Hotel and Restauant Workers unions. It also denounced a number of employes and lawyers.

The allegations appeared in a wide ranging report to the Senate on the committee's 1958 investigations of racketeering in the labor-management field. Much of what the report said had been told in advance to newsmen and had been published widely.

The report featured charges that Chicago mobsters connived with officials of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union in shakedown rackets that brought terror to the city's restaurant industry.

It also alleged that big shots in the Chicago Restaurant Assn., an organization of restaurant owners, made common cause with the gangsters.

The committee said Raymond Cohen, as secretary-treasurer and boss of Philadelphia Teamsters Local 107, "ruthlessly and without scruples obtained control (of the local) by violence."

It said Cohen "retained his control by terror and brutality, and proceeded to 'milk' the union funds for his own personal enrichment."

Cohen was indicted by a Pennsylvania grand jury last month, along with the local's president, Joseph Gace, and five others including Ben Lapensohn. The committee called Lapensohn a "fixer" for Cohen.

The seven are awaiting trial on charges of forgery, conspiracy and misappropriation of Local 107 funds.

The report charged that the Food Fair Co., a chain grocery store firm operating in that area, "was shamefully involved" in deals with Local 107 officials, mainly Cohen.

The committee said the Justice Department should have taken action by this time in connection with the company's alleged dealings.

The report also accused Philadelphia lawyers John Rogers Carroll and Richard Markowitz of having acted unethically by coaching witnesses in the committee's hearings on Cohen. It criticized the Philadelphia Bar Assn., too.

In another section, the committee accused Teamsters President James R. Hoffa of allowing Herman Kiedorf, a Detroit Teamster official, to use his union power to drum up business for the Star Coverall Supply Co. of Detroit.

The committee pictured the star firm as run by Detroit racketeer Pete Licavoli and other underworld figures.

Elsewhere in its report, the committee urged the Carpenters Union to fire its Vice President Charles Johnson Jr. of New York City.

It charged that Johnson "unscrupulously and greedily misused his union power" to profit in payoff deals with employers.

"It is evident from the record," the report said, "that two major construction firms, namely, Walsh Construction Co. and Merritt-Chapman & Scott, aided and abetted Johnson in collecting commissions for the sale of petroleum products used on construction projects of said companies."

The committee said it could reach no other conclusion than that payments by the two big New York construction firms to Johnson's Penn Products Co. "were nothing more than payoffs to Johnson, a powerful Carpentes official with whom they negotiated collective bargaining agreements through an association."

The payments totaled many thousands of dollars, the report said.

The committee said Johnson and members of his family drew $448,100 in salary and expenses from the union and some of its locals between 1955 and 1957.

It accused Carpenters President Maurice A. Hutcheson of using a union-paid "fixer" in efforts to head off indictment of Hutcheson and other carpenters officials in scandals involving purchase of land for Indiana highways.

The committee dealt primarily with relations between union officials and Metro M. Holovachka, who resigned this year as Lake County, Ind., prosecutor after clashes with the committee. Holovachka has denied any improper action.

The report contended that more than mere coincidence must have been involved in events which led up to an announcement that a Lake County grand jury would not indict Hutcheson or other Carpenters officials in connection with the alleged land fraud.

A Marion County (Indianapolis) grand jury subsequently did indict them. The cases have not yet come to trial.

The Senate committee report pictured Max Raddock of Mamaroneck, N.Y., as Hutcheson's fixer. It said Holovachka profited from a land deal involving a Teamsters Union friend of Raddock. This, the report alleged, "lends further credence to the charge of Raddock's use as a fixer."

The report called Raddock a confidence man who it said overcharged the Carpenters Union by $200,000 or more for producing a biography of Hutcheson's father, the late William L. Hutcheson.

The committee figured that in all Maurice Hutcheson has turned over $519,000 of Carpenters Union funds to Raddock "with noticeably little return."

Jail Suspects At Winnsboro In Cotton Theft

WINNSBORO (Special) — Three Gilbert Negroes are in the Franklin Parish jail charged with theft of seed cotton.

The trio were identified by Cpl. Dave Chase of the state police and deputy sheriff Pete Waller as Percy Ratcliff, 65, Johnny Bates, 18, and Freeman Clay, 17.

The officers made the arrest at 1 a.m. Saturday morning at Gilbert, and the Negroes admitted that the 600 pounds of cotton which was on their truck at the time of the arrest was stolen. Ratcliff was the owner of the truck.

The Franklin Parish Sheriff department said that during the past ten days, several reports have been received from farmers from the southwestern part of the parish that seed cotton was being taken from their trucks on trailers left parked in the field overnight.

The investigation is continuing.

Half-Century Is Noted By Dixie Bedding

A month-long sale during November will mark the 50th anniversary of Dixie Bedding and Furniture Company, Monroe business located at 811 Washington Street, it was announced yesterday.

Joseph and Louis Kusin, a father and son team owning and managing the well known business house, noted the firm began operations in its present location in 1910 as a bedding manufacturing company.

The elder partner recalled that at that time, the company had 10,000 square feet of floor space and one delivery wagon. In 1928, facilities were expanded to include wholesale and retail furniture as well as bedding.

Today, the company has grown to 52,000 square feet of display space in addition to 30,000 square feet warehouse area. It makes use of six trucks and vans as well as large sales, service and warehouse crews.

SELECTIONS

According to the management, the firm has one of the largest selections of furniture, bedding and carpets in the south. Brands of furniture listed included Henredon, Baker, Drexel, Thomasville, Kindel, Willett, Ethan Allen, Kroehler, Hickory, Ralph Morse and Widdacomb.

The bedding line features Simmons Beautyrest Mattresses and "Hide-a-Beds." Carpets include the Alexander Smith, Mohawk and Artloom lines.

"Our service and delivery trucks travel a 200-mile radius around Monroe," Louis Kusin said. He pointed out much of the company's business lies in southeast Arkansas, western Mississippi and northeast Louisiana as well as in the immediate Monroe-West Monroe area.

LOUIS KUSIN

In addition to the display and warehouse facilities, storeside parking space is provided for customers.

The slogan of the 50-year-old business which the managers say has brought good returns for half-a-century is: "Good service, best furniture for lowest possible prices."

2 Physicists Named For Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Stockholm newspapers named two U.S. physicists Saturday as probable winners of the 1959 Nobel physics prize for their work in discovering the antiproton.

The Americans are Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, and Dr. Emilio Segre, 54, who in 1955 confirmed the existance of the negatively charged proton that can annihilate ordinary matter found on earth.

The two scientists and two assistances created antiprotons in a powerful atom smasher, the bevatron, at the University of California's radiation laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

The antiproton is like the proton, which with the neutron makes up the nucleus of ordinary atoms, except for the negative charge. The proton has a positive charge. When an antiproton strikes a proton or neutron, it annihilates itself and the proton or neutron.

Chamberlain told the American Physical Society in 1957 the antiproton could not be used in a superbomb or for atomic energy. The reason is it takes as much energy to create an antiproton as is produced when it annihilates itself.

But scientists hailed the discovery as a big step in the endless quest to learn more about the nature and construction of the universe. They long had suspected the existence of the antiproton. Scientists do not rule out the possibility that galaxies of stars made up of antimatter exist somewhere in the universe.

The newspaper Expressen also listed as qualified candidates for the physics prize Dr. James Van Allen of the State University of Iowa and Dr. Hermann Oberth, German rocket pioneer. Van Allen was in charge of the cosmic ray apparatus aboard the first U.S. satellite, Explorer I. A radiation belt above the earth found by Explorer's apparatus was named for him.

Prof. Jaroslav Keyrovsky, 69, head of the Polagraphic Institute in Prague, was named in the Stockholm papers as a candidate for the chemistry prize. The Czechoslovak scientist originated polrgraphy, a method of analyzing complicated chemical solutions. It enabled him to detect previously unknown substances.

SELECTIONS

According to the management, the firm has one of the largest selections of furniture, bedding and carpets in the south. Brands of furniture listed included Henredon, Baker, Drexel, Thomasville, Kindel, Willett, Ethan Allen, Kroehler, Hickory, Ralph Morse and Widdacomb.

The bedding line features Simmons Beautyrest Mattresses and "Hide-a-Beds." Carpets include the Alexander Smith, Mohawk and Artloom lines.

"Our service and delivery trucks travel a 200-mile radius around Monroe," Louis Kusin said. He pointed out much of the company's business lies in southeast Arkansas, western Mississippi and northeast Louisiana as well as in the immediate Monroe-West Monroe area.

In addition to the display and warehouse facilities, storeside parking space is provided for customers.

The slogan of the 50-year-old business which the managers say has brought good returns for half-a-century is: "Good service, best furniture for lowest possible prices."

2 Physicists Named For Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Stockholm newspapers named two U.S. physicists Saturday as probable winners of the 1959 Nobel physics prize for their work in discovering the antiproton.

The Americans are Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, and Dr. Emilio Segre, 54, who in 1955 confirmed the existance of the negatively charged proton that can annihilate ordinary matter found on earth.

The two scientists and two assistances created antiprotons in a powerful atom smasher, the bevatron, at the University of California's radiation laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

The antiproton is like the proton, which with the neutron makes up the nucleus of ordinary atoms, except for the negative charge. The proton has a positive charge. When an antiproton strikes a proton or neutron, it annihilates itself and the proton or neutron.

Chamberlain told the American Physical Society in 1957 the antiproton could not be used in a superbomb or for atomic energy. The reason is it takes as much energy to create an antiproton as is produced when it annihilates itself.

But scientists hailed the discovery as a big step in the endless quest to learn more about the nature and construction of the universe. They long had suspected the existence of the antiproton. Scientists do not rule out the possibility that galaxies of stars made up of antimatter exist somewhere in the universe.

The newspaper Expressen also listed as qualified candidates for the physics prize Dr. James Van Allen of the State University of Iowa and Dr. Hermann Oberth, German rocket pioneer. Van Allen was in charge of the cosmic ray apparatus aboard the first U.S. satellite, Explorer I. A radiation belt above the earth found by Explorer's apparatus was named for him.

Prof. Jaroslav Keyrovsky, 69, head of the Polagraphic Institute in Prague, was named in the Stockholm papers as a candidate for the chemistry prize. The Czechoslovak scientist originated polrgraphy, a method of analyzing complicated chemical solutions. It enabled him to detect previously unknown substances.

There's nothing like a new car and no new car like Chevrolet. This is the exciting Impala Convertible!

SIXTY'S SIZZLER

The car with the year's hottest style is getting the warmest reception of all! And it's no wonder . . . when you look at all the new and different things Chevrolet has for 1960! Come and see it!

THAT'S CHEVY!

You can tell already, by the growing number of new Chevrolets you see on the road, that this one's the sizzler for Sixty! It was bound to happen. When you make an effort to find out all the things most people want in a car, then make sure they're all designed into a car most people can afford, you're sure to get a pretty hot reception.

People look over Chevrolet's 16 freshly styled '60 models. They see a choice of 24 engine-drive combinations, including a new Economy Turbo-Fire V8. They drive a Chevy. They like the way the ride has been polished and perfected with new rubber-cushion body mounts muffling road hum and vibration. They like Chevy's wide seats, its wonderfully easy handling, the whole feeling of cruising along smoothly and comfortably in a car that never tires of travel. They just can't see a good reason for looking any farther.

Matter of fact, it looks like Chevrolet has a corner on quality and fine features in its field. Even costly cars have to look to their laurels—Chevrolet sets a new standard by matching elegance with economy. By offering luxury you've never seen before in Chevrolet's price class. We've got a good, strong hunch you'll go for this one. Just drive it around your Chevrolet dealer's block . . . you'll see!

Elder Morris To Appear In Monroe

ELDER GEORGE MORRIS

Elder George Q. Morris, member of the Council of Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will conduct two meetings here Monday.

Morris, at 85, is touring the Mormon church's Gulf States Mission.

He will conduct a Missionaries Conference at 8:30 a.m. in the Monroe Chapel, 2300 Lee Ave.

At 7 p.m., he will hold a district meeting at the Chapel.

President Lincoln F. Hanks, director of the Houston, Tex. mission, will accompany Elder Morris.

BACKGROUND

For 11 years, Elder Morris directed the Mormon's world-wide youth program.

He is noted for efforts in civic groups, pioneer trails associations and monument commissions.

He is conducting 20 meetings with missionaries, church leaders, members and the public in Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas, during an 18-day tour which started Friday and continues through November 9.

Morris is prominent in church, civic and business activity in Salt Lake City, Utah.

A graduate of Brigham Young University and the University of Utah, he was a missionary in Great Britain from 1899 to 1902.

He has served as superintendent of the Salt Lake Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association.

He was counselor to the bishopric and bishop of the 14th Ward in Salt Lake City; a member of the Ensign Stake Presidency; assistant superintendent and superintendent of the Y.M.M.I.A. General Board; president of the Eastern States Mission; and Assistant to the Council of the Twelve Apostles.

His call to the Apostleship came in April, 1954.

U.S. Pampers Its Soldiers, Soviets Think

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—By Soviet standards the U.S. serviceman is overpaid, undertrained and pampered beyond belief.

Conversely, by U.S. standards the Soviet conscript — nobody is permitted to volunteer in the U.S.S.R.—is underpaid, overworked, and generally untidy.

Exactly how they compare as fighting men is something now unknown. But here's how the Soviet serviceman stacks up, as reported by U.S. intelligence services.

The Soviets proclaim their men loyal patriots. The Americans just assume their men are. Soviet servicemen have nine hours of political indoctrination weekly, U.S. servicemen one.

During World War II hundreds of thousands of Soviet soldiers desertd to the Germans. During Korea one of every three U. S. servicemen taken prisoner collaborated in some measure with the enemy.

The U.S. armed services will spend more than 95 million dollars this year on moral, recreation and welfare activities. With that much money the Soviet army could pay more than two million conscripts for a full year.

That 95 million dollars does not come out of the taxpayers' pockets, but represents profits from post exchanges, commissaries and theatres.

Further, it does not include the millions of dollars which will be spent locally by hundreds of officer and noncommissioned officer clubs for the same purposes.

The Soviet conscript is lucky if he has a small store where he can buy toilet articles and cigarettes, the latter for 15 cents a pack.

Since a Soviet private receives only $36 a year, smoking is expensive and vodka a rare luxury. A pint of vodka costs $1.50, figuring 10 rubles to the dollar.

A U.S. private earns $977 his first year in service and $1,125 dollars his second.

When a Soviet serviceman is assigned to duty outside the country, he usually is required to leave his family at home.

This year the United States plans to spend $382,928,000 shipping the families, household goods and automobiles of servicemen around this country and overseas.

POLITICAL NEWS

Rockefeller Bids In Midwest Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big news in politics this week: Nelson A. Rockefeller stuck a foot in the door to the Republican Midwest, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) began to look like a real pesidential contender.

Johnson's all-but-official entry into the Democratic race won, among other things, some warm reaction from former President Harry S. Truman.

Rockefeller's best friends would probably concede the New York governor didn't get far in his sounding - out visit to Chicago. There wasn't any organized political support, for example, there were no cheering crowds.

Still, some influential Midwest politicians and editors put it this way afterwards: We weren't what you'd call sold on him, but we were impressed.

Rockefeller himself said his Chicago visit had done nothing to speed up his decision on whether he'll go after the Republican presidential nomination next year.

Chicago and the whole Midwest are counted on strongly by Republicans who want to see Vice President Richard M. Nixon move into the White House.

Nixon rested this week in Florida, no doubt putting together additional strategy for his drive to nail down 1960 convention votes all over the country.

In Texas, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn had most to do with getting the Democratic nomination campaign for Johnson off and rolling—to a good beginning, anyhow.

A Washington check of Johnson's pals in the Senate provided grounds to believe he can depend on considerable support from the Western states—Washington, New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Idaho and Arizona.

Separately, these states wouldn't count for much in a national convention but together they would, expecially when added to the Southern states which might be expected to favor Johnson.

Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming carried on the Johnson camp technique of identifying the Senate Democratic leader with the West, rather than the South.

Johnson, McGee said, is held in great admiration "not just in the West, even though he belongs to us in the West, but all over."

Former President Truman, beloved by the Democrats for his come-from-behind victory in 1948, spoke warmly of Johnson, and said: "I'd come out for him too if I were a Texan."

Truman is expected to give his first allegiance to his fellow Missourian, Sen. Stuart Symington.

Symington, who makes a specialty of offending nobody but Republicans, spent the week talking to voters from New England to Ohio, and welcoming their good wishes.

Some supporters of Sen. Johnson got so enthusiastic they began talking of a Johnson-Kennedy ticket, with Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts in the vice-presidential slot.

Kennedy was all over the place again this week—in San Francisco predicting a Democratic triumph next year, orating in Oregon, even to college audiences, and sharing a New York platform with Republican Rockefeller.

The joint New York appearance was billed as nonpolitical, but Rockefeller got in a plug for Negroes' civil rights — likely to be one of the most-argued 1960 topics.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION CHECK — Bert Coverdale, Ouachita parish assessor, yesterday turned over to Sheriff Bailey Grant, ex officio tax collector, a check for $742,691.83, which the state paid to Ouachita parish for homestead exemptions. This year's check is the largest in the history of the parish. Ouachita was the first large parish to file its tax roll in Baton Rouge and receive the exemption check. (Staff photo by Bill Coleman)

All Nine Men Safely Leave Crippled Plane

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—All nine men aboard a crippled KB50 tanker parachuted to safety before the big plane crashed and exploded 12 miles northwest of here Friday night.

The men, who bailed out at 1,500 feet, escaped uninjured.

Two men were found early today. They were S. Sgt. Eustis L. McCarty of Perkins, Okla., the crew chief, and Airman 2.C. Ernest C. Light of Wichita Falls, Tex., refueling technician.

Seven men were picked up soon after the crash. They were Capt. John R. Barr of Vicksburg, Miss., aircraft commander; 1st Lt. Daniel M. Banks, pilot; 1st Lt. Donald S. Gay, navigator; T. Sgt. Walter L. Young, flight engineer; S. Sgt. Airman 3.C. Carol L. Fitzgerald of Duncan, Okla., refueling technician; Airman 2.C. Larry E. Delano of Weyerhauer, Wis., passenger; and S. Sgt. Leon Byrd of Elgin, Tex., a passenger.

The tanker was en route to its home base at England Air Force Base here from George AFB, Calif. The crash came as the plane was coming in for a final approach for a landing.

Witnesses said one engine was burning just before the plane fell onto a plowed field and exploded. It carried only the fuel for its engines.

Good-Hearted Bessie Does Share To Help

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP) — Bessie Braddock, member of Parliament who weighs 208 pounds and is called the British Labor party's largest asset, does her ample bit to make the general election campaign fierce, light-hearted and brim full of fun.

She regarded the leadership of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative party recently with a curl of the lip, and said: "Sometimes I would like to smack Lord Hailsham's behind for what he says.

"But he's a boy friend of mine, really," added 60-year-old Bessie, 'just misguided."

"My feelings for Mrs. Braddock are well known," he said. "She has been my pin-up since 1945. I think she is rather fond of me and I am rather fond of her. I sense a genuine bond of affection has grown up between us."

Britain's destiny may be hanging in balance, and what British voters decide next Thursday may have far-reaching international repercussions. It's serious. But the campaign wouldn't be British if candidates and irrevent blokes on the sidelines didn't get a good time out of it.

Lord Hailsham himself enjoyed mixing a metaphor by proclaiming: "The Labor party is slinging mud below the belt."

Heckling a candidate at a political meeting is a time-honored British practice, and sometimes the hecklers actually take over the hall. But usually it's kept on the basis of good humor, the candidate sometimes gaining some sporting support because he is outnumbered.

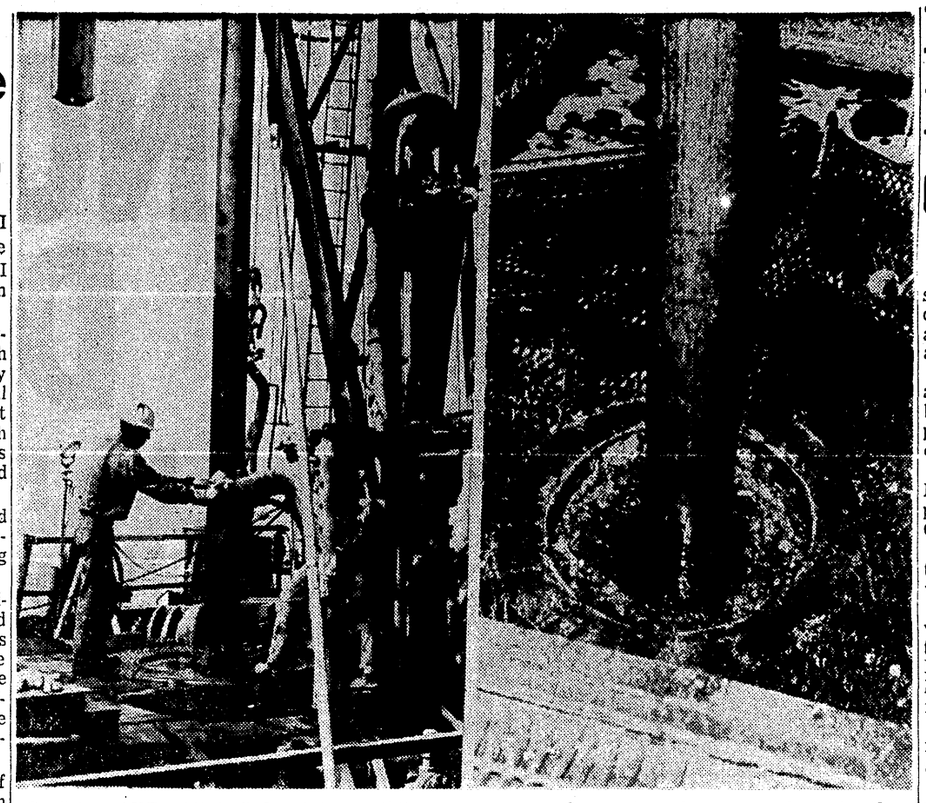

But it's tricky heckling some of the campaigners, particularly such a nimble-witted veteran as Aneurian Bevan, left-winger of the Labor party who thinks fast on his feet. He slashes interrupters with his lashing tongue.

At a meeting last week a man with a bushy beard peppered Bevan with frequent and petulant questions.

"Our friend with the bronze beard again," Bevan finally said with mock exasperation. "He wears it to hide a weak mouth."

"I'm in a proper quandary who to vote for," said a loafer over his beer. "All the main parties advocate full employment."

Rainach Says Morrison Out Of Big Ranks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

State Sen. William M. Rainach said Saturday New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison is no longer a major candidate in the Louisiana governor's race.

Rainach said in Slidell there is a voter rebellion against Morrison because of his "pro-integration policies" and "unwise fiscal policies."

Meanwhile at DeRidder, James Noe said he had a photostatic report sharply degrading former Gov. Jimmie Davis.

The targets of these two attacks, Morrison and Davis, also were busy on the campaign trail.

Rainach predicted Morrison would not be "any higher than third or fourth in New Orleans." He said a "voter rebellion against him is gaining ground against him in that city."

Noe urged Davis to answer the report that has come into his possession.

Noe would not disclose "any damaging portions" of the photostatic report which was authored by a "John N. Dyer." Noe said he did not know Dyer.

Morrison, appearing at the Shreveport fair, promised to improve facilities for the fair grounds. He said he especially wanted to see "more barns for the livestock display."

At the Abbeville Dairy Festival, Morrison said "the most heartening signs of this whole campaign is the way French Louisiana is closing ranks behind me, a Cajun boy from New Roads. . ."

Davis said in Covington that his 1944-48 administration pioneered tourist promotion on a state level.

Tech Professor Is Speaker At Texas Meeting

John D. Winters, professor of history at Louisiana Tech college, this week addressed the Houston Civil War Round Table at a dinner meeting in a Houston, Texas, hotel.

Winters spoke on "The battle of Mansfield," considered the most famous battle of the War Between the States fought west of the Mississippi River.

The speech was based on extensive research by Winters in numerous libraries and archives of Louisiana, in the library of Congress, and in the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

At present he is working on a book, "The Civil War in Louisiana." AS a member of the Lincoln Parish Civil War Centennial group, he is also jointly preparing with Dr. T. Harry Williams of LSU a complete bibliography on Civil War materials on Louisiana, to be published and distributed to all public high schools and colleges in the state.

"I intend to make it part of my program to make a working team of state and private agencies to boost our tourist take," he said. "I would like to see the department of commerce and industry, the highway department and the department of state parks form a close association with the motel, hotel and transportation industries and with communities throughout the state to tap this great new source of revenue."

Big Tussle Foreseen On Arms Making

LONDON (AP)—A big tussle is building up behind the scenes between Western military and political planners over West Germany's fast growing arms industry.

The issue is: Should the Germans be allowed to make heavy ships, tanks, guns, and missiles again?

Deep emotional, political, economic, and military overtones cloud the question.

Diplomats even those in Bonn, say, "No—at least not until the outcome of East-West summit talks becomes clear."

So far the diplomats are getting their way. Action to enable West Germany to become a major weapons producer for the West has been suspended at least until next spring. Then the prospects for ending the East-West arms race should be better known.

West Germany is barred under tight treaty curbs from making a wide variety of offensive weapons. These bans were imposed in 1954 when defeated Germany became a sovereign nation and joined NATO, the 15-power Atlantic pact.

The aim was to prevent the sort or runaway rearmament that led the Germans to start two world wars.

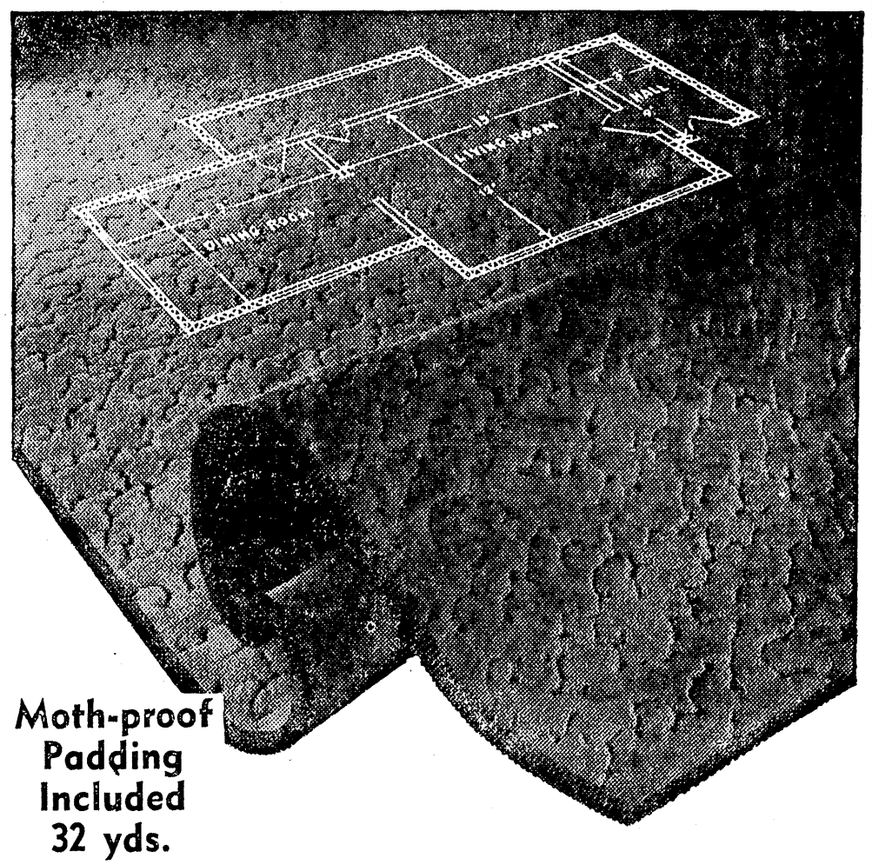

The restrictions were written into a seven-nation alliance known as the Western European Union. Aside from giving the Germans the right to learn, the WEU treaty spelled out weapons they could not make—the A-B-C — atomic-bacteriological-chemical — weapons. The Germans have stuck to the bargain.

When they have wanted to produce arms on the banned list they have applied to Norstad for approval. If he has felt it would be in the general Allied interest, he has said so to the WEU Council.

Approval has been given on three occasions, first to make an antitank rocket, then a big naval training ship, and a few days ago certain missiles.

Norstad recently advised the Allies bluntly he dislikes this piecemeal approach. He promised that one of these days he'd have more to say about it. Nobody in the know doubts that he has in mind one frontal action to sweep away all the bans he considers useless, outdated or contrary to the Allied interest.

That time is approaching quickly. New roles are being thought out for the West Germans as for other Allied powers. Scientific developments have outstripped treaty concepts. The reviving arms industry in West Germany soon will carry it to the extreme limits of treaty restrictions.

Nixon's Group Slams Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon indicated Saturday it believes the refusal of Congress to lift the interest rate ceiling on long-team government bonds weakened federal power to fight inflation.

The Cabinet Committee on Price Stability for Economic Growth implied in its third public report that leaving the 4¼ per cent ceiling on bonds that mature in five years or more had placed too much of the anti-inflation burden on monetary policy.

It said it is important to maintain a proper balance in the parts played in the economy by budget policy, monetary policy,and debt management, and when too much of the burden is thrown on one or the other the whole structure is weakened.

Maintaining a proper balance, it said, will "add greatly to their total effectiveness and can contribute powerfully to economic stability and progress."

The report was described by W. Allen Wallis, special assistant to President Eisenhower and executive vice chairman of the committee, as primarily educational. It carried no policy recommendations, but Wallis said these may be expected in the near future.

The U. S. Treasury has been compelled in recent months to rely heavily on short-term financing because of inability to compete in the money markets on the longer term issues.

"A ceiling on the long-term interest rates that can be paid by the Treasury, for example, prevents even such issues as are needed to slow down the shortening of the average maturity structure when the market rate rises above what the Treasury is permitted to pay," the Cabinet group said.

"The resulting increase in the amount of short-term debt produces liquidity . . . that is inflationary unless offset by monetary and fiscal restrains tighter than would otherwise be desirable."

The committee said long-term financing helps to hold down liquidity and to limit growth in the money supply.

Discussing three possible ways to use the budget to promote economility, the committee said one view holds that the government budget should be balanced each year regardless of national economic conditions. A second view is that budget deficits and surpluses can and should be deliberately created to reduce fluctuations in economic activity.

A third approach, which the committee said offers greater practical possibilities of success, is to rely on the automatic tendency of tax revenues to rise and certain types of expenditure, such as unemployment benefits, to fall during periods of strong demand for goods and services, and for the opposite to occur in recessions.

The committee said even the best monetary policy, with its credit controls, cannot alone assure stable economic growth. It must be supported, it said, by appropriate budget and debt management and other policies.

Kind-Hearted Engineer Dies At Age Of 56

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A veteran railroad engineer who befriended a little crippled girl in a cotton shack and won her the nation's sympathy and help died Friday night.

The girl, then 12 years old, always waved at Earl Houston Lanier and smiled at him when his train passed her tiny home in the cotton fields 40 miles north of Memphis. Lanier noticed the girl always in a rocking chair at the door of the cabin. He never saw her standing or walking, but always he noticed she was cheerful and her smile was warm and sweet.

One day curiosity got the best of the engineer. When his Illinois Central Railroad train reached the shack near Covington, Tenn., Lanier stopped the train. He got out and met the girl, Minnie Rose Webb, and learned that she was an almost hopeless cripple.

When he reached Memphis, Lanier told the story of Minnie Rose to his railroad friends and the newspapers. Help for Minnie Rose and her family was soon on the way. The Illinois Central arranged for Minnie Rose to enter the Shrine Hospital in St. Louis where doctors made it possible for her to walk.

Lanier, 56, died Friday night in Memphis.

State School Employes Fired In Union Issue

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A union official said Saturday seven employes of the State Colony and Training School, Pineville, were fired for being union members.

A. L. Crow Jr., head of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, said all those fired were probationary employes but "the only reason they were fired was because they were members of the union."

He said he had made complaints to state civil service and state institutions officials.

"The only excuse given was that they failed to attend a school," Crow said. Under state civil service rules, he said, there is nothing to force them to go to any school.

Crow said he asked W. W. McDougall, state civil service director, to investigate the dismissals and assist the civil service workers. But, he said, he was told civil service could not do so unless it had the distinct charges.

"State civil service," he said, "which was established for the protection and job security of the people (state workers) has turned its back and refused to help."

Crow said he gave information about the firings Friday to Herb Ruff, a personnel official in the institutions department. Crow said he didn't know whether Ruff had done anything about the information.

The public employes union official said he did not have immediately available the names of the workers involved.

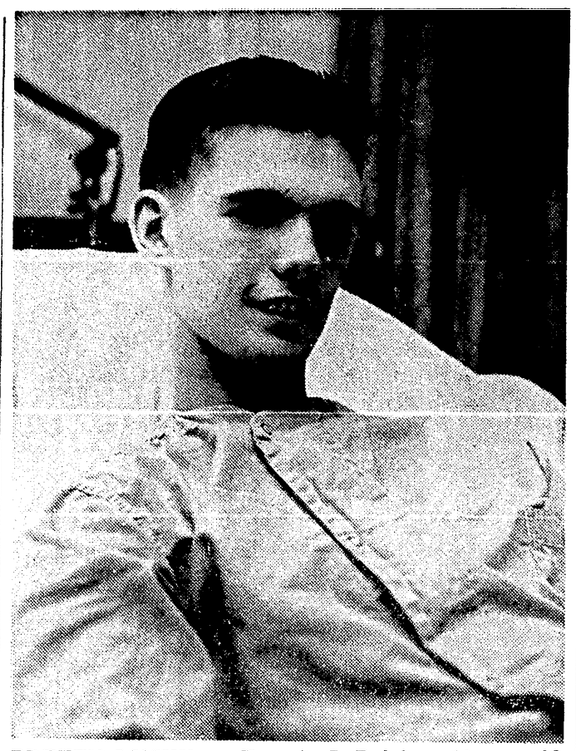

Crow also charged the administration of the colony with neglect of patients by assigning attendants on some floors to "impossible tasks" which made them unable to tend helpless patients.

Oil Refinery Strike Continues

TEXAS CITY , Tex (AI)—The strike at the American Oil Company's refinery here entered its 117th day Saturday—the longest strike by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union at a Texas Gulf Coast refinery.

Some 1,250 members of the OCAW Local 4-449 employes walked off the job at midnight June 30 in a dispute over job classifications.

Since supervisory and technical employes have kept the refinery operating at about 75 per cent of capacity.

PRETTY LUCKY — Francis J. Dolaher, 19-year-old paratrooper, made his ninth jump 80 days ago and plummeted to earth 1,250 feet below when his 'chute failed to open fully. He was a mass of broken bones and internal injuries but after long seiges of surgery doctors say he'll be able to walk in another year with nothing but a stiff ankle. "I'm pretty lucky," says Dolaher, but added he would have liked to make a few more jumps. (AP Wirephoto)

RED TAPE, INERTIA

Slum Clearance Project Snagged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David M. Walker, new head of the federal slum clearance program, believes it suffers from two big problems: too much red tape in Washington and inertia in the cities.

Walker said in an interview that he is streamlining Washington operations of his Urban Renewal Administration (URA). Specifically, he said, technicians here will no longer review the merits of applications for funds approved by the agency's six regional offices.

The inertia problem, Walker said, is how to get cities with reserved blocs of federal slum clearance dollars to execute their projects. The URA has approved subsidies totaling about $1,300,000,000 since 1949 but has disbursed only $227,000,000. The big gap reflects the fact that lots of approved projects are still on the shelf.

To help get them realized, Walker plans to prod the cities in three ways; The usual verbal jabs; refusal to approve new projects or scaling them down dollarwise; and some recapturing of funds earmarked for projects long ago and still untouched because the project is stalled.

FORMERLY SOLD INSURANCE

Walker, 50, took over as urban renewal commissioner on July 7 after serving 4½ years in Philadelphia, his hometown, as regional administrator of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

A former insurance salesman, Walker got into the housing field in 1943 at the municipal level in Philadelphia. From 1951 to 1955 he was Pennsylvania's secretary of labor and industry and has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor.

His toughest problem, Walker feels, is getting planned local slum clearance and rebuilding projects into execution. "In too many cities the workable program is just a beautiful thing on the wall of the mayor's office," he observed wryly.

He explained that urban renewal has been a new concept, as city management goes, and that as a natural consequence officials have spent a good deal of time and effort trying to get squared away on paper how they would proceed. Another factor has been a shortage of skilled personnel.

"I am not one to detract from the need for planning," Walker said. "We must now introduce a doers phase."

Problems that have kept some cities from executing urban renewal plans include interesting private redevelopers and raising funds to cover the city's share of the costs.

On federal-aid projects, the city pays one-third the net cost of acquiring and clearing the land and Uncle Sam contributes two-thirds.

When the Urban Renewal Administration approves a project it reserves money for it from funds authorized by Congress. Walker feels that there has been too much money tied up for too long. By recapturing it he can make it available for approval of other applications.

As part of his tidying the program Walker also expects to scale down by about 63 million dollars an estimated 300 million dollars of backed up applications which probably will get approval.

Since Congress first created the slum clearance program in 1949 it has authorized an even two billion dollars in grants to the cities, including 350 million dollars for the current fiscal year and 300 million dollars for next year.

Builder, 68, Totally Blind

Gifford sawed every board and pounded every nail that went into the 4 by 14-foot project at his home.

Gifford has been a piano tuner and technician for several years. He builds cabinets in his spare time.

Gifford suffers the same fate as most amateur carpenters.

"There have been many occasions when my thumb got mixed up with the nail," he says.

The report was described by W. Allen Wallis, special assistant to President Eisenhower and executive vice chairman of the committee, as primarily educational. It carried no policy recommendations, but Wallis said these may be expected in the near future.

The U. S. Treasury has been compelled in recent months to rely heavily on short-term financing because of inability to compete in the money markets on the longer term issues.

"A ceiling on the long-term interest rates that can be paid by the Treasury, for example, prevents even such issues as are needed to slow down the shortening of the average maturity structure when the market rate rises above what the Treasury is permitted to pay," the Cabinet group said.

"The resulting increase in the amount of short-term debt produces liquidity . . . that is inflationary unless offset by monetary and fiscal restrains tighter than would otherwise be desirable."

The committee said long-term financing helps to hold down liquidity and to limit growth in the money supply.

Discussing three possible ways to use the budget to promote economility, the committee said one view holds that the government budget should be balanced each year regardless of national economic conditions. A second view is that budget deficits and surpluses can and should be deliberately created to reduce fluctuations in economic activity.

A third approach, which the committee said offers greater practical possibilities of success, is to rely on the automatic tendency of tax revenues to rise and certain types of expenditure, such as unemployment benefits, to fall during periods of strong demand for goods and services, and for the opposite to occur in recessions.

The committee said even the best monetary policy, with its credit controls, cannot alone assure stable economic growth. It must be supported, it said, by appropriate budget and debt management and other policies.

Kind-Hearted Engineer Dies At Age Of 56

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A veteran railroad engineer who befriended a little crippled girl in a cotton shack and won her the nation's sympathy and help died Friday night.

The girl, then 12 years old, always waved at Earl Houston Lanier and smiled at him when his train passed her tiny home in the cotton fields 40 miles north of Memphis. Lanier noticed the girl always in a rocking chair at the door of the cabin. He never saw her standing or walking, but always he noticed she was cheerful and her smile was warm and sweet.

One day curiosity got the best of the engineer. When his Illinois Central Railroad train reached the shack near Covington, Tenn., Lanier stopped the train. He got out and met the girl, Minnie Rose Webb, and learned that she was an almost hopeless cripple.

When he reached Memphis, Lanier told the story of Minnie Rose to his railroad friends and the newspapers. Help for Minnie Rose and her family was soon on the way. The Illinois Central arranged for Minnie Rose to enter the Shrine Hospital in St. Louis where doctors made it possible for her to walk.

Lanier, 56, died Friday night in Memphis.

State School Employes Fired In Union Issue

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A union official said Saturday seven employes of the State Colony and Training School, Pineville, were fired for being union members.

A. L. Crow Jr., head of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, said all those fired were probationary employes but "the only reason they were fired was because they were members of the union."

He said he had made complaints to state civil service and state institutions officials.

"The only excuse given was that they failed to attend a school," Crow said. Under state civil service rules, he said, there is nothing to force them to go to any school.

Crow said he asked W. W. McDougall, state civil service director, to investigate the dismissals and assist the civil service workers. But, he said, he was told civil service could not do so unless it had the distinct charges.

"State civil service," he said, "which was established for the protection and job security of the people (state workers) has turned its back and refused to help."

Crow said he gave information about the firings Friday to Herb Ruff, a personnel official in the institutions department. Crow said he didn't know whether Ruff had done anything about the information.

The public employes union official said he did not have immediately available the names of the workers involved.

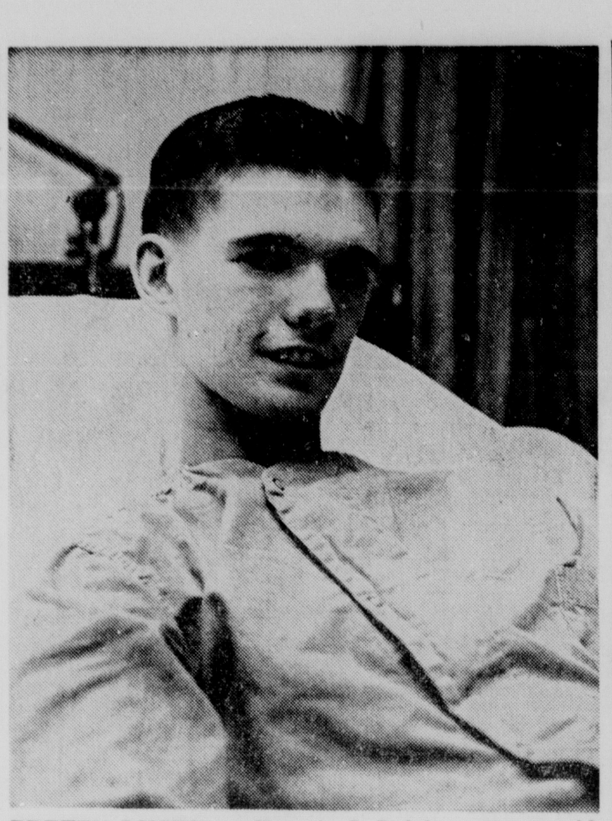

Crow also charged the administration of the colony with neglect of patients by assigning attendants on some floors to "impossible tasks" which made them unable to tend helpless patients.

Oil Refinery Strike Continues

TEXAS CITY , Tex (AI)—The strike at the American Oil Company's refinery here entered its 117th day Saturday—the longest strike by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union at a Texas Gulf Coast refinery.

Some 1,250 nembers of the OCAW Local 4-449 employes walked off the job at midnight June 30 in a dispute over job classifications.

Since supervisory and technical employes have kept the refinery operating at about 75 per cent of capacity.

PRETTY LUCKY — Francis J. Dolaher, 19-year-old paratrooper, made his ninth jump 80 days ago and plummeted to earth 1,250 feet below when his 'chute failed to open fully. He was a mass of broken bones and internal injuries but after long seiges of surgery doctors say he'll be able to walk in another year with nothing but a stiff ankle. "I'm pretty lucky," says Dolaher, but added he would have liked to make a few more jumps. (AP Wirephoto)

RED TAPE, INERTIA

Slum Clearance Project Snagged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David M. Walker, new head of the federal slum clearance program, believes it suffers from two big problems: too much red tape in Washington and inertia in the cities.

Walker said in an interview that he is streamlining Washington operations of his Urban Renewal Administration (URA). Specifically, he said, technicians here will no longer review the merits of applications for funds approved by the agency's six regional offices.

The inertia problem, Walker said, is how to get cities with reserved blocs of federal slum clearance dollars to execute their projects. The URA has approved subsidies totaling about $1,300,000,000 since 1949 but has disbursed only $227,000,000. The big gap reflects the fact that lots of approved projects are still on the shelf.

To help get them realized, Walker plans to prod the cities in three ways; The usual verbal jabs; refusal to approve new projects or scaling them down dollarwise; and some recapturing of funds earmarked for projects long ago and still untouched because the project is stalled.

FORMERLY SOLD INSURANCE

Walker, 50, took over as urban renewal commissioner on July 7 after serving 4½ years in Philadelphia, his hometown, as regional administrator of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

A former insurance salesman, Walker got into the housing field in 1943 at the municipal level in Philadelphia. From 1951 to 1955 he was Pennsylvania's secretary of labor and industry and has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor.

His toughest problem, Walker feels, is getting planned local slum clearance and rebuilding projects into execution. "In too many cities the workable program is just a beautiful thing on the wall of the mayor's office," he observed wryly.

He explained that urban renewal has been a new concept, as city management goes, and that as a natural consequence officials have spent a good deal of time and effort trying to get squared away on paper how they would proceed. Another factor has been a shortage of skilled personnel.

"I am not one to detract from the need for planning," Walker said. "We must now introduce a doers phase."

Problems that have kept some cities from executing urban renewal plans include interesting private redevelopers and raising funds to cover the city's share of the costs.

On federal-aid projects, the city pays one-third the net cost of acquiring and clearing the land and Uncle Sam contributes two-thirds.

When the Urban Renewal Administration approves a project it reserves money for it from funds authorized by Congress. Walker feels that there has been too much money tied up for too long. By recapturing it he can make it available for approval of other applications.

As part of his tidying the program Walker also expects to scale down by about 63 million dollars an estimated 300 million dollars of backed up applications which probably will get approval.

Since Congress first created the slum clearance program in 1949 it has authorized an even two billion dollars in grants to the cities, including 350 million dollars for the current fiscal year and 300 million dollars for next year.

Builder, 68, Totally Blind

Gifford sawed every board and pounded every nail that went into the 4 by 14-foot project at his home.

Gifford has been a piano tuner and technician for several years. He builds cabinets in his spare time.

Gifford suffers the same fate as most amateur carpenters.

"There have been many occasions when my thumb got mixed up with the nail," he says.

Tips For Halloween

Safety For Goblins

By TOMMY PARKS
Staff Writer

Mischievous and prank - loving goblins throughout the area these days are anxiously awaiting the one night out of the entire year set aside especially for them — Halloween.

Children are slowly building up collections of assorted masks, noise makers, costumes, and raiding regalia. Likewise, many grownups are at the same time building up collections of assorted sweets, gifts, tricks, and other treats.

'SPECIAL NIGHT'

On Saturday night, both sides will gather up their collection and prepare for a night of "trick or treating," the standard Halloween activity that each year sends youthful masked goblins around the neighborhood with their mysterious powers for that one night to pry rewards from wary adults.

On such an unusual and activity - filled night as Halloween, it is only natural that unexpected accidents stand a better-than-average chance to disrupt the festivities.

Even the most mischievous goblin can be brought home safely, however, if certain common-sense rules of safety are remembered by everyone engaged in the festivities — parents, children, neighbors, and motorists included.

SAFETY RULES

The American Medical Association and the National Safety Council have set forth a series of basic, simple and practical rules to keep in mind.

One of the most common causes of Halloween accidents, officials have pointed out, is the masks and costumes worn by marauding goblins. To begin with, it seems, the youngsters have trouble seeing where they are going.

Many masks not only impair proper vision and make careless "stumble-bums" of the youthful pranksters, but also can prove to be a dangerous fire trap for unminded bonfire or candle flames. Masks, along with the entire costume and regalia, should be completely fireproof.

Recent national attention to an outbreak of suffocation deaths brought on by plastic bags slipped over the heads has brought frowns upon the thin, malleable rubber or plastic masks that are molded to fit tightly against the face.

LIGHT COLORS

All costuming and clothing for the Halloween hunters should be light - colored to be seen easily at night. Too, costumes should be constructed so as not to trip their wearers, or catch on hedges, bushes or fences.

The best makeup for face-masks or costumes is non-toxic paint, cosmetics or burnt cork for effect.

Fire should be ruled out whenever possible As the National Safety Council says, "A high-speed goblin carrying a candle or a torch may hurt himself. The same is true if he carries a knife, sword or other sharp instrument."

Parents are cautioned to keep up with the antics of their youthful goblins on Haloween night—where they will be, how long they will be gone, whom they will be with, and what they plan to do. Certainly, streets, alleyways and other trafficways should be taboo.

On the other hand, the youthful goblins are cautioned, too. There have been reports during past Halloweens of attempted pranks that turned out to be serious damage to persons or property. Such activities are of course not keeping in the true spirit of Halloween.

EXPECT UNUSUAL

Unwary citizens are urged to expect unusual activities on Halloween night and consequently show proper attitudes when faced by a small troop of haunts.

In the past several years, the trend on Halloween night has been to stage one big celebration or party for a collective group of people in a neighborhood or other area. With this method, officials say, there is less danger of accidents because most people are kept off the streets in roaming Halloween hunts. Also, the activities for the night are supervised.

For most trick - or - treaters, the primary objective on Halloween night is a substantial collection of goodies, or rewards of some kind. These treats should be wrapped in sanitary wrappers when possible and all necessary steps taken to insure they are clean.

TUMMY ACHE

One of the most common aftermaths of a typical Halloween haunting spree is a goblin with a holiday - size stomach ache. Treats from the goblin hunts should be treated carefully; otherwise, the masquerading marauder will probably be in for some "pleasant misery," caused from eating too much too soon.

All in all, Halloween is one of our country's favorite holidays. But, to get the most benefit from it, Halloween has to be approached with the right attitude.

"Halloween" itself means "hallowed or holy evening," because it comes the day before All Saint's Day, which was celebrated by churches as far back as 600.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, had an autumn festival each year called "Samhain," or summer's end. This festival was an occasion for feasting on all the kinds of food grown during the summer.

FROM DRUIDS

The modern custom of decorating for Halloween with pumpkins, leaves and cornstalks comes from the Druids, who also believed on Halloween that ghosts, spirits, fairies, witches, and elves came out to harm people.

They built large bonfires to scare such creatures away, thereby adding another "modern" practice that is loved during the Halloween season.

From the traditional bonfire later developed the idea of using fireworks in the Halloween celebration. This practice has grown successively weaker during the past few years, however, due to restrictive city codes, warnings by the various fire department agencies, and other rulings against the idea.

Yet, one of the major causes of injuries involving children each year is the handling of detonator caps — a practice which has increased steadily during the past four years, statistics have proved.

WARNINGS

Special warning bulletins on the subject of dangerous handling of detonator caps have been circulated throughout the country recently in an effort to curb this growing menace. Reports indicate that 139 youngsters were seriously injured by detonator caps last year. Users of such material have been urged to keep the caps securely locked and out of the reach of children.

Halloween, the one day of each year when modern America reverts back to ancient practices of superstitious lore and customs, is truly one of the most colorful holidays of all. With proper care and treatment, it will probably always remain so.

Non-Toxic Paint Masks Are Best

Latin Is Lively 'Corpse'

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

For a language that is dead and supposedly buried, Latin is indeed a lively corpse.

The last time anyone took a good look, Latin was still the second most popular foreign language taught in U.S. public high schools.

That was back in 1955, in a national survey by the U.S. Office of Education. It showed that 20.6 per cent of all public high school students were studying a foreign language: 7.3 per cent Spanish, 6.9 per cent Latin, 5.6 per cent French and eight-tenths of 1 per cent German.

Another such survey is now under way. No change in the standings is expected when the final results are in a few months hence, although Russian—a late starter—may move ahead of German.

These figures do not include the 2,458 Catholic high schools in the country, with their 810,000 students. In virtually all the Catholic schools at least two years of Latin is required. Some require four years of Latin for graduation.

Dr. John Francis Latimer, professor of classics at George Washington University, is one of the many who think the study of Latin in public schools is reviving by leaps and bounds.

"Every Latin teacher I've talked to," he says, "reports an increase in the number of Latin students. If we had the teachers available, I'm sure the number of high school students studying Latin would double in the next three to four years.

"The booming interest in Russian (from a handful of schools to more than 400 in two years) has carried all other foreign languages along with it, including Latin. And Latin is good preparation for any language, particularly Russian."

There seems to be little hope for that other great classical language—Greek.

From colonial times down to about 1850, Latin and Greek were the languages to study, with Latin by far the more popular. Between 1850 and 1890, both languages went into a decline. Greek never recovered, but Latin made a strong comeback.

"Except for World War I," Dr. Latimer says, "German would undoubtedly have replaced Latin as the most popular high school foreign language. World War II made it a war casualty for the second time."

Latin maintained its leadership until 1948-49, when Spanish became the most popular by a narrow margin.

What is the case for Latin and Greek?

Dr. Latimer puts it this way:

"The two greatest literatures in the world are those of Greece and Rome. A knowledge of Latin and Greek is not essential to a happy or successful life, but it is extremely valuable intellectually and inspirationally.

"There is no substitute for the original."

Father William Dunne of the National Catholic Education Assn. says the primary reason that Catholic high schools teach Latin is for its cultural value.

A knowledge of Latin he says, will prepare high school youngsters for a very rich literature. The same is true with Greek — and there are about 35 Catholic high schools which are still teaching Greek.

Father Dunne emphasized that knowledge of Latin is an excellent background for the study of English, as well as modern foreign languages, and that it has valuable practical application in medicine and the ministry.

The National Defense Education Act passed by Congress last year provides a number of programs to ease the shortage of foreign language teacher in this country. The programs, however, are limited to spoken languages, and Latin scholars have been left to solve their own problems.

Lengthy Wait For Missile Defense Seen

By BEM PRICE

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — The United States will be defenseless against ballistic missiles for another four years, probably longer.

This estimate is based on a series of interviews with scientists and military men here, at the Army Ordnance Missile Command in Huntsville, Ala., and at the Army Air Defense School, Ft. Bliss, Tex.

The informants declined to be identified by name.One of these schedules the Army's antimissile missile, the Nike-Zeus, could not possibly becalled operational before 1964 — if then.

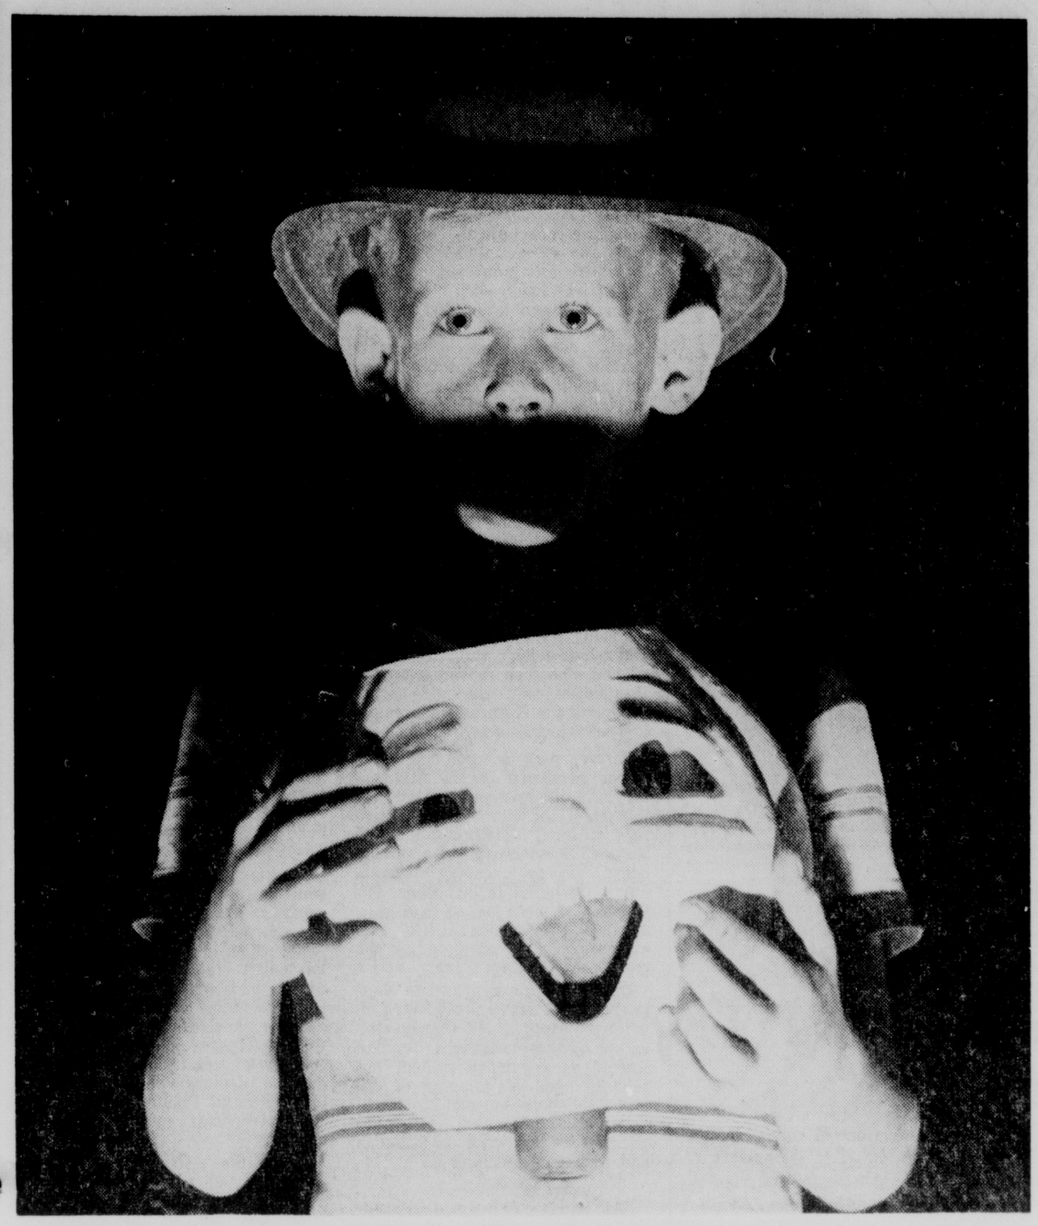

Since October 1956, the Army has allocated around 875 million dollars to Zeus development, but the program is still plagued by money problems.

APPROPRIATED

The last Congress appropriated 137 million dollars for the program but to date the Army has refused to accept the funds.

An Army source in Washington explained there is now a technical re-evaluation of the Zeus program under way which is due for completion April 1.

On the other hand, the youthful goblins are cautioned, too. There have been reports during past Halloweens of attempted pranks that turned out to be serious damage to persons or property. Such activities are of course not keeping in the true spirit of Halloween.

EXPECT UNUSUAL

Unwary citizens are urged to expect unusual activities on Halloween night and consequently show proper attitudes when faced by a small troop of haunts.

In the past several years, the trend on Halloween night has been to stage one big celebration or party for a collective group of people in a neighborhood or other area. With this method, officials say, there is less danger of accidents because most people are kept off the streets in roaming Halloween hunts. Also, the activities for the night are supervised.

For most trick - or - treaters, the primary objective on Halloween night is a substantial collection of goodies, or rewards of some kind. These treats should be wrapped in sanitary wrappers when possible and all necessary steps taken to insure they are clean.

TUMMY ACHE

One of the most common aftermaths of a typical Halloween haunting spree is a goblin with a holiday - size stomach ache. Treats from the goblin hunts should be treated carefully; otherwise, the masquerading marauder will probably be in for some "pleasant misery," caused from eating too much too soon.

All in all, Halloween is one of our country's favorite holidays. But, to get the most benefit from it, Halloween has to be approached with the right attitude.

"Halloween" itself means "hallowed or holy evening," because it comes the day before All Saint's Day, which was celebrated by churches as far back as 600.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, had an autumn festival each year called "Samhain," or summer's end. This festival was an occasion for feasting on all the kinds of food grown during the summer.

FROM DRUIDS

The modern custom of decorating for Halloween with pumpkins, leaves and cornstalks comes from the Druids, who also believed on Halloween that ghosts, spirits, fairies, witches, and elves came out to harm people.

They built large bonfires to scare such creatures away, thereby adding another "modern" practice that is loved during the Halloween season.

From the traditional bonfire later developed the idea of using fireworks in the Halloween celebration. This practice has grown successively weaker during the past few years, however, due to restrictive city codes, warnings by the various fire department agencies, and other rulings against the idea.

Yet, one of the major causes of injuries involving children each year is the handling of detonator caps — a practice which has increased steadily during the past four years, statistics have proved.

WARNINGS

Special warning bulletins on the subject of dangerous handling of detonator caps have been circulated throughout the country recently in an effort to curb this growing menace. Reports indicate that 139 youngsters were seriously injured by detonator caps last year. Users of such material have been urged to keep the caps securely locked and out of the reach of children.

Halloween, the one day of each year when modern America reverts back to ancient practices of superstitious lore and customs, is truly one of the most colorful holidays of all. With proper care and treatment, it will probably always remain so.

Non-Toxic Paint Masks Are Best

Latin Is Lively 'Corpse'

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

For a language that is dead and supposedly buried, Latin is indeed a lively corpse.

The last time anyone took a good look, Latin was still the second most popular foreign language taught in U.S. public high schools.

That was back in 1955, in a national survey by the U.S. Office of Education. It showed that 20.6 per cent of all public high school students were studying a foreign language: 7.3 per cent Spanish, 6.9 per cent Latin, 5.6 per cent French and eight-tenths of 1 per cent German.

Another such survey is now under way. No change in the standings is expected when the final results are in a few months hence, although Russian—a late starter—may move ahead of German.

These figures do not include the 2,458 Catholic high schools in the country, with their 810,000 students. In virtually all the Catholic schools at least two years of Latin is required. Some require four years of Latin for graduation.

Dr. John Francis Latimer, professor of classics at George Washington University, is one of the many who think the study of Latin in public schools is reviving by leaps and bounds.

"Every Latin teacher I've talked to," he says, "reports an increase in the number of Latin students. If we had the teachers available, I'm sure the number of high school students studying Latin would double in the next three to four years.

"The booming interest in Russian (from a handful of schools to more than 400 in two years) has carried all other foreign languages along with it, including Latin. And Latin is good preparation for any language, particularly Russian."

There seems to be little hope for that other great classical language—Greek.

From colonial times down to about 1850, Latin and Greek were the languages to study, with Latin by far the more popular. Between 1850 and 1890, both languages went into a decline. Greek never recovered, but Latin made a strong comeback.

"Except for World War I," Dr. Latimer says, "German would undoubtedly have replaced Latin as the most popular high school foreign language. World War II made it a war casualty for the second time."

Latin maintained its leadership until 1948-49, when Spanish became the most popular by a narrow margin.

What is the case for Latin and Greek?

Dr. Latimer puts it this way:

"The two greatest literatures in the world are those of Greece and Rome. A knowledge of Latin and Greek is not essential to a happy or successful life, but it is extremely valuable intellectually and inspirationally.

"There is no substitute for the original."

Father William Dunne of the National Catholic Education Assn. says the primary reason that Catholic high schools teach Latin is for its cultural value.

A knowledge of Latin he says, will prepare high school youngsters for a very rich literature. The same is true with Greek — and there are about 35 Catholic high schools which are still teaching Greek.

Father Dunne emphasized that knowledge of Latin is an excellent background for the study of English, as well as modern foreign languages, and that it has valuable practical application in medicine and the ministry.

The National Defense Education Act passed by Congress last year provides a number of programs to ease the shortage of foreign language teacher in this country. The programs, however, are limited to spoken languages, and Latin scholars have been left to solve their own problems.

Lengthy Wait For Missile Defense Seen

By BEM PRICE

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — The United States will be defenseless against ballistic missiles for another four years, probably longer.

The informants declined to be identified by name.One of these schedules the Army's antimissile missile, the Nike-Zeus, could not possibly becalled operational before 1964 — if then.

Since October 1956, the Army has allocated around 875 million dollars to Zeus development, but the program is still plagued by money problems.

APPROPRIATED

The last Congress appropriated 137 million dollars for the program but to date the Army has refused to accept the funds.

An Army source in Washington explained there is now a technical re-evaluation of the Zeus program under way which is due for completion April 1.

'Acceptable To South'?

Three of the dozen or so prominently-mentioned aspirants for the Democratic nomination for president have been labelled "acceptable to the south," although it seems to be rather uncertain just who first placed them in that category and why. Perhaps they were given that label because it was figured others could be worse.

These three, all senators, are Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Stuart Symington of Missouri. Aside from some of the radical-liberals in the party and the twice-defeated Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, this trio apparently is considered out in front in the race of aspirants.

Senator Symington, who is reported to be the private choice of former President Truman for the Democratic nomination, has been in the news in his usual way — through Mr. Truman's ghosting. Since the former president seems to have more fire than Mr. Symington, even though he may not have much of anything else, it's a wonder the Democrats don't say, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" or "Harry?" as it happens to be in this case.

Senator Kennedy made some speeches in south Louisiana in which he jumped on Jimmy Hoffa and praised the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, saying the Democratic party of today must live up to the image of the noted creator of the New Deal. The Roosevelt praise did not sit well with a lot of people but the criticism of Hoffa rated all right.

The trouble is, as far as Senator Kennedy is concerned, Hoffa is about the only scapegoat in the gangster-ridden section of the labor movement, although Hoffa wouldn't be able to do much without the support of a lot of others of the same ilk.

Incidentally a recent cartoon by a Chicago Tribune artist showed Senator Kennedy astride the Democratic mule but with his neck in a noose lettered "U.A.W. Tie-Up" and about to be hanged on the '60 "elimination tree."

The Hoffa talk was all right if one remembered it followed the usual course of Senator Kennedy of speaking one way today and another way tomorrow, according to where he happens to be. Since Hoffa is public enemy No. 1, anybody can pick on him and win applause, and applause was what the senator was looking for.

Senator Kennedy said the labor legislation of the recent session of congress was "written with Hoffa in mind." Why not legislation with the public in mind, including the millions of labor union members.

In his senate votes, Senator Kennedy sought a much softer measure than that enacted and for which, in the south, he seeks to take credit. He went well down the line against much of the legislation covering other things, especially the McClellan bill of rights to protect the rank and file of labor, and provisions protecting the public, as well as employers, from the effects of various union practices.

Senator Kennedy has attempted to graze on both sides of the fence but his votes have been mostly on the side of labor bosses, particularly Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers.

By way of getting his candidacy into the news, Senator Johnson threw a big party for the president of Mexico, attended by former President Truman and numerous other government officials and Democratic party bigwigs. This followed a dinner given by Texas Democrats for Mr. Truman, with a sizable number of conservative Democrats reportedly absent.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas announced that he is opening a formal camapign for Senator Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination. Senator Johnson, as usual, implied that he could be "drafted" into accepting the nomination. He's not seeking it any more than a dog stretching out his neck for a fleeing rabbit.

Senator Johnson now has become a full-fledged "westerner," presumably in the hope that this may offset the "handicap" — in the political eyes of the party leaders — of being a southerner. He meets with the western, rather than the southern, caucuses in the senate. He follows the western ultra-"liberalism," and blows hard for the New Deal-Fair Deal type of spending but becomes "conservative" on oil depletion tax allowances and tidelands. He compromises on racial questions.

Are the members of the Johnson-Kennedy-Symington trio acceptable and, if so, how?

Chessman Decision

California's Governor Edmund G. Brown, a foe of capital punishment, faced a tough decision when he was called upon to step in and save Convict-Author Caryl Chessman from execution. He refused to intervene, allowing the edicts of the courts to be carried out.

Shortly after Governor Brown's decision, the United States Supreme court granted Chessman another stay of execution. This, however, was only a temporary delay and is not expected to change the final outcome. Chessman's real hope rested with Governor Brown.

One thing that tended to make the governor's decision somewhat easier was the fact that Chessman declined to base his petition on a plea for mercy and to put his life in the governor's hands on that basis. Instead, he chose to contend, as he has done all along, that he was innocent of the crimes of which he was convicted and to ask that the judgment be set aside for that reason. Governor Brown could find no justification under that plea and refused to act.

Chessman was convicted in 1948 on 17 counts of kidnaping, robbery and attempted rape. It was the seizure of two girls at gunpoint and acts of sexual depravity forced upon them that brought the death penalty. Chessman has maintained his innocence throughout his 11½ years in death row, but there was never any doubt in the minds of the jury and court officials that he was guilty not only of the crimes of which he was convicted but of many others.

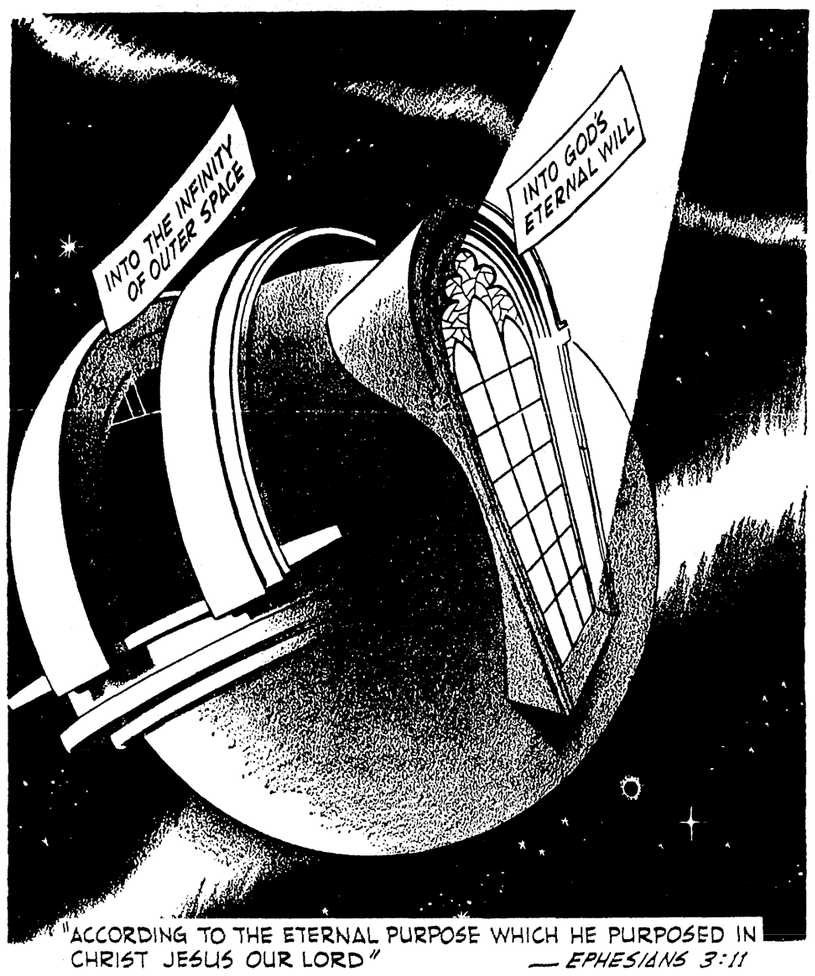

In the books he wrote in prison, Chessman narrated many of his lawless acts and even told of an escape from prison, after he had become a trusty, and of a planned bold attempt to assassinate German Dictator Adolf Hitler. He was recaptured so soon afterward that he never had a chance to attempt the assassination.

Chessman, whose parents were Christians, built up a case of sympathy for himself by telling how his mother was paralyzed from the waist down from any injury she received in an accident and how his father — while burdened with the responsibilities of a disabled wife — fought a bitter fight against poverty and lost.

Chessman pictured his own entry into crime by the time he was 15 years old and petty thefts before that time. He admitted various kinds of sex attacks, robberies, assaults and gunplay.

Throughout the whole time, the convict appeared to assume that his course was justified by his unfortunate early youth. He blamed circumstances and not himself. Undoubtedly brilliant, he possessed a mind so warped that he always had more sympathy for himself than for any of his victims.

Quiz Cheating Expose

Vivien Kellems, Tax Expert And Manufacturer, Not Allowed To Prove Her Answer Correct

Once upon a time, my friend, Vivien Kellems, the tax expert and manufacturer, appeared on the "$64,000 Question." She was asked a question about taxes. She was told that she was wrong. She tried to argue. She was told that the experts (no names) said that she was wrong.

* * *

I telephoned to the producer of the show and asked him if I could have a transcript of this discussion as I would like to write about it. Usually, such a request is responded to immediately as most shows want publicity in newspapers. In fact, I am often snowed under by transcripts in the hope that the show might be mentioned in this column.

I was promised the transcript of the Vivien Kellems show immediately. I never received it Subsequently I watched this and other quiz shows and often checked questions and answers and was shocked by the arbitrariness of the accepted answers. Sometimes a question can be answered correctly in three or four different ways. But the quizzers had no doubts at all. They were like the electrical machines which mark examination papers, so that students are forced to memorize but are forbidden to think.

Although I questioned the justness of the techniques employed, I could not imagine that the quizzes would risk cheating, for cheating must show up sooner or later. And it has.

* * *

The essential issue that Representative Oren Harris' committee has raised is one of cheating. The defense is that T.V. is theater; it produces shows; its material is called a show. Therefore, the quiz shows were theater and therefore existed only for amusement. The characters were chosen because their personalities contrasted sharply with the subjects they chose and where there were two, they looked like Mutt and Jeff or Li'l Abner or some other freaks. It was all done to amuse.

This is after—thought, hindsight and falsehood. The quizzes were presented usually as authentic, unrehearsed displays of extraordinary knowledge. No matter how the show was mounted, whether elaborately as the "$64,000 Question" or simply as "21," the interest was in the startling knowledge and memory of the person who offered himself for test. None of the characters came to these shows as professional actors and if some showed themselve to be marvels of suffering and torture, we assumed tat they were sincere. For instance, Charles Van Doren seemed to suffer, but is he Hamlet?

The hero of this business was Charles Van Doren, member of a distinguished family of scholars and writers. In a way, Charles Van Doren was less of a surprise than some of the other contestants. He is a teacher at Columbia University, as have been so many members of his family. It was to have been expected that Charles Van Doren would know the insides of books and that he would have a broad knowledge of the humanities. But he knew so much more that young people decided that he was not only long-hair but also short-hair, that he was not only a square but a regular guy.

He became a national hero and he made the program on which he appeared. Psychologically, the public response to him was like the response to Charles Lindbergh when he flew to Europe solo.

Had Van Doren been well advised he would have gone to Washington to appear voluntarily before the congressional committee, to tell all. He would have remained a hero, no matter what he said. His failure to do that requires a better explanation than has thus far been given. As is usual with lawyers, who rarely understand public relations, the statements that have been issued have so confounded the public that it wonders what the truth really is. His own press inerview was a dud. So, Charles Van Doren is no longer a hero. He has permitted a period of doubt to intervene during which the public amazement at his conduct increases.

* * *

The report that he was shown the questions in advance requires confirmation or detail in detail immediately. The press is now as good a place to make the denial as anywhere. Every day that passes without a denial hurts Van Doren's reputation. He may not be able to regain it if he waits too long.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

U.S.-Soviet Tug

Rivalry Expected To Be Big Factor In 1960 Presidential Race

A year ahead, the 1960 presidential contest seems certain, at least in considerable part, to be waged against a backdrop which will feature the U. S.-Soviet rivalry, which Khrushchev emphasized at every opportunity on his visit to this country.

Regardless of how this country is getting along economically next year, even if inflation has hit a new high, Washington has already realized that most of the issues discussed in Congress as likely to influence greatly the outcome of the fall campaign next year, won't have anywhere near the anticipated effect. One possible exception would be a bolt of several southern states at the Democratic convention in protest against the party stand on civil rights, but judging from developments to date, that is not expected to happen.

* * *

Trying to figure the run for the White House a year in advance is a favorite fall pastime hereabouts, and not even the amazing disclosures about fakery on quiz shows can divert attention from it now. And the estimate being made at present gives Vice President Richard M. Nixon a clear and sizeable advantage.

The reasoning goes like this:

1. Nixon needed something to focus national attention upon him of a favorable character, which evidently turned up in his visit to Moscow and his slap - bang argument with Khrushchev within a few hours after his arrival.

That triggered the Eisenhower invitation to Khrushchev to visit the United States, which had been planned considerably in advance of Nixon's flight to Moscow. Many Americans opposed the Khrushchev visit and some of those still think it served no useful purpose, but that has not hurt Nixon's political stock; in fact, all evidence indicates that it has been greatly enhanced.

As Nixon's prestige has gone up, that of his potential rival, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has gone down, until even those New England states where he hoped to have delegate support are showing strong Nixon interest.

* * *

Observers here believe this will still be the case when the Republican convention meets in Chicago late in July. Nixon up to this point has been politically more astute than the governor, and there seems no question that he has more shrewd advice.

Also talk of a Nixon - Rockefeller ticket is sharply discounted here, because a presidential nominee picks his own running mate. If it becomes apparent that the main question in the minds of American voters at the time of the convention is "will we stand up to Russia?" the vice presidential nominee may be Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the U. N., who has shown on many occasions that he can tell off any Russian in debate in that body. It is known here that Nixon, if nominated, would think well of Lodge as a running mate.

And where do the Democrats figure in this year-in-advance picture? First, their differences as to a candidate are beginning to hurt in the estimation of seasoned viewers. This would not be especially important if the Republican situation were not shaping up so favorably in Nixon's direction, with polls in all sections showing his popularity rising.

No one of the Democratic possibilities has done anything so far to focus national attention upon himself as an individual well qualified to make his stand in front of that U. S.-Soviet backdrop. Closest to it seems to be Adlai Stevenson, and the two-time nominee of the Democratic party is taking a position which so far guarantees one thing — because he says he won't run — that he will not be de'eated again. If there should be a setback for the administration's Russian policy following President Eisenhower's spring visit to Moscow, the blow would react against Nixon, and Stevenson would be in a position to take advantage of it, by changing his mind and accepting the nomination.

Dr. Hugh Adishaw

"For each age is a dream that is dying,
Or one that is coming to birth."
— O'Shaughnessy

* * *

WASHINGTON, D. C. — He quotes from da Vinci, Byron, Browning, Poe and Shakespeare. He talks of seismic measurements, oceanic counter-currents, sounding rockets in the ionosphere and the Van Allen Radiation Zone. He has published books on industrial electronics, the antarctic and geophysics. In the parlance of our town he wears three "hats" as executive directors of various scientific committees related to the International Geophysical Year, the space sciences and the National Academy of Sciences.

He is Dr. Hugh Odishaw, one of the quiet movers and subtle shakers of our times, although not running for President and probably not recognizable as a celebrity beyond a select circle of his peers. Dr. Odishaw, slight of figure and almost mute in his own behalf, caught my attention by being a man who majored in English at college and later taught it, and who then moved from the Humanities to make a separate career in the Natural Sciences.

* * *

Surely, such a man typifies a major necessity in our Mid-century. An integration most needed is that of the Humanities (literature, history, philosophy) and the Natural Sciences (physics, chemistry, biology, zoology, astronomy). Cornered in his office, Dr. Odishaw at once began to disparage the importance of his own experience as a paragon for the rest of us. But let's see:

During his undergraduate days in the 1930's at Northwestern University he fell ill and was invalided out of the classrooms. He had started as a science student but now he used his months of enforced idleness to read great literary works. Upon his return to college, he majored in English and soon was teaching it.

* * *

"An accident," insisted Dr. Odishaw to his merciless interviewer. "I went to a dinner party while waiting out a Navy commission, and fell to talking with the Dean of the Illinois Institute of Technology. He told me he was desperate for teachers, so I went to Illinois Tech and taught English while studying electrical engineering."

Still, by accident or destiny, Dr. Odishaw became aware of the fundamental oneness of Knowledge. The awareness fitted him with lucky precision for one of his jobs which is to impress science-consciousness upon American high schools and colleges. A man merely charmed by great prose and verse could not do it. A man intrigued only with the mysteries of science could not do it, either. But Dr. Odishaw's understanding of integrated education seems to me to be the best kind, and the kind we need.

While there is no essential breach, says Dr. Odishaw, between the Humanities and the Natural Sciences, there is an imagined one which is not insignificant. In the optimum, a Mid-century man should study the phenomena and people about him in all the phases of Knowledge. But in practice, a scientist who wishes to make an original contribution must specialize. So vast and complex is scientific work that a specialist often cuts himself off from the rest of the world. On the other side of the street, the humanist studies history and human behavior, shunning physics and astronomy which he regards as impossibly difficult for him.

* * *

A big problem in human communication or education, then, is for the scientists to do what such forerunners as Huxley, Eddington, Jeans and Millikan did a generation ago — write human meanings into the sciences. And for the humanists, there is a similar obligation and similar examples. John Donne in his poetry used imagery from the then-nascent science of optics. John Milton wove the scientific knowledge of his day into his transcendent writings. The duty to communicate across the fancied barrier lies upon us all.

* * *

Dr. Odishaw likens our Mid-century to some other periods of great awakening. There was an age when Religion was the prime force which lifted cathedrals from the earth and inspired deathless music and writings. Philosophy, with Berkeley, Hume, Spinoza, Decartes and Kant may have been the chief mover of men's minds in the Age of Reason. Certainly geographic discovery in the years that followed Columbus was the greatest social force of those times.

Today the prime force is science. Life will never be the same now that we have fissioned the atom and pierced the heavens. But do we have an awareness of this force? Are we striving to understand it? Are we answering the challenge to our lives and imaginations

* * *

"In the past," says Dr. Odishaw, "the nations which responded to the challenges of the great forces — Religion, Philosophy, geo-discovery — were the ones who went ahead to be not just the politico-military leaders. They also went ahead to establish the geat Societies which dominated the centuries of their being."

Well, a man of Dr. Odishaw's comprehension is one of our movers and shakers, whether we know it or not.

TRAFFIC HANDICAP

To the Editor:

I wish to write about a serious traffic situation that occurs on Louisville avenue almost every afternoon about 5 p.m.

I refer to the practice of certain drivers of following closely behind a line of cars and getting blocked in the intersection. When one does that and the light changes cross traffic is blocked.

I assume that many people are ignorant of the fact that this is a violation of our local laws.

Our city ordinance clearly states in effect that a motorist must not enter the intersection unless there is room on the opposite side to go on through.

We do not have enough police officers to cover every intersection and issue tickets for such infractions of the law.

If those of our citizens who drive during the rush hours would be a bit more careful in this matter traffic would be speeded up and there would be less jangled nerves and ill tempers by those of us who must sit and wait while someone sits across the intersection with the cross light on green.

Sun's Polar Field Reverses

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The sun's polar magnetic field—apparently influenced by forces still unknown to man—has reversed itself, a solar scientist reports.

What does this mean?

He believes the sun reverses its field periodically, coinciding with what he terms a 22-year magnetic cycle. However, this can't be confirmed because instruments capable of detecting the shift have been in use only seven years. He said it was not known previously that the sun could reverse its polarity.

Dr. Babcock has geen observing the sun's magnetic field since 1952 at the Half Solar Laboratory at Palomar Observatory, site of a 200-inch optical telescope, the world's largest.

He went well down the line against much of the legislation covering other things, especially the McClellan bill of rights to protect the rank and file of labor, and provisions protecting the public, as well as employers, from the effects of various union practices.

Senator Kennedy has attempted to graze on both sides of the fence but his votes have been mostly on the side of labor bosses, particularly Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers.

By way of getting his candidacy into the news, Senator Johnson threw a big party for the president of Mexico, attended by former President Truman and numerous other government officials and Democratic party bigwigs. This followed a dinner given by Texas Democrats for Mr. Truman, with a sizable number of conservative Democrats reportedly absent.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas announced that he is opening a formal camapign for Senator Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination. Senator Johnson, as usual, implied that he could be "drafted" into accepting the nomination. He's not seeking it any more than a dog stretching out his neck for a fleeing rabbit.

Senator Johnson now has become a full-fledged "westerner," presumably in the hope that this may offset the "handicap" — in the political eyes of the party leaders — of being a southerner. He meets with the western, rather than the southern, caucuses in the senate. He follows the western ultra-"liberalism," and blows hard for the New Deal-Fair Deal type of spending but becomes "conservative" on oil depletion tax allowances and tidelands. He compromises on racial questions.

Are the members of the Johnson-Kennedy-Symington trio acceptable and, if so, how?

Chessman Decision

California's Governor Edmund G. Brown, a foe of capital punishment, faced a tough decision when he was called upon to step in and save Convict-Author Caryl Chessman from execution. He refused to intervene, allowing the edicts of the courts to be carried out.

Shortly after Governor Brown's decision, the United States Supreme court granted Chessman another stay of execution. This, however, was only a temporary delay and is not expected to change the final outcome. Chessman's real hope rested with Governor Brown.

One thing that tended to make the governor's decision somewhat easier was the fact that Chessman declined to base his petition on a plea for mercy and to put his life in the governor's hands on that basis. Instead, he chose to contend, as he has done all along, that he was innocent of the crimes of which he was convicted and to ask that the judgment be set aside for that reason. Governor Brown could find no justification under that plea and refused to act.

Chessman was convicted in 1948 on 17 counts of kidnaping, robbery and attempted rape. It was the seizure of two girls at gunpoint and acts of sexual depravity forced upon them that brought the death penalty. Chessman has maintained his innocence throughout his 11½ years in death row, but there was never any doubt in the minds of the jury and court officials that he was guilty not only of the crimes of which he was convicted but of many others.

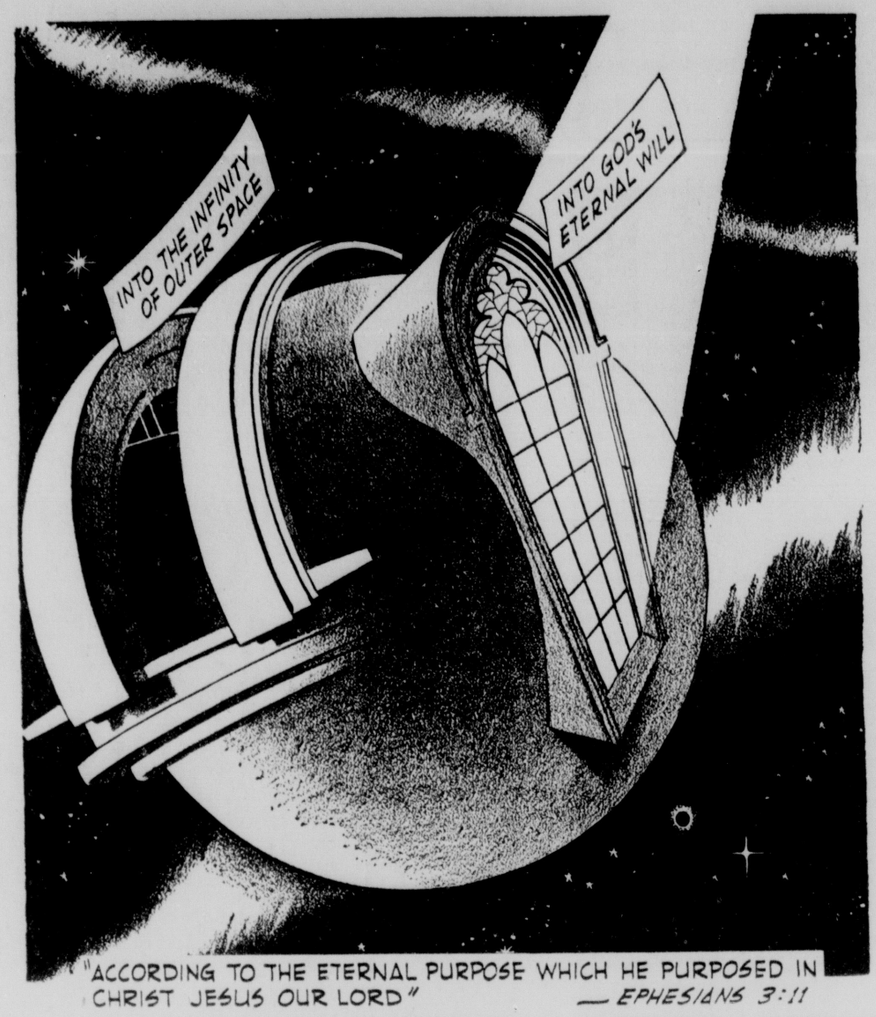

In the books he wrote in prison, Chessman narrated many of his lawless acts and even told of an escape from prison, after he had become a trusty, and of a planned bold attempt to assassinate German Dictator Adolf Hitler. He was recaptured so soon afterward that he never had a chance to attempt the assassination.

Chessman, whose parents were Christians, built up a case of sympathy for himself by telling how his mother was paralyzed from the waist down from any injury she received in an accident and how his father — while burdened with the responsibilities of a disabled wife — fought a bitter fight against poverty and lost.

Chessman pictured his own entry into crime by the time he was 15 years old and petty thefts before that time. He admitted various kinds of sex attacks, robberies, assaults and gunplay.

Throughout the whole time, the convict appeared to assume that his course was justified by his unfortunate early youth. He blamed circumstances and not himself. Undoubtedly brilliant, he possessed a mind so warped that he always had more sympathy for himself than for any of his victims.

Quiz Cheating Expose

Once upon a time, my friend, Vivien Kellems, the tax expert and manufacturer, appeared on the "$64,000 Question." She was asked a question about taxes. She was told that she was wrong. She tried to argue. She was told that the experts (no names) said that she was wrong.

* * *

I telephoned to the producer of the show and asked him if I could have a transcript of this discussion as I would like to write about it. Usually, such a request is responded to immediately as most shows want publicity in newspapers. In fact, I am often snowed under by transcripts in the hope that the show might be mentioned in this column.

I was promised the transcript of the Vivien Kellems show immediately. I never received it Subsequently I watched this and other quiz shows and often checked questions and answers and was shocked by the arbitrariness of the accepted answers. Sometimes a question can be answered correctly in three or four different ways. But the quizzers had no doubts at all. They were like the electrical machines which mark examination papers, so that students are forced to memorize but are forbidden to think.

Although I questioned the justness of the techniques employed, I could not imagine that the quizzes would risk cheating, for cheating must show up sooner or later. And it has.

* * *

The essential issue that Representative Oren Harris' committee has raised is one of cheating. The defense is that T.V. is theater; it produces shows; its material is called a show. Therefore, the quiz shows were theater and therefore existed only for amusement. The characters were chosen because their personalities contrasted sharply with the subjects they chose and where there were two, they looked like Mutt and Jeff or Li'l Abner or some other freaks. It was all done to amuse.

This is after—thought, hindsight and falsehood. The quizzes were presented usually as authentic, unrehearsed displays of extraordinary knowledge. No matter how the show was mounted, whether elaborately as the "$64,000 Question" or simply as "21," the interest was in the startling knowledge and memory of the person who offered himself for test. None of the characters came to these shows as professional actors and if some showed themselve to be marvels of suffering and torture, we assumed tat they were sincere. For instance, Charles Van Doren seemed to suffer, but is he Hamlet?

The hero of this business was Charles Van Doren, member of a distinguished family of scholars and writers. In a way, Charles Van Doren was less of a surprise than some of the other contestants. He is a teacher at Columbia University, as have been so many members of his family. It was to have been expected that Charles Van Doren would know the insides of books and that he would have a broad knowledge of the humanities. But he knew so much more that young people decided that he was not only long-hair but also short-hair, that he was not only a square but a regular guy.

He became a national hero and he made the program on which he appeared. Psychologically, the public response to him was like the response to Charles Lindbergh when he flew to Europe solo.

Had Van Doren been well advised he would have gone to Washington to appear voluntarily before the congressional committee, to tell all. He would have remained a hero, no matter what he said. His failure to do that requires a better explanation than has thus far been given. As is usual with lawyers, who rarely understand public relations, the statements that have been issued have so confounded the public that it wonders what the truth really is. His own press inerview was a dud. So, Charles Van Doren is no longer a hero. He has permitted a period of doubt to intervene during which the public amazement at his conduct increases.

* * *

The report that he was shown the questions in advance requires confirmation or detail in detail immediately. The press is now as good a place to make the denial as anywhere. Every day that passes without a denial hurts Van Doren's reputation. He may not be able to regain it if he waits too long.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

U.S.-Soviet Tug

A year ahead, the 1960 presidential contest seems certain, at least in considerable part, to be waged against a backdrop which will feature the U. S.-Soviet rivalry, which Khrushchev emphasized at every opportunity on his visit to this country.

Regardless of how this country is getting along economically next year, even if inflation has hit a new high, Washington has already realized that most of the issues discussed in Congress as likely to influence greatly the outcome of the fall campaign next year, won't have anywhere near the anticipated effect. One possible exception would be a bolt of several southern states at the Democratic convention in protest against the party stand on civil rights, but judging from developments to date, that is not expected to happen.

* * *

Trying to figure the run for the White House a year in advance is a favorite fall pastime hereabouts, and not even the amazing disclosures about fakery on quiz shows can divert attention from it now. And the estimate being made at present gives Vice President Richard M. Nixon a clear and sizeable advantage.

The reasoning goes like this:

1. Nixon needed something to focus national attention upon him of a favorable character, which evidently turned up in his visit to Moscow and his slap - bang argument with Khrushchev within a few hours after his arrival.

That triggered the Eisenhower invitation to Khrushchev to visit the United States, which had been planned considerably in advance of Nixon's flight to Moscow. Many Americans opposed the Khrushchev visit and some of those still think it served no useful purpose, but that has not hurt Nixon's political stock: in fact, all evidence indicates that it has been greatly enhanced.

As Nixon's prestige has gone up, that of his potential rival, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has gone down, until even those New England states where he hoped to have delegate support are showing strong Nixon interest.

* * *

Observers here believe this will still be the case when the Republican convention meets in Chicago late in July. Nixon up to this point has been politically more astute than the governor, and there seems no question that he has more shrewd advice.

Also talk of a Nixon - Rockefeller ticket is sharply discounted here, because a presidential nominee picks his own running mate. If it becomes apparent that the main question in the minds of American voters at the time of the convention is "will we stand up to Russia?" the vice presidential nominee may be Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the U. N., who has shown on many occasions that he can tell off any Russian in debate in that body. It is known here that Nixon, if nominated, would think well of Lodge as a running mate.

And where do the Democrats figure in this year-in-advance picture? First, their differences as to a candidate are beginning to hurt in the estimation of seasoned viewers. This would not be especially important if the Republican situation were not shaping up so favorably in Nixon's direction, with polls in all sections showing his popularity rising.

No one of the Democratic possibilities has done anything so far to focus national attention upon himself as an individual well qualified to make his stand in front of that U. S.-Soviet backdrop. Closest to it seems to be Adlai Stevenson, and the two-time nominee of the Democratic party is taking a position which so far guarantees one thing — because he says he won't run — that he will not be de'eated again. If there should be a setback for the administration's Russian policy following President Eisenhower's spring visit to Moscow, the blow would react against Nixon, and Stevenson would be in a position to take advantage of it, by changing his mind and accepting the nomination.

Dr. Hugh Adishaw

"For each age is a dream that is dying,
Or one that is coming to birth."

* * *

WASHINGTON, D. C. — He quotes from da Vinci, Byron, Browning, Poe and Shakespeare. He talks of seismic measurements, oceanic counter-currents, sounding rockets in the ionosphere and the Van Allen Radiation Zone. He has published books on industrial electronics, the antarctic and geophysics. In the parlance of our town he wears three "hats" as executive directors of various scientific committees related to the International Geophysical Year, the space sciences and the National Academy of Sciences.

He is Dr. Hugh Odishaw, one of the quiet movers and subtle shakers of our times, although not running for President and probably not recognizable as a celebrity beyond a select circle of his peers. Dr. Odishaw, slight of figure and almost mute in his own behalf, caught my attention by being a man who majored in English at college and later taught it, and who then moved from the Humanities to make a separate career in the Natural Sciences.

* * *

Surely, such a man typifies a major necessity in our Mid-century. An integration most needed is that of the Humanities (literature, history, philosophy) and the Natural Sciences (physics, chemistry, biology, zoology, astronomy). Cornered in his office, Dr. Odishaw at once began to disparage the importance of his own experience as a paragon for the rest of us. But let's see:

During his undergraduate days in the 1930's at Northwestern University he fell ill and was invalided out of the classrooms. He had started as a science student but now he used his months of enforced idleness to read great literary works. Upon his return to college, he majored in English and soon was teaching it.

* * *

"An accident," insisted Dr. Odishaw to his merciless interviewer. "I went to a dinner party while waiting out a Navy commission, and fell to talking with the Dean of the Illinois Institute of Technology. He told me he was desperate for teachers, so I went to Illinois Tech and taught English while studying electrical engineering."

Still, by accident or destiny, Dr. Odishaw became aware of the fundamental oneness of Knowledge. The awareness fitted him with lucky precision for one of his jobs which is to impress science-consciousness upon American high schools and colleges. A man merely charmed by great prose and verse could not do it. A man intrigued only with the mysteries of science could not do it, either. But Dr. Odishaw's understanding of integrated education seems to me to be the best kind, and the kind we need.

While there is no essential breach, says Dr. Odishaw, between the Humanities and the Natural Sciences, there is an imagined one which is not insignificant. In the optimum, a Mid-century man should study the phenomena and people about him in all the phases of Knowledge. But in practice, a scientist who wishes to make an original contribution must specialize. So vast and complex is scientific work that a specialist often cuts himself off from the rest of the world. On the other side of the street, the humanist studies history and human behavior, shunning physics and astronomy which he regards as impossibly difficult for him.

* * *

A big problem in human communication or education, then, is for the scientists to do what such forerunners as Huxley, Eddington, Jeans and Millikan did a generation ago — write human meanings into the sciences. And for the humanists, there is a similar obligation and similar examples. John Donne in his poetry used imagery from the then-nascent science of optics. John Milton wove the scientific knowledge of his day into his transcendent writings. The duty to communicate across the fancied barrier lies upon us all.

* * *

Dr. Odishaw likens our Mid-century to some other periods of great awakening. There was an age when Religion was the prime force which lifted cathedrals from the earth and inspired deathless music and writings. Philosophy, with Berkeley, Hume, Spinoza, Decartes and Kant may have been the chief mover of men's minds in the Age of Reason. Certainly geographic discovery in the years that followed Columbus was the greatest social force of those times.

Today the prime force is science. Life will never be the same now that we have fissioned the atom and pierced the heavens. But do we have an awareness of this force? Are we striving to understand it? Are we answering the challenge to our lives and imaginations

* * *

"In the past," says Dr. Odishaw, "the nations which responded to the challenges of the great forces — Religion, Philosophy, geo-discovery — were the ones who went ahead to be not just the politico-military leaders. They also went ahead to establish the geat Societies which dominated the centuries of their being."

Well, a man of Dr. Odishaw's comprehension is one of our movers and shakers, whether we know it or not.

THANKS EXPRESSED

To the Editor:

We would like to acknowledge your help and express our appreciation for you donating stories to our recent light bulb sale.

At many of the doors we called on, the people stated they had read about it in the papers.

Without your help, our sale would not have been as successful as it was. Again, thank you.

TRAFFIC HANDICAP

To the Editor:

I wish to write about a serious traffic situation that occurs on Louisville avenue almost every afternoon about 5 p.m.

I refer to the practice of certain drivers of following closely behind a line of cars and getting blocked in the intersection. When one does that and the light changes cross traffic is blocked.

I assume that many people are ignorant of the fact that this is a violation of our local laws.

Our city ordinance clearly states in effect that a motorist must not enter the intersection unless there is room on the opposite side to go on through.

We do not have enough police officers to cover every intersection and issue tickets for such infractions of the law.

If those of our citizens who drive during the rush hours would be a bit more careful in this matter traffic would be speeded up and there would be less jangled nerves and ill tempers by those of us who must sit and wait while someone sits across the intersection with the cross light on green.

Sun's Polar Field Reverses

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The sun's polar magnetic field—apparently influenced by forces still unknown to man—has reversed itself, a solar scientist reports.

What does this mean?

He believes the sun reverses its field periodically, coinciding with what he terms a 22-year magnetic cycle. However, this can't be confirmed because instruments capable of detecting the shift have been in use only seven years. He said it was not known previously that the sun could reverse its polarity.

Dr. Babcock has geen observing the sun's magnetic field since 1952 at the Half Solar Laboratory at Palomar Observatory, site of a 200-inch optical telescope, the world's largest.

Genetic Boost

For Better Race

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Picture a world of tomorrow in which most of the inhabitants are as brilliant as Albert Einstein and as wise and compassionate as Abraham Lincoln.

Then peer far beyond to a distant era in which humanity has forged as far ahead of present-day man in intelligence and understanding as we now lead the apes.

Is this the biological wave of the future, the evolutionary Utopia toward which we are heading?

Not unless we give evolution a genetic assist that is in our power, says Dr. H. J. Muller, Nobel Prize-winning geneticist at Indiana University.

Muller believes that man is runnning the world today only because of fabulous luck. He is alive and present, in Muller's view, only because his string of ancestors, running back to the beginning of life on this planet, was able to win out in competition with other organisms.

Muller thinks man can improve his chances of long-range survival and make the world a better home if he takes positive steps genetically to upgrade each human generation.

The scientist has prepared a 16,000-word study listing several ways the trial and error progress of normal evolution could be speeded up. His suggestions will be presented to an international celebration at the University of Chicago in November marking the 100th anniversary of Darwin's theory of evolution.

The fastest and most direct method of genetically improving future generations, Muller believes, is through artificial insemination.

A less selective way of improving future generations, he says, would be for couples with superior intelligence to raise more children than they could possibly bring up and then give them out for adoption.

"Those consenting to do this would truly be socially minded," he says.

For genetic artificial insemination, the donor of male germ cells would be selected on the basis of outstanding mental ability and other superior qualities that could be passed on to his children through his genes. Genes are the hereditary cell units transmitted from generation to generation. They influence intelligence, personality, growth, color of eyes and hair and many other factors that make up the individual.

The germ cells, accumulated over a long period, would be preserved by deep freeze until at least 20 years after the man's death. During this probationary period, his merits and shortcomings could be evaluated unemotionally. However, a limited amount of progeny testing could be carried out during this period to provide a sounder estimate of the donor's genetic value to his offspring.

If it were shown his superior endowment could be passed on, the germ supply on hand could be apportioned among numerous recipients.

Muller says the means already is known to produce the multiple release of mature eggs in women. With a little more research, he says, a technique could be devised for flushing them from the reproductive tract and implanting them in any selected female host.

If powerful selective results were deisred, he says, the eggs from a woman of excellent genetic endowment could be fertilized with germ material from a superior male.

Muller says public attitudes on reproduction have become greatly liberalized since Victorian days. But he contends almost no concern has been shown for the type of native endowment that would be valuable to the children themselves. A further break with tradition would be necessary before any such program could meet acceptance, he says.

Muller says there are no indications man is approaching any limit of capacity for greater intelligence. But he adds it is too early now to draw any blueprints envisioning what superior-minded people of a future generation might accomplish.

"The immediate job, then, for those of us who see this situation now is to start at getting his genetic operation bootstrap incorporated into our mores, by precept and, where feasible, by example," he says.

De Gaulle Of France

A Supersalesman

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS (AP) — For Charles de Gaulle, the presidency of France includes the role of supersalesman, promoting national unity and De Gaulle in one package.

He is not only the first president of the Republic to have executive powers (the rest were largely figureheads) but he is first of his line in a score of other ways.

No other French president has commanded such nationwide and international prestige. No other has traveled so much to show himself to so many. No other was his country's wartime hero in its darkest hours.

While De Gaulle is the 18th president since France gave up its kings, he considers himself the first —as he is in the new Fifth Republic he created.

Officials in Calais quickly found this out when the president of the local Chamber of Commerce handed De Gaulle a small gold plaque marking his visit there.

"A little memento of your predecessor, President Carnot," he said, recalling the last occasion on which a president of the Republic had visited the channel port.

"Ah, that poor Carnot," sighed De Gaulle as he accepted the gift. Then he added briskly: "But, as for me, I have no predecessor."

The Calais allusion was perhaps not a happy one.

President Sadi Carnot, elected in 1887, was assassinated by an anarchist in Lyon before ending his seven years of office.

Since becoming president in January, De Gaulle has traveled more than most other presidents during their whole terms.

He has turned up in small towns and villages which never saw a president before. He has ranged far and wide in the newly autonomous countries of the French overseas community.

Throwing the old-time stiff protocol to the winds without losing any of his in-born dignity, the 68-year-old President has let himself be jostled in milling crowds and shaken thousands of ordinary French men and women by the hand. Where once only notables could meet the chief of state, now any man in the street may get a chance to greet him.

But the pace he has set himself is a grinding one.

Since the start of the year the general has made seven official tours—four of them in France, one in Italy, one in Algeria, and one in Madagascar. Next month he will go to Alsace, in December to Senegal (West Africa), and in the spring to Britain and the United States. And, of course, if there's a summit conference, De Gaulle will be there.

Some of the men around De Gaulle are worried about his health under such relentless pressure. He has never had a serious illness and he recovers vitality quickly after only a few hours' sleep. But there are times when he looks dog-tired.

Another problem is the general's eyesight. He sees little without the thick-lensed glasses which he seldom wears in public. A military aide, always at his elbow, whispers a warning of steps where he might stumble. On a recent tour of northern France he escaped being severely cut when he crashed his head through a closed window which he thought was open.

Not only the number of trips but their pace has been stepped up. Under the old, relaxed system a president would arrive in the town he was visiting overnight. Thoroughly rested, he then started his engagements. Several times during each day he had breaks when he could change the boiled shirt and stiff collar which was then the presidential uniform.

De Gaulle adopts a streamlined procedure. Hatless and wearing an ordinary business suit, he drops in by jet plane or helicopter on the morning the tour begins. Climbing into a fast limousine, he is on the road by 8 a.m., traveling at breakneck speed often 80 m.p.h. or more with a long motorcade dashing perilously behind.

In roadside villages, where the tricolor - sashed mayor usually waits under a triumphal arch, the President makes a quick stop to shake him by the hand. If the crowd is large, he may get out to say a few words. But in less than a minute he ends with his usual cry "Vive la Republique! Vive la France!" Then, amidst applause and often a cheer, he doubles his lanky form back into the car and races off.

Outside the larger towns, the police motorcycle escort is increased and De Gaulle changes to an open car. He then rides, standing, to the city center.

Striding into the beflagged hotel de ville, he gives a few minutes to addressing the municipal council in one room, then the gathered notables in another. Then it's out to the balcony or a special platform on the town hall steps to address the waiting crowd. Few of these speeches last more than 10 minutes.

The message is always the same:

Only a strong France will be heard in world councils. France will only be strong if Frenchmen forget old differences for the sake of national unity.

World peace can only be made by the people themselves, since all regimes must one day pass away.

Social progress means that all Frenchmen equally share the country's gains.

Self - determination is the only way out of the "bloody, cruel" rebellion in Algeria. The French people as a whole must endorse the Algerians' decision.

Soon the torch must be passed on to "this magnificent youth I see so numerous around me."

De Gaulle is seldom precise, never enters into details of his plans. Probably no other politician could get away with offering so little that is concrete. Yet he uses just the words that Frenchmen want to hear.

"You are a great nation and great nations always have obstacles to overcome," he says again and again. And the crowd cheers.

Before returning to his car to take the highway again, the President often pushes his way deep into the crowd, creating minor stampedes as hundreds try to touch his out-stretched hands.

The cast of an upcoming Broadway play will include a major role for Louis Guerriero, a home - town product who has been working in the New York dramatics field for the past 12 years.

Louis has won his first part in an "on - Broadway" show entitled "And Now Farewell," which will include Martha Scott as the lead. A graduate of Northeast back in the days when the name applied to "Northeast Center," he also finished LSU with a major in speech.

Under his professional "alias," Louis Girard, he took a part on Playhouse 90 production last season, also took a part in a summer presentation of "L'il Abner" at the Barn Theatre in Michigan this past July.

Rehearsals for "And Now Farewell" open this week and the Broadway opening has been set for the first week in December. Louis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, 207 Glenmar, Monroe.

CONCERT SEASON

The past week saw a successful launching of the Monroe concert season under the new nomenclature — Northeast Concerts Series. The musical opener was a concert by the Philharmonia Hungarica and it brought out nearly all the 1500-odd membership holders to Neville Auditorium.

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association will open this week with the concerts of the Air Force Band at Howard Auditorium Thursday and Friday. The programs are arranged for one student concert and another for the general public. The Thursday performance is set for 8:15 p.m. and the Friday concert at 2:15 p.m.

MODERNITY

The Music for Strings, Percussion and Celesta by Bela Bartok as performed by the Hungarian orchestra Wednesday evening here brought out the comments thick and fast on extreme trends which have developed over the past 50 years in this country and abroad in the field of serious music.

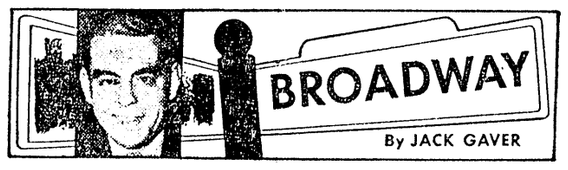

The secret to the damnation or understanding of this "new" sort of music lies in the title of this column: the modernists don't run the same scales the fellows from Brahms back used in their compositions.

To make matters still harder to understand, many of the modern composers also use a standard irregularity in their rhythms — sort of an "off - beatnik" technic.

Believe it or not, the idea behind it all was not sought after by the writers, they were pushed. After the admittedly fine melodies and harmonies of Schumann, Mendelssohn, Chopin and Brahms —to name only four of the giants of a century ago — composers found it hard to come up with anything original. The painters had come up against this same situation and had already begun to paint abstractions. In near-desperation, writers of music had to follow suit or risk copying their parents' generation.

The loss of emotional appeal, call it outright beauty, is obvious. Audiences are still not "sold" on modern music even though it has had a full 30-year generation of circulation with the added assistance of recordings and radio. Contrast this with Beethoven and Berlioz, both of whom were hard to take in some of their compositions but who were considered standard concert fare even during their lifetime.

It must be said, however, that well written modern compositions adhere to traditional practices and require good performance. So nobody really threw ink in the fan and let it splatted on the music paper. It may be harder to listen to at first, but accepted modernists take just as many pains with their compositions as did the old masters. Meanwhile, good performances as the one of the Bartok number by the Hungarians, can take a good many of the pains out of modern music as far as today's audiences are concerned.

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of Broadway's more decorative personalities is a brunette named Suzanne Pleshette, a home-grown product who keeps in touch with her acting mentor by mail.

Miss Pleshette put her third Broadway season on her record last week when she opened as the leading lady of "Golden Fleecing," a farce at Henry Miller's theater that appears likely to make the grade despite something less than unanimously favorable reviews.

The role, although highly important, is a rather routine workout for Miss Pleshette who demonstrated in "Compulsion" and "The Cold Wind and the Warm" over the past two seasons that she is serious actress to be reckoned with.

Within the past year the young woman has had leading roles in a dozen television dramas, some of which have not yet reached the air. She went to Hollywood after "Compulsion" closed and was signed by Jerry Lewis to appear with him in his film, "Geisha Boy." It was only after he signed her that Lewis discovered she is the daughter of Eugene Pleshette, managing director of the Brooklyn Paramount Movie Theater, who once hired Lewis as an usher for the Paramount Theater at Manhattan.

Miss Pleshette studied acting at The Neighborhood Playhouse under Sanford Meisner, its director for many years. He left there a year ago to teach acting in Hollywood, and Miss Pleshette worked with him again when she was there. Now that she's back here, she continues under his tutelage via correspondence.

Pat Hingle, the job-like character in last season's "J.B." by Archibald Macleish, is getting ready to return to the Broadway wars after recovering from his near-fatal accident last February.

Hingle, regarded in the past few seasons as one of the outstanding new leading men on the stage, has been signed to star in "The Deadly Game," due next February. This is a play based on a novel by Friedrich Duerrenmatt, whose "The Visit" has served Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne so well (they are touring in it this season.)

Hingle was badly hurt when he fell down an elevator shaft in his apartment building. He is only now getting to the point where he can walk without aid of a cane or crutch.

The Miracles, God's Hand And A Devil

GOD'S FRONTIER. By Jose Luis Martin Descalzo. Translated from Spanish by Harriet de Onis. Knopf. $3.95.

Some 350 souls—souls, yes, though they seemed pretty inconsequential — were bemoaning the disastrous drought that blighted their town, Torre, when Renato the railroad switchman performed the first "miracle"; His prayer lifted back upright their great stone cross which had broken and fallen. Thus begins this novel introducing the Spanish priest - - author to American readers.

Renato after a dizzy spell returns to his switch house just in time to head an approaching train onto the right track. In his yard a mob of sick and crippled lies in wait to beg for his intercession, or demand it, and all of Torre expects him to produce the desperately needed rain.

Torre's "miracles" are dangerous, a priest warns. But it's a sinful village undeserving of miracles anyway: Satrapa visits Matilde scandalously, the widow Dona Julia trysts with Don Ricardo, and her daughter has been too intimate with Rodrigo. Furthermore, Renato is an uncooperative and contrary miracle-worker: He conjures up black clouds which do not however bear a drop of rain, he revives a dead canary and an unwanted wife, and rings the bells for mass without a hand on the rope. But the cancer victim and the blind and deformed are left fuming at their dreadful misfortune.

If there is the hand of God in this, so is there the cunning of the devil, a red-headed stranger who warns some malcontents that Renato will disturb their easy settled ways. The bishop learns the story, the press hears about it, the desolate little place is overrun by pilgrims until at last the preponderant practicalities seize on the course of events, and miracle and matter - of - fact have their dramatic confrontation.

You don't have to believe in miracles, or be a Catholic, to feel and acknowledge the emotions stirred strongly by "God's Frontier." It is an irrepressible ferment of the cruelty and bitterness of peasants sunk in dull dogged sinning, played against a Greek chorus of background palaver. All good story tellers work miracles, but this priest does more: He dares to endow his hero with toe power he wields as novelist.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The serious reader of English historical fiction will find "Rider on a White Horse" by Rosemary Sutcliff a delightful experience. Set in England during the time of the Civil War of the Seventeenth century, this book tells a moving love story against a vivid and life like background. Another well-written historical novel is "King's Fool" by Margaret Campbell Barnes. This is the impression which Henry VIII made on Will Somers, his jester. This chapter of history has been told many times, but the approach is fresh and different and Mrs. Barnes is always readable.

Shifting to present day life we have a group of very interesting titles. "The Man Who Would Be God" by Haakon Chevalier, has its setting in America during the period of World War II. It is concerned with the academic life, with the development of atomic energy and with many problems of the time. It will make absorbing reading for many people. "The Quest of Excalibur" by Leonard Wibberley is pure fantasy and is concerned with the return of King Arthur, when he is needed in present day life. "The Oil Patch" by Peggy Simson Curry has its setting in a Wyoming oil field in the thirties. It is well - written and contains much food for thought. "The Witch Door" by Elisabeth Ogilvie has its setting on a Maine island and will appeal especially to women. It is the story of a woman, torn between her children and her new love and how she solved her problems.

Readers who like books of science fiction will welcome "Across the Sea of Stars" by Arthur Clarke. This is an omnibus containing the complete novels "Childhood's End" and "Earthlight" as well as eighteen short stories.

The field of non - fiction again offers a wealth of interesting titles. "Master Your Tensions and Enjoy Living Again" by George S. Stevenson is an excellent book of practical psychology. "The Douglas Sunday School Lessons for 1960" are already here and will be used as they have been in the past. "Jews Is Suburbia" by Albert L. Gordon is an interesting and informative book. "Are Unions Necessary" by Irving Auerbach is a simple explanation of many phases of union activities. "Residential Rehabilitation" by William W. Nash should be of interest to all who are concerned with the flight which has fallen on the down town areas of many cities. Two interesting collections from magazines are "This Is Nature" edited by Richard W. Westwood and "Gentlemen, Scholars and Scoundrels" edited by Horace Knowles. The first one contains thirty years of the best from Nature Magazine, while the second is a treasury from Harper's magazine.

The field of evolution is ably discussed in "Adventures with the Missing Link" by Raymond A. Dart, while a fascinating account of big game hunting in India is "Forests of the Night" written by Jack Denon Scott. This should appeal to the many readers who enjoyed the books of the late Jim Corbett. A most valuable book for a young lady entering the business world is "The Executive Secretary" by Marylin C. Burke. Two books of adventure and travel written especially for a young adult audience are "Further Than at Home" by D'Lynn Waldron and "On Foot to the Arctic," the story of Samuel Hearne, written by Ronald Syme.

Intriguing Duo From Great Pen

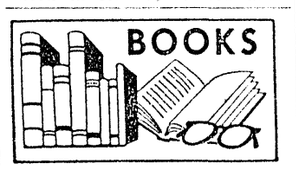

INVITATION TO A BEHEADING. By Vladimir Nabokov. Translated from Russian by Dmitri Nabokov. Putnam. $3.95. THE REAL LIFE OF SEBASTIAN KNIGHT. By Vladimir Nabokov. New Directions. $3.50.

These two novels antedate by 20 or 25 years the "Lolita" which roused up the great Nabokov audience. More European, and in fact written abroad, they are nevertheless by the same intriguing artist in every character on every page. If you complain that you didn't hear of them before, partly it is not your fault, partly it is: "Beheading" has just been translated, and by the novelist's son; "Sebastian," however, was there to read in 1941 when New Directions first brought out what it now reprints.

Sebastian's half brother tells the story of Sebastian, born in Russia, studied and lived in England and France (Nabokov was born in Russia, studied and lived in England and France). Sebastian, author of several books, has achieved enough renown so that at his death the narrator "V" feels he owes him a biography, and sets out to probe to the bottom through his writing, his experiences and his mistresses. What he uncovers may be his own self, for identities fade in and out and overlap mystifyingly — the revelatory letter written by some one not Sebastian who yet might have been Sebastian, the vigil mounted beside the dying man supposedly Sebastian though he proves to be Mr. Kegan, and "V's" final suspicion that he himself is Sebastian, so that we arrive astonishingly at a kind of Steinian reiteration: Sebastian is Sebaytian is "V" is Nabokov.

In "Beheading," Cincinnatus C. in a Russian prison cell awaits execution for the monstrous crime of "gnostical turpitude," or the most ancient of sins. He is resigned physically to his death, which he anticipates, in one of those gruesome figures in which Nabokov revels, as a sort of crunching dental operation, the head in the role of the aching tooth, and the body, the inflamed gum. Luckily he can escape momentarily from reality in a release, allied to Sebastian's, into another identity but it is only to return to the mother who bore him to an unknown father, or the promiscuous wife, who explains apologetically that it's such a comfort to be a man. So he stays where he can see his prison director Rodrig, his lawyer Rodion's little daughter the age of Lolita, and his dear friend who will become his executioner.

"Beheading" is not quite so accomplished and subtle as "Sebastian," but both are black and white surrealistic creations. Here Nabokov, letting his weird fancy run, focuses his entire attention on the ineffable adventure of words.

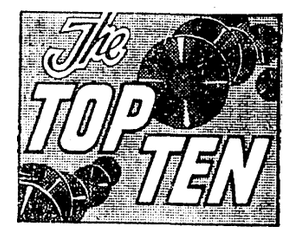

Invitation to a Beheading, by Vladimir Nabokov (Putnam): Written 25 years ago in Russian, this novel now appears in English in a translation by the author's son. Its main character is Cincinnatus, a vaguely drawn intellectual who has been sentenced to death for a crime that is never disclosed. As we follow the dreamlike existence of Cincinnatus in his cell, part tragic, part comic, we might recognize in him a symbol of humanity alone in a world without meaning. What concerns him most is when he will be executed and whether his wife, a trollop, will be allowed to visit him. His jailers, also vaguely drawn, play a cat-and-mouse game with him as the story moves gently but inexorably to an inconclusive end. For the philosphical reader this may be chewy fare. The reader who expects a story that goes somewhere will be disappointed and probably puzzled. Nabokov also wrote Lolita, a highly controversial novel that set many teeth on edge.

The Memoirs of Casanova (Putnam) and The Memoirs of Lorenzo da Ponte (Orion): Two "men of the world" are presented this fall as seen by themselves in these new editions. The Casanova book, second in the series of six, takes our windy hero to Paris and to prison. His personal adventures and amorous conquests, while amusing, probably should be taken with a teaspoon of salt. But his picture of 18th century Europe is one of the most interesting ever recorded.

Da Ponte was a contemporary and friend of Casanova. In fact, he gave the impression that he knew everybody worth knowing, including Mozart, for whom he wrote librettos. His memoirs too teem with gossip and risque stories but like his roue friend he is lively and entertaining. He cast doubt on the veracity of Casanova's writings and probably some of his own are closer to fiction than fact. Even so he was quite a character and he tells a good story.

Gentlemen, Scholars and Scoundrels, edited by Horace Knowles (Harper): The editor of this collection must be one of the best - read magazine readers in the world. He has gone through 218 fat volumes containing Harper's magazine back to its first issue in 1850, and picked out what he considers the "best" stories, articles, poems. HE used two criteria — "surpassing interest for today's readers and literary excellence." He has produced a book teeming with interesting reading from Tennyson, Melville and Longfellow to Bertrand Russell, John Gunther and E. B. White, to name a very few.

1. MACK THE KNIFE, Bobby Darin.
2. PUT YOUR HEAD ON MY SHOULDER, Paul Anka.
3. MR. BLUE, Fleetwoods.
4. TEEN BEAT, Sandy Nelson.
5. (TIL) I KISSED YOU, Everly Brothers.
6. DON'T YOU KNOW, Della Reese.
7. RED RIVER ROCK, Johnny & Hurricanes.
8. SLEEPWALK, Santo Johnny.
9. DECK OF CARDS, Wink Martindale.
10. POISON IVY, Coasters.

STAMPS

Three pioneer settlements will be honored and depicted on a new set of stamps to be issued by Israel. Some of these settlements are now celebrating their 50th and 75th anniversaries.

The 60-pruta will show Merhavyah, a collective settlement founded 50 years ago. It is situated southeast of Haifa in the Valley of Jezrell. The 120-pruta

The cooperative settlements were established by groups of young pioneers from many lands at the turn of the century, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

The Australian Post Office Department announces the issue of the new series of stamps for Australian Antarctic Territory has been delayed. The stamps originally were planned for issuance in September of October. It is hoped they will be issued before the end of the year.

Japan soon will issue the following new stamps: a 10-yen for the 350th anniversary of the founding of Nagoya City, a 30-yen for International Letter Writing Week, a 10-yen for the 15th General Meeting of the International Air Transport Assn., a 5-yen New Year stamp.

France honors the centenary of the birth of Jean Jaures, noted politician and journalist, by issuing a new 50-franc tan stamp. Jaures was the organizer of the French Socialist party.

Genetic Boost

For Better Race

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Picture a world of tomorrow in which most of the inhabitants are as brilliant as Albert Einstein and as wise and compassionate as Abraham Lincoln.

Then peer far beyond to a distant era in which humanity has forged as far ahead of present-day man in intelligence and understanding as we now lead the apes.

Is this the biological wave of the future, the evolutionary Utopia toward which we are heading?

Not unless we give evolution a genetic assist that is in our power, says Dr. H. J. Muller, Nobel Prize-winning geneticist at Indiana University.

Muller believes that man is runnning the world today only because of fabulous luck. He is alive and present, in Muller's view, only because his string of ancestors, running back to the beginning of life on this planet, was able to win out in competition with other organisms.

Muller thinks man can improve his chances of long-range survival and make the world a better home if he takes positive steps genetically to upgrade each human generation.

The scientist has prepared a 16,000-word study listing several ways the trial and error progress of normal evolution could be speeded up. His suggestions will be presented to an international celebration at the University of Chicago in November marking the 100th anniversary of Darwin's theory of evolution.

The fastest and most direct method of genetically improving future generations, Muller belives, is through artificial insemination.

A less selective way of improving future generations, he says, would be for couples with superior intelligence to raise more children than they could possibly bring up and then give them out for adoption.

"Those consenting to do this would truly be socially minded," he says.

For genetic artificial insemination, the donor of male germ cells would be selected on the basis of outstanding mental ability and other superior qualities that could be passed on to his children through his genes. Genes are the hereditary cell units transmitted from generation to generation. They influence intelligence, personality, growth, color of eyes and hair and many other factors that make up the individual.

The germ cells, accumulated over a long period, would be preserved by deep freeze until at least 20 years after the man's death. During this probationary period, his merits and shortcomings could be evaluated unemotionally. However, a limited amount of progeny testing could be carried out during this period to provide a sounder estimate of the donor's genetic value to his offspring.

If it were shown his superior endowment could be passed on, the germ supply on hand could be apportioned among numerous recipients.

Muller says the means already is known to produce the multiple release of mature eggs in women. With a little more research, he says, a technique could be devised for flushing them from the reproductive tract and implanting them in any selected female host.

If powerful selective results were deisred, he says, the eggs from a woman of excellent genetic endowment could be fertilized with germ material from a superior male.

Muller says public attitudes on reproduction have become greatly liberalized since Victorian days. But he contends almost no concern has been shown for the type of native endowment that would be valuable to the children themselves. A further break with tradition would be necessary before any such program could meet acceptance, he says.

Muller says there are no indications man is approaching any limit of capacity for greater intelligence. But he adds it is too early now to draw any blueprints envisioning what superior-minded people of a future generation might accomplish.

"The immediate job, then, for those of us who see this situation now is to start at getting his genetic operation bootstrap incorporated into our mores, by precept and, where feasible, by example," he says.

De Gaulle Of France

A Supersalesman

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS (AP) — For Charles de Gaulle, the presidency of France includes the role of supersalesman, promoting national unity and De Gaulle in one package.

He is not only the first president of the Republic to have executive powers (the rest were largely figureheads) but he is first of his line in a score of other ways.

No other French president has commanded such nationwide and international prestige. No other has traveled so much to show himself to so many. No other was his country's wartime hero in its darkest hours.

While De Gaulle is the 18th president since France gave up its kings, he considers himself the first —as he is in the new Fifth Republic he created.

Officials in Calais quickly found this out when the president of the local Chamber of Commerce handed De Gaulle a small gold plaque marking his visit there.

"A little memento of your predecessor, President Carnot," he said, recalling the last occasion on which a president of the Republic had visited the channel port.

"Ah, that poor Carnot," sighed De Gaulle as he accepted the gift. Then he added briskly: "But, as for me, I have no predecessor."

The Calais allusion was perhaps not a happy one.

President Sadi Carnot, elected in 1887, was assassinated by an anarchist in Lyon before ending his seven years of office.

Since becoming president in January, De Gaulle has traveled more than most other presidents during their whole terms.

He has turned up in small towns and villages which never saw a president before. He has ranged far and wide in the newly autonomous countries of the French overseas community.

Throwing the old-time stiff protocol to the winds without losing any of his in-born dignity, the 68-year-old President has let himself be jostled in milling crowds and shaken thousands of ordinary French men and women by the hand. Where once only notables could meet the chief of state, now any man in the street may get a chance to greet him.

But the pace he has set himself is a grinding one.

Since the start of the year the general has made seven official tours—four of them in France, one in Italy, one in Algeria, and one in Madagascar. Next month he will go to Alsace, in December to Senegal (West Africa), and in the spring to Britain and the United States. And, of course, if there's a summit conference, De Gaulle will be there.

Some of the men around De Gaulle are worried about his health under such relentless pressure. He has never had a serious illness and he recovers vitality quickly after only a few hours' sleep. But there are times when he looks dog-tired.

Another problem is the general's eyesight. He sees little without the thick-lensed glasses which he seldom wears in public. A military aide, always at his elbow, whispers a warning of steps where he might stumble. On a recent tour of northern France he escaped being severely cut when he crashed his head through a closed window which he thought was open.

Not only the number of trips but their pace has been stepped up. Under the old, relaxed system a president would arrive in the town he was visiting overnight. Thoroughly rested, he then started his engagements. Several times during each day he had breaks when he could change the boiled shirt and stiff collar which was then the presidential uniform.

De Gaulle adopts a streamlined procedure. Hatless and wearing an ordinary business suit, he drops in by jet plane or helicopter on the morning the tour begins. Climbing into a fast limousine, he is on the road by 8 a.m., traveling at breakneck speed often 80 m.p.h. or more with a long motorcade dashing perilously behind.

In roadside villages, where the tricolor - sashed mayor usually waits under a triumphal arch, the President makes a quick stop to shake him by the hand. If the crowd is large, he may get out to say a few words. But in less than a minute he ends with his usual cry "Vive la Republique! Vive la France!" Then, amidst applause and often a cheer, he doubles his lanky form back into the car and races off.

Outside the larger towns, the police motorcycle escort is increased and De Gaulle changes to an open car. He then rides, standing, to the city center.

Striding into the beflagged hotel de ville, he gives a few minutes to addressing the municipal council in one room, then the gathered notables in another. Then it's out to the balcony or a special platform on the town hall steps to address the waiting crowd. Few of these speeches last more than 10 minutes.

The message is always the same:

Only a strong France will be heard in world councils. France will only be strong if Frenchmen forget old differences for the sake of national unity.

World peace can only be made by the people themselves, since all regimes must one day pass away.

Social progress means that all Frenchmen equally share the country's gains.

Self - determination is the only way out of the "bloody, cruel" rebellion in Algeria. The French people as a whole must endorse the Algerians' decision.

Soon the torch must be passed on to "this magnificent youth I see so numerous around me."

De Gaulle is seldom precise, never enters into details of his plans. Probably no other politician could get away with offering so little that is concrete. Yet he uses just the words that Frenchmen want to hear.

"You are a great nation and great nations always have obstacles to overcome," he says again and again. And the crowd cheers.

Before returning to his car to take the highway again, the President often pushes his way deep into the crowd, creating minor stampedes as hundreds try to touch his out-stretched hands.

Audiences are still not "sold" on modern music even though it has had a full 30-year generation of circulation with the added assistance of recordings and radio. Contrast this with Beethoven and Berlioz, both of whom were hard to take in some of their compositions but who were considered standard concert fare even during their lifetime.

It must be said, however, that well written modern compositions adhere to traditional practices and require good performance. So nobody really threw ink in the fan and let it splatted on the music paper. It may be harder to listen to at first, but accepted modernists take just as many pains with their compositions as did the old masters. Meanwhile, good performances as the one of the Bartok number by the Hungarians, can take a good many of the pains out of modern music as far as today's audiences are concerned.

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of Broadway's more decorative personalities is a brunette named Suzanne Pleshette, a home-grown product who keeps in touch with her acting mentor by mail.

Miss Pleshette put her third Broadway season on her record last week when she opened as the leading lady of "Golden Fleecing," a farce at Henry Miller's theater that appears likely to make the grade despite something less than unanimously favorable reviews.

The role, although highly important, is a rather routine workout for Miss Pleshette who demonstrated in "Compulsion" and "The Cold Wind and the Warm" over the past two seasons that she is serious actress to be reckoned with.

Within the past year the young woman has had leading roles in a dozen television dramas, some of which have not yet reached the air. She went to Hollywood after "Compulsion" closed and was signed by Jerry Lewis to appear with him in his film, "Geisha Boy." It was only after he signed her that Lewis discovered she is the daughter of Eugene Pleshette, managing director of the Brooklyn Paramount Movie Theater, who once hired Lewis as an usher for the Paramount Theater at Manhattan.

Miss Pleshette studied acting at The Neighborhood Playhouse under Sanford Meisner, its director for many years. He left there a year ago to teach acting in Hollywood, and Miss Pleshette worked with him again when she was there. Now that she's back here, she continues under his tutelage via correspondence.

Pat Hingle, the job-like character in last season's "J.B." by Archibald Macleish, is getting ready to return to the Broadway wars after recovering from his near-fatal accident last February.

Hingle, regarded in the past few seasons as one of the outstanding new leading men on the stage, has been signed to star in "The Deadly Game," due next February. This is a play based on a novel by Friedrich Duerrenmatt, whose "The Visit" has served Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne so well (they are touring in it this season.)

Hingle was badly hurt when he fell down an elevator shaft in his apartment building. He is only now getting to the point where he can walk without aid of a cane or crutch.

The Miracles, God's Hand And A Devil

GOD'S FRONTIER. By Jose Luis Martin Descalzo. Translated from Spanish by Harriet de Onis. Knopf. $3.95.

Some 350 souls—souls, yes, though they seemed pretty inconsequential — were bemoaning the disastrous drought that blighted their town, Torre, when Renato the railroad switchman performed the first "miracle"; His prayer lifted back upright their great stone cross which had broken and fallen. Thus begins this novel introducing the Spanish priest - - author to American readers.

Renato after a dizzy spell returns to his switch house just in time to head an approaching train onto the right track. In his yard a mob of sick and crippled lies in wait to beg for his intercession, or demand it, and all of Torre expects him to produce the desperately needed rain.

Torre's "miracles" are dangerous, a priest warns. But it's a sinful village undeserving of miracles anyway: Satrapa visits Matilde scandalously, the widow Dona Julia trysts with Don Ricardo, and her daughter has been too intimate with Rodrigo. Furthermore, Renato is an uncooperative and contrary miracle-worker: He conjures up black clouds which do not however bear a drop of rain, he revives a dead canary and an unwanted wife, and rings the bells for mass without a hand on the rope. But the cancer victim and the blind and deformed are left fuming at their dreadful misfortune.

If there is the hand of God in this, so is there the cunning of the devil, a red-headed stranger who warns some malcontents that Renato will disturb their easy settled ways. The bishop learns the story, the press hears about it, the desolate little place is overrun by pilgrims until at last the preponderant practicalities seize on the course of events, and miracle and matter - of - fact have their dramatic confrontation.

You don't have to believe in miracles, or be a Catholic, to feel and acknowledge the emotions stirred strongly by "God's Frontier." It is an irrepressible ferment of the cruelty and bitterness of peasants sunk in dull dogged sinning, played against a Greek chorus of background palaver. All good story tellers work miracles, but this priest does more: He dares to endow his hero with toe power he wields as novelist.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The serious reader of English historical fiction will find "Rider on a White Horse" by Rosemary Sutcliff a delightful experience. Set in England during the time of the Civil War of the Seventeenth century, this book tells a moving love story against a vivid and life like background. Another well-written historical novel is "King's Fool" by Margaret Campbell Barnes. This is the impression which Henry VIII made on Will Somers, his jester. This chapter of history has been told many times, but the approach is fresh and different and Mrs. Barnes is always readable.

Shifting to present day life we have a group of very interesting titles. "The Man Who Would Be God" by Haakon Chevalier, has its setting in America during the period of World War II. It is concerned with the academic life, with the development of atomic energy and with many problems of the time. It will make absorbing reading for many people. "The Quest of Excalibur" by Leonard Wibberley is pure fantasy and is concerned with the return of King Arthur, when he is needed in present day life. "The Oil Patch" by Peggy Simson Curry has its setting in a Wyoming oil field in the thirties. It is well - written and contains much food for thought. "The Witch Door" by Elisabeth Ogilvie has its setting on a Maine island and will appeal especially to women. It is the story of a woman, torn between her children and her new love and how she solved her problems.

Readers who like books of science fiction will welcome "Across the Sea of Stars" by Arthur Clarke. This is an omnibus containing the complete novels "Childhood's End" and "Earthlight" as well as eighteen short stories.

The field of non - fiction again offers a wealth of interesting titles. "Master Your Tensions and Enjoy Living Again" by George S. Stevenson is an excellent book of practical psychology. "The Douglas Sunday School Lessons for 1960" are already here and will be used as they have been in the past. "Jews Is Suburbia" by Albert L. Gordon is an interesting and informative book. "Are Unions Necessary" by Irving Auerbach is a simple explanation of many phases of union activities. "Residential Rehabilitation" by William W. Nash should be of interest to all who are concerned with the flight which has fallen on the down town areas of many cities. Two interesting collections from magazines are "This Is Nature" edited by Richard W. Westwood and "Gentlemen, Scholars and Scoundrels" edited by Horace Knowles. The first one contains thirty years of the best from Nature Magazine, while the second is a treasury from Harper's magazine.

The field of evolution is ably discussed in "Adventures with the Missing Link" by Raymond A. Dart, while a fascinating account of big game hunting in India is "Forests of the Night" written by Jack Denon Scott. This should appeal to the many readers who enjoyed the books of the late Jim Corbett. A most valuable book for a young lady entering the business world is "The Executive Secretary" by Marylin C. Burke. Two books of adventure and travel written especially for a young adult audience are "Further Than at Home" by D'Lynn Waldron and "On Foot to the Arctic," the story of Samuel Hearne, written by Ronald Syme.

Intriguing Duo From Great Pen

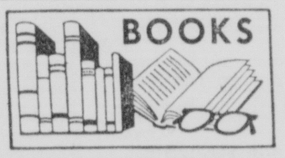

INVITATION TO A BEHEADING. By Vladimir Nabokov. Translated from Russian by Dmitri Nabokov. Putnam. $3.95. THE REAL LIFE OF SEBASTIAN KNIGHT. By Vladimir Nabokov. New Directions. $3.50.

These two novels antedate by 20 or 25 years the "Lolita" which roused up the great Nabokov audience. More European, and in fact written abroad, they are nevertheless by the same intriguing artist in every character on every page. If you complain that you didn't hear of them before, partly it is not your fault, partly it is: "Beheading" has just been translated, and by the novelist's son; "Sebastian," however, was there to read in 1941 when New Directions first brought out what it now reprints.

Sebastian's half brother tells the story of Sebastian, born in Russia, studied and lived in England and France (Nabokov was born in Russia, studied and lived in England and France). Sebastian, author of several books, has achieved enough renown so that at his death the narrator "V" feels he owes him a biography, and sets out to probe to the bottom through his writing, his experiences and his mistresses. What he uncovers may be his own self, for identities fade in and out and overlap mystifyingly — the revelatory letter written by some one not Sebastian who yet might have been Sebastian, the vigil mounted beside the dying man supposedly Sebastian though he proves to be Mr. Kegan, and "V's" final suspicion that he himself is Sebastian, so that we arrive astonishingly at a kind of Steinian reiteration: Sebastian is Sebaytian is "V" is Nabokov.

In "Beheading," Cincinnatus C. in a Russian prison cell awaits execution for the monstrous crime of "gnostical turpitude," or the most ancient of sins. He is resigned physically to his death, which he anticipates, in one of those gruesome figures in which Nabokov revels, as a sort of crunching dental operation, the head in the role of the aching tooth, and the body, the inflamed gum. Luckily he can escape momentarily from reality in a release, allied to Sebastian's, into another identity but it is only to return to the mother who bore him to an unknown father, or the promiscuous wife, who explains apologetically that it's such a comfort to be a man. So he stays where he can see his prison director Rodrig, his lawyer Rodion's little daughter the age of Lolita, and his dear friend who will become his executioner.

"Beheading" is not quite so accomplished and subtle as "Sebastian," but both are black and white surrealistic creations. Here Nabokov, letting his weird fancy run, focuses hie entire attention on the ineffable adventure of words.

Invitation to a Beheading, by Vladimir Nabokov (Putnam): Written 25 years ago in Russian, this novel now appears in English in a translation by the author's son. Its main character is Cincinnatus, a vaguely drawn intellectual who has been sentenced to death for a crime that is never disclosed. As we follow the dreamlike existence of Cincinnatus in his cell, part tragic, part comic, we might recognize in him a symbol of humanity alone in a world without meaning. What concerns him most is when he will be executed and whether his wife, a trollop, will be allowed to visit him. His jailers, also vaguely drawn, play a cat-and-mouse game with him as the story moves gently but inexorably to an inconclusive end. For the philosphical reader this may be chewy fare. The reader who expects a story that goes somewhere will be disappointed and probably puzzled. Nabokov also wrote Lolita, a highly controversial novel that set many teeth on edge.

The Memoirs of Casanova (Putnam) and The Memoirs of Lorenzo da Ponte (Orion): Two "men of the world" are presented this fall as seen by themselves in these new editions. The Casanova book, second in the series of six, takes our windy hero to Paris and to prison. His personal adventures and amorous conquests, while amusing, probably should be taken with a teaspoon of salt. But his picture of 18th century Europe is one of the most interesting ever recorded.

Da Ponte was a contemporary and friend of Casanova. In fact, he gave the impression that he knew everybody worth knowing, including Mozart, for whom he wrote librettos. His memoirs too teem with gossip and risque stories but like his roue friend he is lively and entertaining. He cast doubt on the veracity of Casanova's writings and probably some of his own are closer to fiction than fact. Even so he was quite a character and he tells a good story.

Gentlemen, Scholars and Scoundrels, edited by Horace Knowles (Harper): The editor of this collection must be one of the best - read magazine readers in the world. He has gone through 218 fat volumes containing Harper's magazine back to its first issue in 1850, and picked out what he considers the "best" stories, articles, poems. HE used two criteria — "surpassing interest for today's readers and literary excellence." He has produced a book teeming with interesting reading from Tennyson, Melville and Longfellow to Bertrand Russell, John Gunther and E. B. White, to name a very few.

1. MACK THE KNIFE, Bobby Darin.
2. PUT YOUR HEAD ON MY SHOULDER, Paul Anka.
3. MR. BLUE, Fleetwoods.
4. TEEN BEAT, Sandy Nelson.
5. (TIL) I KISSED YOU, Everly Brothers.
6. DON'T YOU KNOW, Della Reese.
7. RED RIVER ROCK, Johnny & Hurricanes.
8. SLEEPWALK, Santo Johnny.
9. DECK OF CARDS, Wink Martindale.
10. POISON IVY, Coasters.

STAMPS

Three pioneer settlements will be honored and depicted on a new set of stamps to be issued by Israel. Some of these settlements are now celebrating their 50th and 75th anniversaries.

The 60-pruta will show Merhavyah, a collective settlement founded 50 years ago. It is situated southeast of Haifa in the Valley of Jezrell. The 120-pruta

The cooperative settlements were established by groups of young pioneers from many lands at the turn of the century, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

The Australian Post Office Department announces the issue of the new series of stamps for Australian Antarctic Territory has been delayed. The stamps originally were planned for issuance in September of October. It is hoped they will be issued before the end of the year.

Japan soon will issue the following new stamps: a 10-yen for the 350th anniversary of the founding of Nagoya City, a 30-yen for International Letter Writing Week, a 10-yen for the 15th General Meeting of the International Air Transport Assn., a 5-yen New Year stamp.

France honors the centenary of the birth of Jean Jaures, noted politician and journalist, by issuing a new 50-franc tan stamp. Jaures was the organizer of the French Socialist party.

U.S. Makes Offer To Release Facts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States offered Saturday to give the Inter-American Peace Committee "factual information" about the activities of Latin American exiles in this country. This would include some reference to recent anti-Castro leaflet flights over Havana.

The five-nation peace committee was set up by an inter-American foreign ministers conference last August and directed to look into the causes of tension in the Caribbean area.

A telegram offering U.S. cooperation was sent by Asst. Secretary State Roy R. Rubottom to Ambassador John C. Dreier, U.S. chairman of the committee, and made public by the State Department.

The telegram avoided any direct reference to Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz, who was described by the FBI Friday night as having acknowledged responsibility for a leaftlet-dropping mission over Havana last Wednesday.

Diaz Lanz, who formerly was Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's air force chief, is now living in Miami. He fled from Cuba last June and now contends the Castro regime is riddled with pro-Communists.

Some officials said it could be assumed that the State Department had received a report of the FBI investigation of the leaflet dropping flights, which have fanned Cuban indignation against the United States.

Now . . . the simplest and most economical of all duplicating methods . . . stencil . . . has been modernized like a printing press. Stencils can be prepared electronically as well as manually. Your office girl can turn out your forms, bulletins, advertising literature, and even illustrated catalog pages . . . in color, too! Gestetner costs no more than the old-fashioned mimeo.

Wife Of Matos Makes Statement

HAVANA (AP) — Mrs. Hubert Matos, wife of the jailed ex-army commander of Camaguey province, asserted Saturday her husband and his staff are being held nearly nude and incommunicado.

The pretty, 38-year-old Mrs. Matos said in an interview she tried to visit her husband at Havana's La Cabana military fortress.

"They refused to let me see him," she declared, "but when I insisted, and told them I wouldn't leave and to go ahead and shoot me, they permitted me to see him at a distance of about half a block down a corridor.

"He was in underclothes and yelled loudly to me: 'Let people know how we are being treated here.'

"But they wouldn't let me come near him."

Mrs. Matos said no reason was given why she couldn't see her husband.

"But I'm sure it's because my letter yesterday was published by the newspapers. Fidel can't stand criticism and he also might think Hubert is passing information to me. But that isn't necessary, because I have all the facts about this matter."

In a letter to Castro published by three Havana newspapers Friday Mrs. Matos said:

"We—the Cuban people—believe you are capable of ordering him—Matos—killed and then claiming he committed suicide. After this, Dr. Castro, arrest me, kill me or ignore me or do what you consider most intelligent, bceause about you I don't doubt anything."

The 40-year-old Matos fought with Castro against ex-President Fulgencio Batista.

He stirred the latest crisis in the revolutionary government when he attempted to resign, claiming dissatisfaction with some things in Castro's regime.

Most of his staff officers resigned with him. Matos was denounced as a traitor and he and his supporters were jailed.

Asked if she feared for her husband's life, Mrs. Matos declared Castro is "capable of anything."

In a wavering voice she added: "I wouldn't be surprised if he dragged Hubert before the mob at Monday's demonstration to try to disgrace him publicly, because Fidel loves a Roman circus and wants one.

"Then, if the people stoned Hubert, Fidel could always say: 'I didn't do it, the people did.'"

Castro has called a rally for Monday to demonstrate popular support against an increasing wave of opposition.

Neither Mrs. Matos nor Matos have been formally advised of specific charges against him, she said.

"They have't finished inventing proofs," she went on. "If Fidel had them ready he would have presented them on television.

"If Fidel acted intelligently, allowing Hubert to resign quietly, on illness or another excuse, this could have been avoided. But he—Castro—can't stand criticism and set about brutally to downgrade Hubert."

Twirling a pencil nervously and looking a bit worn, Mrs. Matos said her husband first offered to step down July 26 but Castro talked him into staying on, saying he needed him.

But later, she said, Matos was tipped by officer friends that Castro was preparing to accuse him of treason "only because Hubert was not in accord with some things in government."

Her husband then resigned, she said, in hopes of heading off what she said was a plan to villify him.

New Hurdle Cleared In Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — First complete replacement of a human heart valve with a plastic substitute—constituting a possibly spectacular new breakthrough in cardiace surgery—was reported Saturday by a University of Virginia surgeon.

Dr. William H. Muller Jr. reported to the American Heart Assn. that a woman patient, in dire straits before the operation, has now gone almost a year since the robot valve was installed and is "progressing satisfactorily."

The plastic valve is a direct replacement for the valve of the aorta, the great blood vessel that constitutes the main trunkline of blood to the body. Thus, the aortic valve controls the flow of blood from the heart to the rest of the body. But it is one of the most difficult organs of the body to operate on because of its vital location and because of the extreme damage that can be caused to it by rheumatic fever and certain other conditions.

Muller told the 32nd annual scientific meeting of the heart association that the plastic valve is designed to correct a condition known as aortic valve insufficiency, wherein the left-like sections of the natural valve don't close completely after blood is pumped through. Thus, some of the blood "backs up" into the heart.

He said that in recent years, Dr. Charles Hufnagel of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., had developed a plastic valve which partially, though not completely satisfactorily, corrects the condition.

The Hufnagel valve consists of a tiny ball that moves back and forth in a plastic tube grafted into the aorta at a certain distance from the natural valve.

Dr. Muller indicated that in many cases the Hufnagel valve greatly reduces the amount of blood that backs up into the heart. But he said that because of its relatively-remote position from the site of the natural valave, it, in effect, misses handling some 35 per cent of the blood pumped from the heart.

9 Countries Heard From On Program

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Nine different countries had some representation on the first-rate music program given Saturday in the General Assembly Hall in celebration of United Nations Day.

Brazil sent a conductor, Finland a basso, Canada a contralto, Austria a soprano, France a pianist, Central and South America some rousing compositions.

To make the event as widely international as possible, the broadcast program, plus pick-ups from Moscow and Geneva, went directly to 17 countries and by recordings to 60 more.

The New York Philharmonic and the Schola Cantorum of about 100 voices were the main music-makers that packed the platform of this domed, circular hall.

Elazar de Carvalho, from Brazil, conducted this orchestra for the first time, and proved to be a dynamic interpreter of a series of unusually stormy works.

After a welcome by Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, the program with Chavez's "Sinfonia India," and continued with Franck's "Symphonic Variations," with Robert Casadesus as soloist, and Villa-Lobos' "Descobrimento do Brazil." Then to prove Beethoven was as much of a thunderer as the South Americans, it ended with the finale of his 9th Symphony.

Soloists were Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Maureen Forrester, Jan Peerece and Kim Borg. All the voices but Borg's were known here, and known most favorably. The newcomer, although he sang passages too brief to allow any definite judgment, sounded like warm, and resonant. He will make his Metropolitan Opera debut this week.

Couple Hurt In Wreck Still Plan Wedding

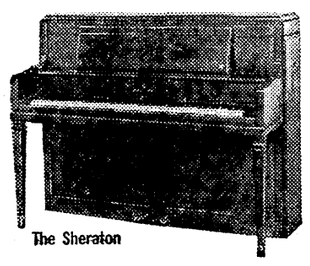

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—It will be a little awkward at the altar tonight—the bride with her broken arm in a cast and the groom bandaged for arm cuts.

But the wedding of Amy Crawford, of Zion, Ill., and David Wright, 21, of Bristol Wis. who were injured in an auto accident Friday night is scheduled to proceed on schedule at 8 p. m. at Woodland Community Church southeast of here.

Miss Crawford, whose parents live in Des Moines, spent Friday night in a hospital but said nothing could stop her wedding. The couple plans to live in Zion.

U.S. Makes Offer To Release Facts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States offered Saturday to give the Inter-American Peace Committee "factual information" about the activities of Latin American exiles in this country. This would include some reference to recent anti-Castro leaflet flights over Havana.

The five-nation peace committee was set up by an inter-American foreign ministers conference last August and directed to look into the causes of tension in the Caribbean area.

A telegram offering U.S. cooperation was sent by Asst. Secretary State Roy R. Rubottom to Ambassador John C. Dreier, U.S. chairman of the committee, and made public by the State Department.

The telegram avoided any direct reference to Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz, who was described by the FBI Friday night as having acknowledged responsibility for a leaftlet-dropping mission over Havana last Wednesday.

Diaz Lanz, who formerly was Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's air force chief, is now living in Miami. He fled from Cuba last June and now contends the Castro regime is riddled with pro-Communists.

Some officials said it could be assumed that the State Department had received a report of the FBI investigation of the leaflet dropping flights, which have fanned Cuban indignation against the United States.

ROMAN CIRCUS?

Wife Of Matos Makes Statement

HAVANA (AP) — Mrs. Hubert Matos, wife of the jailed ex-army commander of Camaguey province, asserted Saturday her husband and his staff are being held nearly nude and incommunicado.

The pretty, 38-year-old Mrs. Matos said in an interview she tried to visit her husband at Havana's La Cabana military fortress.

"They refused to let me see him," she declared, "but when I insisted, and told them I wouldn't leave and to go ahead and shoot me, they permitted me to see him at a distance of about half a block down a corridor.

"He was in underclothes and yelled loudly to me: 'Let people know how we are being treated here.'

"But they wouldn't let me come near him."

Mrs. Matos said no reason was given why she couldn't see her husband.

"But I'm sure it's because my letter yesterday was published by the newspapers. Fidel can't stand criticism and he also might think Hubert is passing information to me. But that isn't necessary, because I have all the facts about this matter."

In a letter to Castro published by three Havana newspapers Friday Mrs. Matos said:

"We—the Cuban people—believe you are capable of ordering him—Matos—killed and then claiming he committed suicide. After this, Dr. Castro, arrest me, kill me or ignore me or do what you consider most intelligent, bceause about you I don't doubt anything."

The 40-year-old Matos fought with Castro against ex-President Fulgencio Batista.

He stirred the latest crisis in the revolutionary government when he attempted to resign, claiming dissatisfaction with some things in Castro's regime.

Most of his staff officers resigned with him. Matos was denounced as a traitor and he and his supporters were jailed.

Asked if she feared for her husband's life, Mrs. Matos declared Castro is "capable of anything."

In a wavering voice she added: "I wouldn't be surprised if he dragged Hubert before the mob at Monday's demonstration to try to disgrace him publicly, because Fidel loves a Roman circus and wants one.

"Then, if the people stoned Hubert, Fidel could always say: 'I didn't do it, the people did.'"

Castro has called a rally for Monday to demonstrate popular support against an increasing wave of opposition.

Neither Mrs. Matos nor Matos have been formally advised of specific charges against him, she said.

"They have't finished inventing proofs," she went on. "If Fidel had them ready he would have presented them on television.

"If Fidel acted intelligently, allowing Hubert to resign quietly, on illness or another excuse, this could have been avoided. But he—Castro—can't stand criticism and set about brutally to downgrade Hubert."

Twirling a pencil nervously and looking a bit worn, Mrs. Matos said her husband first offered to step down July 26 but Castro talked him into staying on, saying he needed him.

But later, she said, Matos was tipped by officer friends that Castro was preparing to accuse him of treason "only because Hubert was not in accord with some things in government."

Her husband then resigned, she said, in hopes of heading off what she said was a plan to villify him.

New Hurdle Cleared In Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — First complete replacement of a human heart valve with a plastic substitute—constituting a possibly spectacular new breakthrough in cardiace surgery—was reported Saturday by a University of Virginia surgeon.

Dr. William H. Muller Jr. reported to the American Heart Assn. that a woman patient, in dire straits before the operation, has now gone almost a year since the robot valve was installed and is "progressing satisfactorily."

The plastic valve is a direct replacement for the valve of the aorta, the great blood vessel that constitutes the main trunkline of blood to the body. Thus, the aortic valve controls the flow of blood from the heart to the rest of the body. But it is one of the most difficult organs of the body to operate on because of its vital location and because of the extreme damage that can be caused to it by rheumatic fever and certain other conditions.

Muller told the 32nd annual scientific meeting of the heart association that the plastic valve is designed to correct a condition known as aortic valve insufficiency, wherein the left-like sections of the natural valve don't close completely after blood is pumped through. Thus, some of the blood "backs up" into the heart.

He said that in recent years, Dr. Charles Hufnagel of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., had developed a plastic valve which partially, though not completely satisfactorily, corrects the condition.

The Hufnagel valve consists of a tiny ball that moves back and forth in a plastic tube grafted into the aorta at a certain distance from the natural valve.

Dr. Muller indicated that in many cases the Hufnagel valve greatly reduces the amount of blood that backs up into the heart. But he said that because of its relatively-remote position from the site of the natural valave, it, in effect, misses handling some 35 per cent of the blood pumped from the heart.

Couple Hurt In Wreck Still Plan Wedding

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—It will be a little awkward at the altar tonight—the bride with her broken arm in a cast and the groom bandaged for arm cuts.

But the wedding of Amy Crawford, of Zion, Ill., and David Wright, 21, of Bristol Wis. who were injured in an auto accident Friday night is scheduled to proceed on schedule at 8 p. m. at Woodland Community Church southeast of here.

Miss Crawford, whose parents live in Des Moines, spent Friday night in a hospital but said nothing could stop her wedding. The couple plans to live in Zion.

9 Countries Heard From On Program

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Nine different countries had some representation on the first-rate music program given Saturday in the General Assembly Hall in celebration of United Nations Day.

Brazil sent a conductor, Finland a basso, Canada a contralto, Austria a soprano, France a pianist, Central and South America some rousing compositions.

To make the event as widely international as possible, the broadcast program, plus pick-ups from Moscow and Geneva, went directly to 17 countries and by recordings to 60 more.

The New York Philharmonic and the Schola Cantorum of about 100 voices were the main music-makers that packed the platform of this domed, circular hall.

Elazar de Carvalho, from Brazil, conducted this orchestra for the first time, and proved to be a dynamic interpreter of a series of unusually stormy works.

After a welcome by Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, the program with Chavez's "Sinfonia India," and continued with Franck's "Symphonic Variations," with Robert Casadesus as soloist, and Villa-Lobos' "Descobrimento do Brazil." Then to prove Beethoven was as much of a thunderer as the South Americans, it ended with the finale of his 9th Symphony.

Soloists were Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Maureen Forrester, Jan Peerece and Kim Borg. All the voices but Borg's were known here, and known most favorably. The newcomer, although he sang passages too brief to allow any definite judgment, sounded like warm, and resonant. He will make his Metropolitan Opera debut this week.

See Drawback In Working On Defense Jobs

By WILLIAM FERRIS
United Press International

Working in defense industries has its hazards. You can't be sure that the project won't collapse under you.

There have been several contract cancellations in recent months. Most have come in manned aircraft as the nation's military effort has swung over to ballistic missiles.

One of the biggest came when the Air Force notified North American Aviation, Inc. that further development of the F108 long-range interceptor was being discontinued. That will toss 2,000 out of work.

North American employs about 64,000 in all its plants. Last year employment got down to 53,275, but in 1957 it topped 70,000. That was the year North American's Navaho missile contract was terminated. Employment dropped quickly at Los Angeles.

There have been other cutbacks in the Los Angeles area. Douglas employed 83,500 in 1958, now employs 68,850. But total employment in the Los Angeles metropolitan area in August hit an all-time high at 2,617,700.

One of the latest terminations was the Navy's dropping of its SeaMaster contract with the Martin Co. in August. Martin immediately laid off 1,269 employes, including about 150 engineers, and said total employment reductions would number 3,000.

In August the Air Force reduced its need for a boron-based chemical fuel. Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corp. and Callery Co. were hit.

At its Niagara Falls plant, Olin-Mathieson contemplates a force reduction of 850 out of its 1,460 employed. Thus far 240 have been relocated, to use the public relations department's phrase.

In Muskogee, Okla., a city of 50,000, Callery reduced its employes from 463 in mid-August to 250. It will cut this force further to about 150.

Gordon Willard, manager of the Callery plant, says, "So many employes have been resigning to take other jobs that the decrease in the work force has been faster than we had planned for it to be."

In fiscal 1954 expenditures for manned airplane procurement totaled 16 billion dollars. This year expenditures are down to around 6½ billion.

On the other hand, missile expenditures in fiscal 1954 totaled one-half billion dollars. This year they are expected to be about four billion. This trend is bound to continue in the years ahead.

Some layoffs also result from competition between various air companies. Thus Chance-Vought Aircraft Inc. laid off about 5,000 in the Dallas area less than a year ago when it lost out in competition with McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis.

Aircraft workers go where the jobs go. Some of the Chance Voght workers simply packed up and moved on to McDonnell.

The Texas Employment Commission says, "based on the past two years of defense contracts being cut in Dallas and Fort Worth, a continued gradual cutback would not have a major impact on the area's employment situation."

Another example of defense cutbacks in a relatively small town is at Hagerstown, Md. Since the start of 1959, the plant of Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. has lost 1,800 employes.

Fairchild is the largest employer in Hagerstown and the city of 36,000 has no other really large industry. But the cutback hasn't dimmed the enthusiasm of the local Chamber of Commerce.

James Stone, chamber manager, says "there is an exceptional level of business by other manufacturers here. Our latest figures indicate that the manufacturing payroll here is higher at this time than for the same period last year. There is less employment but there is more money."

Far more spectacular than the cutbacks in some areas have been the booms in other sections. Take Cape Canaveral, Fla., for example.

This missile test center is located in Brevard County. When the first missile was fired from Cape Canaveral in 1950, Brevard County's population totaled 23,653. Today it totals about 115,000.

In 1950 Brevard County's personal income totaled 24 million dollars. In 1957 it was 160 million.

One of the biggest beneficiaries of the switch from manned aircraft to missiles is the electronics industry.

George Haller, vice president and general manager of the Defense Electronics Division of General Electric Co., says "Employment in departments which handle almost all our defense work has increased about 14 per cent since the first of the year."

The number of companies working directly or indirectly on missiles grows each month. Maj. Gen. Ben I. Funk, commander Ballistic Missiles Center of the Air Materiel Command of the U.S. Air Force, says:

"We have over 100,000 people directly and actively participating in our program, representing some 22 industries, 25 major prime contractors, over 400 major subcontractors and many thousands of suppliers and vendors."

Spending for shipbuilding has increased, too. About one billion dollars. Now it's more than 1½ billion. The need for replacing warships built in World War II, as well as building nuclear - powered submarines, is responsible.

Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., engaged in nuclear submarine work, has increased employment by 2,000 since the start of the year.

At the Quincy, Mass., shipbuilding yards of Bethlehm Steel Corp., a spokesman says: "We've been hiring for two years and everything is lovely."

'NOT IMMENSELY PLEASED'

Niven Comments On Acting Profession

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — David Niven, one of Hollywood's more modest citizens, says he sometimes feels he should be engaged in a more manly occupation than acting.

"I'm not immensely pleased about acting," said the Scottish-born performer, who won an Oscar earlier this year for his performance in "Separate Tables."

"I have such fun at it, and then I begin thinking about how grossly I'm paid for it. I think that, as a man, I should be digging a ditch or something.

"Acting is like golf. I think anyone with a good sense of timing can get to a handicap of 10."

Niven, a former seaman, lumber camp worker, newspaperman and British army Commando, said at lunch in the MGM commissary there are other drawbacks to being an actor.

"There are certain country clubs you can't get in," he said, "because some people still go by the old theory that all actors live hard and fast.

"Years ago, I couldn't crack the Bel Air Country Club here. Finally, Doug Fairbanks, the only actor who was a member, swung it for me. Then we got Fred Astaire in, then Bing Crosby, then Bob Hope, and the old ban was shattered."

Niven, who soon will appear in the films "Happy Anniversary" and "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," went on to another drawback.

"It's a hideous thing when you get to the age when you should be the president of a bank in the other walk of life—say about 50—but you may be too old for the movies, you may be out of a job just when other men are reaching their prime.

"After all, do you realize the incredibly small percentage of actors who reach stardom? I believe the average yearly income for all actors in this country is something like $860."

Still another drawback, said Niven, is that many persons associate artistic poseurs like "beatniks" with legitimate creative artists.

"The beatniks are frauds," he said, "because they claim to be non-conformists but they're the greatest conformists of all time. There's absolutely nothing new about them. They're the same as the old Bohemians."

A great drawback to being an actor, Niven sighed, is that "we're rolled up with egomania, but we can't let it out. It's best not to."

This may be one of the reasons he has seen only nine of his 63 films.

"I find it absolutely impossible to look at anyone but myself," he said, "and it louses up the picture for me. I look and twitch. Now I go only if I'm in a top picture—like 'Separate Tables' or 'Around the World in 80 Days'."

Niven, the actor, often finds consolation in Niven, the writer. He has already written one book and is in the midst of doing a play.

"I have a bit of a problem," he said. "I have 38 actors on stage at the end of the first act and no possible way of getting them off."

Elvis Presley Is Hospitalized

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Singer Elvis Presley, who temporarily wheels a jeep for the U.S. Army, was hospitalized with tonsillitis Saturday for the second time in four months.

An army spokesman said the 24-year-old soldier, a specialist 4th class, is in satisfactory condition in the Army's 97th General Hospital here. Doctors probably won't know until Monday whether Presley's tonsils will have to be removed, the spokesman said.

Elephant Ear Plants Bloom

By MILDRED SWIFT

Until last year, few of us had ever seen an elephant's ear bloom. But last season seemed to be their year. Lo and behold! Our phone rang many times. Gardeners calling in that somebody close by had an elephant's ear in bloom.

Mrs. Takewell, 501 Hall street, Monroe, has grown one of the largest elephant ear plants I've ever seen. It is not only immense, but is blooming, too. Mrs. O. S. Joiner, 4315 South Grand street also has a plant in bloom. If you've never seen an elephant's ear blossom, drive by one of these homes and see what you think about this.

GARDENING

One indignant gardener said, "Mrs. Swift, I like junipers, but you don't seem to think they're suitable for home planting." Bless your heart, this life is too short and uncertain for us not to have the simple things we want and love — especially when it is so easily obtained as a juniper. I will say, try to be satisfied with the dwarf variety. The large ones grow so very, very big. When they're pruned it takes several years before they take on a nice shape again. They're quite unsightly during that time. Also, be prepared to fight the red spider. He can certainly turn an entire branch yellow and it will be dead before you hardly realize it's changed color.

So many people moving down south from cooler climates love this juniper because it does do well in colder areas. Our growing season in Louisiana is so long, though, the plant grows to be an immense size in a short time. Also the red spider is not so prevalent up north where the weather is colder.

Don't overlook the youpon. There's the large and the dwarf one. Both are practically disease and insect free. However, let's whisper that. For many years we talked long and loud about the daylily having no diseases or insects. Now it's come up with several. I told you about those a few weeks ago.

These Youpons are evergreen, fast growers and drowth resistant. I have several of these dwarf ones growing in a confined area that gets as dry as brick in the summer. We never have to water them. They're very attractive but bear no berries as the large ones do. The large variety will grow into a tree if lower branches are pruned. This does take many years. There's a gorgeous Youpon tree in Mrs. Josie Faulk's garden in West Monroe.

MORE GARDENING

Yes, you can still sprig St. Augustine or centipede grass. It will grow but very little until spring, but when that time comes the plants will be well established and off they'll go. But wait if you have leaves to be swept during the fall, I'd not sprig that area. You'll pull the plants out of the ground as you sweep the leaves. That sprigging is a back breaking job. You surely don't want to do all that work and then find the sprigs in the compost pile with the leaves.

That white fly (or rather its larvae) is busily responsible for putting the sooty black deposit on your evergreen leaves. At this time of year you may find your gardenias, azaleas, camellias, ligustrums and hollys covered with this unattractive deposit. Spray with Malathion.

Scale is still quite prevalent on camellias. Malathion will help that. An oil emulsion would do a cleaner job but at this time of year it is safer to use Malathion. Watch — you'll probably need to spray more than once.

BULB PLANTING

You certainly want some of the gorgeous narcissus, daffodils and members of their families. Don't let the pictures of these beauties entice you to plant them in your most noticeable beds. Remember — you'll see them in bloom for about three weeks. You'll see the dying unsightly tops for about three months. And — these tops should not be cut. The food for the blooms for the next year is manufactured in the foliage of the bulb. If you cut this before it dies, you'll lose next year's blooms.

Some suggested places for bulbs are nooks and corners where you use one color in a clump. In the fern or ivy bed is an ideal place. The green of the plants will hide the dying foliage. Or you can naturalize your bulbs on a slope.

Shady places, which are often a problem, may be beautified by bulbs. The bulbs bloom before the trees put out in the spring so they get sufficient sun. However, bulbs are not going to survive in soil that is packed and starved because of masses of tree roots.

Remember the older gardeners say the bulbs with the shortest cups keep their identity better from year to year.

I suppose we do less bending and digging with a garden of bulbs than with any other plants. They bloom the first year. Many varieties bloom in early spring when we're starved for the sight of color. They multiply rapidly. They grow with minimum care.

Bulbs need little care but be sure to prepare the soil well before planting. Working bone meal in this soil will help the plants and blooms later on. The first years blooms are already in the bulbs when you plant them. The depth you plant the bulb depends on the type soil. PUlant twice the depth of the bulb is a pretty safe rule. Bulbs planted in clumps are more attractive than those put in a single line.

If you want hyacinths, this is the time to plant. They need some sun. Plant about six inches apart and three to four inches deep.

This is not the time to dig and transplant established bulbs. Only those you buy.

Watch for the gingko and tallow tree. As soon as we have frost these should be a gorgeous splurge of color. Also, the sweet gum. It's a messy tree but somehow we forget all that when the fall colors come. You'll probably decide you want one of these three trees for your garden after you see their fall clothes.

A HINT

If you have a cold, and can't shampoo your hair, give it a dry cleaning. Cover your hairbrush with an old nylon stocking. Brush vigorously, rotating the stocking to a clean spot every few strokes. Then take a piece of cotton and moisten it with your favorite toilet water. Part the hair in one inch sections and rub the cotton on the scalp and along each strand of hair.

Then if you spill some of the toilet water on your table top—wipe it up quickly. Polish the spot with liquid cleaning and polishing wax. If the mark should still remain, try rubbing with a small amount of silver polish or a little moistened cigar or cigarette ashes. Then rewax the area.

CAMERA NEWS

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Some of the advice given recently to an audience of professional photographers would have been equally helpful to amateurs. The occasion was the convention of the Professional Photographers Association of New Jersey where a couple of the speakers talked about posing and color.

Tony Wichers, masterphotographer of Topeka, Kan., showed how to achieve glamour in portrait posing.

"With the body in one direction, turn the head in another direction," Tony demonstrated with one of the women from the audience. "This change of direction of head and body imparts action to the pose.

"And wherever there is a joint . . . bend it. That adds grace and naturalness at elbows, wrists, fingers and knees.

"However, in close-ups particularly, watch the neck muscles when the head is turned. These can be too prominent and show tension. In that case, just adjust the tilt of the head until the muscles show no strain.

"In other cases, a simple prop like a filmy stole can be draped over the shoulders to cover defects like too - prominent shoulder blades or neck muscles.

"When photographing the full figure, here's a way to judge the composition as a whole. Turn off all the front lights and leave only the backlight on the background. The result is a silhouette of the subject making it easier to judge."

Ed Evans, a pioneer in the use of color in photography, and head of Evans Color Laboratory, Long Island City, N. Y., talked about the subject with which he is so familiar.

"We live in a world of color yet some photographers seem unaware of it, judging from their photos. Their photographic world is completely black - and - white and they feel that if they ignore color perhaps it may go away.

"The evidence is all the other way. It wasn't so long ago that most home movies were in black-and-white. Yet today its sale is so limited that Kodak had to discontinue 8mm black-and-white movie film. We have seen the home movie field go completely to color.

"Improved Kodacolor appeared on the market only in the past couple of years, yet Kodacolor snapshots are commonplace and about half of the amateur processing market is in color.

"I believe the days of black-and-white portrait photography are numbered. You can blame, or thank, the introduction of Kodacolor and Ektacolor films for this and the simplification and quality of Type C, as it was formerly called, or Ektacolor prints as they are now called. These are natural color prints at a reasonable price.

"Photographers today can experiment with color easily. They use exactly the same camera, lens, lighting and shooting technique that they are familiar with. The only change necessary is to compensate for the slower speed of the color negative film from that of the black-and-white film they have been using.

"If the pose, lighting and color harmony looks good on the ground glass, it'll look good on the finished color print if proper exposure is given.

"Many photographers use intense flood lighting for portraiture. It'll make it more bearable for the subject if the rest of the room is illuminated also. There's less squinting and more eye comfort if the level of illumination is more uniform throughout."

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Taming Wild Chokeberry

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of our most brilliant native shrubs at this time of the year is the chokeberry. It will catch your eye with its showy red leaves — even if you are shooting by in an automobile at sixty miles an hour. If you stop to see what is so red, you will be startled to see that it is not only brilliant leaves but shiny red berries, too, that made such a splotch of color on the landscape.

IN MARSHES

You may need boots or, at least, overshoes to visit a patch of chokeberries because chokeberries like to grow in wet places. They will grow on ordinary dry land, too, but these medium sized to tall shrubs are just the thing for a wettish spot or for a streamside planting. The berries apparently do not ripen enough for the birds to like them before the end of winter. Mash a berry and taste it very carefully. The astringent juice will nearly choke you. From this fact, the choke berry was well named.

This member of the rose or, as it is sometimes called, the "Apple family" is called Aronia Arbutifolia in Latin. It was well named in Latin, too, because the leaves are the shape of trailing arbutus leaves. It was named in 1753 by the great botanist, Linaeus in Sweden. At this time, he had been receiving hundreds of American plants and must have been impressed by the beauty of the leaves of our trailing arbutus.

If you plant three or more chokeberries together in marshy spot, you will soon have a colony because they will come up all around the original plants and grow together in a patch. Sweet pepper-bush (Clethra Alnifolia) would be another good shrub to plant with chokeberries because both of them like wet places. The sweet pepper-bush will give you spikes of white flowers in the summer and does not mind being pruned or shaped almost any way you wish to make it grow.

SWEET PEPPERS

Both of these wild bushes will grow in ordinary soil if you have no wet places for them. Take the nozzle off the hose in hot times in the summer and let the water run for a while to make the pepper-bush bloom. In dry places the bushes become somewhat stunted, but they will even grow and bloom in such places, too.

All of our native trees, shrubs and flowers vary a great deal from place to place. If you will look around, you may find some chokeberries with extra large fruits. In some places in the south, you will find black fruited chokeberries, too, but this is another species. Pink forms of sweet pepper-bush have been found and can be bought from the nurseries.

leaf hydrangea. Dark grown pods of locust, and the velvety pods of wisteria were grouped to form a third dimension. Orange berries of pyrancantha were used as filler, blending into the color tones of orange persimmons and deeper toned pomegranates. A most colorful design, suitable for a den or buffett.

COLOR SCHEME

A most unusual container and a subtle color scheme were the features of the arrangement by Mrs. Robert Burt, Jr. The container was a naturally shaped piece of coral, called dish coral. It was almost boat shaped and deep enough to hold a cup type holder. Mrs. Burt used "Oasis" as her mechanic in this design. In a flaring fan - shaped design Mrs. Burt combined butterfly lilies in creamy white - with their graceful pointed foliage. Berry stalks of French Mulberry, (Callicarpa) in light violet and white accented the lines of the design. Clustered in the focal area were rosy violet heads of the cockscomb type celosia. These blended in form and texture with the coral. The creamy white of the fragrant lilies and the container were the same color. Many visitors to the Garden Center were seeing for the first time the French Mulberry with the white berries and pale violet tones. Could be this callicarpa variety alba. Very beautiful.

Here's good news to the flower arranger and the judge. Esther Wheeler, internationally famous flower and teacher has just published a booklet called Judging Japanese Flower Arrangement. The text contains descriptions of the various schools of Japanese design and their characteristics and a scale of points to guide both exhibitor and judge. There are black and white photegraphs showing arrangements in the various types. These will be available at the Garden Center for a very modest sum.

Spacings For Various Bulbs

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now that it is bulb planting time we have many calls regarding the depth to plant different bulbs. A general rule of thumb, if you like to follow, is to plant bulb at depth equal to two to three times its diameter. But remember to plant deeper in sand than clay soil. Some of the depths and spacing for our bulbs are: Scilla, 4 inches deep and about 3 inches apart; tulips, 6 inches deep and 5 inches apart; hyacinths, 7 inches deep and 6 to 8 inches apart; daffodils, 8 inches in ground and 6 to 12 inches apart; crocus and snowdrop 5 inches deep and 2 inches apart.

SUGAR RESTRICTED

Persons on sugar restricted diets will find it much easier to distinguish artificially sweetened canned fruits from those packed in sugar sirup under special standards developed by the Food and Drug Administration. Under the new standards the words, "artifically sweetened" will appear on the label as part of and ahead of the name of the fruit. The new standards permit use of a water solution of a safe non nutritive artificial sweetener in place of the usual sirup to meet the needs of persons on sugar restricted diets.

RETIREMENT

At the present time there are fourteen million folks sixty-five years or over in the U. S. Some suggestions as to how these can spend some of their time are: Take more active part in political activities; take interest in school problems; study the recreational needs of the community for both old and young; be more active in your church. If these suggestions are followed the last years can be the best years. A person retiring needs a goal not a rocking chair.

SWEATERS

It's sweater time in Louisiana and this season they will go everywhere, school, football games, church and party. Because they are so popular it is important to give thought to their selection and care. If the sweater is to be worn to school, the favorites are the slip on and the cardigan. For sportswear, with slacks, shorts or skirts there are V-necks, turtle necks and long sleeves slipons as well. If the occasion calls for a dressier sweater, there are dressmaker styles, those with a special touch at the neckline and many kinds of gaily decorated sweaters.

A slip-on sweater can double for many occasions if a pretty necklace or collar is addded. A cardigan can double as an extra wrap.

Care prolongs the life and beauty of sweaters. So a few suggestions for good sweater care are: follow care and cleaning information on labels attached to the sweater. Save them for reference. Air after wearing, then fold and place in a drawer. Do not hang sweaters on hangers. Never use pins on sweaters. They may cause snags. If a snag does occur, pull the loop to the underside of the garment.

It's a big season for plaids. This year plaids are smaller, and give a check like appearance. Brightness is captured by the cross strip rather the ground. Scottish plaids and the old tartans, as well as the classic Shepherds check are perennnial favorites.

The textured look sweeps the entire cotton family — cottons look like woolens, worsted, crepes, tapestries, brocades and cords. Stitching and embroidered effect, satin and metallic decorations, all underscore the importance of texture.

The most important news in corduroys is the new wale arrangements of thick and thins broken effect of basket weaves, cobblestones and brocades. The more realistic impressions of wool tweeds, plaids and florals slant out in the rpinted corduroys.

A THOUGHT — It's a big mistake to go out of our way to borrow trouble — to worry about what's coming — most of it never happens anyway.

Congressional Record Lingers On, On And On

By GEORGE J. MARDER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is long since gone but the official Congressional Record lingers on. . and on. . .and on.

Like a filibuster.

The Record is supposed to be the daily journal of debates and actions in the House and Senate.

With both Houses in adjournment until January, it is a fair assumption the well of words would run dry and that the Record, like Congress itself, would shut up shop.

That is not the case.

The lawmakers are still getting published in the Record. . .speeches they never got around to making while Congress was in session or speeches they've made since.

All that has to be done is to postdate the speech to the last full day that Congress was in session, Monday, Sept. 14, and the Congressional Record will accept it for its voluminous appendix which is now up to page 8473.

And so you'll find that in the Record for Sept. 30, two weeks after Congress adjourned, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) was recorded as making a speech on Sept. 14 about the Senate's international health study. Sen. Warren G. Magnunson (D-Wash.) is listed as making an appeal for water resource development. And Rep. George M. Rhodes (D-Pa.) lectured the House with an article about the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer.

Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.) complained by proxy to his colleagues over the high cost of higher education. And Rep. George P. Miller got in belatedly with a glowing tribute to the wine industry. Miller is from wine-producing California.

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) was eloquent with unspoken words about the water recreation facilities in Colorado and the man who's doing the most for them. And there were a whole series of comments inserted about the Khrushchev visit to the United States.

Several lawmakers took advantage of the continuing Record to boast or bemoan the accomplishments of the first session of the 86th Congress.

Democrat John C. Watts, the representative from Kentucky, found the session "solid and substantial." Republican Florence P. Dwyer of New Jersey tagged the overall record as "uninspiring".

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Simsboro Club Stages Show

By MARY JARDINE

Simsboro Garden Club members staged a delightful flower show at the Garden Center this past week.

In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. L. A. Mullin for large salmon celosia (cockscomb type), to Mrs. C. C. Cole for Purple Dahlia, again to Mrs. Mullin for Ornamental pepper bush.

Dahlias were featured in the top score arrangement which combined the talents of Mrs. Homer Best, Mrs. G. D. Madden and Mrs. L. A. Mullin. A black compote of classic lines was selected for the symmetrical mass design. Trimmed aspidistra leaves placed in a formal pattern formed the backgorund for brilliant red dahlias. Low in the design calla leaves added a change of color tone and texture. The complementary color scheme was most arresting.

FALL FLOWERS

Mrs. Ray Canterbury and Mrs. Pete Cole collaborated in designing a most colorful arrangement using fall flowers. A light brown boat - shaped bowl held the line-mass design. The line was delineated with green and yellow euonymus, followed by pale yellow marigolds. Worked into the design were light bronze button chrysanthemums followed by larger, deeper bronze mums of the daisy type. The color blending was exceptionally beautiful. This charming arrangement was staged against a pale chartreuse background.

Mrs. H. E. Noble designed a beautiful composition combining fresh and dry materials. A light tan ceramic compote was selected by Mrs. Noble for her color scheme of browns and tans blending in the orange and red-orange tones we associate with Fall. For background Mrs. Noble used naturally dried aspidistra leaves. Secondary placements were dark brown flower stalks of the oak

"We live in a world of color yet some photographers seem unaware of it, judging from their photos. Their photographic world is completely black - and - white and they feel that if they ignore color perhaps it may go away.

"The evidence is all the other way. It wasn't so long ago that most home movies were in black-and-white. Yet today its sale is so limited that Kodak had to discontinue 8mm black-and-white movie film. We have seen the home movie field go completely to color.

"Improved Kodacolor appeared on the market only in the past couple of years, yet Kodacolor snapshots are commonplace and about half of the amateur processing market is in color.

"I believe the days of black-and-white portrait photography are numbered. You can blame, or thank, the introduction of Kodacolor and Ektacolor films for this and the simplification and quality of Type C, as it was formerly called, or Ektacolor prints as they are now called. These are natural color prints at a reasonable price.

"Photographers today can experiment with color easily. They use exactly the same camera, lens, lighting and shooting technique that they are familiar with. The only change necessary is to compensate for the slower speed of the color negative film from that of the black-and-white film they have been using.

"If the pose, lighting and color harmony looks good on the ground glass, it'll look good on the finished color print if proper exposure is given.

"Many photographers use intense flood lighting for portraiture. It'll make it more bearable for the subject if the rest of the room is illuminated also. There's less squinting and more eye comfort if the level of illumination is more uniform throughout."

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Taming Wild Chokeberry

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of our most brilliant native shrubs at this time of the year is the chokeberry. It will catch your eye with its showy red leaves — even if you are shooting by in an automobile at sixty miles an hour. If you stop to see what is so red, you will be startled to see that it is not only brilliant leaves but shiny red berries, too, that made such a splotch of color on the landscape.

IN MARSHES

You may need boots or, at least, overshoes to visit a patch of chokeberries because chokeberries like to grow in wet places. They will grow on ordinary dry land, too, but these medium sized to tall shrubs are just the thing for a wettish spot or for a streamside planting. The berries apparently do not ripen enough for the birds to like them before the end of winter. Mash a berry and taste it very carefully. The astringent juice will nearly choke you. From this fact, the choke berry was well named.

This member of the rose or, as it is sometimes called, the "Apple family" is called Aronia Arbutifolia in Latin. It was well named in Latin, too, because the leaves are the shape of trailing arbutus leaves. It was named in 1753 by the great botanist, Linaeus in Sweden. At this time, he had been receiving hundreds of American plants and must have been impressed by the beauty of the leaves of our trailing arbutus.

If you plant three or more chokeberries together in marshy spot, you will soon have a colony because they will come up all around the original plants and grow together in a patch. Sweet pepper-bush (Clethra Alnifolia) would be another good shrub to plant with chokeberries because both of them like wet places. The sweet pepper-bush will give you spikes of white flowers in the summer and does not mind being pruned or shaped almost any way you wish to make it grow.

SWEET PEPPERS

Both of these wild bushes will grow in ordinary soil if you have no wet places for them. Take the nozzle off the hose in hot times in the summer and let the water run for a while to make the pepper-bush bloom. In dry places the bushes become somewhat stunted, but they will even grow and bloom in such places, too.

All of our native trees, shrubs and flowers vary a great deal from place to place. If you will look around, you may find some chokeberries with extra large fruits. In some places in the south, you will find black fruited chokeberries, too, but this is another species. Pink forms of sweet pepper-bush have been found and can be bought from the nurseries.

leaf hydrangea. Dark grown pods of locust, and the velvety pods of wisteria were grouped to form a third dimension. Orange berries of pyrancantha were used as filler, blending into the color tones of orange persimmons and deeper toned pomegranates. A most colorful design, suitable for a den or buffett.

COLOR SCHEME

A most unusual container and a subtle color scheme were the features of the arrangement by Mrs. Robert Burt, Jr. The container was a naturally shaped piece of coral, called dish coral. It was almost boat shaped and deep enough to hold a cup type holder. Mrs. Burt used "Oasis" as her mechanic in this design. In a flaring fan - shaped design Mrs. Burt combined butterfly lilies in creamy white - with their graceful pointed foliage. Berry stalks of French Mulberry, (Callicarpa) in light violet and white accented the lines of the design. Clustered in the focal area were rosy violet heads of the cockscomb type celosia. These blended in form and texture with the coral. The creamy white of the fragrant lilies and the container were the same color. Many visitors to the Garden Center were seeing for the first time the French Mulberry with the white berries and pale violet tones. Could be this callicarpa variety alba. Very beautiful.

Here's good news to the flower arranger and the judge. Esther Wheeler, internationally famous flower and teacher has just published a booklet called Judging Japanese Flower Arrangement. The text contains descriptions of the various schools of Japanese design and their characteristics and a scale of points to guide both exhibitor and judge. There are black and white photographs showing arrangements in the various types. These will be available at the Garden Center for a very modest sum.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Simsboro Club Stages Show

By MARY JARDINE

In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. L. A. Mullin for large salmon celosia (cockscomb type), to Mrs. C. C. Cole for Purple Dahlia, again to Mrs. Mullin for Ornamental pepper bush.

Dahlias were featured in the top score arrangement which combined the talents of Mrs. Homer Best, Mrs. G. D. Madden and Mrs. L. A. Mullin. A black compote of classic lines was selected for the symmetrical mass design. Trimmed aspidistra leaves placed in a formal pattern formed the backgorund for brilliant red dahlias. Low in the design calla leaves added a change of color tone and texture. The complementary color scheme was most arresting.

FALL FLOWERS

Mrs. Ray Canterbury and Mrs. Pete Cole collaborated in designing a most colorful arrangement using fall flowers. A light brown boat - shaped bowl held the linemass design. The line was delineated with green and yellow euonymus, followed by pale yellow marigolds. Worked into the design were light bronze button chrysanthemums followed by larger, deeper bronze mums of the daisy type. The color blending was exceptionally beautiful. This charming arrangement was staged against a pale chartreuse background.

Mrs. H. E. Noble designed a beautiful composition combining fresh and dry materials. A light tan ceramic compote was selected by Mrs. Noble for her color scheme of browns and tans blending in the orange and red-orange tones we associate with Fall. For background Mrs. Noble used naturally dried aspidistra leaves. Secondary placements were dark brown flower stalks of the oak

EXTENSION NEWS AND VIEWS

Spacings For Various Bulbs

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now that it is bulb planting time we have many calls regarding the depth to plant different bulbs. A general rule of thumb, if you like to follow, is to plant bulb at depth equal to two to three times its diameter. But remember to plant deeper in sand than clay soil. Some of the depths and spacing for our bulbs are: Scilla, 4 inches deep and about 3 inches apart; tulips, 6 inches deep and 5 inches apart; hyacinths, 7 inches deep and 6 to 8 inches apart; daffodils, 8 inches in ground and 6 to 12 inches apart; crocus and snowdrop 5 inches deep and 2 inches apart.

SUGAR RESTRICTED

Persons on sugar restricted diets will find it much easier to distinguish artificially sweetened canned fruits from those packed in sugar sirup under special standards developed by the Food and Drug Administration. Under the new standards the words, "artificially sweetened" will appear on the label as part of and ahead of the name of the fruit. The new standards permit use of a water solution of a safe non nutritive artificial sweetener in place of the usual sirup to meet the needs of persons on sugar restricted diets.

RETIREMENT

At the present time there are fourteen million folks sixty-five years or over in the U. S. Some suggestions as to how these can spend some of their time are: Take more active part in political activities; take interest in school problems; study the recreational needs of the community for both old and young; be more active in your church. If these suggestions are followed the last years can be the best years. A person retiring needs a goal not a rocking chair.

SWEATERS

It's sweater time in Louisiana and this season they will go everywhere, school, football games, church and party. Because they are so popular it is important to give thought to their selection and care. If the sweater is to be worn to school, the favorites are the slip on and the cardigan. For sportswear, with slacks, shorts or skirts there are V-necks, turtle necks and long sleeves slipons as well. If the occasion calls for a dressier sweater, there are dressmaker styles, those with a special touch at the neckline and many kinds of gaily decorated sweaters.

A slip-on sweater can double for many occasions if a pretty necklace or collar is addded. A cardigan can double as an extra wrap.

Care prolongs the life and beauty of sweaters. So a few suggestions for good sweater care are: follow care and cleaning information on labels attached to the sweater. Save them for reference. Air after wearing, then fold and place in a drawer. Do not hang sweaters on hangers. Never use pins on sweaters. They may cause snags. If a snag does occur, pull the loop to the underside of the garment.

It's a big season for plaids. This year plaids are smaller, and give a check like appearance. Brightness is captured by the cross strip rather the ground. Scottish plaids and the old tartans, as well as the classic Shepherds check are perennnial favorites.

The textured look sweeps the entire cotton family — cottons look like woolens, worsted, crepes, tapestries, brocades and cords. Stitching and embroidered effect, satin and metallic decorations, all underscore the importance of texture.

The most important news in corduroys is the new wale arrangements of thick and thins broken effect of basket weaves, cobblestones and brocades. The more realistic impressions of wool tweeds, plaids and florals slant out in the rpinted corduroys.

A THOUGHT — It's a big mistake to go out of our way to borrow trouble — to worry about what's coming — most of it never happens anyway.

Congressional Record Lingers On, On And On

By GEORGE J. MARDER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is long since gone but the official Congressional Record lingers on. . and on. . .and on.

Like a filibuster.

The Record is supposed to be the daily journal of debates and actions in the House and Senate.

With both Houses in adjournment until January, it is a fair assumption the well of words would run dry and that the Record, like Congress itself, would shut up shop.

That is not the case.

The lawmakers are still getting published in the Record. . .speeches they never got around to making while Congress was in session or speeches they've made since.

All that has to be done is to postdate the speech to the last full day that Congress was in session, Monday, Sept. 14, and the Congressional Record will accept it for its voluminous appendix which is now up to page 8478.

And so you'll find that in the Record for Sept. 30, two weeks after Congress adjourned, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) was recorded as making a speech on Sept. 14 about the Senate's international health study. Sen. Warren G. Magnunson (D-Wash.) is listed as making an appeal for water resource development. And Rep. George M. Rhodes (D-Pa.) lectured the House with an article about the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer.

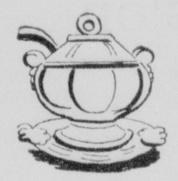

Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.) complained by proxy to his colleagues over the high cost of higher education. And Rep. George P. Miller got in belatedly with a glowing tribute to the wine industry. Miller is from wine-producing California.

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) was eloquent with unspoken words about the water recreation facilities in Colorado and the man who's doing the most for them. And there were a whole series of comments inserted about the Khrushchev visit to the United States.

Several lawmakers took advantage of the continuing Record to boast or bemoan the accomplishments of the first session of the 86th Congress.

Democrat John C. Watts, the representative from Kentucky, found the session "solid and substantial." Republican Florence P. Dwyer of New Jersey tagged the overall record as "uninspiring".

Time For Shift Of Clocks Again

About one third of the nation gets to sleep late this weekend in the annual shift from man's time to nature's.

Figuratively speaking, time in daylight saving zones was to stand still for an hour at 2 a.m. Sunday while the nation's clocks got synchronized again.

The big change occurred mostly in large cities or highly populated states where "fast time" gives office and factory workeds an extra hour of afternoon sunshine during the summertime.

Most states in the South, Southwest and West, where farmers demand that every-one stick to "God's time" because "cows can't tell time," had not made the change from standard to daylight time last April and therefore did not have to set their clocks back this weekend.

Other states had struggled through the summer like a house divided—some on fast time and some on standard. The process of getting back to standard in these areas had added complications.

Thus, St. Louis was the only city in Missouri to make the change, 18 small Ohio cities made the switch Sept. 25 while the rest of the state waited until now, and a handful of Iowa communities defied the statewide trend by shifting from standard to daylight and back again when they chose.

At Muscatine, Iowa, factory workers were just getting over being mad at the change back to standard time last Sept. 30. At the time, they claimed they would have to buy two clocks—one to keep Muscatine time and the other to get them to their jobs on daylight time in the industrial Quad Cities.

Other states which had made the annual time change ahead of the national schedule included all or parts of Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, California, and West Virginia.

Nowhere was the switchover more confusing than Indiana, where part of the state stays on daylight time all year 'round, part went back to standard time Sept. 27, and part set its clocks to keep time with Chicago and Louisville.

The Hoosier counties which made the change last month obeyed a state law which says Indiana should have standard time for the seven cool months and daylight time for the five warm ones. Thirty-eight eastern counties stayed on daylight time so their clocks would actually match the standard time in eastern time zones. Near Chicago and Louisville, the change was delayed until this weekend so workers could keep time with the big cities.

Other fast time pockets included the rocket city of Huntsville, Alabama's only daylight time center, and Arlington and Alexandria, Va., known as "the capital's bedrooms," which ignore the state's lead and adjust their clocks to those of Washington, D.C.

States which had been largely on standard time all along included Idaho, Texas, South Carolina, Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Georgia, Michigan, Oregon, Tennessee, Florida, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah, the Dakotas, and Nebraska.

Most daylight - zone Americans met the switchover by setting their clocks back an hour before they went to bed—if they remembered. The alternative was a Sunday of wondering why church services and television programs didn't start on time.

Railroads had already posted new schedules, even though they technically run on standard time the year 'round. Bus lines said they would merely move their schedules back an hour. Airlines reported they had no real problems since they run on local time, anyway.

One of the toughest jobs was holding back Western Union clocks, which are adjusted by electrical impulses for exact synchronization. The job is done by special impulses sent every 15 seconds.

Truck Crash Fatal To One, Hurts 2 Others

OIL CITY, La. (UPI) — A pickup truck hurtled through a bridge railing here last night and plunged into Twelve - Mile Bayou killing one man and injuring two others.

Police identified the dead man as Carl Byrd, 52, of Vivian, La., a passenger in the truck. Injured were Charles Judkins and Jim Atkins. Both are 22 and from Turnertown, Tex.

Officers said the truck went out of control and crashed through the bridge railing. Byrd was pinned in the death-vehicle.

KHRUSH PROMISED

Family Still Hopes For Big Reunion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes for long-awaited family reunions still flourish today among a little group of Americans who have Nikita S. Khrushchev's own word that their relatives can come to the United States.

A month has gone by since Mr. & Mrs. Paulius Leonas, Miss Donne Armonas, and the Rev. Dr. Joseph Prunskis won their promises from the Soviet Premier while he was in the United States.

So far there has been no word from the Kremlin. But it could be that Soviet red tape is holding up action.

U.S. officials said that under Soviet bureaucracy it normally can take six months or more for a person to get permission to emigrate from the Soviet Union. The Soviet embassy here refers inquiries to Moscow.

Leonas, a Chicago real estate broker, said "I am very hopeful. But I am anxious."

On Sept. 23, Leonas and his wife saw Khrushchev at his hotel in Des Moines, just before the Kremlin chief took off on an Iowa farm tour. They asked for help in getting their children, Regina and Tomas, out of the Soviet Union.

Regina, 20, is a college librarian in Vilnius, Lithuania. Tomas, 17, lives with Mrs. Leonas' parents in Salakas, Lithuania. The family has been apart for 15 years.

Khrushchev listened to the Leonas' story, and promised to see that the children rejoin their parents.

Leonas said he has heard nothing from Soviet authorities since.

Khrushchev gave his promise to Miss Armonas when she saw him in Pittsburgh. Miss Armonas, of Wickliffe, Ohio, is a 24-year-old secretary whose mother and 19-year-old brother are still in Lithuania.

The Armonas family was visiting relatives in Lithuania in 1940 when Soviet troops overran the little country. The father and daughter got out because they were American born. The Soviets kept Lithuanian-born mother and son. The mother now lives in a rented room in the village of Pasvilys. The son goes to school at Brensko.

Miss Armonas says Khrushchev told her, "Little girl, expect your mother very soon." He did not mention her brother.

The father, John Armonas, 54, got a letter a few days ago from his 50-year-old wife telling of a 500-mile train trip she made to Moscow to see Khrushchev. Mrs. Armonas spent five days trying to see the Premier, but with no success.

At the Kremlin officials were sympathetic and courteous, she said, and allowed her to make a written request to Khrushchev.

The clergyman said after speaking to Khrushchev, "I asked him to permit her to come and he told me 'I will do that'."

The United States has long pressed Moscow for release of relatives of Americans and of persons claiming to be U. S. citizens. U. S. officials are drawing up anew a long list of persons seeking exit permits, for presentation to the Soviets in hopes that the latest cold war thaw will lift the Iron Curtain further.

Woman Dies In Jail After Over 3 Decades

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Velma West, who spent the last 32 of her 53 years in Marysville Reformatory for Women for the hammer slaying of her husband, died in the prison hospital Saturday.

Supt. Martha Wheeler said she had died "of natural causes."

Mrs. West had been a patient in the reformatory's hospital for almost a year for a heart condition.

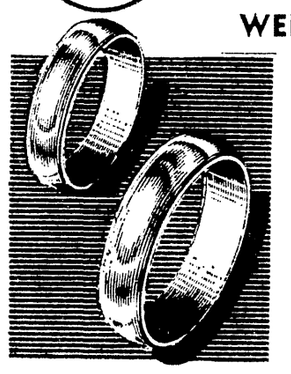

When a pretty, vivacious wife of 21, she beat her husband, Thomas Edward West, 26, to death with a claw hammer after he had enraged her by refusing to attend a bridge party. The slaying occurred in December, 1927, in Perry, Ohio, near Cleveland.

The world had heard nothing of Velma for 11 years after she was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. Then on a rainy night in June, 1939, Velma, frail and emaciated from a lingering heart ailment, slipped away from the reformatory with four other inmates.

The escape touched off a nationwide hunt that was fruitless for five weeks until Velma was captured in Dallas, Tex.

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Velma West, who spent the last 32 of her 53 years in Marysville Reformatory for Women for the hammer slaying of her husband, died in the prison hospital Saturday.

Supt. Martha Wheeler said she had died "of natural causes."

Mrs. West had been a patient in the reformatory's hospital for almost a year for a heart condition.

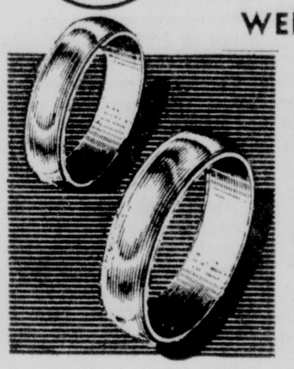

When a pretty, vivacious wife of 21, she beat her husband, Thomas Edward West, 26, to death with a claw hammer after he had enraged her by refusing to attend a bridge party. The slaying occurred in December, 1927, in Perry, Ohio, near Cleveland.

The world had heard nothing of Velma for 11 years after she was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. Then on a rainy night in June, 1939, Velma, frail and emaciated from a lingering heart ailment, slipped away from the reformatory with four other inmates.

The escape touched off a nationwide hunt that was fruitless for five weeks until Velma was captured in Dallas, Tex.

REV. CHEATHAM

New Minister Takes Post At Area Church

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Rev. Doug Cheatham has recently assumed the position as pastor of the First Baptist Church here.

Rev. Cheatham is a native of Oak Grove, Louisiana. He is a graduate of Oak Grove High School and later received his bachelor's degree from Louisiana College. He will be a 1960 graduate of Southwestern Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas. While attending Louisiana College, Rev. Cheatham was a member of the Cadmian Literary Society, the Discussion Club, Ministerial Association and the Volunteer Mission Band.

Traditions Mean Little To Pope John

ROME (UPI)—"There was a man, one sent from God, whose name was John . . . he was not himself the light but was to bear witness to the light . . ." (Fourth Gospel)

Pope John XXIII, a little man of stout girth, has radiated sunny light since he became Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church a year ago.

This peasant's son with the rough-hewn face captured the imagination of Catholics and non-Catholics alike almost from the moment he ascended the Throne of Peter.

He has a formidable position. He is spiritual leader to more than 500 million Catholics throughout the world. He is king of tiny Vatican State whose 108 acres of stately palaces and gardens he has already explored with lively inquisitiveness, even to the oil-stained garage.

Humble and awed by his responsibilities, he nevertheless thoroughly enjoys his job, and makes it obvious that he does.

"I'm impatient of being always indoors," he told a group of American priests recently.

He confides his feelings not just to private secretaries and a few select cardinals but to all who are willing to hear.

His Papal audiences, to groups of thousands or to individuals, are filled with surprises.

He likes surprises.

Several days after his election, Pope John had his three brothers and sister in for supper at his private apartments. He has since dined with other old friends despite the tradition that a Pope eats alone.

"After all," he told one intimate, "nothing in scripture says that I have to eat alone."

Protocol diehards of the Vatican have resigned themselves to Pope John's unpredictable ways and comments.

He visited the city jail and frankly told the convicts, while some aides shuddered, that "one of my relatives" was jailed for a month for hunting without a license.

Pope John does not like pomp. He has firmly instructed his immediate aides to kneel before him only twice a day in a drastic curtailment of Vatican ceremonial.

"One of my humiliations is to see everyone kneel before me because of the heritage of St. Peter," he said. "So I have agreed with the persons closest to me that they should kneel down only twice a day, in the morning and evening, and that's all."

He would like to show everyone the simple rooms where he lives in the Vatican palace high above St. Peter's Square.

But that would be impracticable.

So Pope John agreed to let a television crew come in and follow him throughout the day.

Millions saw the Pontiff proceed from his pre-dawn prayers in his private chapel, through a spirited public audience and a walk in the gardens to his evening recitation of the prayers of the rosary.

John will be 78 years old on Nov. 25.

Ohio Minister Builds Model Of Holy Land

By CLAUDE WOLFF

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — High on a hilltop overlooking the Ohio River sits an island of peace and quiet called the Garden of Hope.

It is a place where thousands of persons of all religious faiths can slip away for a while to rest and contemplate in surroundings as close to the Holy Land as man can make them.

The center of it all is a replica of the Garden Tomb in Jerusalem, believed by many to be the tomb given by Joseph of Arimathea for the body of Christ.

Through a narrow door cut in stone, one can see places of burial for three persons. On the space like the one where Christ traditionally is believed to have lain is engraved:

"He is not here, for He has risen."

"Joseph of Arimathea . . . took the body of Jesus. Now in the place where He was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There they laid Jesus . . ."

The Garden of Hope is the realization of the dream of a young, personable and tireless minister, the Rev. Morris Coers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Covington.

The Rev. Mr. Coers first visited the Holy Land 21 years ago. Knowing that such visits were impossible for millions of people, he determined to reproduce part of it in the United States.

In addition to the tomb, there is a carpenter's shop, constructed as it would have looked if the work were done 2,000 years ago.

The "Glory Trail," strewn with reminders of the Holy Land, runs through the garden.

By the side of the trail lifes a huge stone from the wall of Solomon's temple; a stone from the Jordan River; a brick from the walls of Jericho.

Sponsors Put Blackout On Crusade Funds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Local sponsors put a blackout Friday on finances of Billy Graham's evangelistic crusade just a day after asking extra gifts to bolster sagging funds.

A call for $50,000 in special gifts was asked Thursday because nightly collections in the Fairgrounds Coliseum have been averaging only $6,000, and the crusade budget "has been trimmed to the bone."

But shortly after the appeal for extra funds, Willis G. Haymaker, crusade director, drew the curtain on more talk about money, complaining: "There has been an overemphasis in Indianapolis on the financial end of the crusade, and it's crowding out Billy's messages.

"The executive committee, in conjunction with the crusade team has voted unanimously to release no more figures until after the crusade ends. After the crusade ends, there will be an audit by some fine Indianapolis auditors, and every penny will be accounted for."

Meanwhile, plans were canceled for a dinner at which Graham was to have spoken to civic and business leaders Monday night.

The Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. in Charlotte, N.C., issued a statement Thursday that it is not facing any "financial crisis." That statement issued in Graham's name, called finances of the Indianapolis crusade "encouraging," adding, "By the time we leave, all bills will be paid."

Revival Slated At Good Hope

A revival was scheduled for Good Hope Baptist Church today through November 1, according to Rev. M. J. Martin, pastor.

Rev. H. B. Dean, pastor of the Weller Ave. Baptist Church in Baton Rouge will serve as evangelist.

The occasion will be climaxed by a homecoming and dedication of the new church building on Sunday, Nov. 1. The church is located on Good Hope Road in West Monroe and the pastor extends an invitation to members and friends of the church to attend any or all services.

DR. D. H. WHITTINGTON

Revival Week At Temple Baptist Set

Temple Baptist Church will begin its fall revival campaign today and continue through Sunday, November 1.

Dr. R. H. Whittington, head of department of religion at Louisiana College, Pineville, will be the evangelist. Dr. Whittington has been head of this department at Louisiana College for several years. Prior to his coming to this position he was pastor of the Coliseum Baptist Church, New Orleans.

Mr. Howard Jackson, minister of music for Temple, will be in charge of the music. The pastor, Rev. W. Leon Ivey, will direct activities and lead in the visitation program.

Services will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday through Friday and at 7:30 each evening. Services will be at regular times on Sunday.

The pastor extends a cordial invitation to all to come and worship with us during this week. The nursery will be open for all services.

Monroe District Superintendent Attends Meeting

The Rev. George W. Harbuck, superintendent of the Monroe district of Methodist Churches, returned here last week following a three-day session at Camp Brewer.

Rev. Harbuck said the conference was concerned with spiritual birth and growth and was attended by 150 Methodist ministers from throughout the state.

The conference at the camp—located near Alexandria — was sponsored by the Louisiana Conference Board of Evangelism. Rev. John F. Kilpatrick of Pineville is chairman of the board and Rev. W. D. Boddie of Rayville, secretary of evangelism.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: When I was a young man, I felt God's call to preach the truth to my people. I refused to obey His call and later got married. Now I feel the call again, but with a wife and family I cannot get the training or leave my work. Am I sinning now that I cannot serve Him? H.F.

ANSWER: Always remember, first of all, that if you have come to God seeking forgiveness for your past sins and failures, they are forgiven and forgotten by Him, even though you may reproach yourself and never forget. The Bible says, "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (I John 1:9) Do not reproach yourself now for a sin committed years ago if you have repented and sought forgiveness.

Remeber, secondly, that if God is again calling you to serve Him in any way, such as preaching in your case, He will provide the opportunity. God's call always includes an open door, but God's open door also may be accompanied with opposition. Make sure you are entirely willing to do His will, and then when you have done your best, you can leave it to Him to make a way. Most important, don't forget that you can serve Him right where you are and that may be His calling for you. The early churches were nearly all laity. Most of our churches make too great a distinction between pastor and laity. We need a dedicated layman even more than we need full - time preachers.

West Monroe Girl At Bible School

Miss Brenda Hattaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hattaway of Rt. 4, West Monroe, was listed among 403 students enrolled in the Central Bible Institute of Assemblies of God Churches.

Miss Hattaway expects to major in religious education at the school, located in Springfield, Missouri. She graduated from West Monroe High School where she was class editor of the school yearbook, a member of Future Homemakers of America and Future Business Leaders of America, the 4-H, Latin and Library Clubs.

United Nations Week Observed By Church Group

Recognition of the United Nations highlighted activities of the McGuire Women's Society for Christian Service last week, it was reported today.

Special events included an observance of United Nations Day and a luncheon with an international theme. Guest speakers at the programs included Mrs. J. L. Alexander and Mrs. Lavelle Johnson. It was stressed in the speeches that refugees are a symbol of our day and are often forgotten and neglected.

A news digest of the 14th General Assembly meeting of the U. N. was given by Mrs. Henry Johnson and Mrs. Sam Blackwell. An appeal was made by Mrs. John Richie for commemorative postage stamps which will be redeemed by the Church World Service in exchange for food and medicine for needy children.

Mrs. Ruth Frank presided over the class sessions.

Ohio Minister Builds Model Of Holy Land

By CLAUDE WOLFF

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — High on a hilltop overlooking the Ohio River sits an island of peace and quiet called the Garden of Hope.

It is a place where thousands of persons of all religious faiths can slip away for a while to rest and contemplate in surroundings as close to the Holy Land as man can make them.

The center of it all is a replica of the Garden Tomb in Jerusalem, believed by many to be the tomb given by Joseph of Arimathea for the body of Christ.

Through a narrow door cut in stone, one can see places of burial for three persons. On the space like the one where Christ traditionally is believed to have lain is engraved:

"He is not here, for He has risen."

"Joseph of Arimathea . . . took the body of Jesus. Now in the place where He was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There they laid Jesus . . ."

The Garden of Hope is the realization of the dream of a young, personable and tireless minister, the Rev. Morris Coers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Covington.

The Rev. Mr. Coers first visited the Holy Land 21 years ago. Knowing that such visits were impossible for millions of people, he determined to reproduce part of it in the United States.

In addition to the tomb, there is a carpenter's shop, constructed as it would have looked if the work were done 2,000 years ago.

By the side of the trail lifes a huge stone from the wall of Solomon's temple; a stone from the Jordan River; a brick from the walls of Jericho.

REV. CHEATHAM

New Minister Takes Post At Area Church

Rev. Cheatham is a native of Oak Grove, Louisiana. He is a graduate of Oak Grove High School and later received his bachelor's degree from Louisiana College. He will be a 1960 graduate of Southwestern Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas. While attending Louisiana College, Rev. Cheatham was a member of the Cadmian Literary Society, the Discussion Club, Ministerial Association and the Volunteer Mission Band.

Traditions Mean Little To Pope John

ROME (UPI)—"There was a man, one sent from God, whose name was John . . . he was not himself the light but was to bear witness to the light . . ." (Fourth Gospel)

Pope John XXIII, a little man of stout girth, has radiated sunny light since he became Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church a year ago.

This peasant's son with the rough-hewn face captured the imagination of Catholics and non-Catholics alike almost from the moment he ascended the Throne of Peter.

He has a formidable position. He is spiritual leader to more than 500 million Catholics throughout the world. He is king of tiny Vatican State whose 108 acres of stately palaces and gardens he has already explored with lively inquisitiveness, even to the oil-stained garage.

Humble and awed by his responsibilities, he nevertheless thoroughly enjoys his job, and makes it obvious that he does.

He frets at his comparative confinement to his little kingdom but accepts it with good naure.

"I'm impatient of being always indoors," he told a group of American priests recently.

He confides his feelings not just to private secretaries and a few select cardinals but to all who are willing to hear.

His Papal audiences, to groups of thousands or to individuals, are filled with surprises.

He likes surprises.

Several days after his election, Pope John had his three brothers and sister in for supper at his private apartments. He has since dined with other old friends despite the tradition that a Pope eats alone.

"After all," he told one intimate, "nothing in scripture says that I have to eat alone."

Protocol diehards of the Vatican have resigned themselves to Pope John's unpredictable ways and comments.

He visited the city jail and frankly told the convicts, while some aides shuddered, that "one of my relatives" was jailed for a month for hunting without a license.

Pope John does not like pomp. He has firmly instructed his immediate aides to kneel before him only twice a day in a drastic curtailment of Vatican ceremonial.

"One of my humiliations is to see everyone kneel before me because of the heritage of St. Peter," he said. "So I have agreed with the persons closest to me that they should kneel down only twice a day, in the morning and evening, and that's all."

He would like to show everyone the simple rooms where he lives in the Vatican palace high above St. Peter's Square.

But that would be impracticable.

So Pope John agreed to let a television crew come in and follow him throughout the day.

Millions saw the Pontiff proceed from his pre-dawn prayers in his private chapel, through a spirited public audience and a walk in the gardens to his evening recitation of the prayers of the rosary.

John will be 78 years old on Nov. 25.

Sponsors Put Blackout On Crusade Funds

A call for $50,000 in special gifts was asked Thursday because nightly collections in the Fairgrounds Coliseum have been averaging only $6,000, and the crusade budget "has been trimmed to the bone."

But shortly after the appeal for extra funds, Willis G. Haymaker, crusade director, drew the curtain on more talk about money, complaining: "There has been an overemphasis in Indianapolis on the financial end of the crusade, and it's crowding out Billy's messages.

"The executive committee, in conjunction with the crusade team has voted unanimously to release no more figures until after the crusade ends. After the crusade ends, there will be an audit by some fine Indianapolis auditors, and every penny will be accounted for."

Meanwhile, plans were canceled for a dinner at which Graham was to have spoken to civic and business leaders Monday night.

The Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. in Charlotte, N.C., issued a statement Thursday that it is not facing any "financial crisis." That statement issued in Graham's name, called finances of the Indianapolis crusade "encouraging," adding, "By the time we leave, all bills will be paid."

Revival Slated At Good Hope

A revival was scheduled for Good Hope Baptist Church today through November 1, according to Rev. M. J. Martin, pastor.

Rev. H. B. Dean, pastor of the Weller Ave. Baptist Church in Baton Rouge will serve as evangelist.

The occasion will be climaxed by a homecoming and dedication of the new church building on Sunday, Nov. 1. The church is located on Good Hope Road in West Monroe and the pastor extends an invitation to members and friends of the church to attend any or all services.

DR. D. H. WHITTINGTON

Revival Week At Temple Baptist Set

Temple Baptist Church will begin its fall revival campaign today and continue through Sunday, November 1.

Dr. R. H. Whittington, head of department of religion at Louisiana College, Pineville, will be the evangelist. Dr. Whittington has been head of this department at Louisiana College for several years. Prior to his coming to this position he was pastor of the Coliseum Baptist Church, New Orleans.

Mr. Howard Jackson, minister of music for Temple, will be in charge of the music. The pastor, Rev. W. Leon Ivey, will direct activities and lead in the visitation program.

Services will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday through Friday and at 7:30 each evening. Services will be at regular times on Sunday.

The pastor extends a cordial invitation to all to come and worship with us during this week. The nursery will be open for all services.

Monroe District Superintendent Attends Meeting

The Rev. George W. Harbuck, superintendent of the Monroe district of Methodist Churches, returned here last week following a three-day session at Camp Brewer.

Rev. Harbuck said the conference was concerned with spiritual birth and growth and was attended by 150 Methodist ministers from throughout the state.

The conference at the camp—located near Alexandria — was sponsored by the Louisiana Conference Board of Evangelism. Rev. John F. Kilpatrick of Pineville is chairman of the board and Rev. W. D. Boddie of Rayville, secretary of evangelism.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: When I was a young man, I felt God's call to preach the truth to my people. I refused to obey His call and later got married. Now I feel the call again, but with a wife and family I cannot get the training or leave my work. Am I sinning now that I cannot serve Him? H.F.

ANSWER: Always remember, first of all, that if you have come to God seeking forgiveness for your past sins and failures, they are forgiven and forgotten by Him, even though you may reproach yourself and never forget. The Bible says, "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (I John 1:9) Do not reproach yourself now for a sin committed years ago if you have repented and sought forgiveness.

Remeber, secondly, that if God is again calling you to serve Him in any way, such as preaching in your case, He will provide the opportunity. God's call always includes an open door, but God's open door also may be accompanied with opposition. Make sure you are entirely willing to do His will, and then when you have done your best, you can leave it to Him to make a way. Most important, don't forget that you can serve Him right where you are and that may be His calling for you. The early churches were nearly all laity. Most of our churches make too great a distinction between pastor and laity. We need a dedicated layman even more than we need full - time preachers.

West Monroe Girl At Bible School

Miss Brenda Hattaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hattaway of Rt. 4, West Monroe, was listed among 403 students enrolled in the Central Bible Institute of Assemblies of God Churches.

Miss Hattaway expects to major in religious education at the school, located in Springfield, Missouri. She graduated from West Monroe High School where she was class editor of the school yearbook, a member of Future Homemakers of America and Future Business Leaders of America, the 4-H, Latin and Library Clubs.

United Nations Week Observed By Church Group

Recognition of the United Nations highlighted activities of the McGuire Women's Society for Christian Service last week, it was reported today.

Special events included an observance of United Nations Day and a luncheon with an international theme. Guest speakers at the programs included Mrs. J. L. Alexander and Mrs. Lavelle Johnson. It was stressed in the speeches that refugees are a symbol of our day and are often forgotten and neglected.

A news digest of the 14th General Assembly meeting of the U. N. was given by Mrs. Henry Johnson and Mrs. Sam Blackwell. An appeal was made by Mrs. John Richie for commemorative postage stamps which will be redeemed by the Church World Service in exchange for food and medicine for needy children.

Mrs. Ruth Frank presided over the class sessions.

Fateful Hours At Wall, Broad

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been 30 years since people jumped out of windows because of what was happening at the corner of Wall and Broad streets.

That Black Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929, saw the life savings of thousands of families wiped out in the most spectacular stock market break in our history.

It saw plungers drop dead as they watched stock tickers tapping out the news that they had gambled and lost.

And it heralded one of the worst and longest depressions in our history.

Could it happen again?

Of course it could—if that many people get as foolish as they were in the late 1920. All the laws passed since then can't stop people from being silly.

There will always be some foolish people buying the wrong stocks at the wrong price. There will always be some con men selling worthless stocks or speculative sesuritie at phony prices. It's how many there are of both that counts.

Today there are rules that give investors every opportunity of looking before they leap. There are a long list of props to the economy—such as jobless insurance, social security, old age penions, record saving—to keep a drop in stock prices from sending people into the bread lines.

There are a number of financial policemen watching the stock exchanges, the stock sellers, the corporations whose stocks are up for sale, and even the amount of stock buying the public can do on the cuff.

The only thing that can't be regulated is the judgment of the stockbuyer himself. But now—30 years later — stock owners and traders seem to be a different breed of cats than those who dominated the hysterical '20s.

There now are an estimated 12 million persons in the United States who own stock. The vast majority are considered investors rather than speculators. Stocks also are in the hands of institutional firms managed by presumably hard-headed professionals—mutual funds, pension funds, bank-managed personal trust accounts, and corporations.

The amount of stock on margin is trivial today compared to the total number of stocks listed on the exchanges. And the amount of cash that must be put up in buying a stock today is 90 per cent, while in 1929 it was only 10 per cent. The volume of trading on that slim margin was fantastic.

Some 50 billion dollars of new corporate securities were sold in that decade and half of them became worthless. Often people bought them without asking anything about the companies' assets, or what they made, if anything.

The chairman of one of New York's largest banks set up six corporations—three American and three Canadian—to trade in stocks of his own bank. It was later brought out that he made more than 10 million dollars by such shenanigans. He is long dead and the bank is now one of the most respected in the nation.

Wealthy investors and businessmen stopped work to join in pools and syndicates to push up prices of certain stocks and then unload them. Sometimes it worked the other way and they raided the market to force prices down artificially so that they could buy them back at the bottom and cover their short sales.

Corporations took advantage of the growing demand for stocks and sold additional millions of their securities, thus watering the holdings of their shareowners. Investment trust and holding companies were formed to foist onto the public questionable shares in huge quantities.

And the public loved it.

Stock trading reached 3 million shares a day in 1925, quickly climbed over 4 million and then 5 million. Customers' men at brokerage firms grew careless in advising about purchases, and many member firms joined the pools.

The Federal Reserve System's easy money policy in the mid-1920 encouraged the use of credit in speculation. Later it tried to correct this but it was too late. The public borrowed at the higher rates and went on gambling.

When a broker did urge his customer to use caution, he usually lost the speculator to another broker who catered to any buying whim.

Stock prices hit their peak Sept. 3, 1929, when the Associated Press index of 60 stocks stood at 157.7. There was a series of breaks during October and the big one came Oct. 29 when 16,410,030 shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange, a record that still stands.

The AP index fell to its lowest point July 8, 1932, at 16.9. A long but often interrupted climb since then brought the index to a new peak of 235.8 on Aug. 3, 1959. The current figure is around 220.

Black Tuesday wrecked the hopes of thousands and sent many from riches to rags. But it also set off a train of events aimed at seeing it never happened again.

The New York Stock Exchange had been asking its member firms to give it data on their financial condition. It began demanding that they do. It tightened the requirements for listing stocks on the exchange and for staying on the big board after being listed.

Ike's Next Farm Budget Appears High

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's eighth and last farm budget next year will be more than twice as big as the first, it appears.

A study of farm laws and federal commitments in agriculture indicates that the budget for the 1961 fiscal year, due for submission to Congress early in January, will probably be in the neighborhood of $6,500,000,000, despite all the budget - balancing pressure the administration can wield.

Farm spending in the administration's first full fiscal year in office, the 1954 fiscal year which began July 1, 1953, was $2,917,000,000.

There is no prospect that even the most economy-minded budget official can force the fiscal 1961 budget down to the level of 1954 spending. Price support costs alone for 1961 may be almost as much as the budget for the entire Department of Agriculture in fiscal 1954.

If the government system of keeping its books by years which cut across calendar years is confusing, remember this:

The federal accounting year starts on July 1 each year. Fiscal 1960, the period in which the government is operating now, began July 1, 1959. Fiscal 1961 will begin in the summer of 1960 and run six months into the term of the next administration. The federal budget proposals for fiscal 1961 will be put into final shape by administration officials this fall and winter and delivered to Congress in January. This gives the lawmakers about six months to pass appropriation bills for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The administration's budget proposal for fiscal 1961 will probably call for close to $2,700,000,000 to finance price support operations of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC). Other CCC operations, including subsidized exports of farm surpluses and school milk subsidies, will amount to close to $1,600,000,000. Both figures are based on estimates of spending for the current year because experts see nothing in present farm law or crop prospects to make them expect any substantial change in the year ahead.

Together, the two CCC items for price support and other activities will account for an estimated $4,461,000,000 in the current fiscal year. In fiscal 1954 they accounted for about $1,521,000,000.

Not all of these sums represent money going to farmers. Much of the cost is represented by programs which are, in effect, foreign aid or relief operations.

Other department activities, smaller in total, have also expanded considerably since 1954. Few are expected to shrink in fiscal 1961.

The department's agricultural research service budget, including costs of meat inspection for consumers along with farm studies, rose from $86,000,000 in fiscal 1954 to $179,000,000 in the current year.

The school lunch appropriation has risen from $84,000,000 in fiscal 1954 to $153,000,000 in the current year. Rural electrification loans, which are repaid to the government at a controversial 2 per cent interest rate, are up from $210,000,000 in fiscal 1954 to an estimated $335,000,000 this year.

Experts Stress Protection On Storms, Bombs

NEW YORK (UPI)—As if home owners don't have enough to worry about with mortgages and maintenance, the experts now are stressing the importance of protection from atom bombs and hurricanes.

You may think it overly pessimistic to consider the effects of atomic radiation fallout on your house but many government and industry officials don't, and more and more is being done each day in this regard.

New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller started the ball rolling in July when he announced his intention to recommend legislation to provide needed protection against fallout. He did not commit himself on the nature of the legislation but the impression has developed that shelters would be made compulsory for every home in the state.

Homeowners, of course, showed a mixed reaction to being forced to build a shelter at their own expense. But builders and designers began experimenting, and now a state-wide committee of builders will present a report on their findings to the New York State Home Builders Association the end of this month.

Costs have been estimated all the way from $150 for a do-it-yourself venture, to $3,000 for a fully equipped luxury shelter.

One builder has added a shelter to his model house at a cost of $250 to the buyer. He says, however, the cost would be considerably higher if the same type of shelter was built into an existing house. Also the cost does not include sanitary facilities nor a ventilating system.

The builder notes that hundreds of curiosity seekers have visited the exhibit house but the shelter has been included in only two of the last 18 sales. Women do not like the idea at all, he added.

There is a multiplicity of problems connected with an adequate fallout shelter in a home, and the committee's findings next week on this matter should prove interesting.

Turning from the man-made to mother nature's destruction—hurricanes — we find the experts advising us to take every precaution beforehand to minimize the possibility of property damage and personal injury.

The Allied Homeowners Association has compiled a checklist of precautions to be taken prior to a hurricane alert:

Put up storm shutters or board up windows securely.

Arrange for a supply of extra food and emergency cooking facilities which do not depend on electricity.

A supply of drinking water in jugs or bottles will help you meet an interruption in water service.

Keep a supply of flashlights or other emergency lighting equipment handy.

Secure outside the house loose objects which can be blown away such as garbage cans, furniture, awnings and TV antennas.

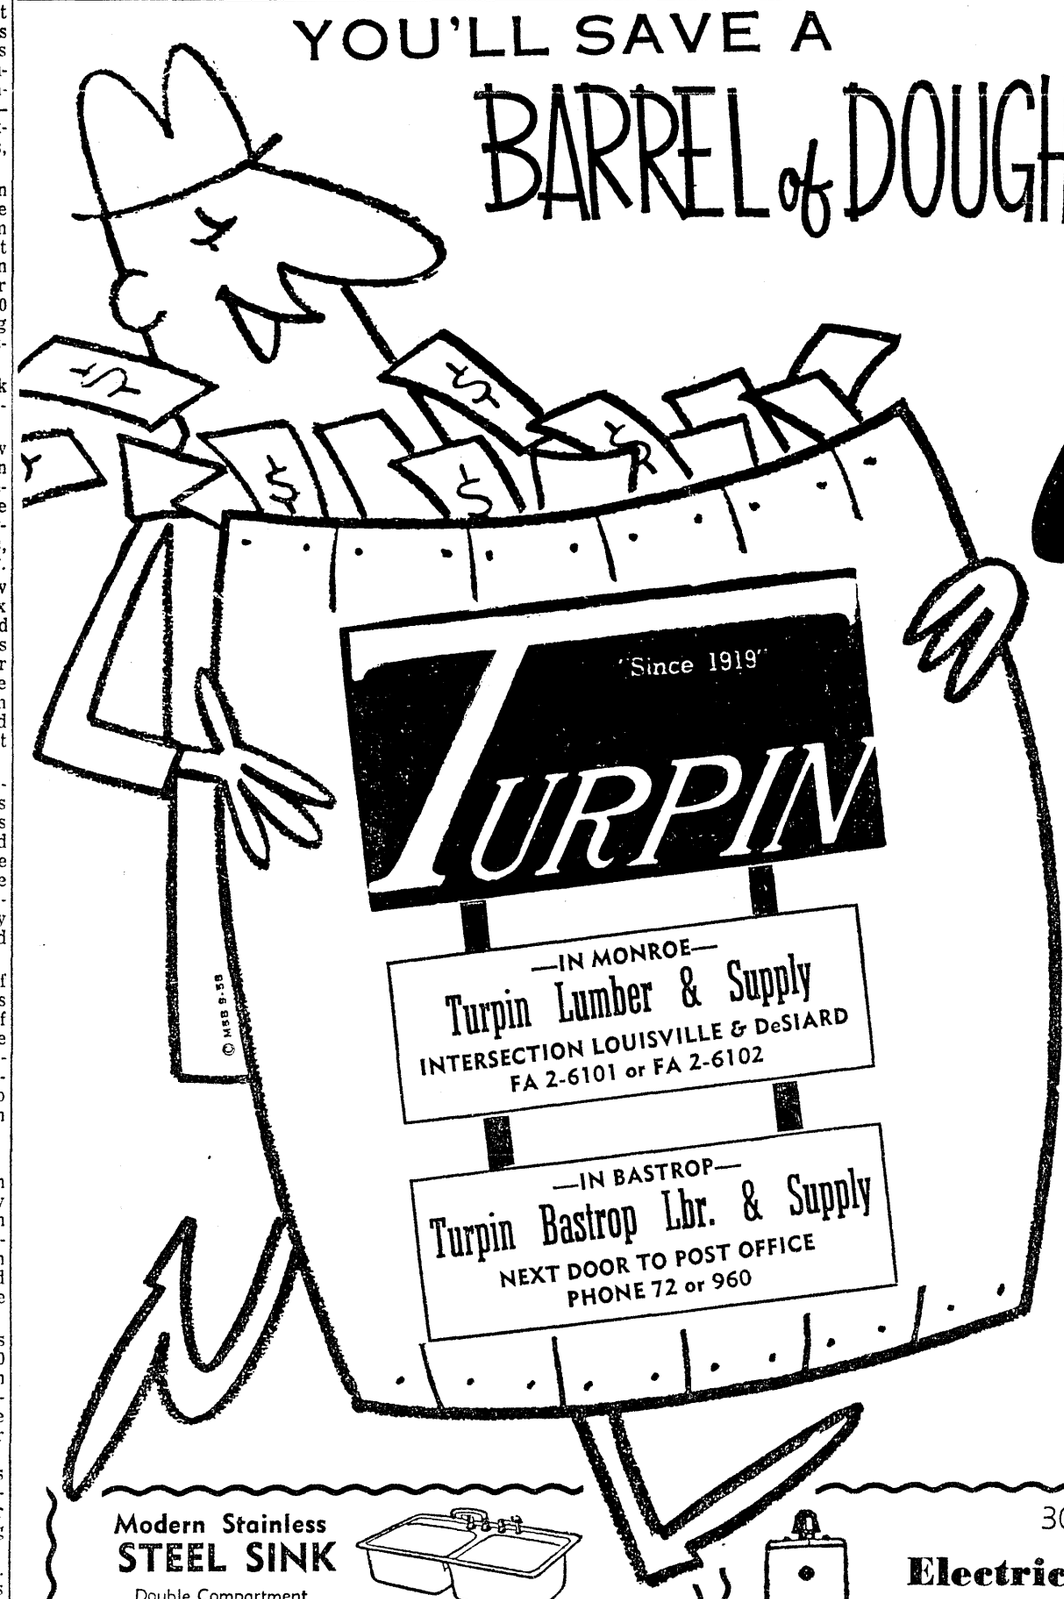

Make certain that a window or door can be opened on the side of the house opposite the wind to maintain even air pressure within the dwelling.

Have the house checked for structural weaknesses or damage.

Fateful Hours At Wall, Broad

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been 30 years since people jumped out of windows because of what was happening at the corner of Wall and Broad streets.

That Black Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929, saw the life savings of thousands of families wiped out in the most spectacular stock market break in our history.

It saw plungers drop dead as they watched stock tickers tapping out the news that they had gambled and lost.

And it heralded one of the worst and longest depressions in our history.

Could it happen again?

Of course it could—if that many people get as foolish as they were in the late 1920. All the laws passed since then can't stop people from being silly.

There will always be some foolish people buying the wrong stocks at the wrong price. There will always be some con men selling worthless stocks or speculative sesuritie at phony prices. It's how many there are of both that counts.

Today there are rules that give investors every opportunity of looking before they leap. There are a long list of props to the economy—such as jobless insurance, social security, old age pensions, record saving—to keep a drop in stock prices from sending people into the bread lines.

There are a number of financial policemen watching the stock exchanges, the stock sellers, the corporations whose stocks are up for sale, and even the amount of stock buying the public can do on the cuff.

The only thing that can't be regulated is the judgment of the stockbuyer himself. But now—30 years later — stock owners and traders seem to be a different breed of cats than those who dominated the hysterical '20s.

There now are an estimated 12 million persons in the United States who own stock. The vast majority are considered investors rather than speculators. Stocks also are in the hands of institutional firms managed by presumably hard-headed professionals—mutual funds, pension funds, bank-managed personal trust accounts, and corporations.

The amount of stock on margin is trivial today compared to the total number of stocks listed on the exchanges. And the amount of cash that must be put up in buying a stock today is 90 per cent, while in 1929 it was only 10 per cent. The volume of trading on that slim margin was fantastic.

Some 50 billion dollars of new corporate securities were sold in that decade and half of them became worthless. Often people bought them without asking anything about the companies' assets, or what they made, if anything.

The chairman of one of New York's largest banks set up six corporations—three American and three Canadian—to trade in stocks of his own bank. It was later brought out that he made more than 10 million dollars by such shenanigans. He is long dead and the bank is now one of the most respected in the nation.

Wealthy investors and businessmen stopped work to join in pools and syndicates to push up prices of certain stocks and then unload them. Sometimes it worked the other way and they raided the market to force prices down artificially so that they could buy them back at the bottom and cover their short sales.

Corporations took advantage of the growing demand for stocks and sold additional millions of their securities, thus watering the holdings of their shareowners. Investment trust and holding companies were formed to foist onto the public questionable shares in huge quantities.

And the public loved it.

Stock trading reached 3 million shares a day in 1925, quickly climbed over 4 million and then 5 million. Customers' men at brokerage firms grew careless in advising about purchases, and many member firms joined the pools.

The Federal Reserve System's easy money policy in the mid-1920 encouraged the use of credit in speculation. Later it tried to correct this but it was too late. The public borrowed at the higher rates and went on gambling.

When a broker did urge his customer to use caution, he usually lost the speculator to another broker who catered to any buying whim.

Stock prices hit their peak Sept. 3, 1929, when the Associated Press index of 60 stocks stood at 157.7. There was a series of breaks during October and the big one came Oct. 29 when 16,410,030 shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange, a record that still stands.

The AP index fell to its lowest point July 8, 1932, at 16.9. A long but often interrupted climb since then brought the index to a new peak of 235.8 on Aug. 3, 1959. The current figure is around 220.

Black Tuesday wrecked the hopes of thousands and sent many from riches to rags. But it also set off a train of events aimed at seeing it never happened again.

The New York Stock Exchange had been asking its member firms to give it data on their financial condition. It began demanding that they do. It tightened the requirements for listing stocks on the exchange and for staying on the big board after being listed.

Ike's Next Farm Budget Appears High

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's eighth and last farm budget next year will be more than twice as big as the first, it appears.

A study of farm laws and federal commitments in agriculture indicates that the budget for the 1961 fiscal year, due for submission to Congress early in January, will probably be in the neighborhood of $6,500,000,000, despite all the budget - balancing pressure the administration can wield.

Farm spending in the administration's first full fiscal year in office, the 1954 fiscal year which began July 1, 1953, was $2,917,000,000.

There is no prospect that even the most economy-minded budget official can force the fiscal 1961 budget down to the level of 1954 spending. Price support costs alone for 1961 may be almost as much as the budget for the entire Department of Agriculture in fiscal 1954.

Stock Mart Has Worse Drop In Mo.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market had its most severe decline in a month during the past week with volume at a new high since Sept. 25.

The decline followed the trend of the steel negotiations. The government was granted an injunction to enforce a return of the steelworkers to their jobs for 80 days. That helped the market for a few minutes but it fell again when the injunction was held up to next week.

The worst blow came when the union's appeal of the injunction brought the delay. That was Thursday and the industrial average fell 7.10 points, widest decline since Sept. 30.

On Friday, when it appeared as if the negotiations would be resumed before the action on the injunction, the market made a swift comeback and regained all of Thursday's losses.

But this recovery, though it amounted to 7.43 points in industrials and 2.03 points in the rails was insufficient to bring the market up on the week. Industrials closed at 633.07 in the Dow - Jones industrial average, off 10.15 points on the week.

The railroad average closed the week at 15.95 off 3.04 points; utility 87.45 off 0.70 and 65 stocks 210.34 off 3.22 points.

Electronics and other space issues were boosted up when President Eisenhower said he would ask Congress for more money for our space program. Gains in the electronics ranged to 11½ points in Thiokol, Ampex netted 8⅞ and Packard-Bell 5⅝. Thiokol rocket fuels rose 5⅛ points.

Chemical issues receded with DuPont off nearly three and Union Carbide down 5½ points. Universal Match rose 8¼ points in the special issues. Shell Oil was up two in the oils.

During the week, a total of 1,413 issues were traded. Of this number 432 gained, 811 declined, and 170 held unchanged. A total of 43 issues made new highs for the year while 129 made new lows.

There were several dividend increases or extras, including Texaco, Detroit Steel, and Electric Auto - Lite. Several stock splits were announced.

Cotton Seen With Small Weekly Gain

NEW YORK (UPI)— Cotton futures trading this week hobbled through one of the slowest periods of the year, but managed to show small to moderate gains most of the time.

At Friday's close the list ruled 12 higher to 5 points lower, or 60 cents higher to 25 cents a bale lower than the preceding week.

For one of the very few times in the history of the New York Cotton Exchange, the market on Friday posted no sales on the opening call.

While buyers lacked decisiveness, sellers were equally cautious in view of the glowing reports on business coming from the dry-goods trade. Mills booked a big percentage of their production sold for the second and into the third quarters of 1960. Moreover, mills reported the profit margin now is the widest in years.

Because of the mounting textile order backlog, traders counted on a broadening demand for raw cotton to fill the textile orders. Moreover, stock replenishment at a faster rate was suggested because of the low level of raw cotton stocks in consuming establishments.

Domestic consumption of all raw cotton in September, as reported by the Census Bureau, reached 862,830 bales for 25 working days. Consumption for the first two months of the season — Aug. and Sept. — reached 1,574,439 bales vs. 1,294,320 bales in the same period last season.

Explaining the extremely slow pace of futures trading, market technicians pointed out that although the trade is passing through the peak of the marketing season, the almost complete monopoly on the spot industry, exercised by governmental agencies, precludes any active hedging operates by private trade.

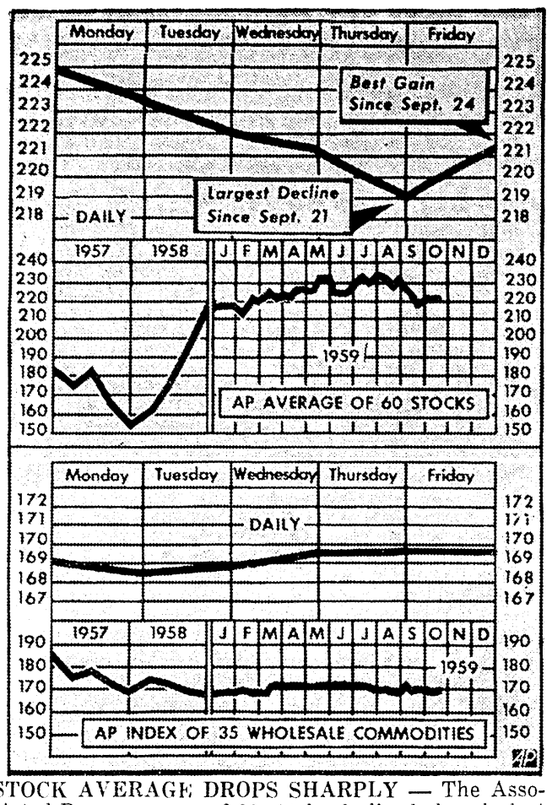

Doctors Use Kidney Swap

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Surgeons have transplanted the kidney of a 36-year-old man into the body of his identical twin.

It was reported Saturday as the first kidney transplant undertaken here, and doctors were optimistic the rare operation will prove successful.

The brothers are Abel LeBlanc, a Houma junior high school principal, and Ned LeBlanc, an Algiers civil service engineer.

Abel, who received the kidney, began a history of chronic kidney infections in childhood. Doctors removed one kidney but the infection spread to the other and endangered his life.

STOCK AVERAGE DROPS SHARPLY — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined sharply last week to 221.3 from 224.9 a week ago. The commodity index moved higher for the first time in five weeks, closing at 169.7 from 169.0 in the preceding period. Food showed a substantial gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

FBI Says No Doubt In Cuba Case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI declared Saturday there "is no question" that Maj. Pedro Diaz Lanz, former chief of the Cuban air force, admitted leading a flight of planes that dropped anti-Castro leaflets on Havana.

The plane episode which occurred Wednesday provoked an outburst of anti-U.S. charges by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and a flurry of activity by diplomatic and law enforcement officials here.

Diaz Lanz, who broke with Castro and fled to Florida last July, first denied an FBI announcement that he had admitted leading the leaflet raid. Later, he refused to comment.

An FBI spokesman said today: "There is no question that Diaz Lanz admitted leading the flight."

Meantime, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) urged the government to take strong precautions to prevent such anti-Castro activities from being launched from this country.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader and a prominent member of the Foreign Relations Committee, suggested the government increase customs and immigration service personnel at Florida air fields to pevent flights which might be headed for anti-Castro activities in Cuba.

"Insofar as possible," Mansfield told United Press International, "We ought to do what we can to forbid the use of this country as a center for revolutionary plots or as a take-off point for aggressive tactics against our neighbors."

After the Wednesday raid, Castro went on the air in the marathon tirade to denounce the United States for what he called the "bombings" of Cuban cities.

Although urging greater U. S. precautions, Mansfield said: "Certainly Castro should know that any activities against his government are not the result of encouragement or assistance by the government of the United States."

"I would further point out," he said, "that Fidel Castro himself, during the course of his own revolution against the government of Fulgencio Batista, was also aided and supplied from sources in this country."

There were these developments:

Ambassador John C. Dreier, U. S. chairman of the Inter-American Peace Commission, planned to work at the State Dpartment over the weekend on latest reports from Cuba. The five-nation Peace Commission is scheduled to meet Monday. Dreier refused to say if the Cuban situation would be given immediate attention.

Law enforcement agencies along the Florida coast were placed on an alert to prevent any plane flights that might stir up the situation further.

Lower level officials at the Pentagon were said to be studying what could be done should Castro oust the U.S. Navy from its Cuban base at Guantanamo Bay. The general belief is that should Castro order the Navy out of Guantanamo, operations could be shifted without difficulty to Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico.

Mansfield did not appear concerned about Castro's veiled hints about Guantanamo. He pointed out that the importance of the base has declined from the U.S. standpoint although it is an economically profitable arrangement for the Cubans.

Laurel Paper Transaction Finalized

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Publishing officials announced Saturday the sale of the 33-year-old Laurel Leader-Call daily newspaper to Independent, Inc., of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Publisher Thomas M. Gibbons and Mrs. Grace B. Skewes of Meridian, president of the Laurel Daily Leader, Inc., made the announcement jointly with Loyal Philips, president of Independent, Inc.

They designated Oct. 31 as the closing date of the sale and change of officers and management.

Gibbons has been publisher of the paper since the merger of the Daily Leader and the Morning Call in 1926.

Philips will be the new president of the Leader-Call Corp. He is publisher and editor of the St. Petersburg Independent.

The amount of the transaction through a stockholders agreement was not made public. No reason was given. The Leader-Call has a daily circulation of over 12,000.

Other newspapers published by the Independent, Inc., include the Petersburg, Va., Progress-Index and five Florida weeklies. The corporation is affiliated with the Thomson newspaper of Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

K. R. Thomson and his father, Roy H. Thomson, through separate corporations, own and control 30 newspapers in the United States and Canada, in addition to the giant Kemsley group of publications in Britain.

Philips, for the present, will divide his time between St. Petersburg and Laurel. He is a native of Alabama and has been connected with newspapers in Birmingham, Ala., Atlanta, Ga., Nashville, Tenn., and New Orleans.

Credit Cards Lead To Charge Against Man

NEW YORK (AP)—A man with an assortment of credit cards was accused Saturday of using them for $50,000 worth of luxtury items and high living in night clubs and hotels without paying.

He identified himself as Jack Lustman, 46, of Baltimore, and gave his occupation as financial consultant.

Lustman, charged with grand larceny, was ordered by Magistrate Edward J. Chapman in felony court to post $25,000 bail. Lustman through an attorney, protested the amount was prohibitively high.

"Too bad," said Chapman. "You're not dealing with a credit company now.

Authorities said they had sought Lustman for four years.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jay Goldberg told the court that Lustman had been using the office of a telephone answering service on Park Avenue as a delivery and pickup point for purchases.

He said Lustman telephoned the service, that a mute, retired Army colonel would pick up packages delivered there, and then would go and pick them up himself. Lustman is neither mute nor a former colonel, detectives said.

Goldman said, Lustman had used three different names to obtain cards acceptable at hundreds of hotels, restaurants, night clubs and exclusive stores and that he had been living it up in high style.

He was arrested Saturday night when he appeared at the answering service office. A hearing was set for Nov. 4.

Deep Oil Sand Found In Miss.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new deep oil sand has been found in the Pistol Ridge gas field of Forrest Count.

Southern Natural Gas Co. is testing its Citizens Bank No. 4, in section 6, 1 south, 13 west, at the rate of 208 barrels of oil per day.

The well is the Paluxy zone at 11,569-77 feet.

It is reported that several other possible producing zones will be perforated and tested.

The Pistol Ridge field has gas production in the Wilcox, Eutaw, Tuscaloosa and Washita - Fredericksburg zones.

Production tests are commencing at Pan American's No. 1 land, sec. 21-2n-7e, a Pike County wildcat. The venture was drilled to 11,482 feet, with the operators running casing to 11,464 feet in an effort to evaluate the commercial worth of sands found by electrical log. The wildcat is located in the southern part of the county, about 7 miles south of McComb.

In the McComb field, Sun Oil and Willis Hughes are preparing to run production tests at their Andrews No. 1, sec. 14-3n17e. Indications are that it will be completed as the third oiler for the recently discovered field. The well logged oil sand at 10,876-88 feet. The field is near the western edge of the McComb city limits.

In Marion county, Heveley, Moon and Williams drilling co. are trying to complete their wildcat, the Pittman No. 1, sec. 30-2n-14w, as a new discovery. Tests are being run on an oil sand at 9,178-83 feet. The venture also logged 16 feet of gas sand above the oil zone.

In Simpson County near the Merit field, Hargrave Oil Corp. continues to test its Peacock No. 1, sec. 24-1n-3e, with no information being released. Seven-inch casing was set at 13,350 feet, with reports that 120 feet of oil sand was logged.

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. is reported running its log at its Jefferson Davis County wildcat, the Burkett No. 1, sec. 26-7n-19w. Depth is 11,000 feet, with the venture drilling into salt at 8,905 feet.

Two wildcat tests are under way in Copiah County. X. M. Frascogna is below 13,200 feet in his Magnolia Textiles No. 1, sec. 7-9n-7e and Lone Star producint Co. is below 7,600 feet in its Southern Package No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e.

In Hancock County, Marshall Young is below 5,100 feet in his wildcat, the Jordanacres No. 1, northwest of Bay St. Louis. Contract depth is 10,400 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw two new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

At little Creek on the Pike County side, Skelton Operating Co. completed its Williams No. 1, sec. 10-4n-8e, flowing 236 barrels of oil per day from peforations at 10,748-68 feet.

In the Overton field of Adams County, Hellenic Oil and Gas Co. completed its Indepencence No. A c-3, sec. 19-5n-2w, pumping 147 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,462-65 feet.

The second well in the recently found Grange field of Jefferson Davis County has been officially completed. Tidewater Oil Co.'s No. 1 Mikell, sec. 24-8n-20w, flowed 3,368,000 cubic feet of gas and 51 barrels of condensate per day from a sand at 14,155-68 feet.

At Meit in Simpson County, Monsanto Chemical Co. is in the process of completing its Ainsworth No. 1, sec. 17-1n-4e, with the well testing at 264 barrels of oil per day. The zone under test is at 12,242-54 feet.

Wells abandoned:

Clarke County — Southwest Gas Co. Lonbell No. 2, sec. 25-2n-16e (Junction City field) dry at 4,040 feet.

Forrest County—Discovery Oil and Gas and B. A. Holman Creosote Oil Corp. No. 1, sec. 36-1n-13w (Maxie field) dry at 8,535 feet.

Lamar County — McLean and Hill Rawls No. 1, sec. 28-2n-16w (wildcat) dry at 9,215 feet.

Lincoln County — Vasser and Brown Rownd No. 1, sec. 18-5n-8e (Wildcat) dry hole at 10,698 feet.

Pike County — Biglane, Thornhill and Harrison Felder Rollins No. 1, sec. 23-4n-8e (wildcat, dry at 10,775 feet. Shell Oil Co. Landa No. 1 sec. 2-4n-8e (Little Creek field) dry at 10,882 feet. Larco Drilling Co. — Atkinson's Sons Co. No. 1, sec. 21-4n-7e (Summit field) dry at 11,112 feet.

Scott County — Shell oil Co. Rogers No. 1, sec. 9-5n-6e (Morton field) dry at 6,555 feet.

Reds Set To Meet On Budget

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Parliament convenes Tuesday to ratify a new budget and listen to Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who is expected to discuss his U.S. tour.

On the agenda are a new labor code and the economics program, part of the seven-year plan to bring the Soviet Union up to U.S. standards of production in some fields.

But the big show is expected to be a speech by Khrushchev reviewing his visit to the United States. The U.S. tour still is being played up here as the diplomatic success of the age.

The first action before the parliament probably will be the budget. The budget, which includes military spending, is a complex document covering all government expenditures as well as industrial operations. The 1959 budget called for expenditures of 707,200,000,000 rubles — $176,800,000,000 at the official exchange rate of 4 to 1.

The economic program before Parliament will outline what the Soviet Union must do next year to keep up the production pace set by the seven-year plan. Khrushchev lately has agreed the Soviet Union will fail to match the United States in a number of fields of production under the seven-year plan.

The proposed labor code to be laid before Parliament already has been published.

Some of its provisions are: The seven-hour day and 40-hour week will be worked out in stages by the end of 1960. It already is operating in some industries.

A minimum 12-day vacation with pay annually is provided.

Workers cannot be shifted from job to job without consent or agreement of their trade unions.

Premiums can be paid to increase incentive to production. Basic wage minimums are provided and these are relatively low.

Wheat Hits Good Gain On Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Old crop wheat futures scored their best gains in several months on the Board of Trade this week. Other grains also finished the week higher.

Except for Monday, old crop wheat—the December, March and May deliveries— advanced every day as bullish influences brought increased buying into the market. December wheat was in greatest demand most of the time and this delivery was up more than three cents a bushel at the close Friday.

At the finish, old crop wheat was up 1¾ to 3⅛ cents a bushel compared with Friday a week ago. New crop wheat — the July and September contracts — were unchanged to ⅛ lower. Corn finished ¼ to 1⅝ higher, oats ½ to 1¼ higher, rye ¼ to 1 higher and soybeans 1¼ to 2⅛ higher.

Bullish influences in wheat included reports of continued very small farmer selling in the Southwest, a large pending business with Brazil and Pakistan, and a report that red wheat had been bought by a milling interest to move out of Chicago.

Another factor was the expectation a Department of Agriculture report on the amount of wheat under government support would prove to be bullish.

The report came out Friday after the close of the market, confirming expectations. It showed support as of Sept. 30. This is 234,749,287 bushels of wheat under some 60 million bushels more than was under the loan a month ago.

The report also showed 203,034 bushels of corn and 229,820 bushels of soybeans were placed under support since harvesting of the new crop commenced a month ago.

Soybeans continue to be the most active and most speculative commodity on the grain market. The speculative interest in beans has been extremely large and the open interest has expanded to an all-time record of over 146 million bushels.

Advances in corn were attributed to low inventories, which brought aggressive demand from both exporters and processors for first run marketings of the new crop. Exporter and processor supplies were reported at low levels.

Attorneys For Indian Tribes Study Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for two Indian tribes and for the government are studying old documents, trying to determine the value 138 years ago of 4,114,330 acres in Michigan and Indiana.

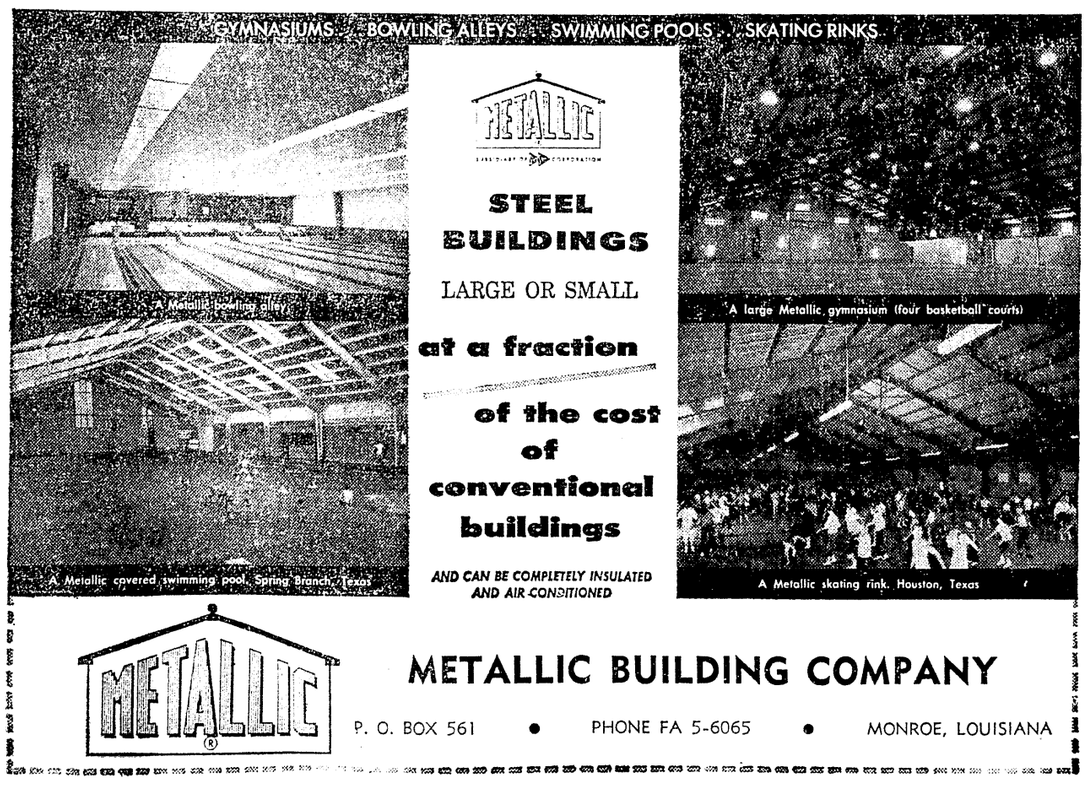

The Potawatomi and Ottawa tribes contend the value ranged upward from $1.25 an acre when tribal chiefs, succumbing to threats and bribes, sold the land to the government for less than three cents an acre. This was under the Treaty of 1821.

The sum was "unconscionable," they said, and they have appealed to the Indian Claims Commission to right the alleged wrong. No specific figure was set.

The commission ruled June 30, 1958, that the Ottawa tribe and the Potawatomi of St. Joseph, more commonly called the Potawatomis of Indiana and Michigan, ceded the land to the United States in the 1821 treaty.

Lawyers now are studying official documents, journals and newspapers of that day, compiling the price of milk, eggs, timber and land, in an effort to set the 1821 value. Even if it is decided the Indians were cheated, the date of payment will be several years distant.

The figure accepted by the commission may be appealed by the government or the Indians to the U.S. Court of Claims. When the sum finally is accepted, payments already made will be deducted from the total, together with any money spent gratuitiously on the tribes.

DURING PAST WEEK

Area Drillers Complete 6 Petroleum Producers

Monroe district drillers completed six new wells and staked 21 locations last week in the 14-parish area, reported Duncan S. Cook, manager of the local office of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Cook also listed five holes plugged and abandoned and 28 active rigs.

These were the new producers:

Stock Mart Has Worse Drop In Mo.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market had its most severe decline in a month during the past week with volume at a new high since Sept. 25.

The decline followed the trend of the steel negotiations. The government was granted an injunction to enforce a return of the steelworkers to their jobs for 80 days. That helped the market for a few minutes but it fell again when the injunction was held up to next week.

The worst blow came when the union's appeal of the injunction brought the delay. That was Thursday and the industrial average fell 7.10 points, widest decline since Sept. 30.

On Friday, when it appeared as if the negotiations would be resumed before the action on the injunction, the market made a swift comeback and regained all of Thursday's losses.

But this recovery, though it amounted to 7.48 points in industrials and 2.03 points in the rails was insufficient to bring the market up on the week. Industrials closed at 633.07 in the Dow - Jones industrial average, off 10.15 points on the week.

The railroad average closed the week at 15.95 off 3.04 points; utility 87.45 off 0.70 and 65 stocks 210.84 off 3.22 points.

Electronics and other space issues were boosted up when President Eisenhower said he would ask Congress for more money for our space program. Gains in the electronics ranged to 11½ points in Thiokol, Ampex netted 8⅞ and Packard-Bell 5⅛. Thiokol (rocket fuel) rose 5⅛ points.

Chemical issues receded with DuPont off nearly three and Union Carbide down 5½ points. Universal Match rose 8¼ points in the special issues. Shell Oil was up two in the oils.

During the week, a total of 1,413 issues were traded. Of this number 432 gained, 811 declined, and 170 held unchanged. A total of 43 issues made new highs for the year while 129 made new lows.

There were several dividend increases or extras, including Texaco, Detroit Steel, and Electric Auto - Lite. Several stock splits were announced.

Cotton Seen With Small Weekly Gain

NEW YORK (UPI)— Cotton futures trading this week hobbled through one of the slowest periods of the year, but managed to show small to moderate gains most of the time.

At Friday's close the list ruled 12 higher to 5 points lower, or 60 cents higher to 25 cents a bale lower than the preceding week.

For one of the very few times in the history of the New York Cotton Exchange, the market on Friday posted no sales on the opening call.

While buyers lacked decisiveness, sellers were equally cautious in view of the glowing reports on business coming from the drygoods trade. Mills booked a big percentage of their production sold for the second and into the third quarters of 1960. Moreover, mills reported the profit margin now is the widest in years.

Because of the mounting textile order backlog, traders counted on a broadening demand for raw cotton to fill the textile orders. Moreover, stock replenishment at a faster rate was suggested because of the low level of raw cotton stocks in consuming establishments.

Domestic consumption of all raw cotton in September, as reported by the Census Bureau, reached 862,830 bales for 25 working days. Consumption for the first two months of the season — Aug. and Sept. — reached 1,574,439 bales vs. 1,294,320 bales in the same period last season.

Explaining the extremely slow pace of futures trading, market technicians pointed out that although the trade is passing through the peak of the marketing season, the almost complete monopoly on the spot industry, exercised by governmental agencies, precludes any active hedging operates by private trade.

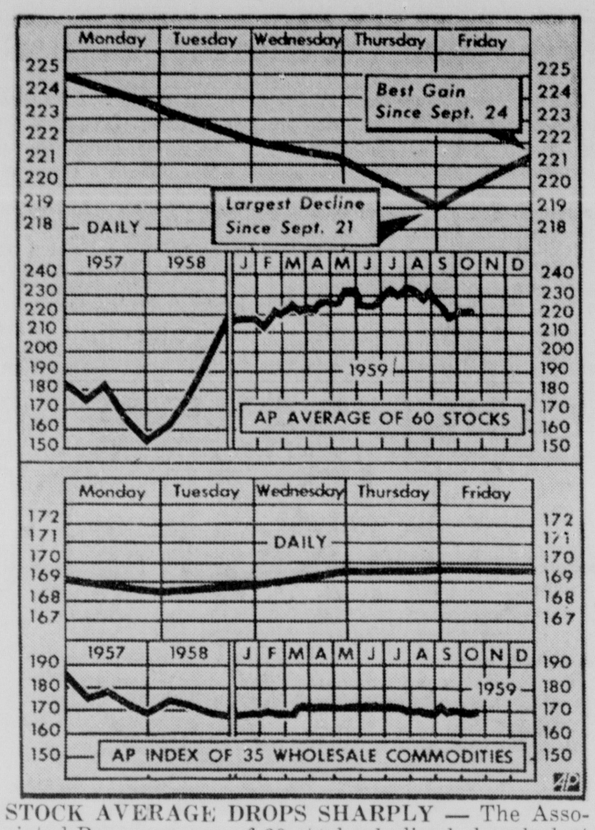

Doctors Use Kidney Swap

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Surgeons have transplanted the kidney of a 36-year-old man into the body of his identical twin.

It was reported Saturday as the first kidney transplant undertaken here, and doctors were optimistic the rare operation will prove successful.

Abel, who received the kidney, began a history of chronic kidney infections in childhood. Doctors removed one kidney but the infection spread to the other and endangered his life.

STOCK AVERAGE DROPS SHARPLY — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined sharply last week to 221.3 from 224.9 a week ago. The commodity index moved higher for the first time in five weeks, closing at 169.7 from 169.0 in the preceding period. Food showed a substantial gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Laurel Paper Transaction Finalized

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Publishing officials announced Saturday the sale of the 33-year-old Laurel Leader-Call daily newspaper to Independent, Inc., of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Publisher Thomas M. Gibbons and Mrs. Grace B. Skewes of Meridian, president of the Laurel Daily Leader, Inc., made the announcement jointly with Loyal Philips, president of Independent, Inc.

They designated Oct. 31 as the closing date of the sale and change of officers and management.

Gibbons has been publisher of the paper since the merger of the Daily Leader and the Morning Call in 1926.

Philips will be the new president of the Leader-Call Corp. He is publisher and editor of the St. Petersburg Independent.

The amount of the transaction through a stockholders agreement was not made public. No reason was given. The Leader-Call has a daily circulation of over 12,000.

Other newspapers published by the Independent, Inc., include the Petersburg, Va., Progress-Index and five Florida weeklies. The corporation is affiliated with the Thomson newspaper of Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

K. R. Thomson and his father, Roy H. Thomson, through separate corporations, own and control 30 newspapers in the United States and Canada, in addition to the giant Kemsley group of publications in Britain.

Philips, for the present, will divide his time between St. Petersburg and Laurel. He is a native of Alabama and has been connected with newspapers in Birmingham, Ala., Atlanta, Ga., Nashville, Tenn., and New Orleans.

FBI Says No Doubt In Cuba Case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI declared Saturday there "is no question" that Maj. Pedro Diaz Lanz, former chief of the Cuban air force, admitted leading a flight of planes that dropped anti-Castro leaflets on Havana.

The plane episode which occurred Wednesday provoked an outburst of anti-U.S. charges by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and a flurry of activity by diplomatic and law enforcement officials here.

Diaz Lanz, who broke with Castro and fled to Florida last July, first denied an FBI announcement that he had admitted leading the leaflet raid. Later, he refused to comment.

An FBI spokesman said today: "There is no question that Diaz Lanz admitted leading the flight."

Meantime, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) urged the government to take strong precautions to prevent such anti-Castro activities from being launched from this country.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader and a prominent member of the Foreign Relations Committee, suggested the government increase customs and immigration service personnel at Florida air fields to pevent flights which might be headed for anti-Castro activities in Cuba.

"Insofar as possible," Mansfield told United Press International, "We ought to do what we can to forbid the use of this country as a center for revolutionary plots or as a take-off point for aggressive tactics against our neighbors."

After the Wednesday raid, Castro went on the air in the marathon tirade to denounce the United States for what he called the "bombings" of Cuban cities.

Although urging greater U. S. precautions, Mansfield said: "Certainly Castro should know that any activities against his government are not the result of encouragement or assistance by the government of the United States."

"I would further point out," he said, "that Fidel Castro himself, during the course of his own revolution against the government of Fulgencio Batista, was also aided and supplied from sources in this country."

There were these developments:

Ambassador John C. Dreier, U. S. chairman of the Inter-American Peace Commission, planned to work at the State Dpartment over the weekend on latest reports from Cuba. The five-nation Peace Commission is scheduled to meet Monday. Dreier refused to say if the Cuban situation would be given immediate attention.

Law enforcement agencies along the Florida coast were placed on an alert to prevent any plane flights that might stir up the situation further.

Lower level officials at the Pentagon were said to be studying what could be done should Castro oust the U.S. Navy from its Cuban base at Guantanamo Bay. The general belief is that should Castro order the Navy out of Guantanamo, operations could be shifted without difficulty to Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico.

Mansfield did not appear concerned about Castro's veiled hints about Guantanamo. He pointed out that the importance of the base has declined from the U.S. standpoint although it is an economically profitable arrangement for the Cubans.

Credit Cards Lead To Charge Against Man

NEW YORK (AP)—A man with an assortment of credit cards was accused Saturday of using them for $50,000 worth of luxtury items and high living in night clubs and hotels without paying.

He identified himself as Jack Lustman, 46, of Baltimore, and gave his occupation as financial consultant.

Lustman, charged with grand larceny, was ordered by Magistrate Edward J. Chapman in felony court to post $25,000 bail. Lustman through an attorney, protested the amount was prohibitively high.

"Too bad," said Chapman. "You're not dealing with a credit company now.

Authorities said they had sought Lustman for four years.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jay Goldberg told the court that Lustman had been using the office of a telephone answering service on Park Avenue as a delivery and pickup point for purchases.

He said Lustman telephoned the service, that a mute, retired Army colonel would pick up packages delivered there, and then would go and pick them up himself. Lustman is neither mute nor a former colonel, detectives said.

Goldman said, Lustman had used three different names to obtain cards acceptable at hundreds of hotels, restaurants, night clubs and exclusive stores and that he had been living it up in high style.

He was arrested Saturday night when he appeared at the answering service office. A hearing was set for Nov. 4.

ROUNDUP

Deep Oil Sand Found In Miss.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new deep oil sand has been found in the Pistol Ridge gas field of Forrest Count.

Southern Natural Gas Co. is testing its Citizens Bank No. 4, in section 6, 1 south, 13 west, at the rate of 208 barrels of oil per day.

The well is the Paluxy zone at 11,569-77 feet.

It is reported that several other possible producing zones will be perforated and tested.

The Pistol Ridge field has gas production in the Wilcox, Eutaw, Tuscaloosa and Washita - Fredericksburg zones.

Production tests are commencing at Pan American's No. 1 land, sec. 21-2n-7e, a Pike County wildcat. The venture was drilled to 11,482 feet, with the operators running casing to 11,464 feet in an effort to evaluate the commercial worth of sands found by electrical log. The wildcat is located in the southern part of the county, about 7 miles south of McComb.

In the McComb field, Sun Oil and Willis Hughes are preparing to run production tests at their Andrews No. 1, sec. 14-3n17e. Indications are that it will be completed as the third oiler for the recently discovered field. The well logged oil sand at 10,876-88 feet. The field is near the western edge of the McComb city limits.

In Marion county, Heveley, Moon and Williams drilling co. are trying to complete their wildcat, the Pittman No. 1, sec. 30-2n-143, as a new discovery. Tests are being run on an oil sand at 9,178-83 feet. The venture also logged 16 feet of gas sand above the oil zone.

In Simpson County near the Merit field, Hargrave Oil Corp. continues to test its Peacock No. 1, sec. 24-1n-3e, with no information being released. Seven-inch casing was set at 13,350 feet, with reports that 120 feet of oil sand was logged.

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. is reported running its log at its Jefferson Davis County wildcat, the Burkett No. 1, sec. 26-7n-19w. Depth is 11,000 feet, with the venture drilling into salt at 8,905 feet.

Two wildcat tests are under way in Copiah County. X. M. Frascogna is below 13,200 feet in his Magnolia Textiles No. 1, sec. 7-9n-7e and Lone Star producint Co. is below 7,600 feet in its Southern Package No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e.

In Hancock County, Marshall Young is below 5,100 feet in his wildcat, the Jordanacres No. 1, northwest of Bay St. Louis. Contract depth is 10,400 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw two new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

At little Creek on the Pike County side, Skelton Operating Co. completed its Williams No. 1, sec. 10-4n-8e, flowing 236 barrels of oil per day from peforations at 10,748-68 feet.

In the Overton field of Adams County, Hellenic Oil and Gas Co. completed its Indepencence No. A c-3, sec. 19-5n-2w, pumping 147 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,462-65 feet.

The second well in the recently found Grange field of Jefferson Davis County has been officially completed. Tidewater Oil Co.'s No. 1 Mikell, sec. 24-8n-20w, flowed 3,368,000 cubic feet of gas and 51 barrels of condensate per day from a sand at 14,155-68 feet.

Wheat Hits Good Gain On Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Old crop wheat futures scored their best gains in several months on the Board of Trade this week. Other grains also finished the week higher.

Except for Monday, old crop wheat—the December, March and May deliveries— advanced every day as bullish influences brought increased buying into the market. December wheat was in greatest demand most of the time and this delivery was up more than three cents a bushel at the close Friday.

At the finish, old crop wheat was up 1¾ to 3⅛ cents a bushel compared with Friday a week ago. New crop wheat — the July and September contracts — were unchanged to ⅛ lower. Corn finished ¼ to 1⅝ higher, oats ½ to 1¼ higher, rye ¼ to 1 higher and soybeans 1¼ to 2⅛ higher.

Bullish influences in wheat included reports of continued very small farmer selling in the Southwest, a large pending business with Brazil and Pakistan, and a report that red wheat had been bought by a milling interest to move out of Chicago.

Another factor was the expectation a Department of Agriculture report on the amount of wheat under government support would prove to be bullish.

The report came out Friday after the close of the market, confirming expectations. It showd support as of Sept. 30. This is 234,749,287 bushels of wheat under some 60 million bushels more than was under the loan a month ago.

The report also showed 203,034 bushels of corn and 229,820 bushels of soybeans were placed under support since harvesting of the new crop commenced a month ago.

Soybeans continue to be the most active and most speculative commodity on the grain market. The speculative interest in beans has been extremely large and the open interest has expanded to an all-time record of over 146 million bushels.

Advances in corn were attributed to low inventories, which brought aggressive demand from both exporters and processors for first run marketings of the new crop. Exporter and processor supplies were reported at low levels.

Reds Set To Meet On Budget

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Parliament convenes Tuesday to ratify a new budget and listen to Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who is expected to discuss his U.S. tour.

On the agenda are a new labor code and the economics program, part of the seven-year plan to bring the Soviet Union up to U.S. standards of production in some fields.

But the big show is expected to be a speech by Khrushchev reviewing his visit to the United States. The U.S. tour still is being played up here as the diplomatic success of the age.

The first action before the parliament probably will be the budget. The budget, which includes military spending, is a complex document covering all government expenditures as well as industrial operations. The 1959 budget called for expenditures of 707,200,000,000 rubles — $176,800,000,000 at the official exchange rate of 4 to 1.

The economic program before Parliament will outline what the Soviet Union must do next year to keep up the production pace set by the seven-year plan. Khrushchev lately has agreed the Soviet Union will fail to match the United States in a number of fields of production under the seven-year plan.

The proposed labor code to be laid before Parliament already has been published.

Some of its provisions are: The seven-hour day and 40-hour week will be worked out in stages by the end of 1960. It already is operating in some industries.

A minimum 12-day vacation with pay annually is provided.

Workers cannot be shifted from job to job without consent or agreement of their trade unions.

Premiums can be paid to increase incentive to production. Basic wage minimums are provided and these are relatively low.

Attorneys For Indian Tribes Study Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for two Indian tribes and for the government are studying old documents, trying to determine the value 138 years ago of 4,114,330 acres in Michigan and Indiana.

The Potawatomi and Ottawa tribes contend the value ranged upward from $1.25 an acre when tribal chiefs, succumbing to threats and bribes, sold the land to the government for less than three cents an acre. This was under the Treaty of 1821.

The sum was "unconscionable," they said, and they have appealed to the Indian Claims Commission to right the alleged wrong. No specific figure was set.

The commission ruled June 30, 1958, that the Ottawa tribe and the Potawatomi of St. Joseph, more commonly called the Potawatomis of Indiana and Michigan, ceded the land to the United States in the 1821 treaty.

Lawyers now are studying official documents, journals and newspapers of that day, compiling the price of milk, eggs, timber and land, in an effort to set the 1821 value. Even if it is decided the Indians were cheated, the date of payment will be several years distant.

The figure accepted by the commission may be appealed by the government or the Indians to the U.S. Court of Claims. When the sum finally is accepted, payments already made will be deducted from the total, together with any money spent gratuitiously on the tribes.

New Met Season Opens

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — A 25 - week subscription season, longest in the Metropolitan Opera's history, begins Monday when Rudolf Bing formally starts his 10th year as general manager.

He picked one of the goriest melodramas in the repertory, Verdi's "Il Trovatore," to entertain the ultra - fashionable opening - night crowd. But he is giving the work a new production, first of two for this initial week, and for the first time at the Met a woman is designing both scenery and costumes.

Friday will offer Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" newly decked out thanks to a gift by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. Cyril Ritchard stages it, Erich Leinsdorf conducts, Oliver Messel is designer. In the cast besides Cesare Siepi, Lisa Della Casa and Mildred Miller, all old friends of Met audiences, there will be a new and pretty Susanna, Ann Elisabeth Soederstroem, soprano from Stockholm.

A second attractive singer makes her debut Monday: Giulietta Simionato, from Italy, mezzo - soprano, who will require a lot of make-up magic to metamorphose her into the savage, wizened Azucena. Fausto Cleva conducts, Herbert Graf is stage manager, and among others in the cast are Antonietta Stella, Carlo Bergonzi and Leonard Warren.

While the designer for "Il Trovatore," the English Elizabeth Montgomery, is the Met's first woman in this exacting task, it is conversely her first work with opera.

How does it differ from theater, in which she gained her reputation abroad as well as here? "Opera is bigger than theater, it's larger than life. I would say it has the same relation to the theater that Shakespeare has to the ordinary playwright."

DANCE SKETCH—This is designer Elizabeth Montgomery's sketch for the gypsy ballet in Act II of "Il Trovatore," with which the Metropolitan Opera opens its 1959-60 season.

Miss Montgomery is one of three women operating as the firm Motley. She got her start, she remembers pleasantly, when John Gielgud was playing the Old Vic in London. She and her young starry-eyed painter friends did portraits of the young actor and showed them to him, that led to talk about the theater. Her first success in her field coincided with his first in his: "Richard of Bordeaux," in 1932. She designed the "Beggar's Opera" which he directed in 1939 at Glynebourne, and she thinks that may have introduced Bing, a Glyndebourne veteran, to her work.

In London she also did "A Ball at the Savoy" for Oscar Hammerstein, for whom in this country she designed the "South Pacific" costumes. The first time she had the responsibility here for costumes and sets together was in "A Bell for Adano."

"In England the same person usually does the two jobs. To assign costumes to one person and sets to another can sometimes lead to curious inharmonious mixtures. I was so pleased to have the chance to do them both for 'Il Trovatore'."

She said she particularly loved the period of the opera, the 15th century. "I was greatly helped by a Portuguese painter of that remote time, Renaldo Dos Santos, whom you may not know in New York. But there also were some wonderful nuns' costumes from which I could borrow ideas in a Spanish museum here.

"The hardest thing is heads. They are terribly important. We can't have wigs for everybody on the stage, and I don't like to see a chorus of perhaps 40 men all with modern haircuts and a part. That betrays them. The women are different, for they don't show their hair at all.

"In the opera the enormous groups of people I have to handle provide a challenge I don't find in the theater. The mass of them across the stage must be broken up visually. For the hero Manrico I have a costume containing a lot of red. For di Luna, the 'moon man,' I use blues, violets and blacks. The music suggests things, too: gloomy passages for example call for heavy dark color.

"I had never seen 'Il Trovatore' until I was asked late last year to design it. Perhaps it is better that way — I never see the new plays before I design for them, either. For the opera I read the libretto, listened to the music, talked to Dr. Graf, and consulted books on the period —and went to work.

The Music World

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Showing what long-time-no-hear does to even the best publicized operatic voices, there's not even a whisper of Maria Callas in local operatic circles as the Metropolitan Opera opens its 75th season with hammered anvils, come Monday night.

The excitement over the anguish of a fired prima donna is so far gone it could have never existed, and all the excitement is over the prima donnas who are new to the company, particularly Birgit Nilsson, a soprano of truly heroic volume, and Giulietta Simionato and her sumptious mezzo-soprano.

Operatic scuttlebutt is that Maria is going to crack under her operatic obscurity before long and make a come-back by making peace with the local opera house and the others from which she estranged herself. Operatic people can't imagine affairs of the heart diverting her too long from what is the main business in life for them and her—opera.

Monday night's anvils will be hammered in a ne wproduction of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," with its noisy "Anvil Chorus" once accounted the most popular opera in the repertoire, which is the season opener for the first time.

Miss Simionato will make her debut in it, in the part of Azucena which is tailor-made for a sensuous voice like hers, and the prima donna will be Antonietta Stella, one of the sopranos who last season helped the met's patrons forget Miss Callas.

Wednesday night Masssenet's "Manon" will be returned to the sesses top French conductor in the person of Jean Morel. But the really big bang will come Friday night with the much-heralded new production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," with Erihc Leinsdorf conducting.

In all there will be six new productions during the season—Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra," Beethoven's "Fidelo," Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" in which Miss Nilsson will match her heroic vocal capacities against the most heroic female score in the literature, and Johann Strauss' "The Gypsy Baron."

Nine operas which were dropped during the past few seasons will be restored, which means that Of the 25 operas of the new season are surviving. Among those dropped temporarily is "La Boheme," which will shock the Puccini fans. Also dropped are the six operas which were sung in English.

Of the 25 operas of the new season, only one will be sung in English — "The Gypsy Baron." Fourteen of the 26 will be sung in Italian, and this shows why the met is so often called the leading Italian opera house outside Italy. However, the German repertoire is being beefed up—there will be six operas in German. The French is barely holding its own with four.

It will make the low-point of the opera-in-English cause since Rudolf Bing became general manager. On the other hand, "The Gypsy Baron" is a concession to popular tastes, being an operetta rather than an opera. Bing has made a point of having one such every season.

LITTLE THEATRE

By B. B. STRON
Guest Writer

Every Little Theaterite is thrilled with the huge success of our first play "Janus". Unprecedented crowds for a non - musical have been attending, and enthusiastic audiences every night made it necessary to run the play an extra night. Seems everyone in Monroe who is anyone is becoming interested in Little Theatre and that couldn't please us more.

A cast and crew party was given Saturday night at the home of Patsy and Val Ringo, and Monday night Dr. Edward Brown was surprised with a birthday party. Everyone enjoyed this excitement which topped off the excellent nightly performances.

One of the most looked - forward - to productions of this year will be the famous "Caine Mutiny Court-Martial", the second play of this season. It is based on the court martial scene from the famous Pulitzer prize winning play by Herman Wouk, and starred Lloyd Nolan in the Broadway production, co - starring John Hodiac and Henry Fonda. It was later made into an excellent and wonderful movie, which starred Humphrey Bogart and Fred McMurray.

Tryouts will be held Monday night at 8:00 p.m. at the Selman Field Playhouse, and Ivan says if you have a conflict for this time, call him at the theatre and he will be happy to arrange a reading for you.

There are many wonderful parts in this production, including fifteen men, all ages, from 16-17 up. There are also four non-speaking parts in this all - male cast. So if you have not had any actin experience, don't let that scare you off! Ivan can do something with nothing!

We will be in need of Navy uniforms — officers' uniforms, insignia, as well as a green Air Force uniform. If you have any of these or know where you can borrow, beg or steal same, please contact Mr. Uttal. This is a big order to try to get uniforms for this play, so please cooperate and help us get this out of the way early.

Stocker Fontelieu of the New Orleans Little Theatre, has just completed the Arthur Miller play "All My Sons," which was very successful. They move into the new Gallery Circle Theatre in about a month.

Little Theatre members who are gadding about the country include President Mary Gill, who is in Chicago, and Lallage Feazel who has just returned from Mexico City.

We are still accepting donations for the new Strauss Playhouse. This will be an investment in your community for years to come, and there are many "extras" which will be needed when the time comes to move into the new building. Please call Mr. Robert H. Evans now.

Be sure to get in touch with Mrs. L. H. Carter, FA 3-8509, for renewing memberships. This will be your last opportunity and we know that everyone wants to be included when we move into the new Strauss Playhouse.

See you Monday night, 8:00 p.m. at tryouts, and in the meantime, Talk Little Theatre!

In London she also did "A Ball at the Savoy" for Oscar Hammerstein, for whom in this country she designed the "South Pacific" costumes. The first time she had the responsibility here for costumes and sets together was in "A Bell for Adano."

"In England the same person usually does the two jobs. To assign costumes to one person and sets to another can sometimes lead to curious inharmonious mixtures. I was so pleased to have the chance to do them both for 'Il Trovatore'."

She said she particularly loved the period of the opera, the 15th century. "I was greatly helped by a Portuguese painter of that remote time, Renaldo Dos Santos, whom you may not know in New York. But there also were some wonderful nuns' costumes from which I could borrow ideas in a Spanish museum here.

"The hardest thing is heads. They are terribly important. We can't have wigs for everybody on the stage, and I don't like to see a chorus of perhaps 40 men all with modern haircuts and a part. That betrays them. The women are different, for they don't show their hair at all.

"In the opera the enormous groups of people I have to handle provide a challenge I don't find in the theater. The mass of them across the stage must be broken up visually. For the hero Manrico I have a costume containing a lot of red. For di Luna, the 'moon man,' I use blues, violets and blacks. The music suggests things, too: gloomy passages for example call for heavy dark color.

"I had never seen 'Il Trovatore' until I was asked late last year to design it. Perhaps it is better that way — I never see the new plays before I design for them, either. For the opera I read the libretto, listened to the music, talked to Dr. Graf, and consulted books on the period —and went to work.

The Music World

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Showing what long-time-no-hear does to even the best publicized operatic voices, there's not even a whisper of Maria Callas in local operatic circles as the Metropolitan Opera opens its 75th season with hammered anvils, come Monday night.

The excitement over the anguish of a fired prima donna is so far gone it could have never existed, and all the excitement is over the prima donnas who are new to the company, particularly Birgit Nilsson, a soprano of truly heroic volume, and Giulietta Simionato and her sumptious mezzo-soprano.

Operatic scuttlebutt is that Maria is going to crack under her operatic obscurity before long and make a come-back by making peace with the local opera house and the others from which she estranged herself. Operatic people can't imagine affairs of the heart diverting her too long from what is the main business in life for them and her—opera.

Monday night's anvils will be hammered in a ne wproduction of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," with its noisy "Anvil Chorus" once accounted the most popular opera in the repertoire, which is the season opener for the first time.

Miss Simionato will make her debut in it, in the part of Azucena which is tailor-made for a sensuous voice like hers, and the prima donna will be Antonietta Stella, one of the sopranos who last season helped the met's patrons forget Miss Callas.

Wednesday night Masssenet's "Manon" will be returned to the sesses top French conductor in the person of Jean Morel. But the really big bang will come Friday night with the much-heralded new production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," with Erihc Leinsdorf conducting.

In all there will be six new productions during the season—Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra," Beethoven's "Fidelo," Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" in which Miss Nilsson will match her heroic vocal capacities against the most heroic female score in the literature, and Johann Strauss' "The Gypsy Baron."

Nine operas which were dropped during the past few seasons will be restored, which means that

Of the 25 operas of the new season are surviving. Among those dropped temporarily is "La Boheme," which will shock the Puccini fans. Also dropped are the six operas which were sung in English.

Of the 25 operas of the new season, only one will be sung in English — "The Gypsy Baron." Fourteen of the 26 will be sung in Italian, and this shows why the met is so often called the leading Italian opera house outside Italy. However, the German repertoire is being beefed up—there will be six operas in German. The French is barely holding its own with four.

It will make the low-point of the opera-in-English cause since Rudolf Bing became general manager. On the other hand, "The Gypsy Baron" is a concession to popular tastes, being an operetta rather than an opera. Bing has made a point of having one such every season.

LITTLE THEATRE

By B. B. STRON
Guest Writer

Every Little Theaterite is thrilled with the huge success of our first play "Janus". Unprecedented crowds for a non - musical have been attending, and enthusiastic audiences every night made it necessary to run the play an extra night. Seems everyone in Monroe who is anyone is becoming interested in Little Theatre and that couldn't please us more.

A cast and crew party was given Saturday night at the home of Patsy and Val Ringo, and Monday night Dr. Edward Brown was surprised with a birthday party. Everyone enjoyed this excitement which topped off the excellent nightly performances.

One of the most looked - forward - to productions of this year will be the famous "Caine Mutiny Court-Martial", the second play of this season. It is based on the court martial scene from the famous Pulitzer prize winning play by Herman Wouk, and starred Lloyd Nolan in the Broadway production, co - starring John Hodiac and Henry Fonda. It was later made into an excellent and wonderful movie, which starred Humphrey Bogart and Fred McMurray.

Tryouts will be held Monday night at 8:00 p.m. at the Selman Field Playhouse, and Ivan says if you have a conflict for this time, call him at the theatre and he will be happy to arrange a reading for you.

There are many wonderful parts in this production, including fifteen men, all ages, from 16-17 up. There are also four non-speaking parts in this all - male cast. So if you have not had any actin experience, don't let that scare you off! Ivan can do something with nothing!

We will be in need of Navy uniforms — officers' uniforms, insignia, as well as a green Air Force uniform. If you have any of these or know where you can borrow, beg or steal same, please contact Mr. Uttal. This is a big order to try to get uniforms for this play, so please cooperate and help us get this out of the way early.

Stocker Fontelieu of the New Orleans Little Theatre, has just completed the Arthur Miller play "All My Sons," which was very successful. They move into the new Gallery Circle Theatre in about a month.

Little Theatre members who are gadding about the country inclue President Mary Gill, who is in Chicago, and Lallage Feazel who has just returned from Mexico City.

We are still accepting donations for the new Strauss Playhouse. This will be an investment in your community for years to come, and there are many "extras" which will be needed when the time comes to move into the new building. Please call Mr. Robert H. Evans now.

Be sure to get in touch with Mrs. L. H. Carter, FA 3-8509, for renewing memberships. This will be your last opportunity and we know that everyone wants to be included when we move into the new Strauss Playhouse.

See you Monday night, 8:00 p.m. at tryouts, and in the meantime, Talk Little Theatre!

ACTIVE INTEREST — Youths above display active participation in last week's Forest Carnival staged at Hickory Grove near Crossett, Arkansas.

AT CROSSETT

Forest Carnival Draws Children

CROSSETT (Special) — Over 200 children attended the Forestry Csrnival for 4-H members of Ashley County at Hickory Grove south of Crossett, which was held last week.

Members of all nine of Ashley County's community Clubs, both juniors and seniors, spilled out over the grassy clearing in the pine forest as they competed in log sawing, air rifle shooting fire quenching, and nail driving.

High point of the afternoon was the awarding of prizes for the top exhibits sponsored by the Keep Arkansas Green Association.

First place went to Promise Land 4-H Club, whose leaders are Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Riley, Jr. It was a display of a cross-section, bark section, leaf and acorn of each of the ten varieties of oak tree found in the County.

Second place went to Ouachita Valley Club, led by Mrs. Urban Carter and Mrs. Conrad Carter. Their exhibit featured wood products, surrounded by posters made by the children on Fire Prevention in the Forests.

Snyder Club, led by Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Moyer, placed third, with an exhibit showing the parched, eroded earth of a fire-blackened forest, beside a growing green forest with logging trucks hauling in the "crop" of logs.

JUDGES

For total points earned in all competition during the afternoon, Fountain Hill won the Grand Prize, Snyder second prize. Cash prizes were awarded by The Crossett Company, which sponsored the Carnival.

Harold Howell, Extension Forester for the Agriculture Extension Service of the University of Arkansas, of Little Rock, assisted with the details of the Carnival. Mrs. Margaret Alexander, Ashley County Home Demonstration Agent, Custer Ross, District Forester, and D. M. Vaught, County Agricultural Extension Agent, organized the event.

Mrs. Alexxander stated that there are no longer any school 4-H Clubs, that they are all nine Community Clubs in the county. She pointed out that consolidation of the schools in the state, while improving the quality of education for the child, had caused the community center of the rural groups to vanish. The 4-H Clubs and Home Demonstration Clubs, operating as community organizations, are doing much to rebuild the community center for the rural families. The Promise Land community has built a Community Center building for their Home Demonstration, 4-H club and other local activities, and several other Ashley county communities are planning similar buildings.

Total membership in 4-H clubs in the county is between 250 and 300 young people between the ages of 8 to 13 for the junior groups and 14 to 21 for the senior groups. Approximately 80 per cent of the membership attended the carnival.

The Capital's Police Force For The Dogs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The capital's police force has gone to the dogs for help.

The "metropolitan police K-9 corps" has been formed to aid police walking beats in areas where crime is most prevalent. The cogps is similar to the one used by the Army in World War II and was modeled after those now in use by the St. Louis and Baltimore police departments.

The District of Columbia commissioners, governing body of Washington, decided on the corps after the crime rate surged alarmingly. Robert E. McLaughlin, commission president, said that 80 teams of policemen and dogs will work together.

"We're selecting the number of units largely based on Baltimore's plan," he said. "They have a population of one million and are using 80 teams. We have a population of 825,000."

Stiff regulations were set up for the selection and training of the corps four-legged members as well as the policemen to work with the dogs. The department is now in the process of selecting men and dogs.

A 14-week training period is scheduled, once the personnel and K-9 force all have been selected.

The dogs must be one to three-year old German shepherds and "must be compatible with the men they are trained with." Once a team is trained, the man and dog will always work together.

The dogs must pass a "psychiatric examination" to gauge their temperament. The human element in each unit must have assurance his dog won't disobey him or turn on him.

So far, 50 dogs have been offered.

"Selecting the men to train with the dogs may be troublesome," McLaughlin said.

Sixty district policemen — all with previous experience in handling dogs — have volnteered to work with the corps. Each patrolman will keep his dog at home. He must have a yard for it, be able to care for it, and generally understand it. The policeman's family also must like the idea of having the dog around.

The city government is financing upkeep of the dogs with cash payments of $200-a-year to each patrolman in addition to his regular salary. The policemen also get a dollar-a-day upkeep allotment.

Deputy Police Chief Howard V. Covell said the dogs can usually spot trouble in a 250-yard radius. The dogs are used to track lost children, and flush out hiding fugitives, as well as to help policemen ward off attacks, and chase down and corner attackers.

The dogs also are considered assets in boosting morale of police who usually walk their beats alone in tough neighborhoods.

Note On Church Will Be Burned

JONESBORO (Special) —Today the First Baptist Church in Jonesboro will burn the note on their main building in the morning worship service.

Paul Spencer, executive vice president of the Jackson Parish bank, and James B. Thane who was chairman of the building committee when the building was constructed, will both participate in the burning ceremonies.

Pilot Killed In Air Crash Of Two Jets

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A pilot was killed Friday night near Ogden, Utah, in an air crash of two jet planes. It was the second National Guard jet plane air collision within 24 hours.

Killed in his flaming F86 jet was 1st Lt. Charles G. Place, 27, a Cheyenne, Wyo., high school teacher. Second Lt. R. J. Martin of Laramie, Wyo., escaped serious injury when he parachuted from the second plane.

The collision occurred after the planes took off from Hill Air Force Base, Ogden. Both were Wyoming Air National Guard craft.

The crash late Thursday night, involving four men—two each in twin-jet Scorpions—had a happier ending Friday.

The four men, members of the Oregon Air National Guard, bailed out after one plane nosed up into the belly of the other. Both planes plunged to earth from 27,000 feet above the fog-shrouded slopes of 11,245-foot Mt. Hood, 50 miles east of here.

Rescue teams and hunters found the four at the 7,000-foot level. Three had to climb out of trees after their chutes snagged on limbs.

Dr. Christmas Is Elected As Head Of Unit

Other officers chosen by the unit include A. S. Huffman, vice president, and Thomas R. Mc Cann, secretary. Huffman is head of Northeast's Health and Physical Education Department and McCann is associate professor of social science.

DELEGATES

Delegates elected to represent the college LTA at the annual convention when it convenes in Baton Rouge from November 23-25 are Dean Eugene Holtzclaw of the Education Division and W. C. Buchanan, associate professor of social science.

Holtzclaw was chosen last year to serve for a two - year period and Buchanan was elected this fall. Alternate delegates for Holtzclaw are Dr. Jack Harrington, associate professor of education, and Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions and professor of education.

Alternate delegates for Buchanan are Miss Hazel Mitchell, associate professor of languages, and Miss Frances Baldwin, associate professor of science.

Criminal Cases Are Acted On In Jonesboro

The collision occurred after the planes took off from Hill Air Force Base, Ogden. Both were Wyoming Air National Guard craft.

The crash late Thursday night, involving four men—two each in twin-jet Scorpions—had a happier ending Friday.

The four men, members of the Oregon Air National Guard, bailed out after one plane nosed up into the belly of the other. Both planes plunged to earth from 27,000 feet above the fog-shrouded slopes of 11,245-foot Mt. Hood, 50 miles east of here.

Rescue teams and hunters found the four at the 7,000-foot level. Three had to climb out of trees after their chutes snagged on limbs.

Note On Church Will Be Burned

JONESBORO (Special) —Today the First Baptist Church in Jonesboro will burn the note on their main building in the morning worship service.

Paul Spencer, executive vice president of the Jackson Parish bank, and James B. Thane who was chairman of the building committee when the building was constructed, will both participate in the burning ceremonies.

Dr. Christmas Is Elected As Head Of Unit

Other officers chosen by the unit include A. S. Huffman, vice president, and Thomas R. Mc Cann, secretary. Huffman is head of Northeast's Health and Physical Education Department and McCann is associate professor of social science.

DELEGATES

Delegates elected to represent the college LTA at the annual convention when it convenes in Baton Rouge from November 23-25 are Dean Eugene Holtzclaw of the Education Division and W. C. Buchanan, associate professor of social science.

Holtzclaw was chosen last year to serve for a two - year period and Buchanan was elected this fall. Alternate delegates for Holtzclaw are Dr. Jack Harrington, associate professor of education, and Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions and professor of education.

Alternate delegates for Buchanan are Miss Hazel Mitchell, associate professor of languages, and Miss Frances Baldwin, associate professor of science.

MRS. FREDRICK O. MARTTY

Miss Haughton, F. O. Martty Pledge Vows

The Methodist Church in Fayette, Alabama, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Margaret Rosalyn Haughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Curtis Haughton of Fayette and Frederick O. Martty, son of Mrs. Frank O. Martty and the late Mr. Martty of St. Joseph. The ceremony was performed in a setting of ivory stock chrysanthemums and palmes with branched candelabra holding ivory stock, chrysanthemums and palms with branched candelabra holding candles. The Rev. Welton Gregory, uncle of the bride, and Rev. O. G. Waid officiated on Oct. 17 at 6 p.m. for the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was dressed in de lustered satin and chantilly lace dress. The sabrina neckline was reembroidered in irridescents and seed pearls. The flowing panel down the back was attached at the waistline with satin rosette insets with lace sweeping into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of lace. Her bouquet was a modified crescent of fleur d'amour and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Bailey Stevens, of Birmingham, Ala. and Pensacola, Florida, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Shelby Mackey of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Miss Gloria Gregory, Montgomery, Ala.; and Miss Diane Gregory of Montgomery. Serving as best man was Frank Thomas Martty, brother of the groom, from St. Joseph. Groomsmen were George Edward Thomas, New Orleans; Mickey Thomas, St. Joseph and Elliot Evans of Baton Rouge. The ushers were William Pollard Coleman, Ferriday; Buddy Tanner, St. Joseph, Edward B. Robert Jr., Baton Rouge and Mike Gray of St. Joseph.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thompson L. Clarke, Mrs. Jane Evans, Mrs. Claude Y. Clarke, daughters, Sue Anne and Jane, and sons, Claude, Jr., and Tom, Mrs. Joseph E. Thomas, Mrs. Olen O. Tanner, all of St. Joseph, Louisiana.

Mrs. L. P. Coleman, Ferriday, Louisiana; Mrs. A. P. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Cunningham, Jr. and daughter, Mickey, Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Robert, Jr., Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Mrs. W. W. Crider and Mr. and Mrs. George V. Stevens, Birmingham, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Haughton, Atlanta, Georgia, Rev. and Mrs. Welton Gregory, Montgomery, Alabama, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Duke, Jr., Louisville, Miss.

The bride chose a camel colored suit with mink collar and matching fur hat for their wedding trip to the southern coast. Her corsage was taken from her wedding bouquet.

La Vingt Club Guest Speaker Is Dr. Hammond

The LaVingt Club met in the home of Mrs. Wayne Warren at 506 Filhiol on Wednesday, October 21, at two o'clock for their regular monthly meeting. The reception rooms were decorated with pink roses.

A short business meeting was conducted with Mrs. W. O. Webb, vice president, presiding.

Dr. W. R. Hammond of Northeast State College was the featured speaker for the afternoon. His topic, "Our Schools are Better Than You Think." He drew a very distinct comparison between the schools of today over those of yesterday. He also pointed out the freedom of thought we have in American schools that the people of Russian schools do not have.

Refreshments were served to the guest speaker and to the following members: Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Mrs. Earl Brimberry, Mrs. William Crow, Mrs. Walter Knapp, Mrs. A. Petrus, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. L. D. Ritter, Mrs. Leon Sutton, Mrs. W. O. Webb, Mrs. Hilton Wilkerson, Mrs. Reginald Seiler, Mrs. Wayne Warren, and Mrs. Bruce Brooks.

Flower Design Course Offered

A special course in flower arranging, organized and sponsored by the hobby group of the Parent - Teachers Association of Sherrouse School, used last year, will be offered again this year. A large class was present for the opening session. Mrs. E. M. Baber, serving her second term as chairman and Mrs. Annie Mae Hathorn, co - chairman, welcomed the members and outlined the plan of study for the year.

A number of arrangements had been prepared by Mrs. Baber.

Following members were present: Myrtis Batten, Edna Seiler, Mrs. Hathorn, Verna Guerriero, Ruth Lovelady, Mary Johnson, Katie Ruth Braley, Fannye Tyler, Jo Willis, Rema Allen, Louise Brown, "Shep" Babers, Elinor Bondurant and Gladys Miles.

Arrangements Are Discussed At Garden Club

The Green Thumb Garden Club met for its October meeting in the home of Mrs. E. F. Kenny with Mrs. R. H. Cunliffe as cohostess. Mrs. Howell Heard presided. Members brought arrangements which were discussed by the group. Three members were appointed to place flower arrangements at the Garden Center December 15th. Mrs. John Daws gave Horticulture hints. Mrs. Ralph Newman gave treasurer's report. Later Mrs. T. E. Humphries gave an interesting talk on her trip out west and her collection to make arrangements. Refreshments were served to members attending. Mrs. A. R. Bates, Mrs. Cunliffe, Mrs. Daws, Mrs. Earl Ferguson, Mrs. Suzee Gorman, Mrs. J. J. Gulledge, Mrs. Howell Heard, Mrs. Humphries, Mrs. J. D. Ingram, Mrs. Ker[illegible] Mrs. Newman, Mrs. H. R. Robbins, Mrs. W. F. Wall.

N.L.S.C Women's Club Meets In Little Theatre

The first regular meeting of the NLSC Women's Club was held October 19 in the Little Theater on the campus of Northeast State College with the President, Mrs. A. J. Speece, presiding at the business session. Seventy - four members were present for a lecture, followed by a social hour.

Mrs. Clifton Flinn, program chairman, presented the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Ann Hayes who recently returned from a visit to Hong Kong. Mrs. Hayes gave a lecture on Chinese family life, customs and traditions.

A social hour followed in the lounge where the decorations further carried out the Chinese theme of the evening. Multicolored lanterns were hung in the room and trays of Chinese fortune cookies were passed. The serving table was covered with a beige lace cloth and had as its centerpiece a silver bowl filled with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums interspersed with fall leaves. Silver candelabras held burning candles on either side of the flower arrangement.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Earl Trabue, Miss Frances Baldwin, Miss Gloria Ann Charles, Mrs. Jack C. Rowan, Mrs. Edward Whatley, Miss May Read, Miss Louise McLawchlin, Mrs. Wilbur Perkins, Mrs. Josepn Kern, Mrs. W. C. Buchanan, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. D. C. Farrow, Mrs. Carl McCoy, and Mrs. Clarence Ball.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Monday, November 16 in the Little Theater when Mrs. Kent Breard will present the program for the evening.

Mrs. Gossett Presides At R.J.H. Aux.

The Rodney J. Hobbs Ladies Auxiliary 1809 held its regular meeting at the post home with the president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, presiding on October 20.

The secretary, Mrs. Peggy Joiner, read the official correspondence. The members voted to send $1.00 per member to the Cancer Aid and Research Fund. The auxiliary will sponsor a cake sale in the near future and the proceeds will go to the VFW Memorial Building in Washington, D. C. Each auxiliary is asked to honor the birthday of our national auxiliary president, Mrs. Gertrude Rhind, by holding some special function for the benefit of the VFW Memorial Building.

The legislative chairman, Mrs. Eloise Gauthier, requested that all members who were not registered voters make a special effort to register.

Mrs. Lena Perry, youth activities chairman, ask the auxiliary to sponsor a Halloween party for the members of the Junior Girls Unit. Mrs. Perry stated that the purpose of our youth activities program is to promote opportunities for children and youth to develop a spirit of true sportsmanship and fair play while also improving themselves physically, mentally and morally.

Mrs. Gossett announced that the auxiliary had won third place in the KMLB Community Club Awards contest during the third week. The proceeds from the CCA contest will be used in the rehabilitation work which is one of the auxiliary's major programs.

N.L.S.C Women's Club Meets In Little Theatre

The first regular meeting of the NLSC Women's Club was held October 19 in the Little Theater on the campus of Northeast State College with the President, Mrs. A. J. Speece, presiding at the business session. Seventy - four members were present for a lecture, followed by a social hour.

Mrs. Clifton Flinn, program chairman, presented the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Ann Hayes who recently returned from a visit to Hong Kong. Mrs. Hayes gave a lecture on Chinese family life, customs and traditions.

A social hour followed in the lounge where the decorations further carried out the Chinese theme of the evening. Multicolored lanterns were hung in the room and trays of Chinese fortune cookies were passed. The serving table was covered with a beige lace cloth and had as its centerpiece a silver bowl filled with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums interspersed with fall leaves. Silver candelabras held burning candles on either side of the flower arrangement.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Earl Trabue, Miss Frances Baldwin, Miss Gloria Ann Charles, Mrs. Jack C. Rowan, Mrs. Edward Whatley, Miss May Read, Miss Louise McLawchlin, Mrs. Wilbur Perkins, Mrs. Josepn Kern, Mrs. W. C. Buchanan, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. D. C. Farrow, Mrs. Carl McCoy, and Mrs. Clarence Ball.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Monday, November 16 in the Little Theater when Mrs. Kent Breard will present the program for the evening.

Mrs. Gossett Presides At R.J.H. Aux.

The Rodney J. Hobbs Ladies Auxiliary 1809 held its regular meeting at the post home with the president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, presiding on October 20.

The secretary, Mrs. Peggy Joiner, read the official correspondence. The members voted to send $1.00 per member to the Cancer Aid and Research Fund. The auxiliary will sponsor a cake sale in the near future and the proceeds will go to the VFW Memorial Building in Washington, D. C. Each auxiliary is asked to honor the birthday of our national auxiliary president, Mrs. Gertrude Rhind, by holding some special function for the benefit of the VFW Memorial Building.

The legislative chairman, Mrs. Eloise Gauthier, requested that all members who were not registered voters make a special effort to register.

Mrs. Lena Perry, youth activities chairman, ask the auxiliary to sponsor a Halloween party for the members of the Junior Girls Unit. Mrs. Perry stated that the purpose of our youth activities program is to promote opportunities for children and youth to develop a spirit of true sportsmanship and fair play while also improving themselves physically, mentally and morally.

Mrs. Gossett announced that the auxiliary had won third place in the KMLB Community Club Awards contest during the third week. The proceeds from the CCA contest will be used in the rehabilitation work which is one of the auxiliary's major programs.

Country Club Is Setting For Afternoon Fall Tea

One of the loveliest parties of the fall season was given on Thursday, Oct. 15, at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Leon G. Sugar, Mrs. Jerald H. Sugar and Mrs. Frederick King.

The hours were 3 to 5 in the afternoon. A pink theme was carried out in the decorations and numerous and artistic arrangements of pink carnations. A large arrangement was used in the foyer and a large silver wine cooler filled with pink pompon chrysanthemums was placed on the piano.

Greeting guests at the entrance to the lounge were the hostesses. Mrs. Leon Sugar, wore a dress of royal blue with matching slippers, Mrs. King's dress was of burgundy color and her slippers were burgandy satin, Mrs. Jerald Sugar chose a champagne silk dress and bronze slippers, They each wore pink carnation corsages.

The tea table stood in the center of the room, on either end was placed a silver tea and coffee service. Centering this table was an artistic arrangement of a nine - branched candelabra holding pink tapers and holding a pyramid of pink carnations. At the far end of the room the refreshment table held an assortment of petit fours and dainty party confections. The table was centered with a silver bowl of pink carnations flanked by silver candelabra holding pink tapers.

Serving at the silver services were Mrs. Don Weil, Mrs. H. L. Rosenheim, Mrs. Ferdinand Hirsch and Mrs. Louis Masur Jr. Others assisting in the afternoon courtesies were Mrs. Morris Blumenthal, Mrs. Sam Rubin Jr., Mrs. Fred Cotton Jr. and Mrs. D. V. Loflin Jr. Each of the members of the house party wore pink carnation corsages.

'Centralized Library' Is P.T.A. Topic

"It is hopeful that the Centralized Library Plan will encourage students to read more books by giving a wider variety from which to choose," says Mrs. McDonald. Eighteen members were thus informed about this plan.

Mrs. Delma Holloway gave a report on the Lunch Program and Mr. Speir talked on the school's Athletic Program.

The annual Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Okaloosa School and P.T.A. will be held on Friday, Oct. 23rd, at 7 p.m.

Dried Foliage Arranged At Club Meeting

The Town and Country Garden Club held its October meeting in the home of Mrs. R. W. Dickenhorst. Mrs. Robert Clay assisted Mrs. Dickenhorst in serving refreshments to members and guests in the large family room. Members of the group brought many varieties of dried leaves, branches, shrubs and various foliage plants with which they fashioned dried fall arrangements for discussion and assistance by the guest speaker, Mrs. V. S. Garnett.

Those attending this meeting were Mrs. Grant Boardman, Mrs. Haynes Harkey, Mrs. John Mullen, Mrs. Amos Shelton, Mrs. F. E. McCarty, Mrs. C. G. Pearce Jr., Mrs. Harry Stone, Mrs. Jack Neel, Mrs. Charles Searcy, Mrs. H. D. Touchstone, Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr., Mrs. D. I. Garrett Jr., Mrs. N. Klam, Mrs. John Salisbury, Mrs. Tom Hayes, and guests Mrs. William Husted Jr. and Mrs. Larry Fox.

Young Adults Conference Is Held Here

The Arkansas - Louisiana Annual Conference of Young Adults met at the Holiday Inn in Monroe on Saturday and Sunday, October 17 and 18 for the annual conference.

The theme for the conference was "The World, The Y, and I." A panel discussion on the theme was made up of three guest speakers, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, member of the YWCA Board, Rev. Carnie Burcham, pastor, St. John's Christian Church, Monroe, and Joe Harris, employer-employee relations supervisor of United Gas.

The final meeting of the conference was held on Sunday morning with a breakfast, after which a business meeting was held for the reports and election of officers for the coming year.

Betty Hutton Explains Her Pet Sayings

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Everything is Coo-Coo and Razmataz with Betty Hutton.

"It's been a Kazoom-Pow day with a cherry on the top," says the blonde and bumptious star, in New York for general hi-jinks in connection with her new TV show. Wearing orange silk pants and shirt, she scampers about her hotel suite beaming:

"I couldn't wear these pants until I lost 15 pounds rehearsing for TV. It's great for the figure."

Betty's vocabulary has caused some confusion of late. So she explains:

"Coo-Coo can express almost anything—it's all in the intonation. Said like a dove it means you're swooning with joy, or 'Wow!' Said sharply it can mean something like 'You're crazy, or 'Oh, the heck with it.' A very useful word.

"Kazoom-Pow of course means the greatest, the tops, the living end. And when I say—'with a cherry on top,' I mean that's the ultimate final touch — nothing could be better."

Betty is a girl from the wrong side of the tracks in Battle Creek, Mich., who started singing on street corners at the age of 11, to help her mother, and who crashed show business at 15, singing with an orchestra. She was almost a flop until she lost her temper one night and started jumping on top of the piano and screaming across the footlights. From then on she was a hit.

Betty went from the orchestra bit to Broadway and then to Hollywood, where she hit her stride as star of such hits as "Annie Get Your Gun" and "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Betty's mother has had all the strawberries and cream she can use for some years now, as daughter's fame grew in Hollywood. And Betty now is busy seeing that her two daughters, 12-year-old Lindsay and 11 - year - old Candy, do their homework and take their vitamins.

Betty has been hunting for some time for the right TV vehicle, and now she thinks she has found it, as Goldie, the secretary who inherits a fortune and guardianship of a family.

Couples Honored With Fall Tea In Cobb Home

The South Grand Street home of Dr. and Mrs. Ben B. Cobb was the setting on Sunday afternoon for a fall tea, with Dr. and Mrs. Cobb and Dr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Vreeland as co-hosts. Honor guests were two couples who have recently moved to Monroe to make their home, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Keeling and Dr. and Mrs. George R. Ellis.

Fall blossoms were used in profussion in the party areas. In the foyer were two arrangements, one of white mums and coleus, the other of pink roses and pink chrysanthemums. The living room held a massive arrangement of salmon colored gladioli. On a table in the music room where the silver service was placed an arrangement of pink roses and chrysanthemums centered the table. Pouring here were Mrs. William Kramer and Mrs. Dorothy Vreeland, a guest from California. The dining table was centered with a silver and crystal epergne filled with yellow and bronze fuji mums. These same flowers were used on the mantel in this area.

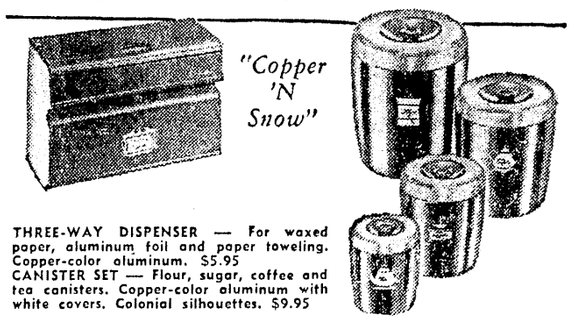

The hosts, hostesses and the honor guests received their guests in the foyer. Mrs. Vreeland wore a red light weight wool dress while Mrs. Cobb's dress had a white embroidered top with a light weight black wool skirt. Mrs. Keeling chose a black taffeta dress with a full skirt and Mrs. Ellis wore a black fall crepe dress. They each wore a corsage of white roses.

Two Of Ike's Kin Dropped From Edition

By PATRICIA WIGGINS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's sister-in-law, Mrs. George Gordon Moore, and her husband have been dropped from the 1960 edition of Washington's unofficial "social list", out Saturday.

The big green suede book, social bible for Washington, also dropped from its 7,000 listings the name of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, son and daughter-in-law of the President and First Lady.

While the anonymous board of governors never gives its reasons for changes in the list, an aide to the publisher, Mrs. Carolyn Hagner Shaw, indicated the young Eisenhowers had been omitted because they now reside at Gettysburg, Pa., outside the Washington area.

Young Eisenhower is assistant staff secretary at the White House. He commutes to his recently renovated white frame house on the edge of the Eisenhower farm property in Gettysburg.

There was no indication of why the Moores were dropped.

INFLUENCE PEDDLING

Moore, a local broker whose name figured in a congressional investigation of influence peddling last year, first appeared in the social list for 1952, when his brother-in-law was the GOP candidate for the White House.

Despite the fact that he, his wife and two daughters — Ellen Doud and Mamie Eisenhower Moore—are among the most frequent callers at the White House, they were among the 700 green book casualties.

Sherman Adams was the most notable casualty last year. He was dropped even before he submitted his resignation to President Eisenhower in the wake of the Bernard Goldfine hearings, the same hearings in which Moore's name was brought up.

Miss Shaw has said in the past that names have been dropped for "unpleasant public notoriety."

Among other casualties in the 1960 edition are Marine Lt. Gen. Merrill B. Twining, recently retired brother of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; former Army Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn Jr., and Dr. James R. Killian Jr., former scientific adviser to the President.

OTHERS RETAINED

While some of the names obviously were dropped because of changes in their official status, other names were retained despite shifts or retirements. The latter included former Vermont Republican Sen. and Mrs. Ralph E. Flanders and former Belgian Ambassador and Mrs. Robert Silvercruys. They moved from congressional and diplomatic sections to the "family" listings. Bernard Shanley, who resigned as secretary to Eisenhower to get into New Jersey politics, also was retained in the family listing.

More than 1,100 new names were added this year to replace some of those dropped. But an announcement on the new edition noted that while more than 500 persons applied for inclusion, less than 100 were approved.

Peter Lawford Going To Help Sen. Kennedy

By RICK DU BROW
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter Lawford says he's going all out to help his brother-in-law, Sen. John Kennedy (D - Mass.), get elected president next year.

"You bet I am," said the English-born, 36-year-old actor, who is married to Kennedy's sister, Pat.

"Anything I can possibly do, I'll do—although I don't know exactly what it will be just yet. Maybe opening meat markets."

The Kennedy - Lawford family tie-up and the coming presidential race have prompted a new line of Hollywood gags. After Lawford and his pal, Frank Sinatra, opened their new restaurant, Puccini's, Milton Berle cracked:

"If Kennedy is elected, will Puccini's be the summer White House?"

Lawford, who will appear on Berle's NBC television show Monday, said Sinatra also has pledged his support to Kennedy.

"There will be dinners here and other such affairs," he said.

Lawford and Sinatra are two of filmland's most outspoken opponents of the argument that actors should not indulge in politics because it might hurt their careers.

"If you have a deep-rooted interest in your country, I think you have the same right as anyone else to discuss politics," Lawford said at lunch in his private booth at Puccini's.

"But," he added, "you should be equipped to talk about it. The other day I asked this actor, who shall remain nameless, 'what do you think of the labor bill passing?' I got a silent look. He didn't know anything about it.

"I said, 'you know...Washington...the labor bill. He didn't know there were three different bills. So you say to yourself, 'Oh, Charlie.'"

Lawford and Sinatra, in addition to their joint ventures in Puccini's and politics, have also teamed up for two films, "Never So Few" and "Oceans 11."

MR. AND MRS. EARL D. ROBBINS of Ferriday announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Bob Leon Harris, son of Mrs. Goldie Harris and the late Elmer Harris of Terre Haute, Indiana. Views Boom In Building With Concern

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In 1938, Americans invested 51 million dollars in new churches. By 1948, the annual outlay on church buildings had climbed to 251 million dollars. In 1958, it reached an all-time record of 863 million dollars.

So far this year, church building expenditures are running about 10 per cent ahead of 1958. The total could top one billion dollars before the year is out.

But some church leaders are beginning to take a second look at the building boom. They are asking two questions:

1. Are churches piling up a dangerous load of debt through over-ambitious building programs?

2. Are local congregations spending so much on plush facilities for their own use that they are unable to give as generously as they should to missions, welfare programs and other benevolences?

METHODISTS MAKE SURVEY

One major denomination, the Methodist Church, recently made a survey which sheds some light on the first question. It showed that the total debt carried by Methodist churches throughout the country increased by 35 million dollars in 1958 to $224,014,000.

The debt figure represents about 10 per cent of the total value of church property owned by Methodists.

Methodist leaders concluded that this debt ratio "is not excessive." But they noted, with some concern, that the ratio has ben growing steadily since World War II. In 1948, it was only three per cent: in 1942, five per cent; and in 1955, seven per cent.

An individual church may, of course, be able to carry a somewhat heavier debt ratio than would be prudent for an entire denomination.

Church financial experts have worked out a formula for determining the maximum amount of debt that any local congregation should undertake. It is based on the following three factors:

(1) One third the value of the church property; (2) $200 per family of active membership; and (3) five times the annual budget for current expenses.

Take the average of these three figures, the experts say, and you have the top limit of "safe debt" for your church.

The second question is even harder to answer since it involves a moral judgment as to when a church is being selfish in the division of its income.

According to figures gathered by the Yearbook of American Churches, the average congregation keeps about 80 per cent of its total income for local expenses, including building programs and debt service. The other 20 per cent is passed along for benevolences, such as the support of home and foreign missions, church-sponsored schools and hospitals, youth camps and the like.

Child Will Get Blood In Spite Of Her Mother

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—If Carol Krumm, 11, has to have brain surgery, as doctors believe, she's going to get whatever blood transfusions she needs — despite her mother's objections on religious grounds.

Juvenile Court Judge Nathan J. Kaufman made Carol a ward of his court Friday on grounds that "the problem is to save the girl's life."

He acted on a complaint of child neglect against Carol's mother, Mrs. Doris Krumm of suburban Berkley, a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, who said bodily intake by transfusion would violate a scriptural prohibition against "eating" of blood. The complaint was brought by a social worker at a hospital where the child was examined.

An apparent brain tumor was discovered a week ago while Carol was undergoing a routine eye examination.

Literary Club Meets In Baugh Lakeside Home

The Monroe Literary Club held its regular meeting October 15 in the home of Mrs. J. E. Baugh, 305 Lake Side.

Mrs. A. M. Kite conducted the business meeting. It was decided at this time to make a generous donation to the United Givers Fund.

Mrs. T. E. Gibbs was added as a new member.

Mrs. Harry Dixon presented Mrs. W. D. Bates who showed and discussed slides of a recent trip to Hawaii. Refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Mrs. M. J. Cooper, Mrs. Lee Herron, Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Baugh, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Guy Dupriest, Mrs. W. C. Hines, Jr., Mrs. W. L. Howard, Mrs. J. D. Kelly, Mrs. Kite, Mrs. Barney F. Pate, Mrs. B. M. Phillips, Mrs. Fred Plitt, Mrs. H. G. Reece, Mrs. H. E. Rivers and Mrs. B. O. Yeldell.

'Discipline' Is Discussed By PTA Panel

"Discipline should never be confused with punishment," stated Dr. Lake Oxford, West Monroe Jr. High principal, in a panel discussion brought to the Crosley P. T. A. Buster Crowley suggested, "Discipline should begin at birth. Well disciplined children do not as a rule end up in juvenile court." Another point was brought by Mrs. J. M. Marshall, unit president, "Love and family devotionals could solve a major part of our discipline problems." A lively question and answer period followed.

A membership of 272 members was reported and 23 magazines were reported sold. Mrs. Avis Armstrong's fifth grade won room count. Mrs. Gaston's second grade furnished refreshments for the meeting.

MISS PEGGY JEAN KIRKLAND, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Jess Arden Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Bennett Smith of Oak Grove, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Kirkland of Pioneer. The wedding will be celebrated Saturday 28 at 6 p.m. in the First Methodist Church in Oak Grove with the Rev. Wesley O. Lynch officiating.

MILK CARTONS

Your waxed milk cartons, filled with foods that are to be kept in the freezer, make wonderfully neat packages. For instance, the half gallon carton can hold chickens, green beans, peaches and other vegetables and fruits. Then all that has to be done is to staple the top to the rest of the carton and you've got the ideal freezing carton.

HOT DOG TREAT

New Officers Elected For M. M. Coterie

The Moment Musicale Coterie met Saturday to elect officers and plan activities for the 1959-60 season. Under the sponsorship of The Musical Coterie, the junior club is a member of the Louisiana and the National Federations of Music Clubs.

Upon arrival, the young music students were served refreshments by the club's counselors, who were hostesses for the meeting.

New and former members were greeted by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, president of The Musical Coterie. Purpose, organization and duties of membership were discussed and in preparation for the year's work, the new officers were elected.

Shady Grove P.T.A. Meets

The October meeting of the Shady Grove P.-T. A. was held in the school cafeteria at 2 p.m. Mrs. Dan Ryals, pesident, presided.

A report pertaining to the annual carnival was made for the booths and crowning of the queen.

Mrs. Ryals brought a report of the P.-T. A. workshop which was recently held at Claiborne School.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Louis Thomas, hospitality chairman. Mrs. Vora Dennison's fifth grade won the room count.

FROM SCANDINAVIA

The Scandinavians sometimes add a little coffee (with cream and sugar!) to the gravy for leg of lamb. Nice rich color results, but don't add too much of the brew or you will spoil the good meat flavor.

Club Hostess Is Mrs. Pace

The October meeting of the Highland Park Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. Pete L. Pace on Forsythe Avenue, with M. L. Lee presiding.

Each member brought an arrangement of flowers on which Mrs. John P. Lewis suggested improvements.

Mrs. Lewis also made several arrangements of fruit and assigned this type of arrangement for the November 19 meeting.

After the meeting, refreshments were served to Mesdames, H. F. Dossett, J. D. O'Neal, W. B. Hollingsworth, W. A. Lewis, W. G. Kelly, C. Murphy, W. B. Briggs, M. L. Lee, Pace, and guests, Mesdames, Robert Beal, Mrs. Ella Mae Roberts, Prentiss Moore, John Stephens, Anna Kent, and instructor Mrs. Lewis.

Don't Neglect That Simple Speck In Eye

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, MD
AP Newsfeatures

There is hardly a person who hasn't at one time or another got something in his eye. The tiniest little speck can cause a lot of discomfort. For the most part nature takes care of bits of foreign matter that fly into the eye. Tears wash out the offending substance.

But when it doesn't wash out by itself we must do something about it. Specks which remain in the eye can cause serious trouble.

Simple home remedies will work in many cases.

The first which almost everyone knows is to take hold of the eyelashes, pull the lid away from the eye and downward. This gives the tears a better chance to wash out the speck.

If this doesn't work, try an eye cup, which every home medicine cabinet and every first aid kit should have. It amazes me how few people know how to use this important first aid device.

EYE CUP

Wash the eye cup before you use it. Fill the cup with plain clear water. It's a good idea to boil and cool the water first. The child tips his head down, opens his eye, applies the filled eye cup to the eye socket, tips the head back and blinks several times into the cup. If the first washing doesn't remove the speak the procedure can be repeated several times. Often this simple procedure will clear the eye.

If the eye still hurts after ample washing we must do more. For many people this is the time you should go to the doctor. However, if your child is cooperative and you are skilled you can take the next step yourself. This is to turn back the lid and remove the speck with a swab.

Locate the speck first. Have the child follow your finger with his eye as you move your finger in an arc in front of his eyes. When the eyball goes over the speck it will hurt and the child can tell you where the hurt is.

Have the child look down and keep on looking down.

Take hold of the eyelashes, pull the lid down, then turn it back over a matchstick you have laid horitzontally across the lid. Look on the under side of the upper lid with a good strong light and if you see a speck remove it with a cotton swab moistened with sterile water.

If the pain stops you have been successful.

However, if after all these procedures the child still complains you must go to the doctor. Don't ever try to remove a speck from the eyeball yourself. This is a doctor's job. In unskilled hands real damage to the eye can be done.

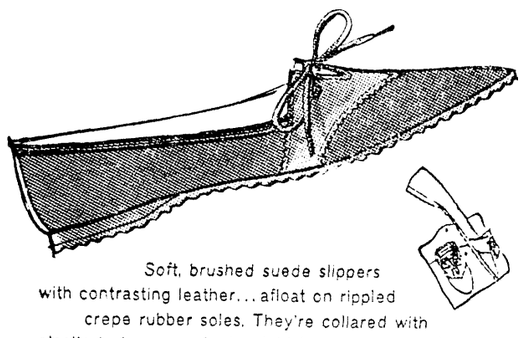

Time counts in getting a speak out of the eye. Don't just hope it will be better the next day. A speak which has stood through all the above procedures isn't just going to jump out all by itself. If there should happen to be some germs in that speck they will have a good chance to grow if they stay in the eye overnight.

If it happens to be evening or Sunday afternoon or some time when you hate to bother your doctor take your child to the emergency room of the local hospital. If there should be an Eye and Ear Hospital in your neighborhood that's the ideal place to go. But the doctors in almost any hospital emergency room will help you. Of course if there is no hospital, call your doctor regardless of hour.

There is hardly a person who hasn't at one time or another got something in his eye. The tiniest little speck can cause a lot of discomfort. For the most part nature takes care of bits of foreign matter that fly into the eye. Tears wash out the offending substance.

But when it doesn't wash out by itself we must do something about it. Specks which remain in the eye can cause serious trouble.

Simple home remedies will work in many cases.

The first which almost everyone knows is to take hold of the eyelashes, pull the lid away from the eye and downward. This gives the tears a better chance to wash out the speck.

If this doesn't work, try an eye cup, which every home medicine cabinet and every first aid kit should have. It amazes me how few people know how to use this important first aid device.

EYE CUP

Wash the eye cup before you use it. Fill the cup with plain clear water. It's a good idea to boil and cool the water first. The child tips his head down, opens his eye, applies the filled eye cup to the eye socket, tips the head back and blinks several times into the cup. If the first washing doesn't remove the speak the procedure can be repeated several times. Often this simple procedure will clear the eye.

If the eye still hurts after ample washing we must do more. For many people this is the time you should go to the doctor. However, if your child is cooperative and you are skilled you can take the next step yourself. This is to turn back the lid and remove the speck with a swab.

Locate the speck first. Have the child follow your finger with his eye as you move your finger in an arc in front of his eyes. When the eyball goes over the speck it will hurt and the child can tell you where the hurt is.

Have the child look down and keep on looking down.

Take hold of the eyelashes, pull the lid down, then turn it back over a matchstick you have laid horitzontally across the lid. Look on the under side of the upper lid with a good strong light and if you see a speck remove it with a cotton swab moistened with sterile water.

If the pain stops you have been successful.

However, if after all these procedures the child still complains you must go to the doctor. Don't ever try to remove a speck from the eyeball yourself. This is a doctor's job. In unskilled hands real damage to the eye can be done.

Time counts in getting a speak out of the eye. Don't just hope it will be better the next day. A speak which has stood through all the above procedures isn't just going to jump out all by itself. If there should happen to be some germs in that speck they will have a good chance to grow if they stay in the eye overnigh.

If it happens to be evening or Sunday afternoon or some time when you hate to bother your doctor take your child to the emergency room of the local hospital. If there should be an Eye and Ear Hospital in your neighborhood that's the ideal place to go. But the doctors in almost any hospital emergency room will help you. Of course if there is no hospital, call your doctor regardless of hour.

New Officers Elected For M. M. Coterie

The Moment Musicale Coterie met Saturday to elect officers and plan activities for the 1959-60 season. Under the sponsorship of The Musical Coterie, the junior club is a member of the Louisiana and the National Federations of Music Clubs.

Upon arrival, the young music students were served refreshments by the club's counselors, who were hostesses for the meeting.

New and former members were greeted by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, president of The Musical Coterie. Purpose, organization and duties of membership were discussed and in preparation for the year's work, the new officers were elected.

Club Hostess Is Mrs. Pace

Each member brought an arrangement of flowers on which Mrs. John P. Lewis suggested improvements.

Mrs. Lewis also made several arrangements of fruit and assigned this type of arrangement for the November 19 meeting.

After the meeting, refreshments were served to Mesdames, H. F. Dossett, J. D. O'Neal, W. B. Hollingsworth, W. A. Lewis, W. G. Kelly, C. Murphy, W. B. Briggs, M. L. Lee, Pace, and guests, Mesdames, Robert Beal, Mrs. Ella Mae Roberts, Prentiss Moore, John Stephens, Anna Kent, and instructor Mrs. Lewis.

MISS PEGGY JEAN KIRKLAND, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Jess Arden Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Bennett Smith of Oak Grove, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Kirkland of Pioneer. The wedding will be celebrated Saturday 28 at 6 p.m. in the First Methodist Church in Oak Grove with the Rev. Wesley O. Lynch officiating.

Shady Grove P.T.A. Meets

The October meeting of the Shady Grove P.-T. A. was held in the school cafeteria at 2 p.m. Mrs. Dan Ryals, pesident, presided.

A report pertaining to the annual carnival was made for the booths and crowning of the queen.

Mrs. Ryals brought a report of the P.-T. A. workshop which was recently held at Claiborne School.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Louis Thomas, hospitality chairman. Mrs. Vora Dennison's fifth grade won the room count.

FROM SCANDINAVIA

The Scandinavians sometimes add a little coffee (with cream and sugar!) to the gravy for leg of lamb. Nice rich color results, but don't add too much of the brew or you will spoil the good meat flavor.

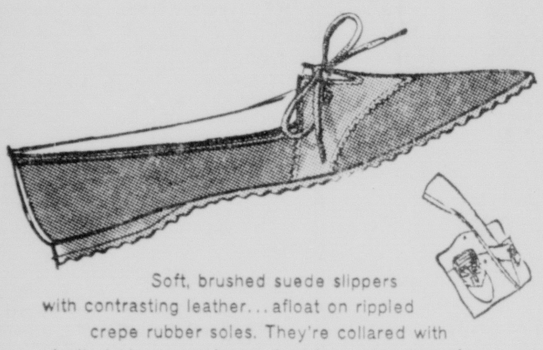

MILK CARTONS

Your waxed milk cartons, filled with foods that are to be kept in the freezer, make wonderfully neat packages. For instance, the half gallon carton can hold chickens, green beans, peaches and other vegetables and fruits. Then all that has to be done is to staple the top to the rest of the carton and you've got the ideal freezing carton.

HOT DOG TREAT

Colonial Dames Of 17th Century Dedicate Flag

Francis Billingsley Chapter C. D. XVII Century of Oak Grove, met in the Hotel Frances October 17th. A corsage of gold feathered mums was presented Mrs. Allen T. Turpin Sr., state president by Mrs. E. D. Herr. Her small daughter, Frances Dean Herr, presented Mrs. E. L. Kelly, the guest of honor, with a corsage of the gold feathered mums tied with National blue ribbons.

Advance of colors by Mrs. M. M. Funderburk followed the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, led by Mrs. D. W. Kelly. Article II of the Constitution of the National Society was read by Mrs. Herr, who introduced Mrs. E. L. Kelly, 1st organizing president of the Louisiana Society C. D. XVII Century and past vice president general of the National Society; Mrs. T. H. Quehl, grand niece of Miss Florence Taney, the founder of the National Society C. D. XVII Century; Mrs. Turpin, Louisiana state president and corresponding secretary general of the National Society; Mrs. A. M. Robinson, state historian of Louisiana Society; Mrs. T. N. Pulley Jr., honorary vice president of the Louisiana Society and organizing president of Francis Billingsley Chapter; Mrs. W. L. Gill, a guest.

Roll call was given by answering with the name of each colonial ancestor. Mrs. Pulley, registrar, reported that the papers of a new member, Mrs. Clark S. Butler of West Monroe had been approved making the chapter membership 26.

Mrs. R. S. Millikin, gave the reading of the official song of "Louisiana". Mrs. Pulley made the dedication of the new flag of the Louisiana State Society C. D. XVII Century to Mrs. Emma Lillian Kelly of Baton Rouge, 1st organizing president of the Louisiana State Society. Francis Billingsley Chapter C. D. XVII Century of Oak Grove, placed a bronze plaque on the base of the new flag to "Our First Lady—Mrs. Emma Lillian Kelly". The ceremony was concluded with a prayer of dedication by Mrs. S. E. Knox.

The history of our National Society founded in 1915 was reviewed by Mrs. Quehl. State president, Mrs. Turpin, brought up to date the work of the State and National Society in her talk. Benediction was given by Mrs. Bolls, chaplain.

Those attending the luncheon at noon and the meeting were the following members, Mrs. Herr, Sterlington, Mrs. Funderburk, Sterlington, Mrs. Robinson, Bastrop, Mrs. Millikin, Oak Grove, Mrs. D. W. Quehl, life member Florida State Society, Baton Rouge, Mrs. Turpin, Edward Doty Chapter, Bastrop, and guests Mrs. Gill, Oak Grove, and Frances Dean Herr of Sterlington.

The Perfect Boss Defined By Secretary

NEW YORK (UPI) Any girl who's ever worked can define the perfect boss.

He's a guy with a wisdom of Solomon, the cleverness of Machiavelli, the wit of Victor Borge and the looks of Cary Grant. He's also generous with money.

Surprisingly a lot of bosses measure up pretty well, if we're to listen to some women who have an excellent vantage point for employer observation. The secretaries.

These kittens at the keys praise the old boy for giving his girl Friday responsibility and letting her use her time and ability to the best advantge. This is the majority opinion from a panel which the magazine "Today's Secretary" polled.

WHAT THEY SEE

Just what do the girls see when they look at the executive from nine to five or six?

They agreed he remembers to say "good morning" and "good night," rarely reprimands them for lateness, dictates fairly well, works long and hard. He remembers Christmases, but forgets anniversaries and national secretaries' day.

His best qualities?

Here answers from the panelists varied. Heading the list were understanding, intelligence, sense of humor, fairness, and patience. One secretary said, "he likes children." Another remarked, "He can handle women, especially if they are upset."

But all was not sweetness and light. The panel listed procrastination as the average boss's major fault, followed closely by forgetfulness and tardiness.

TIGHT WITH MONEY

Mentioned frequently: "He's tight with money."

Asked what habits of bosses they'd like to change, the secretaries came up with some beauts. A partial list:

Getting ashes all over the desk after I've just dusted it;

His manners;

Smoking cigars;

Keeping his store teeth in the file drawers;

Buzzeritis.

Faults or no, most secretaries like most wives, remained true. Why?

One answered, "I've grown accustomed to his face."

Another said, "Ninety-five per cent of him is great; the other five per cent is bearable."

The clincher, "The next one could prove a real problem."

MISS BETTY LOUISE WALLER, whose engagement and approaching marriage to A/2c Alfred Richard St. Marie is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram B. Waller of Winnsboro. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Pe St. Marie of Meriden, Conn. The bridegroom-elect is stationed with the air force at Ft. Campbell, Ky. The wedding will be an event of December 12 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Mary's Catholic church in Winnsboro. The Rev. John Mulkeen will officiate at the ceremony.

Fairbanks PTA Guest Speaker Is B. Crowley

Buster Crowley met the Fairbanks P.-T. A. Tuesday night and discussed "Discipline Within the Home." A program of help has been instituted in the school by the visiting teacher, school teacher and the probation officer. If a child, who is a normal boy or girl, fails several weeks of work, sometimes skips school, and develops a "don't care" attitude then these teachers and probation officer meet together with the parents and try to solve the problem.

Sheriff Bailey Grant will meet with the P.-T. A. for the November meeting. The fall carnival will be held November 12 at the school.

The hospitality committee, Mrs. Gloria Thomason, Mrs. Billy Joe Rowe, Mrs. B. D. McCaskill, Mrs. B. Corkern and Mrs. George Stuart served coffee and doughnuts to all present. Room award was won by the 5th and 6th grades. The door award by Mrs. Fred Peters.

Pilot International Club Celebrates Anniversary

A program commemorating the 38th anniversary of the founding of Pilot International was given on Tuesday, October 20th at the Frances Hotel at 7:00 o'clock when the members met for the monthly dinner meeting with the president, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale presiding.

A large arrangement of yellow candle tree blooms in a green container was centered on the speaker's table. Forming the background for the table was the Pilot Wheel, the emblem of the club. Miniature flags of countries where Pilot Clubs are located were arranged at vantage points on the tables. Favors were dolls of the countries and small straw hats. Centering the piano was an arrangement of the flags of the United Nations to carry out the theme of the event. Colorful programs of green and gold with the name Pilot on the cover were used.

Mrs. A. M. Barrett, Founders Day chairman, had charge of the program. A birthday cake iced in white with large orange rosebuds centered with one large candle was served the guests by the president, Mrs. Tisdale.

Mrs. Barrett introduced Mrs. H. G. Thompson who gave the history of the Pilot International. Others taking part on the program were Mrs. Alyne Newsome and Miss Eleona Brinsmade.

Past presidents recognized were Mrs. H. G. Thompson, Mrs. J. H. Carrol' Mrs. Louis Mockabee, Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mrs. Alyne Newsome, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. Horace Hatten, Mrs. M. D. Garlington.

Guests introduced were Mrs. B. R. Palmer and Mrs. Robert Ellington and the following members were present: Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Frank Parker, Mrs. Ross Coates, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. W. L. Moore, Sr., Mrs. Zera Edwards, Mrs. Valleye Willis, Mrs. Tisdale, Mrs. Ralph Harker, Mrs. Mockabee, Mrs. Newsome, Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Hatten, Mrs. George Breece, Mrs. Garlington, Mrs. James N. Riddle, Miss Hermione Driskell, Miss Helen Benoit, Miss McGee, Miss Brinsmade.

Italian Miss Of 16 Designs Teen Fashions

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Giovanna Ferragamo has just turned sweet sixteen but already the Italian miss is making a spot for herself in the United States and Europe as a designer of teenager fashions.

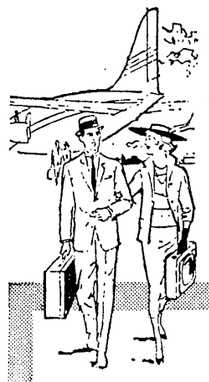

"I want to do clothes so pretty a girl wants to get out of blue jeans," said the brown-haired miss. "I love bold colors and I think girls of my age can best wear them."

"I believe in my children becoming whatever they want," said father Ferragamo. "But I also want to see them put to use the things they are studying."

Pappa, mamma and Giovanna all came to America for the formal opening Nov. 1 of the 16-year-old's first complete collection in a portion of the Ferragamo Salon in Beverly Hills, Calif.

On Dit'

by Denise

California here we come, as the song says. Your reporter was in the Golden State this week, taking notes of things of interest to this column. A flight direct to San Francisco, a drive down the coast by rented car to San Diego, and return by air Los Angeles to Monroe can be a schedule that fills nine days rather full.

As someone trying to make a snide remark once said, "San Francisco is the darling of the city collectors." And sure enough it is, and that's nothing to be ashamed of. 'Tis a breathtaking site for a city, a peninsula surrounded with water on three sides: the Pacific, the Golden Gate, and the bay. And a hilly peninsula, yet, with scenic vista in whichever direction one faces.

The infinite variety of the city is as unusual as the site. The cable cars are a trademark, of course. A ride on one of these vehicles combines the features of a roller coaster ride, a sightseeing tour, and a family outing. The conductor delights in showing off points of interest, and all the passengers pile out to help push the car around the little turntable.

Not only the cable car conductors — all San Franciscans love to show off their town. We asked directions of a passer-by, and he walked along with us two blocks to be sure we found the right corner. And taxi drivers leaped from the cab to open doors — something we hardly see any more.

There are a number of unusual and interesting museums in Bagdad by the Bay. The one to delight red - blooded Americans weaned on television is the History Room of the Wells Fargo Bank. Here we find a real stage coach; Wells Fargo boxes that carried the gold; the gold itself, coins, dust, nuggets; old books and "wanted" posters; and a priceless collection of guns that tamed the West . . Another exhibit for the lover of Western history is the Balclutha, an old sailing ship. This vessel, built for travel around the Horn, is now moored at Fisherman's Wharf and houses a maritime museum.

Night life runs the gamut, too. One should start at the Top of the Mark for the best view in town . . . Later there might be a play, either a touring company, or one headed for Broadway after a trial run. (We saw "The Pink Jungle" opening, with Ginger Rogers and Agnes Moorehead starred. It ran an hour too long, but seemed like a possible hit after some tightening. Miss Moorehead, of course, was magnificent.)

San Francisco women are renowned as some of the best dressed in the country. Fashion being an interest of this column, we took careful note of what the ladies wore to the opening night. Brocade theatre suits, lace sheaths, flowing chiffons, mink stoles, fox boas — all very opulent. One lady wore a full length red satin coat, highlighted by her snow white hair and snow white kid gloves. An eye-catching outfit was an apricot satin coat the exact color of the wearer's apricot hair. One wondered whether she bought the coat to match her hair or dyed her hair to match the coat.

Other night spots by the bay include the hungry i (no capitals, please), a Bohemian cellar with excellent talent . . . and El Matador, setting for bull fight afficionados . . . San Francisco boasts a very fine opera house, with one of the ranking companies of the country.

If time is of the essence, U. S. Highway 101 is no doubt the route for driving to Los Angeles. But if one can spare a few extra hours to feed the soul, one should take the coast route, California road one. This leads by Monterey, Carmel by the Sea, Pebble Beach, the Big Sur country, and San Simeon, as well as some of the world's most spectacular scenery. The Pacific pounds at the foot of towering cliffs, of the Santa Lucia Mountains, hitting the rocks with such force that the spray shoots up twenty or thirty feet. Stretches of sand beach are found all along the coast: some small, intimate, protected on three sides by canyon walls; others long, open, with rocks breaking through the surf.

We stopped for lunch at Nepenthe in the Big Sur country. This is an eyrie of rough hewn beams, glass panels, and hand made bricks, hanging on the side of a cliff some hundreds of feet above the ocean. The food was good, if anyone has time to notice with that view all around.

California history began in 1769, when Father Junipero Serro founded the first mission at San Diego. A chain of missions reaching up to Sonoma was eventually completed along the Camino Real. Many place names take their names from these missions: San Luis Opisbo, San Fernando, Santa Barbara. Most famous of these establishments is probably San Juan Capistrano, of the swallows. This largest of mission churches is now in ruins, but the smaller original building is there. This is the oldest building in the state, and the only one used by Father Serra still standing.

□ □ □

Los Angeles is a completely different type of city from San Francisco: less cosmopolitan, larger, and more glittery. The movie industry gives a distinct flavor to the district. The Fabians Society was having a party at our hotel the evening we arrived in Beverly Hills. We stepped from the car into a lobby full of stars, starlets, and also-rans, all elegantly gowned and beautifully made-up . . . And San Diego is something else again, again. The visitors first impression is of Navy, Navy everywhere. Lots of ships in the bay: destroyers, carriers, tenders, submarines; and lots of aircraft in the sky: jet fighters, prop driven planes, helicopters, jet bombers. This area boasts beautiful beaches and a climate which permits swimming nine or ten months of the year.

Disneyland lives up to all the publicity. Your reporter was particularly impressed with the immaculate cleanliness and the flowerbeds kept by a company of gardeners who replace out of season flowers overnight with plants at the height of their bloom. Costumes of the employees are carried out in perfect detail for each job: a princess taking tickets at Sleeping Beauty's castle; an old - fashioned engineer on the old - fashioned train; an airline stewardess on the Moon-Ride.

The Knotts of Knott's Berry Farm are a living personification of the great American success story. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knott bought a small farm on time during the depths of the depression. Mrs. Knott opened a roadside stand selling berry jams and pies to help with the payments. As the farm prospered, the owners indulged their love of antiques and Americana. Now the collection has grown to a ghost town, complete to its own half - gauge railroad and stage coach line. There is an old - time melodrama giving several performances daily at the Bird Cage theatre and a vaudeville show at the Calico Saloon. Desperadoes shoot it out on the streets. Visitors may pan for gold with the guarantee that they will find some. Several large restaurants on the place serve good farm-type meals, with Mrs. Knott's excellent berry jams and desserts still prominent on the menu. A real fun place.

And now we come to the food: something to be spoken of in tones of awe. We started every day with fresh strawberries or crenshaw melon, and went on from there. Some of the highlights were the crab and bean sprout appetizers at Trader Vic's; the chicken Kiev at Tangiers; the unforgettable shrimp curry at India House (and here, also, the Maharajah's Burra Peg, a drink concocted of Champagne, brandy and Cointreau). The Forbidden City offers an all-Chinese floor show with excellent Chinese food. The tournedos Theodora at Los Angeles' Scandia are superb, and the cheesecake at this same establishment above reproach. At San Diego's Kona Kai club we had a fresh strawberry tart so delicious that the first bite brings tears to the eyes.

So whatever one's pleasure, one can find it in California: history, rustic scenic grandeur, sophisticated cities, farmlands, beaches. It might almost be said of California as Dr. Johnson said of London: "If a man is bored with London, he is bored with life."

□ □ □

Edna St. Vincent Millay said it for us in her poem "Travel":

The railroad track is miles away
And the day is loud with voices speaking,
Yet there isn't a train goes by all day
But I hear its whistle shrieking.
All night there isn't a train goes by,
Though the night is still for sleep and dreaming,
But I see its cinders red on the sky,
And hear its engine steaming.
My heart is warm with the friends I make,
And better friends I'll not be knowing,
Yet there isn't a train I wouldn't take
No matter where it's going.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

CLIMATE AND MICROCLIMATE

A change of climate is recommended occasionally when a person has an illness that is aggravated by local weather conditions. Such a change requires thought and planning.

New friends and a new job are not easy to find, especially when a person is ill. The harmful effects of unhappiness and insecurity may nullify the physical advantages of the most perfect climate. I usually advise a trial period of 3 to 6 months before pulling up stakes for good, as the new environment may not prove satisfactory.

Many mistakes are made because the area was not explored thoroughly. The general climate may be perfect but the immediate surroundings (microclimate) may be far from healthy. The south sounds wonderful to a Chicagoan with asthma or heart diseases. But he may become worse if he settles in an industrial area where the air is polluted or where smog is a problem. Soot, rural dust, and pollen are more likely to affect those who are active because they inhale a large volume of contaminants.

Microclimate changes from spot to spot. Temperature, wind, and atmospheric conditions often vary considerably on the two sides of a hill or ridge. Those who are running away from an allergy such as asthma or hay fever should study the microclimate before moving.

I recommended Arizona to a young housewife whose asthma was so severe it could not be controlled in the hospital. When she stepped off the plane at Tucson, she was a new woman. An older man with an identical allergy also went to Arizona. He was back in a week gasping "I couldn't stand the dust." These are but a few of the reasons why a trial period is warranted, provided it will not create too great a hardship.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - adddressed envelope accompanies request.

AGING PROCESSES

P. Z. writes: Do most people become mentally senile years before they become old physically?

REPLY

Not in my opinion. "Old physically" is a broad term because the organs of the body do not age at the same rate. A person with coronary thrombosis, for example, has old coronary arteries even though he may look and act like a younger person. Is he "old physically"?

SCARRED HEART

H. W. writes: Does scar tissue form in the heart after a heart attack?

REPLY

Yes. Scars replace most body tissues that are cut, injured, destroyed by infection, or are deprived of their blood supply. The usually heart attack is produced by an obstructed blood vessel. A small part of the heart muscle dies from lack of blood, and on healing, this portion is replaced by a scar.

COURAGE

R. H. writes: Is the amount of a person's courage governed by his glandular system?

REPLY

The adrenal glands secrete adrenalin, which makes the individual more alert and ready to fight. In this respect, the glands aid courage. In addition, a well balanced, normal glandular system imparts a feeling of well-being.

MEASLES TYPES

R. D. writes: How many kinds of measles are there?

REPLY

Two — rubeola (ordinary measles) and rubella (German measles). Black measles is a severe form of regular measles in which the eruption is purplish and marked bleeding may occur in the mouth and nose.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT —

A pregnant woman should see her physician regularly.

Tips For Making The Best Use Of Your Home Freezer

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Homemakers with more time than money can save both by using their food freezers for home - prepared main dishes and ready - to - eat school lunch supplies.

Here are tips for making the best use of your freezer from a manufacturer of transparent plastic wrap.

— Main dishes freeze especially well in sauces and gravies. But cooking time should be shortened slightly to allow for additional cooking when reheating.

— Cool cooked foods promptly and freeze them in one-meal portions. To cool soup quickly, immerse the filled freezer container in ice water. But remember to leave at least 1 inch head space in any container of liquid, to allow for expansion room during freezing.

— Omit potatoes from frozen stew until the reheating period; spuds soften and lose flavor during long storage.

— Use converted rice, not the quick-cooking variety, as a "binder" for casserole dishes. But when a crumb or cheese topping is called for, add it at reheating time.

—Don't waste precious space on fried foods which, except for French fried potatoes and onion rings, generally do not freeze successfully.

—Use a light hand with seasoning, making any necessary adjustments at reheating time. Freezing makes some flavors strong and bitter, such as pepper, cloves, synthetic vanilla, celery products and fresh onions. Curry may develop an off-flavor. Salt loses flavor and may increase rancidity in fatty foods.

—Unbaked fruit pies are good freezer fare. But custard or cream-filled pastries tend to become grainy, and meringues toughen.

The morning marathon to get the children off to school will be considerably easier if you freeze a week's supply of sandwiches and cookies at one time.

But avoid very moist fillings, such as egg or tuna salad, or fillings with hard-cooked egg white, which toughens. Other bad bets are raw, chopped, grated, sliced vegetables, tomatoes and lettuce, all of which lose crispness.

Freezing makes mayonnaise and salad dressing separate. But imaginative, flavorful binders such as lemon, orange and pineapple juice make good substitutes. So do milk, dairy sour cream, applesauce, butter or margarine, canned crushed pineapple, and horseradish.

Sandwich fillers that freeze well include cooked egg yolk, peanut butter, sliced cooked or canned chicken, turkey or fish, canned or cooked meat, dried beef, roquefort and bleu cheese, and baked beans.

To avoid sogginess, spread bread for frozen sandwiches generously to the edges with soft butter or margarine before adding filling.

Take as much care in packaging as you would with a special present. Airtight containers or wraps are essential to protect both quality and flavor. Otherwise, meat and poultry suffer "freezer burn," vegetables toughen, and fruit oxidizes and darkens.

Individually wrapped sandwiches have one other big advantage. They make it easier for Junior to fill his lunch box on the run on the bed-breakfast-school bus relay.

Gird Scout News

You've all heard of the little pig that went to market. Well, at the office is a little pig that went to the art festival in Columbia Saturday and won a red ribbon, but no one knows who his owner is. His creator was one of the girls enrolled in the pottery class held last June for Girl Scouts. Based on activities named in the Pottery badge, the course required the making of a figure. Ducks, rabbits, horse's heads, whales, dogs, were among the resulting efforts. Someone made a tiny, blue-eyed (wonder what color their eyes really are), black-spotted pig. Maybe because it was so small, she didn't put her name or initials under the bottom. So far, questioning has not found the owner.

Back to the other winners of the eight ribbons captured by the Girl Scout exhibit at the festival. First place blue ribbons were won by Kathy Stadler, Troop 61, for her black pinch pot made last spring when her troop completed the pottery badge, and by Becky Middleton, Troop 24, for a bowl made by the coil method and decorated by being delicately daubed with orange paint with a sponge. Becky made it in the pottery class in June, and it's her second piece to win a blue ribbon.

Second place, or red ribbons, went to the afore mentioned pig, and to Janet Kiper, Troop 48, for her dog in a sitting-up-and-begging position.

White, or third place, went to Mickie Varnado, Troop 24, for her coil method bowl decorated in green, to Donna Lomax, Troop 61, for her prehistoric elephant, to Susie McBride, Troop 61, for her black poodle dog and to Linda Adams, Troop 61, for her rose-colored bowl. Ever make a mistake and then turn it into an asset? Linda did just that and created a finish so different that it caught the eye of the judges.

Congratulations to all the winners and thanks to all who lent their pieces for the exhibit! It's the exhibit that matters, after all, showing people some of the creative work done by Scouts. Many of the above girls didn't even know their work was being exhibited. Their pieces had been brought back to the office after being fired and had not been called for during the summer.

Two pottery workshops for leaders will be held in November, so that other girls may have the fun of seeing what they can do with a lump of clay.

Fall weather makes this season ideal for troop camp, especially at Pine Wood, where a fire in the fireplace makes things cozy. Troop 1 had the fun of an overnight last weekend when the sunshine made it fun to go on a long hike and to cook outdoors. Two of their leaders, Mrs. H. A. Edwards and Mrs. William Gannaway, went with their group, also Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, who has been the girls' leader at day camp for several years. Their years of camping and Scouting paid off in that the girls were able to plan and carry out activities and have plenty of time for fun. Singing and games around the fire were fun, we know. Girls who had this and her out of town guest, Jane experience were: Mary Murphy, Deas Parrish, Milann Gannaway, Carol Culpepper, Charlotte Coffee Edwards, Diane Halley, Janis Brandon. Mrs. Fred Culpepper came out with the girls Friday night and stayed until after supper.

Green Grass Takes Effort, Time, Money

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Are you a homeowner who likes to see the green grass grow all around, all around?

Then get ready, first, for a hefty outlay of cash. You have to invest some of the green stuff to get it back in a pretty lawn, whether you plant your own or hire a landscape or sod laying service.

If it's a do-it-yourself project, prepare for some hard work and unremitting vigilance thereafter. Good lawns require careful maintenance.

Too many homeowners find themselves on the losing side in the green grass battle. These are the ones who look at a straggly patch of lawn being invaded by crab grass and vow, "I'll dig up the whole mess, lay concrete and paint it green. Then I can enjoy myself."

Such bitterness is understandable — but avoidable.

First, realize that as in building anything, the foundation is all - important. Safeguard your investment and save yourself some work by preliminary investigation of soil conditions in your yard. Dig up a few samples of earth to a depth of six inches and send them to your county or state agricultural extension service or to a reputable private nursery.

For a nominal fee, or no cost at all, you will get back a report on what kind of soil you have to work with — sandy, clay, loamy, acid. From this you can determine the best type of seed, how much lime and fertilizer to use.

Now you're ready for work. Use a rototiller to dig up the lawn to a depth of seven to eight inches. Neighbors might go together on rental costs for the machine, or you can hire someone to do the work, at so much an hour.

If you have sandy soil, it will act as a sieve no matter how much you soak your grass. So invest in a load of clay to be laid before the topsoil goes in. The same applies if your subsoil is basically clay — mix it with sand for good drainage.

Key Club Week Proclaimed By Mayor Howard

October 25 through 31 has been proclaimed "Key Club Week" by Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard.

Local key clubs' contributions "toward civic and industrial development" were pointed to by Howard when he issued the proclamation.

International Kiwanis Club is the sponsoring organization of Key Club, which is composed of high school boys.

"Key Club has as its purpose: to develop initiative and leadership, to serve the school and community and to prepare for useful citizenship," Howard noted.

"Key Clubs of Monroe," he continued, "have assisted in many worthwhile civic projects."

Key Clubs exist at both Neville High School and Ouachita Parish High.

Membership is of "key" students in the 10th through 12th grades.

Ouachita has engaged in several worthy projects for the community.

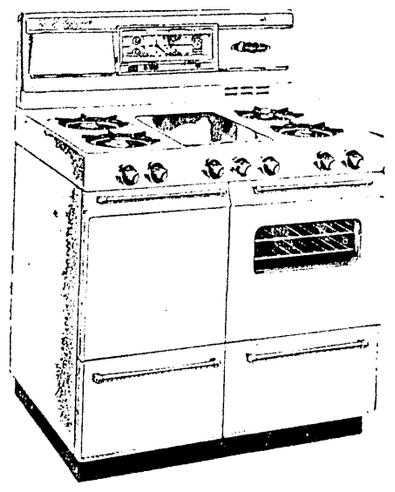

Neville projects include collection of several thousand dollars for the Bendel Memorial Little League Baseball Stadium. Members also helped erect a levee during the spring flood of 1958.

California here we come, as the song says. Your reporter was in the Golden State this week, taking notes of things of interest to this column. A flight direct to San Francisco, a drive down the coast by rented car to San Diego, and return by air Los Angeles to Monroe can be a schedule that fills nine days rather full.

As someone trying to make a snide remark once said, "San Francisco is the darling of the city collectors." And sure enough it is, and that's nothing to be ashamed of. 'Tis a breathtaking site for a city, a peninsula surrounded with water on three sides: the Pacific, the Golden Gate, and the bay. And a hilly peninsula, yet, with scenic vista in whichever direction one faces.

The infinite variety of the city is as unusual as the site. The cable cars are a trademark, of course. A ride on one of these vehicles combines the features of a roller coaster ride, a sightseeing tour, and a family outing. The conductor delights in showing off points of interest, and all the passengers pile out to help push the car around the little turntable.

Not only the cable car conductors — all San Franciscans love to show off their town. We asked directions of a passer-by, and he walked along with us two blocks to be sure we found the right corner. And taxi drivers leaped from the cab to open doors — something we hardly see any more.

There are a number of unusual and interesting museums in Bagdad by the Bay. The one to delight red - blooded Americans weaned on television is the History Room of the Wells Fargo Bank. Here we find a real stage coach; Wells Fargo boxes that carried the gold; the gold itself, coins, dust, nuggets; old books and "wanted" posters; and a priceless collection of guns that tamed the West . . Another exhibit for the lover of Western history is the Balclutha, an old sailing ship. This vessel, built for travel around the Horn, is now moored at Fisherman's Wharf and houses a maritime museum.

Night life runs the gamut, too. One should start at the Top of the Mark for the best view in town . . . Later there might be a play, either a touring company, or one headed for Broadway after a trial run. (We saw "The Pink Jungle" opening, with Ginger Rogers and Agnes Moorehead starred. It ran an hour too long, but seemed like a possible hit after some tightening. Miss Moorehead, of course, was magnificent.)

San Francisco women are renowned as some of the best dressed in the country. Fashion being an interest of this column, we took careful note of what the ladies wore to the opening night. Brocade theatre suits, lace sheaths, flowing chiffons, mink stoles, fox boas — all very opulent. One lady wore a full length red satin coat, highlighted by her snow white hair and snow white kid gloves. An eye-catching outfit was an apricot satin coat the exact color of the wearer's apricot hair. One wondered whether she bought the coat to match her hair or dyed her hair to match the coat.

Other night spots by the bay include the hungry i (no capitals, please), a Bohemian cellar with excellent talent . . . and El Matador, setting for bull fight afficionados . . . San Francisco boasts a very fine opera house, with one of the ranking companies of the country.

If time is of the essence, U. S. Highway 101 is no doubt the route for driving to Los Angeles. But if one can spare a few extra hours to feed the soul, one should take the coast route, California road one. This leads by Monterey, Carmel by the Sea, Pebble Beach, the Big Sur country, and San Simeon, as well as some of the world's most spectacular scenery. The Pacific pounds at the foot of towering cliffs, of the Santa Lucia Mountains, hitting the rocks with such force that the spray shoots up twenty or thirty feet. Stretches of sand beach are found all along the coast: some small, intimate, protected on three sides by canyon walls; others long, open, with rocks breaking through the surf.

We stopped for lunch at Nepenthe in the Big Sur country. This is an eyrie of rough hewn beams, glass panels, and hand made bricks, hanging on the side of a cliff some hundreds of feet above the ocean. The food was good, if anyone has time to notice with that view all around.

California history began in 1769, when Father Junipero Serro founded the first mission at San Diego. A chain of missions reaching up to Sonoma was eventually completed along the Camino Real. Many place names take their names from these missions: San Luis Opisbo, San Fernando, Santa Barbara. Most famous of these establishments is probably San Juan Capistrano, of the swallows. This largest of mission churches is now in ruins, but the smaller original building is there. This is the oldest building in the state, and the only one used by Father Serra still standing.

Los Angeles is a completely different type of city from San Francisco: less cosmopolitan, larger, and more glittery. The movie industry gives a distinct flavor to the district. The Fabians Society was having a party at our hotel the evening we arrived in Beverly Hills. We stepped from the car into a lobby full of stars, starlets, and also-rans, all elegantly gowned and beautifully made-up . . . And San Diego is something else again, again. The visitors first impression is of Navy, Navy everywhere. Lots of ships in the bay: destroyers, carriers, tenders, submarines; and lots of aircraft in the sky: jet fighters, prop driven planes, helicopters, jet bombers. This area boasts beautiful beaches and a climate which permits swimming nine or ten months of the year.

Disneyland lives up to all the publicity. Your reporter was particularly impressed with the immaculate cleanliness and the flowerbeds kept by a company of gardeners who replace out of season flowers overnight with plants at the height of their bloom. Costumes of the employees are carried out in perfect detail for each job: a princess taking tickets at Sleeping Beauty's castle; an old - fashioned engineer on the old - fashioned train; an airline stewardess on the Moon-Ride.

The Knotts of Knott's Berry Farm are a living personification of the great American success story. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knott bought a small farm on time during the depths of the depression. Mrs. Knott opened a roadside stand selling berry jams and pies to help with the payments. As the farm prospered, the owners indulged their love of antiques and Americana. Now the collection has grown to a ghost town, complete to its own half - gauge railroad and stage coach line. There is an old - time melodrama giving several performances daily at the Bird Cage theatre and a vaudeville show at the Calico Saloon. Desperadoes shoot it out on the streets. Visitors may pan for gold with the guarantee that they will find some. Several large restaurants on the place serve good farm-type meals, with Mrs. Knott's excellent berry jams and desserts still prominent on the menu. A real fun place.

And now we come to the food: something to be spoken of in tones of awe. We started every day with fresh strawberries or crenshaw melon, and went on from there. Some of the highlights were the crab and bean sprout appetizers at Trader Vic's; the chicken Kiev at Tangiers; the unforgettable shrimp curry at India House (and here, also, the Maharajah's Burra Peg, a drink concocted of Champagne, brandy and Cointreau). The Forbidden City offers an all-Chinese floor show with excellent Chinese food. The tournedos Theodora at Los Angeles' Scandia are superb, and the cheesecake at this same establishment above reproach. At San Diego's Kona Kai club we had a fresh strawberry tart so delicious that the first bite brings tears to the eyes.

So whatever one's pleasure, one can find it in California: history, rustic scenic grandeur, sophisticated cities, farmlands, beaches. It might almost be said of California as Dr. Johnson said of London: "If a man is bored with London, he is bored with life."

□ □ □

Edna St. Vincent Millay said it for us in her poem "Travel":

The railroad track is miles away
And the day is loud with voices speaking,
Yet there isn't a train goes by all day
But I hear its whistle shrieking.
All night there isn't a train goes by,
Though the night is still for sleep and dreaming,
But I see its cinders red on the sky,
And hear its engine steaming.
My heart is warm with the friends I make,
And better friends I'll not be knowing,
Yet there isn't a train I wouldn't take
No matter where it's going.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

CLIMATE AND MICROCLIMATE

A change of climate is recommended occasionally when a person has an illness that is aggravated by local weather conditions. Such a change requires thought and planning.

New friends and a new job are not easy to find, especially when a person is ill. The harmful effects of unhappiness and insecurity may nullify the physical advantages of the most perfect climate. I usually advise a trial period of 3 to 6 months before pulling up stakes for good, as the new environment may not prove satisfactory.

Many mistakes are made because the area was not explored thoroughly. The general climate may be perfect but the immediate surroundings (microclimate) may be far from healthy. The south sounds wonderful to a Chicagoan with asthma or heart diseases. But he may become worse if he settles in an industrial area where the air is polluted or where smog is a problem. Soot, rural dust, and pollen are more likely to affect those who are active because they inhale a large volume of contaminants.

Microclimate changes from spot to spot. Temperature, wind, and atmospheric conditions often vary considerably on the two sides of a hill or ridge. Those who are running away from an allergy such as asthma or hay fever should study the microclimate before moving.

I recommended Arizona to a young housewife whose asthma was so severe it could not be controlled in the hospital. When she stepped off the plane at Tucson, she was a new woman. An older man with an identical allergy also went to Arizona. He was back in a week gasping "I couldn't stand the dust." These are but a few of the reasons why a trial period is warranted, provided it will not create too great a hardship.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - adddressed envelope accompanies request.

AGING PROCESSES

P. Z. writes: Do most people become mentally senile years before they become old physically?

REPLY

Not in my opinion. "Old physically" is a broad term because the organs of the body do not age at the same rate. A person with coronary thrombosis, for example, has old coronary arteries even though he may look and act like a younger person. Is he "old physically"?

SCARRED HEART

H. W. writes: Does scar tissue form in the heart after a heart attack?

REPLY

Yes. Scars replace most body tissues that are cut, injured, destroyed by infection, or are deprived of their blood supply. The usually heart attack is produced by an obstructed blood vessel. A small part of the heart muscle dies from lack of blood, and on healing, this portion is replaced by a scar.

COURAGE

R. H. writes: Is the amount of a person's courage governed by his glandular system?

REPLY

The adrenal glands secrete adrenalin, which makes the individual more alert and ready to fight. In this respect, the glands aid courage. In addition, a well balanced, normal glandular system imparts a feeling of well-being.

MEASLES TYPES

R. D. writes: How many kinds of measles are there?

REPLY

Two — rubeola (ordinary measles) and rubella (German measles). Black measles is a severe form of regular measles in which the eruption is purplish and marked bleeding may occur in the mouth and nose.

Tips For Making The Best Use Of Your Home Freezer

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Homemakers with more time than money can save both by using their food freezers for home - prepared main dishes and ready - to - eat school lunch supplies.

Here are tips for making the best use of your freezer from a manufacturer of transparent plastic wrap.

— Main dishes freeze especially well in sauces and gravies. But cooking time should be shortened slightly to allow for additional cooking when reheating.

— Cool cooked foods promptly and freeze them in one-meal portions. To cool soup quickly, immerse the filled freezer container in ice water. But remember to leave at least 1 inch head space in any container of liquid, to allow for expansion room during freezing.

— Omit potatoes from frozen stew until the reheating period; spuds soften and lose flavor during long storage.

— Use converted rice, not the quick-cooking variety, as a "binder" for casserole dishes. But when a crumb or cheese topping is called for, add it at reheating time.

—Don't waste precious space on fried foods which, except for French fried potatoes and onion rings, generally do not freeze successfully.

—Use a light hand with seasoning, making any necessary adjustments at reheating time. Freezing makes some flavors strong and bitter, such as pepper, cloves, synthetic vanilla, celery products and fresh onions. Curry may develop an off-flavor. Salt loses flavor and may increase rancidity in fatty foods.

—Unbaked fruit pies are good freezer fare. But custard or cream-filled pastries tend to become grainy, and meringues toughen.

The morning marathon to get the children off to school will be considerably easier if you freeze a week's supply of sandwiches and cookies at one time.

But avoid very moist fillings, such as egg or tuna salad, or fillings with hard-cooked egg white, which toughens. Other bad bets are raw, chopped, grated, sliced vegetables, tomatoes and lettuce, all of which lose crispness.

Freezing makes mayonnaise and salad dressing separate. But imaginative, flavorful binders such as lemon, orange and pineapple juice make good substitutes. So do milk, dairy sour cream, applesauce, butter or margarine, canned crushed pineapple, and horseradish.

Sandwich fillers that freeze well include cooked egg yolk, peanut butter, sliced cooked or canned chicken, turkey or fish, canned or cooked meat, dried beef, roquefort and bleu cheese, and baked beans.

To avoid sogginess, spread bread for frozen sandwiches generously to the edges with soft butter or margarine before adding filling.

Take as much care in packaging as you would with a special present. Airtight containers or wraps are essential to protect both quality and flavor. Otherwise, meat and poultry suffer "freezer burn," vegetables toughen, and fruit oxidizes and darkens.

'Problems Of Todays Youth' Discussed At School

The October meeting of the A. L. Smith Junior High School was held at 3:15 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The third grade rendered two musical selections on their rhythm band instruments, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" and "General Grant's Grand March," accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Ramsey.

Mrs. Joy Alford, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Cleo Jordan, faculty member, who announced the topic of the panel, "Problems of Today's Youth." Elizabeth Booker, chairman of the panel, introduced the other members of the panel: Elizabeth Boyette, Cherry Williams, and Lonnie Williams.

Prize winners for the grades obtaining the most P.-T. A. members for this year were announced. They were Mrs. Lillian Page, primary department; Mrs. Sallie Richardson, intermediate department; Mr. James Rainwater, Jr., junior high department.

Mrs. Alford announced the plans of the Halloween Carnival which will be held October 23. Mrs. Funderburk's third grade won the room count. A brief social period followed with the ladies of the Thermatomic Carbon Company as hostesses.

'Problems Of Todays Youth' Discussed At School

The October meeting of the A. L. Smith Junior High School was held at 3:15 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The third grade rendered two musical selections on their rhythm band instruments, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" and "General Grant's Grand March," accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Ramsey.

Mrs. Joy Alford, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Cleo Jordan, faculty member, who announced the topic of the panel, "Problems of Today's Youth." Elizabeth Booker, chairman of the panel, introduced the other members of the panel: Elizabeth Boyette, Cherry Williams, and Lonnie Williams.

Prize winners for the grades obtaining the most P.-T. A. members for this year were announced. They were Mrs. Lillian Page, primary department; Mrs. Sallie Richardson, intermediate department; Mr. James Rainwater, Jr., junior high department.

Mrs. Alford announced the plans of the Halloween Carnival which will be held October 23. Mrs. Funderburk's third grade won the room count. A brief social period followed with the ladies of the Thermatomic Carbon Company as hostesses.

Keep It Hot

You can keep drip coffee hot, while you are pouring the water through, by placing the coffee pot on an asbestos mat over very low heat.

Now You Know

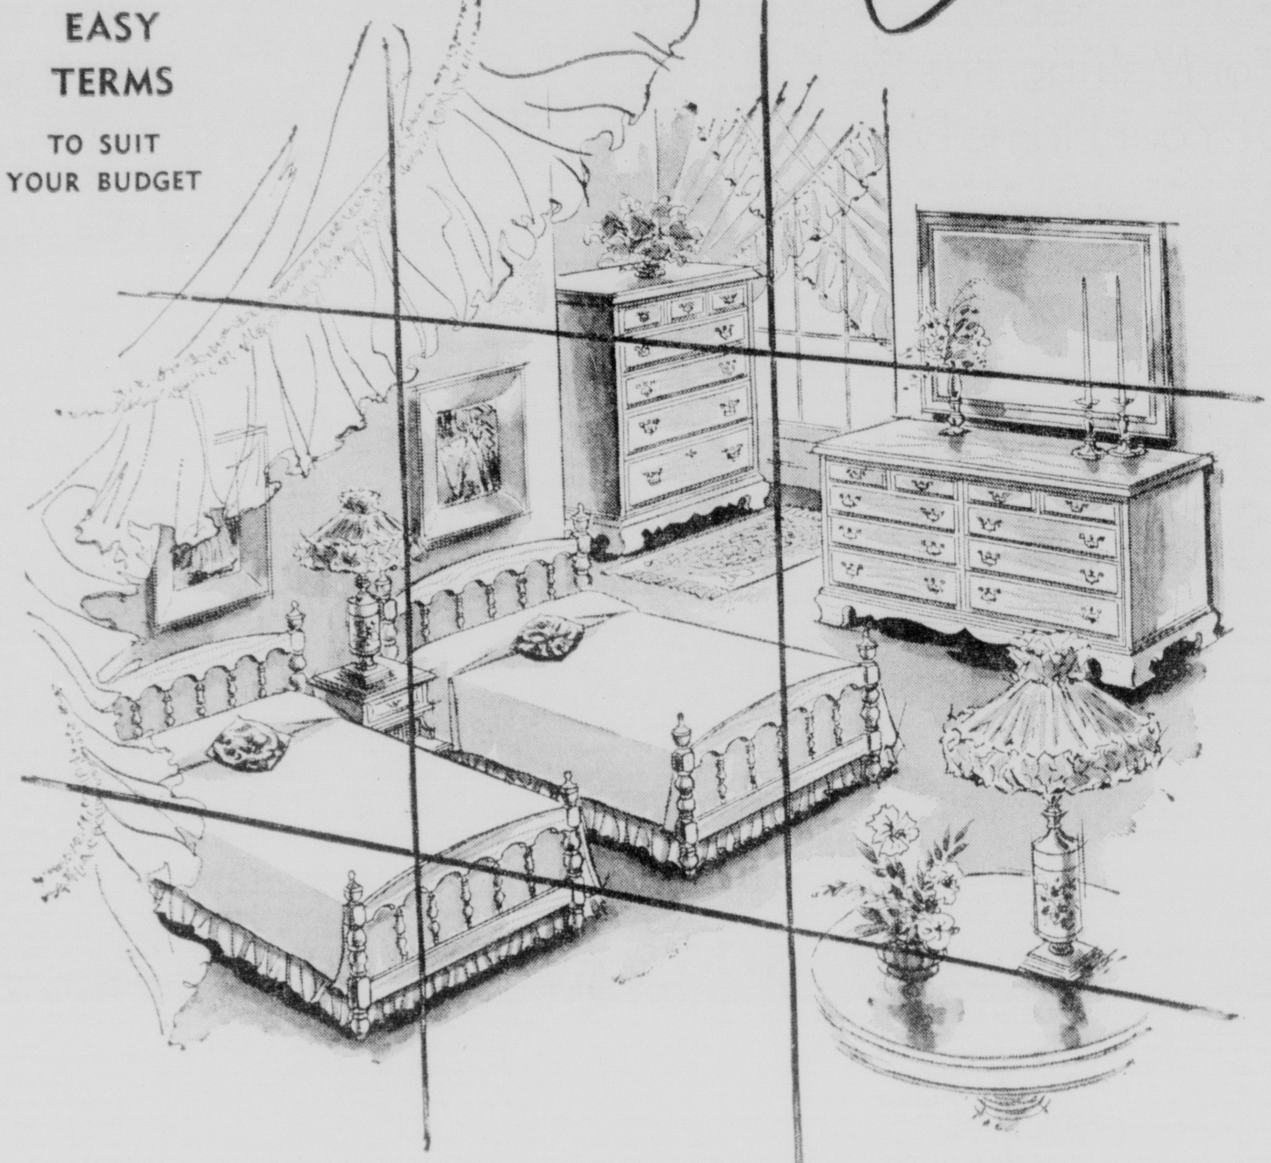

Black and white pepper come from the same pepper berry. The former includes the whole berry, the latter is just the inner kernel.

LSU Drops Florida; Lions Stop Northeast

SLC Takes 27-6 Win Over Tribe

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Burly C. J. Alexander, Southeastern's heralded Black Knight of Donaldsonville, threw chivalry to the winds in the second half here Saturday night, scoring a touchdown and recovering two key fumbles as the Lions romped to a 27-6 Gulf States Conference victory over the Northeast Indians.

Dubbed to knighthood by south Louisiana sports writers with fredieval leanings, Alexander was the spark that revived the Lions from a scoreless deadlock at halftime to their second straight GSC win of the year.

A swivel - hipped runner deluxe, Alexander pounced on Northeast fullback Stewart Stover's fumble on the kickoff to open the third quarter to set up the first tally by the Lions. Late in the same quarter he alertly dropped on another Tribe bobble to set up his own touchdown.

Freshman halfback Billy Ladner and sophomore Jerry Schwab added tallies on the ground for the Lions and B. L. Fairchild passed to end Charley Berg for the fourth.

STATISTICS	Indians	Lions
First Downs	11	16
Yards rushing	104	182
Passes	17-8	11-7
Yards passing	43	70
Passes Int. by	1	0
Fumbles lost	3	2
Punts	7-35	6-29

After a hard - knocking first half in which Northeast had the edge in statistics, Stoved fumbled the third quarter kickoff on his 30 and Alexander was johnny-on-the -spot.

Fairchild, seeing his first action of the game, threw incomplete to Berg and Alexander reeled off runs of 15 and 3 yards to advance the Lions to the Tribe 3.

Then Fairchild, a sophomore from Istrouma High School, tossed to Berg who made a shoestring catch in the end zone for the touchdown.

Minutes later Northeast, after an interception by Joe Thrailkill, pushed to the Lion 5 but a fourth down plunge by Jim Laudadio was stopped at the line.

SLC took charge and moved for a first down but stalled and quarterback Elbert Harris booted the ball out. Laudadio dropped it on the SLC and again it was Alexander to make the recovery.

With Fairchild's 33-yard heave to Talmadge Lee eating up most of the yardage, Southeastern streaked to a first down on Northeast's 8. Fdom that point Alexander ran wide to the right sideline, evaded two tacklers and tightroped his way in for the score. Fairchild threw to the Black Knight for the two - point conversion.

The fumble bug again hit Northeast like a plague when quarter back Bob Randel lost the ball two plays later and Ken Dunagin recovered on the Redskin 25.

Ladner picked up 15 yards in three cracks and on third down from the four, skirted left end for the third Lion tally. Harris' pass to Dunegin for the extra point overshot the mark.

The Lions closed the door with a fourth touchdown midway in the period. Schwab climaxed a 46 -rd drive with a 3 - yard slant tackle for the TD. He followed h the extra point to make it -0.

With 40 seconds left in the game Northeast turned the tables and caught on to the fumble game. SLC's Willie Rhodes was jarred loose from the pigskin on a hard tackle and Billy Broom covered it for the 'Skins on the Lion 31.

Quarterback John "Tar Baby" O'Conner hit end Jerry Head with a pass at the 8 and on the last play of the game spiraled a pass to Thrailkill for the touchdown. The attempted run for the point failed.

Alexander was the game's top ground gainer with 58 yards in 13 thrusts. Laudadio had 49 in 13 tries and Stover picked up 37 in 12 attempts for Northeast.

Tribe end Charley Barnes snagged four passes from Randel for 27 yards and was outstanding defensively for the hosts. Running mate Pete Covington and guard Wally Cox also turned in fine play in the forward wall.

Northeast engineered two serious threats in the second but each time fourth down pass misses caused the penetrations to fall short.

Near the end of the opening stanza, Randel batted down a Harris pass on the Northeast goal line and the Redskins took over and began to move from their 20. Laudadio started it with a 9-yard burst through the middle. Stover picked up a first down on the 32 and Redden carried twice to the 39.

Randel flipped another aerial and end Charley Barnes hauled it in for his first of three receptions in the first half and a first down on the Lion 48. Stover, busy as ever, bulled his way to another first down on the SLC 39 on a brilliant draw play.

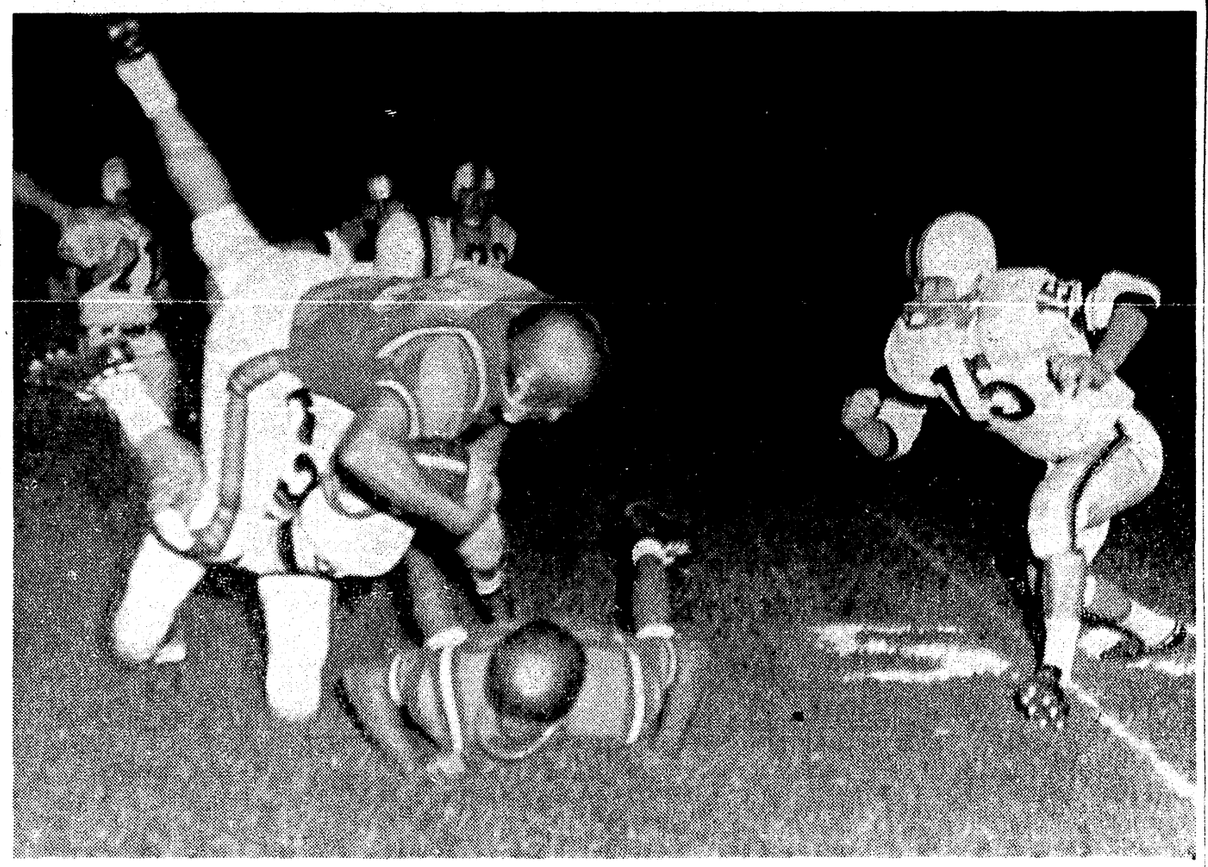

Three plays later Randel again tossed to the lanky Barnes for another first on the 17. Laudadio got 2 and Stover bucked on down to the 10. With fourth down and four to go Randel's pass to Joe Thrailkill fell short and the Lions took possession.

Southeastern couldn't gain and punted short to their 39 where Laudadio made a fair catch. Laudadio carried three straight times to the 23 and the Lions rushed a new unit into the fray to stem the thrust.

Tackle Duanne Grom hit Stover for a two - yard loss and Randel's bullet pass to Barnes was one yard shy of the first down.

SLC's big effort in the first half came in the first period the second time they handled the ball. The Lions took over on their own 39 after a 48-yard quick kick by Stover. Talmadge Lee moved for 9 and 10 yards in two tries and Jim Hanley found a big hole and dashed for 14 more to the Tribe 25. Alexander and Lee carried down to the 17 where Wally Cox broke through to dump Lee for a three - yard loss.

Randel knocked down Harris' fourth down pass on the goal line to halt the march.

Jockey Rose Dies After Racing Spill

The tumble, from a horse which had injured another rider in the colt's last previous race, left Rose unconscious and unable to undergo needed brain surgery.

Rose's mount, Hy-Gain, tumbled in the stretch—in his first start after a similar spill Sept. 11 at the state fair in Sacramento, putting another jockey in a coma for 29 days.

The other jockey, Italian-born Peter Tranchina, suffered partial paralysis but now is believed recovering.

Rose, one of the few Negro jockeys on United States tracks, has ridden 228 winners, mostly in Panama. His ride on Hy-Gain was only his second mount after coming from Panama three weeks ago.

Pettit Scores 33 But Hawks Lose To Minneapolis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, who dethroned the St. Louis Hawks in the playoffs of the National Basketball Assn. last season, handed St. Louis a 94-87 defeat Saturday night before 10,644, a record opening night crowd for Kiel Auditorium.

Despite a 33-point performance by Bob Pettit, league scoring champion of a year ago, Minneapolis was able to grab a lead at the end of the first quarter and was never again headed.

Elgin Baylor helped the Minneapolis offense with 23 points and 19 rebounds.

The Hawks spurted to a 17-9 lead in the first quarter but their shooting turned cold and Minneapolis was able to take a 23-21 command as the period ended.

During a St. Louis scoring drought at the beginning of the second period, Minneapolis registered 14 straight points and hiked its advantage to 51-40 by halftime.

St. Louis threatened in the second half with Pettit's 14 points in the third quarter, narrowing the deficit to 69-62 entering the final period.

With 4:15 left in the game, a three-point play by Clyde Lovellette cut the Laker lead to 82-80 but then Baylor clicked for two straight goals as Minneapolis pulled away.

Rutgers Romps

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —Rutgers' revamped line brought Lehigh's powerful offense to a dead halt Saturday and the Scarlet triumphed, 23-0, as senior end Bob Simms set a new school record for pass catching.

Simms, of Charleston, W. Va., snared two touchdown passes in the second period—one from tailback Dick Webb of Buffalo, N. Y., and another one 10 seconds before the halftime gun from Bill Speranza of Phillipsburg.

Southerners Crush Abilene In 30-10 Rout

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Southern entertained a homecoming crowd of 14,000 Saturday night by crushing Abilene Christian 30-10.

Quarterback Don Fuell sneaked over from the four in the first minute of the second period to give Southern a 6-0 lead. End Hugh McInnis kicked the extra point.

A 29-yard pass from Fuell to McInnis put Southern on Abilene's 10-yard line in the final quarter and, three plays later, fullback Bully Supple crashed over from the one. McInnis converted.

Abilene freshman quarterback Manley Benton completed a 25-yard pass to end Robert Nickerson in the final period for the Wildcats' only touchdown. Halfback Henry Colwell plunged for two points.

Southern sophomore halfback Andin McLeod circled end and sped 12 yards for a third period score and another sophomore, fullback Dan Pugh dove for two extra points. Later in the period Charley Ellzey, a 225-pound Southern center, intercepted an Abilene pass and ran 44 yards for a touchdown. Supple rushed over for two points.

Southern accepted an Abilene punt in the closing minutes of the first half and thanks to penalties, began a wrong-way drive that resulted in an Abilene safety. Quarterback Morris Meador was back to punt after Southern had been penalized 45 yards in four plays but Joe White's snap from center was high and Meador was tackled in the end zone by end Robert McLeod.

Score by Periods

Mississippi Southern	0	7	16	7	—30
Abilene	0	2	0	8	—10

Miss. Southern—Fuell 4 run (McInnis kick); McLeod 12 run (Pugh run); Ellzey 24 run (Supple run); Supple 1 run (McInnis kick).

Abilene — Safety; Nickerson 25 pass from Denton (Colwell run).

Wilt Drops In 43 Points As Warriors Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Fabled Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain made a brilliant National Basketball Assn. debut Saturday night. He scored 43 points as his Philadelphia Warriors turned back the New York Knickerbockers 118-109 at Madison Square Garden in the season opener for both teams.

Chamberlain and Co. broke up a close game with a last period spurt. The Warriors entered the stanza leading 85-77 but the Knicks rallied and closed the gap to five points. Then Chamberlain, Woody Sauldsberry, and Guy Rodgers found the range consistently to boost the margin to 14 points. Philadelphia led at the end of the first period 31-27 and at halftime 55-52. Chamberlain collected 20 of his points by the intermission.

The 7-2 former Kansas All - America added 16 in the third quarter and finished off with nine in the finale.

Chamberlain demonstrated his amazing versatility with an excellent job of rebounding and defensive play. He hauled down 28 rebounds and hit from the outside as well as from underneath.

Rodgers and Paul Arizin contributed 19 points apiece to the Warrior attack. Kenny Sears was high for the Knicks with 35.

Mich. Upsets Minnesota In Big 10 Clash

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Struggling Michigan turned loose Darrell Harper and Fred Julian on long touchdown runs in a two minute flash of old time Wolverine fire Saturday and beat Minnesota 14-6.

It was a game of deliverance for the young Wolverines, their first Big Ten victory after six straight losses dating back to midseason of 1958, and it pulled them out of the conference basement.

Harper startled the favored Gophers and a crowd of 57,354 by grabbing a high punt on the 17 and sprinting 83 yards to score with 2½ minutes gone in the third period.

Two minutes later, Julian, like Harper, a relative disappointment in two previous seasons, smashed off tackle, cut back and sped 42 yards for a touchdown. It was the first touchdown in his Michigan career.

After flubbing the scoring chances all day the Gophers cashed in with 1:14 left when Larry Johnson passed 17 yards to Tom Hall. The attempted pass for a two point conversion failed and Minnesota was finished.

By winning this 50th anniversary battle with its old enemy, Michigan held onto one of the celebrated trophies in college football, the Little Brown Jug. In doing so, Michigan pushed Minnesota into the Big Ten cellar and ran the Gophers' run of losses to 17 in their last 20 games.

Florida State Beats Richmond

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State's sputtering offense caught fire for three touchdown drives that carried the Seminoles to a 22-6 victory over Richmond Saturday night.

Freddy Pickard, FSU's elusive 165-pound right halfback, was the big noise for the Seminoles offensively. He scored two of the touchdowns and counted two extra points on a conversion run.

Richmond made a contest of it up until the closing minutes when Florida State pushed over its third touchdown on a five-yard pass from Joe Majors to end Jim Daniel that made it impossible for Richmond to catch up.

Bengal Defense Sparkles Again

By MERCER BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Louisiana State's alert defense pounced on Florida mistakes Saturday and the nation's No. 1 football team whipped the stubborn Gators 9-0 for their 18th straight victory.

The hard-charging Tiger line, led by guard Emile Fournet and tackle Bo Strange, prevented Florida from getting a punt away and set up a touchdown in the second quarter. A little later on Gaynell Kinchen intercepted a pass and halfback Wendell Harris booted his fifth straight field goal of the season.

Florida almost turned the tables in the final quarter, snapping up two LSU fumbles and riding the passing of Dick Allen and Jack Jones into the shadow of the LSU goal. But both times LSU's tenacious Tigers were able to thwart a score.

The Tigers still haven't yielded a touchdown this season. The Tigers have given up only two field goals in six games.

Florida showed a rugged defense, too, but the Tigers simply had too much punch to be contained forever. The Gators did a good job on All-America halfback Billy Cannon, holding him to 55 yards in 15 carries.

The big speedster finally came through with some clutch runs in the touchdown drive and scored from the 1.

Harris' 28-yard field goal came 27 seconds before intermission. Until Florida made its two last ditch efforts, the second half was mostly defensive knocking.

A record Florida field crowd, estimated at 46,000, saw the LSU line charge Gator punting ace Bob. by Joe Green so swiftly he could not punt. End Mickey Mangham supplied the pressure and Green was tackeld by Strange and Fournet when he tried to run. LSU then moved 48 yards in nine plays.

A 19-yard pass from quarterback Warren Rabb to fullback Donnie Daye and a 10-yard burst by Cannon were the key gainers. This drive was almost killed when a Rabb-Daye handoff went astray and Florida's Dick Brantley recovered at the 4. But Florida was penalized for off sides, nullifying the fumble. Cannon scored from the 1 on the next play.

Harris' field goal capped a march from the Florida 46 after Kinchen's interception. The ball struck the right-hand upright a glancing blow, then sliced downward over the cross bar.

A Cannon fumble, recovered by Allen at the LSU 45, started the Gators goalward on Allen's passes to Perry McGriff and Dave Hudson. But this drive stalled at the 8.

Later, Darryl Jenkins fumbled and Florida's Nick Arfaras recovered at the LSU 43. An 11-yard run by Jon Macbeth and a 13-yarder by Jack Westbrook helped move the Gators to the 4 before they were thrown back.

Green's punting—he averaged 56.6 yards on five kicks—was a big factor in keeping LSU under control.

The shutout was the first suffered by a Florida team in 18 games.

Colts' Dupre Sidelined For Rest Of Year

The stocky little line-smasher from Baylor, in his fifth year as a pro, was placed on the injured reserve list in a surprise move by Coach Weeb Ewbank.

Ewbank had announced Friday that Dupre would miss Sunday's game against the Green Bay Packers because of a leg injury—a ruptured blood vessel in the thigh. The Colt veteran said he felt a twinge of pain while driving his automobile last Tuesday, then noticed a swelling of the leg.

Dupre averaged 4.2 yards in 95 carries last season, lugging the ball more often than anyone else except fullback Alan Ameche. He seemed a bit off form in his first three games this year but looked sharp in last week's victory over the Chicago Bears.

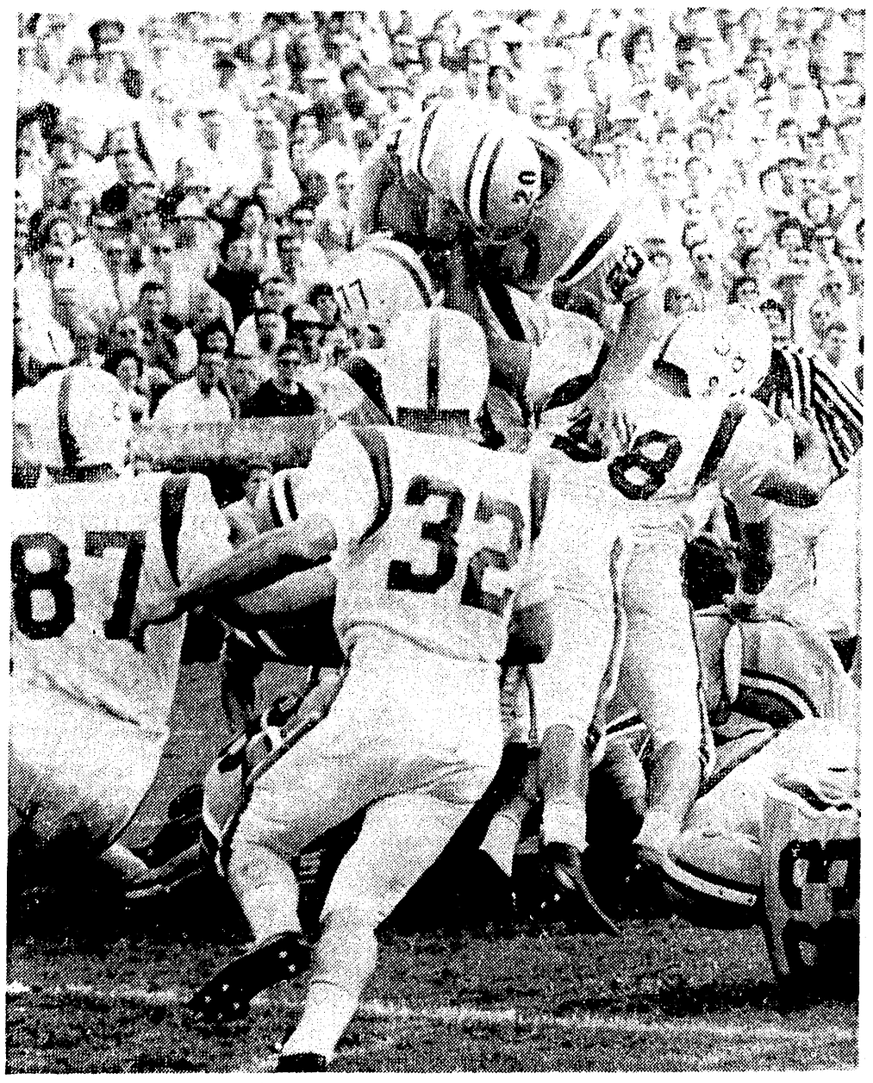

To plug the vacancy on the roster, Ewbank plucked halfback Mike Sommer from the league discard pile. The same size as Dupre, 5-11 and 190 pounds, Sommer played with the Washington Redskins in two games last season, was cut, then failed to make the grade at offensive halfback with them again this year.

"The doctors tell us L. G. must miss the next three games definitely and can't assure us he would be able to return even then," said Ewbank.

"We feel it is not only fairer to the club but to L. G. himself to let him rest out the season and run no risk of hurting himself again."

Ewbank tapped Alex Hawkins, a product of South Carolina, to start against the Packers. He was picked up by the Colts this year after failing to gain a berth on the Green Bay squad.

Lewis, another first-year man from Houston, is expected to share the halfback role with Hawkins, with Sommer taking Hawkins' spot on the punt and kickoff return units.

CANNON SHOOTS OVER THE TOP— LSU's Billy Cannon (20) climbs over a swarm of Florida players as he attempts to score from the three-yard line in yesterday's game at Gainesville, Fla. He managed two yards on the play. Florida players in on the tackle are Jimmy Givens (87), Danny Royal (77), Bob Wehking (58) and Doug Partin (32). No. 83 (right) is LSU end Scotty McClain. LSU Drops Florida; Lions Stop Northeast

SLC Takes 27-6 Win Over Tribe

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Burly C. J. Alexander, Southeastern's heralded Black Knight of Donaldsonville, threw chivalry to the winds in the second half here Saturday night, scoring a touchdown and recovering two key fumbles as the Lions romped to a 27-6 Gulf States Conference victory over the Northeast Indians.

Dubbed to knighthood by south Louisiana sports writers with fredieval leanings, Alexander was the spark that revived the Lions from a scoreless deadlock at halftime to their second straight GSC win of the year.

A swivel - hipped runner deluxe, Alexander pounced on Northeast fullback Stewart Stover's fumble on the kickoff to open the third quarter to set up the first tally by the Lions. Late in the same quarter he alertly dropped on another Tribe bobble to set up his own touchdown.

Freshman halfback Billy Ladner and sophomore Jerry Schwab added tallies on the ground for the Lions and B. L. Fairchild passed to end Charley Berg for the fourth.

STATISTICS

	Indians	Lions
First Downs	11	16
Yards rushing	104	182
Passes	17-8	11-7
Yards passing	43	70
Passes Int. by	1	0
Fumbles lost	3	2
Punts	7-35	6-29

After a hard - knocking first half in which Northeast had the edge in statistics, Stoved fumbled the third quarter kickoff on his 30 and Alexander was johnny-on-the -spot.

Fairchild, seeing his first action of the game, threw incomplete to Berg and Alexander reeled off runs of 15 and 3 yards to advance the Lions to the Tribe 3.

Then Fairchild, a sophomore from Istrouma High School, tossed to Berg who made a shoestring catch in the end zone for the touchdown.

Minutes later Northeast, after an interception by Joe Thrailkill, pushed to the Lion 5 but a fourth down plunge by Jim Laudadio was stopped at the line.

SLC took charge and moved for a first down but stalled and quarterback Elbert Harris booted the ball out. Laudadio dropped it on the SLC and again it was Alexander to make the recovery.

With Fairchild's 33-yard heave to Talmadge Lee eating up most of the yardage, Southeastern streaked to a first down on Northeast's 8. Fdom that point Alexander ran wide to the right sideline, evaded two tacklers and tightroped his way in for the score. Fairchild threw to the Black Knight for the two - point conversion.

The fumble bug again hit Northeast like a plague when quarter back Bob Randel lost the ball two plays later and Ken Dunagin recovered on the Redskin 25.

Ladner picked up 15 yards in three cracks and on third down from the four, skirted left end for the third Lion tally. Harris' pass to Dunegin for the extra point overshot the mark.

The Lions closed the door with a fourth touchdown midway in the period. Schwab climaxed a 46 -rd drive with a 3 - yard slant tackle for the TD. He followed h the extra point to make it -0.

With 40 seconds left in the game Northeast turned the tables and caught on to the fumble game. SLC's Willie Rhodes was jarred loose from the pigskin on a hard tackle and Billy Broom covered it for the 'Skins on the Lion 31.

Quarterback John "Tar Baby" O'Conner hit end Jerry Head with a pass at the 8 and on the last play of the game spiraled a pass to Thrailkill for the touchdown. The attempted run for the point failed.

Alexander was the game's top ground gainer with 58 yards in 13 thrusts. Laudadio had 49 in 13 tries and Stover picked up 37 in 12 attempts for Northeast.

Tribe end Charley Barnes snagged four passes from Randel for 27 yards and was outstanding defensively for the hosts. Running mate Pete Covington and guard Wally Cox also turned in fine play in the forward wall.

Northeast engineered two serious threats in the second but each time fourth down pass misses caused the penetrations to fall short.

Near the end of the opening stanza, Randel batted down a Harris pass on the Northeast goal line and the Redskins took over and began to move from their 20. Laudadio started it with a 9-yard burst through the middle. Stover picked up a first down on the 32 and Redden carried twice to the 39.

Randel flipped another aerial and end Charley Barnes hauled it in for his first of three receptions in the first half and a first down on the Lion 48. Stover, busy as ever, bulled his way to another first down on the SLC 39 on a brilliant draw play.

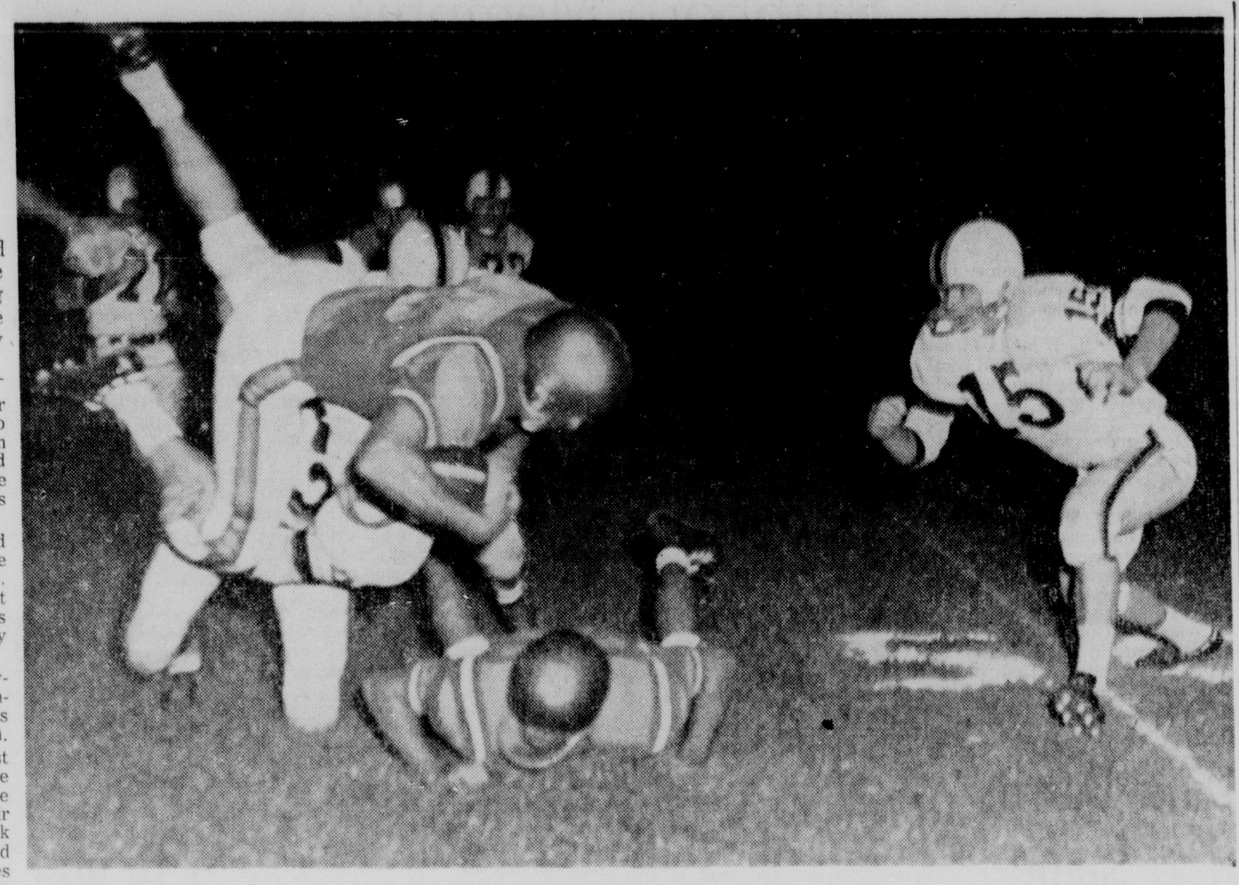

Three plays later Randel again tossed to the lanky Barnes for another first on the 17. Laudadio got 2 and Stover bucked on down to the 10. With fourth down and four to go Randel's pass to Joe Thrailkill fell short and the Lions took possession.

Southeastern couldn't gain and punted short to their 39 where Laudadio made a fair catch. Laudadio carried three straight times to the 23 and the Lions rushed a new unit into the fray to stem the thrust.

Tackle Duanne Grom hit Stover for a two - yard loss and Randel's bullet pass to Barnes was one yard shy of the first down.

SLC's big effort in the first half came in the first period the second time they handled the ball. The Lions took over on their own 39 after a 48-yard quick kick by Stover. Talmadge Lee moved for 9 and 10 yards in two tries and Jim Hanley found a big hole and dashed for 14 more to the Tribe 25. Alexander and Lee carried down to the 17 where Wally Cox broke through to dump Lee for a three - yard loss.

Randel knocked down Harris' fourth down pass on the goal line to halt the march.

Jockey Rose Dies After Racing Spill

The tumble, from a horse which had injured another rider in the colt's last previous race, left Rose unconscious and unable to undergo needed brain surgery.

Rose's mount, Hy-Gain, tumbled in the stretch—in his first start after a similar spill Sept. 11 at the state fair in Sacramento, putting another jockey in a coma for 29 days.

The other jockey, Italian-born Peter Tranchina, suffered partial paralysis but now is believed recovering.

Rose, one of the few Negro jockeys on United States tracks, has ridden 228 winners, mostly in Panama. His ride on Hy-Gain was only his second mount after coming from Panama three weeks ago.

Pettit Scores 33 But Hawks Lose To Minneapolis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, who dethroned the St. Louis Hawks in the playoffs of the National Basketball Assn. last season, handed St. Louis a 94-87 defeat Saturday night before 10,644, a record opening night crowd for Kiel Auditorium.

Despite a 33-point performance by Bob Pettit, league scoring champion of a year ago, Minneapolis was able to grab a lead at the end of the first quarter and was never again headed.

Elgin Baylor helped the Minneapolis offense with 23 points and 19 rebounds.

The Hawks spurted to a 17-9 lead in the first quarter but their shooting turned cold and Minneapolis was able to take a 23-21 command as the period ended.

During a St. Louis scoring drought at the beginning of the second period, Minneapolis registered 14 straight points and hiked its advantage to 51-40 by halftime.

St. Louis threatened in the second half with Pettit's 14 points in the third quarter, narrowing the deficit to 69-62 entering the final period.

With 4:15 left in the game, a three-point play by Clyde Lovellette cut the Laker lead to 82-80 but then Baylor clicked for two straight goals as Minneapolis pulled away.

Rutgers Romps

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —Rutgers' revamped line brought Lehigh's powerful offense to a dead halt Saturday and the Scarlet triumphed, 23-0, as senior end Bob Simms set a new school record for pass catching.

Simms, of Charleston, W. Va., snared two touchdown passes in the second period—one from tailback Dick Webb of Buffalo, N. Y., and another one 10 seconds before the halftime gun from Bill Speranza of Phillipsburg.

Southerners Crush Abilene In 30-10 Rout

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Southern entertained a homecoming crowd of 14,000 Saturday night by crushing Abilene Christian 30-10.

Quarterback Don Fuell sneaked over from the four in the first minute of the second period to give Southern a 6-0 lead. End Hugh McInnis kicked the extra point.

A 29-yard pass from Fuell to McInnis put Southern on Abilene's 10-yard line in the final quarter and, three plays later, fullback Bully Supple crashed over from the one. McInnis converted.

Abilene freshman quarterback Manley Benton completed a 25-yard pass to end Robert Nickerson in the final period for the Wildcats' only touchdown. Halfback Henry Colwell plunged for two points.

Southern sophomore halfback Andin McLeod circled end and sped 12 yards for a third period score and another sophomore, fullback Dan Pugh dove for two extra points. Later in the period Charley Ellzey, a 225-pound Southern center, intercepted an Abilene pass and ran 44 yards for a touchdown. Supple rushed over for two points.

Southern accepted an Abilene punt in the closing minutes of the first half and thanks to penalties, began a wrong-way drive that resulted in an Abilene safety. Quarterback Morris Meador was back to punt after Southern had been penalized 45 yards in four plays but Joe White's snap from center was high and Meador was tackled in the end zone by end Robert McLeod.

Score by Periods

Mississippi Southern	0	7	16	7	—30
Abilene	0	2	0	8	—10

Miss. Southern—Fuell 4 run (McInnis kick); McLeod 12 run (Pugh run); Ellzey 24 run (Supple run); Supple 1 run (McInnis kick).

Abilene — Safety; Nickerson 25 pass from Denton (Colwell run).

Wilt Drops In 43 Points As Warriors Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Fabled Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain made a brilliant National Basketball Assn. debut Saturday night. He scored 43 points as his Philadelphia Warriors turned back the New York Knickerbockers 118-109 at Madison Square Garden in the season opener for both teams.

Chamberlain and Co. broke up a close game with a last period spurt. The Warriors entered the stanza leading 85-77 but the Knicks rallied and closed the gap to five points. Then Chamberlain, Woody Sauldsberry, and Guy Rodgers found the range consistently to boost the margin to 14 points. Philadelphia led at the end of the first period 31-27 and at halftime 55-52. Chamberlain collected 20 of his points by the intermission.

The 7-2 former Kansas All - America added 16 in the third quarter and finished off with nine in the finale.

Chamberlain demonstrated his amazing versatility with an excellent job of rebounding and defensive play. He hauled down 28 rebounds and hit from the outside as well as from underneath.

Rodgers and Paul Arizin contributed 19 points apiece to the Warrior attack. Kenny Sears was high for the Knicks with 35.

Mich. Upsets Minnesota In Big 10 Clash

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Struggling Michigan turned loose Darrell Harper and Fred Julian on long touchdown runs in a two minute flash of old time Wolverine fire Saturday and beat Minnesota 14-6.

It was a game of deliverance for the young Wolverines, their first Big Ten victory after six straight losses dating back to midseason of 1958, and it pulled them out of the conference basement.

Harper startled the favored Gophers and a crowd of 57,354 by grabbing a high punt on the 17 and sprinting 83 yards to score with 2½ minutes gone in the third period.

Two minutes later, Julian, like Harper, a relative disappointment in two previous seasons, smashed off tackle, cut back and sped 42 yards for a touchdown. It was the first touchdown in his Michigan career.

After flubbing the scoring chances all day the Gophers cashed in with 1:14 left when Larry Johnson passed 17 yards to Tom Hall. The attempted pass for a two point conversion failed and Minnesota was finished.

By winning this 50th anniversary battle with its old enemy, Michigan held onto one of the celebrated trophies in college football, the Little Brown Jug. In doing so, Michigan pushed Minnesota into the Big Ten cellar and ran the Gophers' run of losses to 17 in their last 20 games.

Florida State Beats Richmond

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State's sputtering offense caught fire for three touchdown drives that carried the Seminoles to a 22-6 victory over Richmond Saturday night.

Freddy Pickard, FSU's elusive 165-pound right halfback, was the big noise for the Seminoles offensively. He scored two of the touchdowns and counted two extra points on a conversion run.

Richmond made a contest of it up until the closing minutes when Florida State pushed over its third touchdown on a five-yard pass from Joe Majors to end Jim Daniel that made it impossible for Richmond to catch up.

Bengal Defense Sparkles Again

By MERCER BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Louisiana State's alert defense pounced on Florida mistakes Saturday and the nation's No. 1 football team whipped the stubborn Gators 9-0 for their 18th straight victory.

The hard-charging Tiger line, led by guard Emile Fournet and tackle Bo Strange, prevented Florida from getting a punt away and set up a touchdown in the second quarter. A little later on Gaynell Kinchen intercepted a pass and halfback Wendell Harris booted his fifth straight field goal of the season.

Florida almost turned the tables in the final quarter, snapping up two LSU fumbles and riding the passing of Dick Allen and Jack Jones into the shadow of the LSU goal. But both times LSU's tenacious Tigers were able to thwart a score.

The Tigers still haven't yielded a touchdown this season. The Tigers have given up only two field goals in six games.

Florida showed a rugged defense, too, but the Tigers simply had too much punch to be contained forever. The Gators did a good job on All-America halfback Billy Cannon, holding him to 55 yards in 15 carries.

The big speedster finally came through with some clutch runs in the touchdown drive and scored from the 1.

Harris' 28-yard field goal came 27 seconds before intermission. Until Florida made its two last ditch efforts, the second half was mostly defensive knocking.

A record Florida field crowd, estimated at 46,000, saw the LSU line charge Gator punting ace Bobby Joe Green so swiftly he could not punt. End Mickey Mangham supplied the pressure and Green was tackeld by Strange and Fournet when he tried to run. LSU then moved 48 yards in nine plays.

A 19-yard pass from quarterback Warren Rabb to fullback Donnie Daye and a 10-yard burst by Cannon were the key gainers. This drive was almost killed when a Rabb-Daye handoff went astray and Florida's Dick Brantley recovered at the 4. But Florida was penalized for off sides, nullifying the fumble. Cannon scored from the 1 on the next play.

Harris' field goal capped a march from the Florida 46 after Kinchen's interception. The ball struck the right-hand upright a glancing blow, then sliced downward over the cross bar.

A Cannon fumble, recovered by Allen at the LSU 45, started the Gators goalward on Allen's passes to Perry McGriff and Dave Hudson. But this drive stalled at the 8.

Later, Darryl Jenkins fumbled and Florida's Nick Arfaras recovered at the LSU 43. An 11-yard run by Jon Macbeth and a 13-yarder by Jack Westbrook helped move the Gators to the 4 before they were thrown back.

Green's punting—he averaged 56.6 yards on five kicks—was a big factor in keeping LSU under control.

The shutout was the first suffered by a Florida team in 18 games.

Colts' Dupre Sidelined For Rest Of Year

The stocky little line-smasher from Baylor, in his fifth year as a pro, was placed on the injured reserve list in a surprise move by Coach Weeb Ewbank.

Ewbank had announced Friday that Dupre would miss Sunday's game against the Green Bay Packers because of a leg injury—a ruptured blood vessel in the thigh. The Colt veteran said he felt a twinge of pain while driving his automobile last Tuesday, then noticed a swelling of the leg.

Dupre averaged 4.2 yards in 95 carries last season, lugging the ball more often than anyone else except fullback Alan Ameche. He seemed a bit off form in his first three games this year but looked sharp in last week's victory over the Chicago Bears.

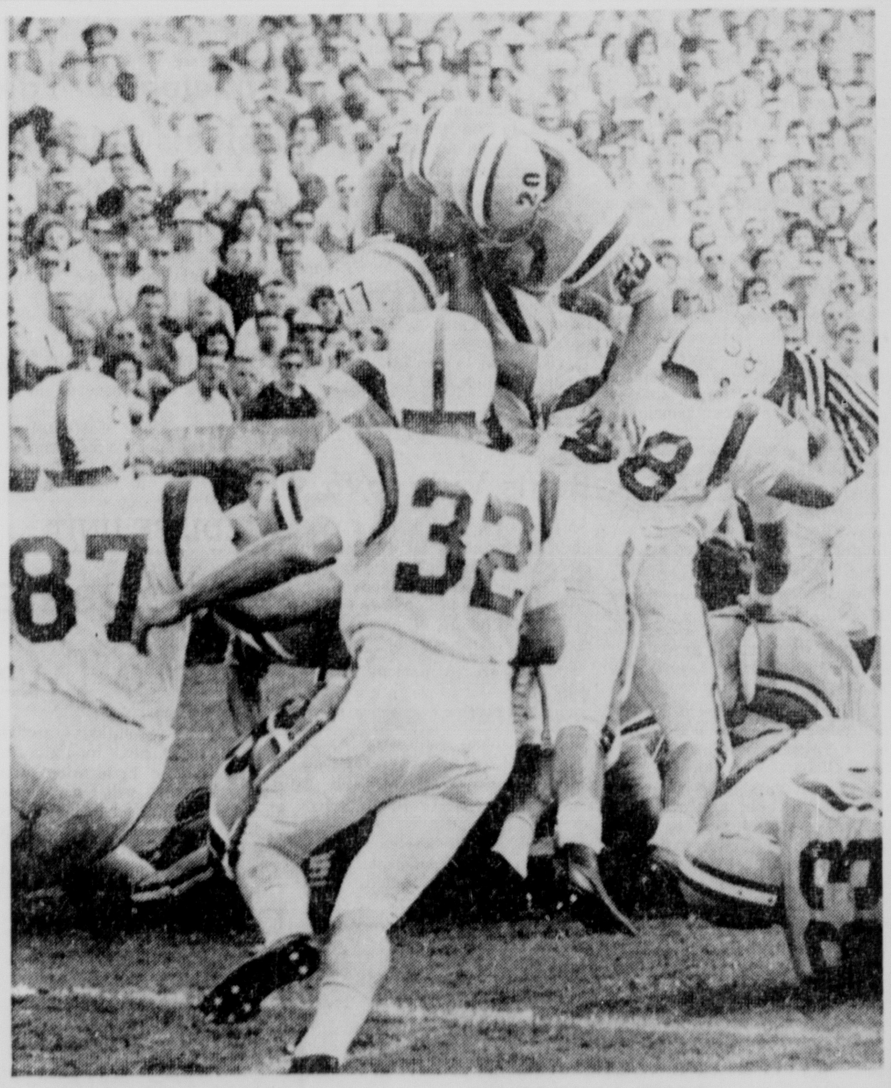

To plug the vacancy on the roster, Ewbank plucked halfback Mike Sommer from the league discard pile. The same size as Dupre, 5-11 and 190 pounds, Sommer played with the Washington Redskins in two games last season, was cut, then failed to make the grade at offensive halfback with them again this year.

"The doctors tell us L. G. must miss the next three games definitely and can't assure us he would be able to return even then," said Ewbank.

"We feel it is not only fairer to the club but to L. G. himself to let him rest out the season and run no risk of hurting himself again."

Ewbank tapped Alex Hawkins, a product of South Carolina, to start against the Packers. He was picked up by the Colts this year after failing to gain a berth on the Green Bay squad.

Lewis, another first-year man from Houston, is expected to share the halfback role with Hawkins, with Sommer taking Hawkins' spot on the punt and kickoff return units.

CANNON SHOOTS OVER THE TOP— LSU's Billy Cannon (20) climbs over a swarm of Florida players as he attempts to score from the three-yard line in yesterday's game at Gainesville, Fla. He managed two yards on the play. Florida players in on the tackle are Jimmy Givens (87), Danny Royal (77), Bob Wehking (58) and Doug Partin (32). No. 83 (right) is LSU end Scotty McClain. LOOKS 'EM OVER

Homecoming

Homecoming is a word Mr. Webster's adherents are going to have to redefine one of these days.

It's a hyphenated word, home-coming, and, as presently described, simply means going home, or homeward, or such.

But around this time of year homecoming (newspapers and schools have abandoned the hyphen) to prep and college student bodies means football, parades, pagentry, as well as renewing old friendships, or once more strolling hallowed halls to recall school days of another year.

Northeast Louisiana State holds another homecoming here next Saturday. But, in a way, this isn't just another homecoming, it's really bigger than that as this school that opened its doors as a junior college in 1931 has become of age as a senior state college with a steadily growing enrollment.

So, on the occasion of the Northeast-Southwestern Louisiana Institute football game here Saturday afternoon, former Northeast students, including those of the school under its earlier names, are rallying for a most impressive homecoming weekend.

Launching activities will be a Friday evening picnic at Brown Field, followed by a pep rally and bonfire on the Tribe's practice field.

Saturday's full slate starts with a parade through the business districts of West Monroe, beginning at 9:45 a.m. when the pagent starts over the Louisville avenue bridge to West Monroe and returns to enter the Monroe business area via the old traffic bridge.

The NLSC Alumni Association holds its annual business meeting at 11 a.m. in the Fine Arts building on the campus; the alumni luncheon begins at noon (reservations must be made by tomorrow); and pregame activities begin at 1:45 p.m. at Brown Field.

Kickoff for the ball game is 2 p.m.; presentation of the queen and homecoming court takes place at halftime; open house will be held at the Student Center from 5 to 6 p.m.; and the homecoming dance follows at the Student Center at 9 p.m. (Dance admissions by student ID cards and alumni badges).

Another homecoming will be in progress at the University of Arkansas at the same time, and the three living members of the Razorbacks only undefeated football team will be honored guests during the football game with Texas A. and M. The three old Porkers of 1909 fame, the year Arkansas produced its all-winner, are Steve Creekmore Sr., Fort Smith; Phil C. Huntly, Malvern; and Thomas E. Ellington, Booneville.

Odds And Ends

Waterfowl hunters—and the beagle men— will appreciate the display of woodcarvings by W. E. "Doc" Lawson in the show window of a downtown sporting goods store. . . .The mallards, pintails and Canada geese in flight over miniature marsh are so uniformly precise you'd think they were cast from a mold. . . .The beagle race with the pack of little hounds in full cry after a rabbit is attractive. . .If you're not a hunter you'll probably appreciate the carvings as a work of art. . . .A good way to learn something about big game rifles is listening to a debate of same by Otto Williams and Paul "Buddy" Moore. . . .Their tastes in big caliber rifles may differ to the delight of their audience, but they know their shootin' goods just the same. . . .Newest addition to our sports staff is Robert Dewayne Calhoun. . . .He's a week old today. . . .Dad is Sportswriter Jim Calhoun (he pulled through the week okay)...Mother Sue okay, too. . . .From the looks of the shad haul in Bayou DeSiard after that third dose of rotenone, we wonder if another shot might not be in order even though it was figured this application should create the balance of aquatic life more to the liking of sport fishing.

DAVIS PAVES WAY

Syracuse Routs W. Virginia, 44-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI)—Sophomore halfback Ernie Davis scored touchdowns on 57 and 29-yard runs from scrimmage Saturday a brilliant all-around performance that helped undefeated Syracuse crush West Virginia, 44-0.

Davis' blocking and defensive play also was outstanding as Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's Orangemen scored their fifth straight victory of the season and thwarted the Mountaineers' comeback hopes. West Virginia had upset Pittsburgh, 23-15, last week.

After Syracuse's powerhouse offense had rolled to a 37-0 lead at the end of the third quarter, Schwartzwalder began pouring in third and fourth stringers to finish the contest. Some 35,000 fans saw the game.

Sharing scoring honors with Davis was Ger Schwedes, senior halfback who tallied twice on short plunges.

The crunching Syracuse attack began as soon as the Orange got the ball. Sparked by a 26-yard run by Art Baker of Erie, Pa., Syracuse marched 73 yards in 10 plays with Schwedes scoring from the two.

En route to a 30-0 first half edge, the Orange gained a total of 324 yards. At the same time West Virginia was held to 46.

A 59-yard pass play from halfback Mark Weber and end Jerry Skonieczki set up another touchdown which Schwedes eventually got from the four. A 35-yard field goal by Bob Yates and an 18-yard scoring pass from Weber to Ken Erickson with seconds to go completed the first - half slaughter.

West Virginia advanced to the 23 and to the 19 in the second half but could not score.

Baylor Takes 13-0 Triumph Over Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Baylor's Bears blunted the Texas A&M offense with fumble recoveries and pass interceptions and quarterback Bobby Ply stabbed the Aggies with sharp running and passing for a 13-0 Southwest Conference football victory Saturday.

Baylor had to fight numerous penalties, one of which called back a long touchdown run by Tommy Minter.

Ply hit Sonny Davis for 15 yards with one touchdown pass and sent Jim Evans crashing into the end zone from the 2 for the other score.

A&M started strong, twice driving deep into Baylor territory in the first period. But fumbles by Gordon LeBoeuf stopped the drives. LeBoeuf lost one on the Baylor 24 and another on the 5.

In the third period, the Aggies got to the Baylor 17 and Jim Evans intercepted a pass from Charley Milstead.

Baylor's touchdown drives carried 65 yards in 12 plays and 49 yards in six plays. That made the Bears 1-1 in conference play and eliminated the Aggies with an 0-2 mark.

Duke Downs N. C. State On Field Goal

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI)—Burly guard Arthur (Jug) Browning kicked a 23-yard field goal to give Duke a 17-15 victory over North Carolina State Saturday in a mud battle witnessed by 14,000 fans.

Browning's kick came after speedy sophomore halfback Jack Wilson had put the Blue Devils in front with a 10 - yard scoring dash and a 65-yard return over the goal with an intercepted pass.

But the Blue Devils had to stave off a determined rally by fired-up State in the last period that brought a touchdown and had the Duke secondary reeling from passes at the end.

A 38 - yard field goal attempt by Ron Rojcicki with four seconds remaining fell short after the Wolfpact quarterback had passed to Al Taylor on the Duke 28.

State took the lead in the first period on a 55-yard drive climaxed by Wojcicki's sneak from two yards out on the rain - washed field.

But Duke, with quarterback George Harris crossing defenders with bootleg plays and keeps through tackle, tied the score on Wilson's dash off left end. Browning made the first of two conversions.

It was Wilson who moments later gave Duke the lead when he picked off a Wojcicki pass in the flat at the State 35 and ran down the right sidelines to score.

Rain fell during almost all of the first half and a strong wind whipped across the muddy field. The Wolfpack was forced to take to the air when the Duke line got stingy after the first State score.

Undefeated Yale Defeats Colgate Easily, 21 To 0

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A 47-yard sprint by Capt. Rich Winkler sparked Yale's astonishing football team to an easy 21-0 triumph over Colgate in the mud-splashed Bowl Saturday. The shutout victory enabled the unbeaten Bulldogs (5-0) to remain the nation's only unscored on major team.

Off to a slow start amid a swirl of fumbles, Yale scored a touchdown in each of the final three periods. A year ago, virtually the same line-up won only 2 of 9 games.

The defeat was Colgate's eleventh straight, five this season.

WILDLIFE UNIT

Sportsmen To Meet Here Tuesday Night

Proposed resolutions to be brought up at next month's fifth district Wildlife Federation meeting in Columbia will be discussed at Tuesday night's regular monthly meeting of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit.

The local unit's meeting will begin at 7:30 in the Cameo Room at the Virginia Hotel.

A. S. "Bud" Tidwell, local unit spokesman, said all resolutions pertaining to conservation—seasons, bag limits, etc.— would be discussed at the Tuesday night meeting.

Tidwell said all sportsmen who have any suggestion concerning the resolutions are urged to be present.

Resolutions adopted at the Fifth District meeting at Columbia Nov. 15 will be presented at the state meeting in February.

Also on the Tuesday night program is a final report on the Bayou DeSiard shad eradication project by project chairman J. B. Thoman.

All hunters with remarks or tall tales on the dove and squirrel seasons are invited to attend.

Door prizes will be awarded and a film will be shown.

Ouachita 'B' To Meet El Dorado Monday Night

The Ouachita "B" team will play El Dorado, Arkansas' unbeaten junior varsity at 7 o'clock Monday night at Ouachita Stadium, Ouachita coach Bob Ellen has announced.

Ouachita's "B" teamers have won four and lost two during the season.

Miss. State Whips Stubborn Memphis

The 173-pound Hill scored two touchdowns with his tricky running and set the third.

The favored Mississippians scored three times in the first quarter and seemed well on their way to a rout before 16,000 partism fans.

Memphis State recovered in the second period and outplayed the Maroons most of the second half.

Both teams showed rugged play and each was able to open holes at key offensive moments.

The visitors reached their peak in the fourth quarter, with quarterback Jack Parker tossing a 39-yard touchdown pass to halfback Jerry Reese and booting a 33-yard field goal.

The Maroons scored first on a three yard run by fullback Walter Flowers after a 41-yard sprint by Hill. Tackle Walter Suggs added the first of four conversions.

Hill sprinted 17 yards for the second touchdown to cap a 43-yard march and end Ned Brooks took a 37-yard pass from sub quarterback John Correro for the third.

The Maroons added the cliching touchdown on a 10-yard run by Hill late in the fourth period.

Memphis State drove 73 yards with the second half kickoff to get its first touchdown on a one-yard push by quarterback Nickey Buoni. Kaplan got the second on a one-yard smash as the fourth period opened, and Carter finished the scoring with his field goal and a pass to Reese.

Kaplan ran the only Tiger conversion.

Hill was the Maroons top offensive star with 107 yards on 10 running plays and 35 yards on passes. He completed 3 of 6.

Halfback Willie Daniel carried 12 times for 62 yards while quarterback Billy Tohill completed four of four passes for 42 yards.

Kaplan was the top Memphis State ground gainer with 90 yards on 19 attempts.

Memphis State led 22 to 8 in first downs, but trailed 290 to 228 in rushing yardage and 114 to 92 in passing yardage.

The visitors lost two golden scoring chances in the second quarter. They drove 65 for a first down on the Maroon two, only to lose the ball on downs at the five. On their next series, they drove from their 39 to the Maroon 10, only to have a pass intercepted at the Maroon three.

AS MILWAUKEE PILOT

Dressen Plans To Crack Whip

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charley Dressen, the new Milwaukee manager, made it plain Saturday that he would "lay down the rules" to the Braves and would expect them to obey.

The 61-year-old veteran field boss who piloted Brooklyn to two National League championships was introduced at a news conference after signing a two - year contract Friday to succeed Fred Haney as manager of the Braves. Haney resigned three weeks ago.

The soft-spoken, rugged-appearing Dressen, in answer to a question as to how he planned to handle a team that the front office has admitted was difficult at times to manage, said emphatically that "from now on the Braves are playing for me."

"At spring training," he said, "I plan to tell the players 'I'm taking over now. I'm Charley Dressen, you are playing for me. I will lay down the rules and I will expect the players to obey them.'"

Dressen said that with the addition of one or two good, young players it wouldn't take much to get together a club that will win a few more games and bring Milwaukee another National League pennant.

He said the most pressing need appeared to be for someone to plug the hole at second base and for possibly another good relief hurler. It's possible the men can be found in the Braves' organization, he added.

"With our solid pitching staff and one or two younger men we should be able to win a few more games," he said.

Dressen said that he was not sure how much good Red Schoendienst, veteran second baseman who is recovering from tuberculosis, would be to the club. Therefore, he said, he was trying to make a deal for an infielder. He did not say who he was seeking.

Dressen said he did not insist on a two-year contract with Milwaukee, but that it was offered to him. He also said that he was contacted by Milwaukee officials about the job "for the first time last Thursday."

John McHale, Braves general manager, said the club had offered Dressen a two-year contract "because we felt we were getting an outstanding man and wanted to have him with us for some time."

Sharp's Hair At Stake At B&B Monday

Something's got to come off at B&B Arena Monday night.

No, the staid old wrestling arena hasn't turned to burlesque. The masked Black Panther and long-haired Mickey Sharp are merely battling in a "grudge" match with the Panther's mask and Sharp's hair at stake.

If Sharp wins the bout, off will come the Panther's mask. If the Panther is victorious, Sharp gets sheared. And there'll be a barber at ringside to see the job's done right.

This little battle developed from last week's tag match when Sharp became angry at partner Panther and refused to tag him. So the Panther went to his dressing room, leaving Sharp to fend for himself. This didn't help matters any and the two boys decided to have it out Monday night.

Their battle will have a 90-minute limit with two falls to win. Promoter August Baumgartner says there must be a winner and, besides getting "his pound of flesh" (the mask or hair), the victor gets all the money.

Also on tap is a special event, this one matching Paul Carpentier of Montreal, Canada, becoming a local favorite, and Bill Lawley, a Scotchman complete with kilts. The two will tangle for 45 minutes or less with two falls to win.

Newcomer Ken Cooper meets old-timer Jack Larue in the night's first match.

BRUNEAU REMOVED — Emile Bruneau, secretary of the Louisiana State Athletic Commission, claims he was fired by Gov. Earl K. Long late last week for political reasons, namely supporting Jimmie Davis for governor. Bruneau had been a commission member since Long's 1948-1952 term. (AP Wirephoto)

Tars Outlast Wake Forest For 21-19 Win

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) Bob Shupin, a 5-8, 206-pound guard calmly booted three perfect extra points Saturday to give North Carolina a 21-19 victory over stubborn Wake Forest.

A near capacity crowd of 19,000 saw the Tar Heel line block one Wake Forest extra point try. Norman Snead's run for a two-pointer failed following a second touchdown.

A pass interception by quarterback Jack Cummings and a stiffening of the Tar Heel line shut out two other Wake Forest scoring threats.

Big fullback Don Klochak sparked the Tar Heel attack, scoring twice on plunges of two and five yards. Senior halfback Wade Smith went 37 yards for the third Tar Heel score.

Fullback Neil McLean scored all of the Deacons' points with three touchdowns and Wake Forest's only successful conversion.

North Carolina scored the first time it got the ball and was never headed after that.

The Deacons trailed 14 - 6 after the first period with North Carolina turning a Wake Forest fumble into a second touchdown just before the period ended. Cummunings recovered on the Wake Forest 43. Fullback Bob Elliott went six yards to the 37 and Smith the rest of the way.

North Carolina got what proved to be the winning score in the third period, marching 60 yards in 12 plays with Klochak going the final five yards.

Score by Periods

North Carolina	14	0	7	0	—21
Wake Forest	6	6	0	7	—19

Scoring Summary

North Carolina — Klochak 2 plunge (Shupin kick); Wade Smith 37 run (Shupin kick); Klochak 5 run (Shupin kick).

Wake Forest — McLean 1 plunge (kick failed); McLean 4 plunge (run failed); McLean 5 run (McLean kick).

Sooners Take Narrow Nod Over Kansas

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Sooners preserved their kingpin role in the Big Eight Conference with a narrow 7-6 victory over the stubborn Kansas Jayhawks before 50,000 fans at Owen Stadium Saturday.

The Sooners' triumph enabled them to vault into the conference lead with a 3-0 record and it was their 74th league game without defeat.

Oklahoma held the upper hand after quarterback Bobby Boyd personally took command of the Sooner offense with 7 minutes remaining in the second quarter. He returned a punt 44 yards to the Kansas 36 and seven plays later Boyd plunged over for a touchdown going about a half-foot on third down. Boyd also ripped off gains of 13 and 11 yards in the drive.

Center Jim Davis converted and the point proved decisive in Coach Bud Wilkinson's bid for a 12th straight championship.

Kansas was never able to muster a sustained drive but repeatedly kept Oklahoma on its toes with good punting and finally managed a touchdown on a breakaway play with 3:12 left in the third quarter. Senior reserve halfback Dave Harris shot through the right side, cut into the open racing 60 yards down the sidelines to score.

Oklahoma's defensive halfback Dick Carpenter was Harris' only obstacle at the 20 but the Jayhawker faked him, sped into the end zone untouched.

Kansas gambled on a pass in its conversion attempt but quarterback Lee Flachsbarth's toss was intercepted by quarterback Bobby Cornell.

IN CUBA

Little Leaguers Battle Illiteracy

By DICK VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — Mako Perez, the man who keeps the ball rolling in the Cuban Little League, wants to challenge illiteracy in Latin America with a new weapon—the baseball bat.

Perez, 34-year-old ex - amateur baseball player who's not much bigger than the Little League players, has sent a report to U.S. Pony League directors outlining his ideas for a hemispheric baseball program that would emphasize "school first, baseball afterward."

"The Cubanitos (Cuban Little League) have been successful with that idea," Perez said in an interview, "and perhaps the good things we have done here can be repeated throughout Latin America."

Perez explained that Cuban boys between 9 and 13 who want to join the Cubanitos must have good attendance records at school plus good grades before they are accepted and while they are playing.

The Cubanitos program has stimulated attendance, especially in rural areas where "supervision has not been too exacting," he said. "The boys know that to play baseball, they have to go to school regularly and get good grades."

Since beginning in 1956 with 9 leagues, the Cubanitos have grown into an islandwide operation of 19 leagues, 75 teams and 2,300 players. Perez is the program's coordinator. The league's chief executive is Clemente Inclan, president of Havana University.

"Our discipline is strict," Perez continued. "At the first signs that baseball is interfering with a boy's schoolwork, he is suspended. For example, the boy who was voted most valuable player in 1958 was dropped this year because of poor grades."

Perez said Mexico, Venezuela, Panama and Puerto Rico, which now have Little League ball, could form the nucleus of a Latin American Federation.

In other countries, where baseball holds little attraction for the people, Perez said he thought interest could be aroused. He said he took a trip to promote Little Leagues in Spain, where baseball did not rank among the popular sports, and was surprised by the enthusiastic reception he got. A Little League program is now in operation there.

Eventually, Perez said, he would like to see an expanded World Series of Little League baseball, with the champions of the U.S., Latin America and Europe playing for the title.

"But for now," he added, "my only interest is Latin America."

Vandy Romps Past Virginia Behind Moore

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) Halfback Tom Moore scored three touchdowns, romping 65 yards through the mud for one of them to lead Vanderbilt to an easy 33-0 victory over outmanned Virginia Saturday.

The Moore - powered Commodores handed the Cavaliers their 14th straight drubbing—and the sixth this year—before a slim homecoming audience of 11,000. Only a few stayed on for a 19-point Vanderbilt splurge in the final period.

Moore, a senior, scored once on a 15 - yard burst over tackle and got another touchdown on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Russ Mordis.

Fullback Jim Burton scored another touchdown on a short fourth period plunge. The touchdown came after a frustrating spate of penalties.

Substitute quartedback Terry Black passed 16 yards to end Bob Mullen for the final Commodore touchdown in the last three minutes of play.

But it was Moore's running through the slippery mire of Scott Stadium that dominated the game and preserved Coach Art Guepes' perfect record over Virginia, where he coached some of the greatest Cavalier teams a decade ago. Guepe has never lost to Virginia.

In his long scoring run, the 211-pound Moore — bidding for all-star honors in his senior season— cut aund leftend and flashed down the sidelines, his patch cleared by a wall of blockers. The jaunt gave Moore a total of 119 yards rushing for the day.

LOOKS 'EM OVER

Homecoming

Homecoming is a word Mr. Webster's adherents are going to have to redefine one of these days.

It's a hyphenated word, home-coming, and, as presently described, simply means going home, or homeward, or such.

But around this time of year homecoming (newspapers and schools have abandoned the hyphen) to prep and college student bodies means football, parades, pagentry, as well as renewing old friendships, or once more strolling hallowed halls to recall school days of another year.

Northeast Louisiana State holds another homecoming here next Saturday. But, in a way, this isn't just another homecoming, it's really bigger than that as this school that opened its doors as a junior college in 1931 has become of age as a senior state college with a steadily growing enrollment.

So, on the occasion of the Northeast-Southwestern Louisiana Institute football game here Saturday afternoon, former Northeast students, including those of the school under its earlier names, are rallying for a most impressive homecoming weekend.

Launching activities will be a Friday evening picnic at Brown Field, followed by a pep rally and bonfire on the Tribe's practice field.

Saturday's full slate starts with a parade through the business districts of West Monroe, beginning at 9:45 a.m. when the pagent starts over the Louisville avenue bridge to West Monroe and returns to enter the Monroe business area via the old traffic bridge.

The NLSC Alumni Association holds its annual business meeting at 11 a.m. in the Fine Arts building on the campus; the alumni luncheon begins at noon (reservations must be made by tomorrow); and pregame activities begin at 1:45 p.m. at Brown Field.

Kickoff for the ball game is 2 p.m.; presentation of the queen and homecoming court takes place at halftime; open house will be held at the Student Center from 5 to 6 p.m.; and the homecoming dance follows at the Student Center at 9 p.m. (Dance admissions by student ID cards and alumni badges).

Another homecoming will be in progress at the University of Arkansas at the same time, and the three living members of the Razorbacks only undefeated football team will be honored guests during the football game with Texas A. and M. The three old Porkers of 1909 fame, the year Arkansas produced its all-winner, are Steve Creekmore Sr., Fort Smith; Phil C. Huntly, Malvern; and Thomas E. Ellington, Booneville.

Waterfowl hunters—and the beagle men— will appreciate the display of woodcarvings by W. E. "Doc" Lawson in the show window of a downtown sporting goods store. . . .The mallards, pintails and Canada geese in flight over miniature marsh are so uniformly precise you'd think they were cast from a mold. . . .The beagle race with the pack of little hounds in full cry after a rabbit is attractive. . .If you're not a hunter you'll probably appreciate the carvings as a work of art. . . .A good way to learn something about big game rifles is listening to a debate of same by Otto Williams and Paul "Buddy" Moore. . . .Their tastes in big caliber rifles may differ to the delight of their audience, but they know their shootin' goods just the same. . . .Newest addition to our sports staff is Robert Dewayne Calhoun. . . .He's a week old today. . . .Dad is Sportswriter Jim Calhoun (he pulled through the week okay)...Mother Sue okay, too. . . .From the looks of the shad haul in Bayou DeSiard after that third dose of rotenone, we wonder if another shot might not be in order even though it was figured this application should create the balance of aquatic life more to the liking of sport fishing.

DAVIS PAVES WAY

Syracuse Routs W. Virginia, 44-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI)—Sophomore halfback Ernie Davis scored touchdowns on 57 and 29-yard runs from scrimmage Saturday a brilliant all-around performance that helped undefeated Syracuse crush West Virginia, 44-0.

Davis' blocking and defensive play also was outstanding as Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's Orangemen scored their fifth straight victory of the season and thwarted the Mountaineers' comeback hopes. West Virginia had upset Pittsburgh, 23-15, last week.

After Syracuse's powerhouse offense had rolled to a 37-0 lead at the end of the third quarter, Schwartzwalder began pouring in third and fourth stringers to finish the contest. Some 35,000 fans saw the game.

Sharing scoring honors with Davis was Ger Schwedes, senior halfback who tallied twice on short plunges.

The crunching Syracuse attack began as soon as the Orange got the ball. Sparked by a 26-yard run by Art Baker of Erie, Pa., Syracuse marched 73 yards in 10 plays with Schwedes scoring from the two.

En route to a 30-0 first half edge, the Orange gained a total of 324 yards. At the same time West Virginia was held to 46.

A 59-yard pass play from halfback Mark Weber and end Jerry Skonieczki set up another touchdown which Schwedes eventually got from the four. A 35-yard field goal by Bob Yates and an 18-yard scoring pass from Weber to Ken Erickson with seconds to go completed the first - half slaughter.

West Virginia advanced to the 23 and to the 19 in the second half but could not score.

Baylor Takes 13-0 Triumph Over Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Baylor's Bears blunted the Texas A&M offense with fumble recoveries and pass interceptions and quarterback Bobby Ply stabbed the Aggies with sharp running and passing for a 13-0 Southwest Conference football victory Saturday.

Baylor had to fight numerous penalties, one of which called back a long touchdown run by Tommy Minter.

Ply hit Sonny Davis for 15 yards with one touchdown pass and sent Jim Evans crashing into the end zone from the 2 for the other score.

A&M started strong, twice driving deep into Baylor territory in the first period. But fumbles by Gordon LeBoeuf stopped the drives. LeBoeuf lost one on the Baylor 24 and another on the 5.

In the third period, the Aggies got to the Baylor 17 and Jim Evans intercepted a pass from Charley Milstead.

Baylor's touchdown drives carried 65 yards in 12 plays and 49 yards in six plays. That made the Bears 1-1 in conference play and eliminated the Aggies with an 0-2 mark.

Duke Downs N. C. State On Field Goal

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI)—Burly guard Arthur (Jug) Browning kicked a 23-yard field goal to give Duke a 17-15 victory over North Carolina State Saturday in a mud battle witnessed by 14,000 fans.

Browning's kick came after speedy sophomore halfback Jack Wilson had put the Blue Devils in front with a 10 - yard scoring dash and a 65-yard return over the goal with an intercepted pass.

But the Blue Devils had to stave off a determined rally by fired-up State in the last period that brought a touchdown and had the Duke secondary reeling from passes at the end.

A 38 - yard field goal attempt by Ron Rojcicki with four seconds remaining fell short after the Wolfpact quarterback had passed to Al Taylor on the Duke 28.

State took the lead in the first period on a 55-yard drive climaxed by Wojcicki's sneak from two yards out on the rain - washed field.

But Duke, with quarterback George Harris crossing defenders with bootleg plays and keeps through tackle, tied the score on Wilson's dash off left end. Browning made the first of two conversions.

It was Wilson who moments later gave Duke the lead when he picked off a Wojcicki pass in the flat at the State 35 and ran down the right sidelines to score.

Rain fell during almost all of the first half and a strong wind whipped across the muddy field. The Wolfpack was forced to take to the air when the Duke line got stingy after the first State score.

Undefeated Yale Defeats Colgate Easily, 21 To 0

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A 47-yard sprint by Capt. Rich Winkler sparked Yale's astonishing football team to an easy 21-0 triumph over Colgate in the mud-splashed Bowl Saturday. The shutout victory enabled the unbeaten Bulldogs (5-0) to remain the nation's only unscored on major team.

Off to a slow start amid a swirl of fumbles, Yale scored a touchdown in each of the final three periods. A year ago, virtually the same line-up won only 2 of 9 games.

The defeat was Colgate's eleventh straight, five this season.

WILDLIFE UNIT

Sportsmen To Meet Here Tuesday Night

Proposed resolutions to be brought up at next month's fifth district Wildlife Federation meeting in Columbia will be discussed at Tuesday night's regular monthly meeting of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit.

The local unit's meeting will begin at 7:30 in the Cameo Room at the Virginia Hotel.

A. S. "Bud" Tidwell, local unit spokesman, said all resolutions pertaining to conservation—seasons, bag limits, etc.— would be discussed at the Tuesday night meeting.

Tidwell said all sportsmen who have any suggestion concerning the resolutions are urged to be present.

Resolutions adopted at the Fifth District meeting at Columbia Nov. 15 will be presented at the state meeting in February.

Also on the Tuesday night program is a final report on the Bayou DeSiard shad eradication project by project chairman J. B. Thoman.

All hunters with remarks or tall tales on the dove and squirrel seasons are invited to attend.

Door prizes will be awarded and a film will be shown.

Ouachita 'B' To Meet El Dorado Monday Night

The Ouachita "B" team will play El Dorado, Arkansas' unbeaten junior varsity at 7 o'clock Monday night at Ouachita Stadium, Ouachita coach Bob Ellen has announced.

Ouachita's "B" teamers have won four and lost two during the season.

Miss. State Whips Stubborn Memphis

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP)—Sophomore quarterback Billy Hill engineered three touchdowns Saturday to spark Mississippi State's 28-23 homecoming victory over stubborn Memphis State.

The 173-pound Hill scored two touchdowns with his tricky running and set the third.

The favored Mississippians scored three times in the first quarter and seemed well on their way to a rout before 16,000 partism fans.

Memphis State recovered in the second period and outplayed the Maroons most of the second half.

Both teams showed rugged play and each was able to open holes at key offensive moments.

The visitors reached their peak in the fourth quarter, with quarterback Jack Parker tossing a 39-yard touchdown pass to halfback Jerry Reese and booting a 33-yard field goal.

The Maroons scored first on a three yard run by fullback Walter Flowers after a 41-yard sprint by Hill. Tackle Walter Suggs added the first of four conversions.

Hill sprinted 17 yards for the second touchdown to cap a 43-yard march and end Ned Brooks took a 37-yard pass from sub quarterback John Correro for the third.

The Maroons added the cliching touchdown on a 10-yard run by Hill late in the fourth period.

Memphis State drove 73 yards with the second half kickoff to get its first touchdown on a one-yard push by quarterback Nickey Buoni. Kaplan got the second on a one-yard smash as the fourth period opened, and Carter finished the scoring with his field goal and a pass to Reese.

Kaplan ran the only Tiger conversion.

Hill was the Maroons top offensive star with 107 yards on 10 running plays and 35 yards on passes. He completed 3 of 6.

Halfback Willie Daniel carried 12 times for 62 yards while quarterback Billy Tohill completed four of four passes for 42 yards.

Kaplan was the top Memphis State ground gainer with 90 yards on 19 attempts.

Memphis State led 22 to 8 in first downs, but trailed 290 to 228 in rushing yardage and 114 to 92 in passing yardage.

The visitors lost two golden scoring chances in the second quarter. They drove 65 for a first down on the Maroon two, only to lose the ball on downs at the five. On their next series, they drove from their 39 to the Maroon 10, only to have a pass intercepted at the Maroon three.

AS MILWAUKEE PILOT

Dressen Plans To Crack Whip

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charley Dressen, the new Milwaukee manager, made it plain Saturday that he would "lay down the rules" to the Braves and would expect them to obey.

The 61-year-old veteran field boss who piloted Brooklyn to two National League championships was introduced at a news conference after signing a two - year contract Friday to succeed Fred Haney as manager of the Braves. Haney resigned three weeks ago.

The soft-spoken, rugged-appearing Dressen, in answer to a question as to how he planned to handle a team that the front office has admitted was difficult at times to manage, said emphatically that "from now on the Braves are playing for me."

"At spring training," he said, "I plan to tell the players 'I'm taking over now. I'm Charley Dressen, you are playing for me. I will lay down the rules and I will expect the players to obey them.'"

Dressen said that with the addition of one or two good, young players it wouldn't take much to get together a club that will win a few more games and bring Milwaukee another National League pennant.

He said the most pressing need appeared to be for someone to plug the hole at second base and for possibly another good relief hurler. It's possible the men can be found in the Braves' organization, he added.

"With our solid pitching staff and one or two younger men we should be able to win a few more games," he said.

Dressen said that he was not sure how much good Red Schoendienst, veteran second baseman who is recovering from tuberculosis, would be to the club. Therefore, he said, he was trying to make a deal for an infielder. He did not say who he was seeking.

Dressen said he did not insist on a two-year contract with Milwaukee, but that it was offered to him. He also said that he was contacted by Milwaukee officials about the job "for the first time last Thursday."

John McHale, Braves general manager, said the club had offered Dressen a two-year contract "because we felt we were getting an outstanding man and wanted to have him with us for some time."

Sharp's Hair At Stake At B&B Monday

Something's got to come off at B&B Arena Monday night.

No, the staid old wrestling arena hasn't turned to burlesque. The masked Black Panther and long-haired Mickey Sharp are merely battling in a "grudge" match with the Panther's mask and Sharp's hair at stake.

If Sharp wins the bout, off will come the Panther's mask. If the Panther is victorious, Sharp gets sheared. And there'll be a barber at ringside to see the job's done right.

This little battle developed from last week's tag match when Sharp became angry at partner Panther and refused to tag him. So the Panther went to his dressing room, leaving Sharp to fend for himself. This didn't help matters any and the two boys decided to have it out Monday night.

Their battle will have a 90-minute limit with two falls to win. Promoter August Baumgartner says there must be a winner and, besides getting "his pound of flesh" (the mask or hair), the victor gets all the money.

Also on tap is a special event, this one matching Paul Carpentier of Montreal, Canada, becoming a local favorite, and Bill Lawley, a Scotchman complete with kilts. The two will tangle for 45 minutes or less with two falls to win.

Newcomer Ken Cooper meets old-timer Jack Larue in the night's first match.

BRUNEAU REMOVED — Emile Bruneau, secretary of the Louisiana State Athletic Commission, claims he was fired by Gov. Earl K. Long late last week for political reasons, namely supporting Jimmie Davis for governor. Bruneau had been a commission member since Long's 1948-1952 term. (AP Wirephoto)

Tars Outlast Wake Forest For 21-19 Win

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) Bob Shupin, a 5-8, 206-pound guard calmly booted three perfect extra points Saturday to give North Carolina a 21-19 victory over stubborn Wake Forest.

A near capacity crowd of 19,000 saw the Tar Heel line block one Wake Forest extra point try. Norman Snead's run for a two-pointer failed following a second touchdown.

A pass interception by quarterback Jack Cummings and a stiffening of the Tar Heel line shut out two other Wake Forest scoring threats.

Big fullback Don Klochak sparked the Tar Heel attack, scoring twice on plunges of two and five yards. Senior halfback Wade Smith went 37 yards for the third Tar Heel score.

Fullback Neil McLean scored all of the Deacons' points with three touchdowns and Wake Forest's only successful conversion.

North Carolina scored the first time it got the ball and was never headed after that.

The Deacons trailed 14 - 6 after the first period with North Carolina turning a Wake Forest fumble into a second touchdown just before the period ended. Cummunings recovered on the Wake Forest 43. Fullback Bob Elliott went six yards to the 37 and Smith the rest of the way.

North Carolina got what proved to be the winning score in the third period, marching 60 yards in 12 plays with Klochak going the final five yards.

Score by Periods

North Carolina	14	0	7	0	—21
Wake Forest	6	6	0	7	—19

Scoring Summary

North Carolina — Klochak 2 plunge (Shupin kick); Wade Smith 37 run (Shupin kick); Klochak 5 run (Shupin kick).

Wake Forest — McLean 1 plunge (kick failed); McLean 4 plunge (run failed); McLean 5 run (McLean kick).

Sooners Take Narrow Nod Over Kansas

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Sooners preserved their kingpin role in the Big Eight Conference with a narrow 7-6 victory over the stubborn Kansas Jayhawks before 50,000 fans at Owen Stadium Saturday.

The Sooners' triumph enabled them to vault into the conference lead with a 3-0 record and it was their 74th league game without defeat.

Oklahoma held the upper hand after quarterback Bobby Boyd personally took command of the Sooner offense with 7 minutes remaining in the second quarter. He returned a punt 44 yards to the Kansas 36 and seven plays later Boyd plunged over for a touchdown going about a half-foot on third down. Boyd also ripped off gains of 13 and 11 yards in the drive.

Center Jim Davis converted and the point proved decisive in Coach Bud Wilkinson's bid for a 12th straight championship.

Kansas was never able to muster a sustained drive but repeatedly kept Oklahoma on its toes with good punting and finally managed a touchdown on a breakaway play with 3:12 left in the third quarter. Senior reserve halfback Dave Harris shot through the right side, cut into the open racing 60 yards down the sidelines to score.

Oklahoma's defensive halfback Dick Carpenter was Harris' only obstacle at the 20 but the Jayhawker faked him, sped into the end zone untouched.

Kansas gambled on a pass in its conversion attempt but quarterback Lee Flachsbarth's toss was intercepted by quarterback Bobby Cornell.

IN CUBA

Little Leaguers Battle Illiteracy

By DICK VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — Mako Perez, the man who keeps the ball rolling in the Cuban Little League, wants to challenge illiteracy in Latin America with a new weapon—the baseball bat.

Perez, 34-year-old ex - amateur baseball player who's not much bigger than the Little League players, has sent a report to U.S. Pony League directors outlining his ideas for a hemispheric baseball program that would emphasize "school first, baseball afterward."

"The Cubanitos (Cuban Little League) have been successful with that idea," Perez said in an interview, "and perhaps the good things we have done here can be repeated throughout Latin America."

Perez explained that Cuban boys between 9 and 13 who want to join the Cubanitos must have good attendance records at school plus good grades before they are accepted and while they are playing.

The Cubanitos program has stimulated attendance, especially in rural areas where "supervision has not been too exacting," he said. "The boys know that to play baseball, they have to go to school regularly and get good grades."

Since beginning in 1956 with 9 leagues, the Cubanitos have grown into an islandwide operation of 19 leagues, 75 teams and 2,300 players. Perez is the program's coordinator. The league's chief executive is Clemente Inclan, president of Havana University.

"Our discipline is strict," Perez continued. "At the first signs that baseball is interfering with a boy's schoolwork, he is suspended. For example, the boy who was voted most valuable player in 1958 was dropped this year because of poor grades."

Perez said Mexico, Venezuela, Panama and Puerto Rico, which now have Little League ball, could form the nucleus of a Latin American Federation.

In other countries, where baseball holds little attraction for the people, Perez said he thought interest could be aroused. He said he took a trip to promote Little Leagues in Spain, where baseball did not rank among the popular sports, and was surprised by the enthusiastic reception he got. A Little League program is now in operation there.

Eventually, Perez said, he would like to see an expanded World Series of Little League baseball, with the champions of the U.S., Latin America and Europe playing for the title.

"But for now," he added, "my only interest is Latin America."

Vandy Romps Past Virginia Behind Moore

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) Halfback Tom Moore scored three touchdowns, romping 65 yards through the mud for one of them to lead Vanderbilt to an easy 33-0 victory over outmanned Virginia Saturday.

The Moore - powered Commodores handed the Cavaliers their 14th straight drubbing—and the sixth this year—before a slim homecoming audience of 11,000. Only a few stayed on for a 19-point Vanderbilt splurge in the final period.

More, a senior, scored once on a 15 - yard burst over tackle and got another touchdown on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Russ Mordis.

Fullback Jim Burton scored another touchdown on a short fourth period plunge. The touchdown came after a frustrating spate of penalties.

Substitute quartedback Terry Black passed 16 yards to end Bob Mullen for the final Commodore touchdown in the last three minutes of play.

But it was Moore's running through the slippery mire of Scott Stadium that dominated the game and preserved Coach Art Guepes' perfect record over Virginia, where he coached some of the greatest Cavalier teams a decade ago. Guepe has never lost to Virginia.

In his long scoring run, the 211-pound Moore — bidding for all-star honors in his senior season—cut aund leftend and flashed down the sidelines, his patch cleared by a wall of blockers. The jaunt gave Moore a total of 119 yards rushing for the day.

Yanks' Fall Top Baseball Story

NEW YORK (UPI) —The decline and fall of the New York Yankees—a tragicomedy in six month-long acts — was selected Saturday as the No. 1 major league baseball story of the year by the United Press International.

Harvey Haddix pitched and lost the greatest game ever pitched. . . a third major league was formed . . .and the Chicago White Sox won their first Ameican League pennant in 40 years. . .but the story that reaped the greatest headlines of the 1959 season was the "sad sack" performance of the one-time masters of all they surveyed.

That is the decision of the United Press International's board of 44 baseball experts which also took into account the amazing relief work of Elroy Face, the incredible debut of Willie McCovey, the Frank Lane vs. Joe Gordon fiasco, a record - equalling 18-strikeout performance by Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers' rags-to-riches rise from a seventh-place team to the championship of the baseball world.

The fact that the formation of a third major league rated only the third choice in the voting may be accepted as proof of the immense public interest created by the stories ranked 1-2: The Yankees' collapse and the heartbreak story of the little pitcher who didn't come out on top even when he was perfect.

Overwhelmingly favored to win their fifth straight pennant, the Yankees did what so many of their rivals have been praying they would do: They fell apart—Mysteriously, sudddenly and completely. They hit last place on May 20, first time a Yankee team had been last since 1940, and never were a pennant factor even though they finished third.

Haddix, a sad-faced 34-year-old left-hander with the Pittsburgh Pirates, kept his date with the history books on May 26 when he pitched 12 perfect innings against the Milwaukee Braves — only to lose, 1-0, in the 13th inning. No pitcher ever had hurled more than 10 perfect innings and Haddix had, in effect, lost the best game ever pitched!

The formation of the Continental League, with founding franchises in New York, Houston, Toronto, Denver, and Minneapolis-St. Paul, was announced by New York attorney William A. Shea on July 26. A few weeks later, on August 18, it was revealed that Branch Rickey, 77-year - old elder statesman of baseball, would serve as the league's first president.

The White Sox, without a pennant winner since the 1949 Black Sox scandal, moved in front of the Cleveland Indians in July and clinched the flag on Sept. 22 when Early Wynn beat the Tribe, 4-2. Face, who had a carry-over winning streak of five games from the 1958 season, won 17 straight this year and finished with a record 18-1 mark. McCovey broke in with a wave of base-hits that gave the San Francisco Giants' pennant drive terrific impetus and wound up hitting .356 in 52 games and Lane rehired Gordon as manager of the Indians after first forcing him to resign.

Vols Outclass Chattanooga By 23-0 Score

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Tennessee Volunteers scored in every period and turned back a single scoring thrust by Chattanooga to outclass the Moccasins 23-0 before 25,000 spectaors here Saturday.

A couple of relatively untried sophomores, tailback Glenn Glass and fullback J.W. Carter, figured in the Tennessee win which gave the Vols a 3-1-1 season mark.

Glass pulled in a punt in the first period and ripped off 47 yards for the first tally of the game played under cloudy but rainless skies.

Carter scored on a two - yard plunge in the second period.

Unsung blocking back Jim Cartwright intercepted a Moccasin pass in the third period and snake hipped 54-yards for a touchdown.

Tailback Gene Etted who kicked two extra points in the game, booted a 26-yard field goal in the final period.

The Mocs threatened only once. They started a march goal ward in the second period when a kick-off by end Cotton Letner dribbled to the Chattanooga 45-yard line.

The Moccasins drove 54 yards for a first down on the one but the Vol line stiffened and the ball went over after four futile attempts to crack the Tennessee middle.

The Vol defenders were led by tackle Lebron Shields, guard Jack Kile and Cartwright.

The single wing reverse plays worked well for Tennessee with wingback Ken Waddell ripping off frequent long gains.Waddell made the longest run from scrimmage with a 28-yard sweep in the third quarter.

Etter passed to end Don Leake from his own 41 to the Chattanooga three in the second period. Carter plunged over for the score several plays later.

The loose leaves the Bucs with a 2-4 season mark.

Score by Periods

Tennessee — Glass 47 run (Etter run failed); Carter 2 run (Etter kicked); Cartwright 54 pass interception (Etter kicked); FG 26 Etter.

BROWN TRIUMPHS

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Brown's football players were more at home on the mud of Brown Field Saturday and the Bruins won their first game of the season, blanking intrastate rival Rhode Island 6-0.

Paul Choquette, one of Brown's eight letter men who returned from last season, registered the game's only points when he struggled across from about one foot out 34 seconds before the end of the first half.

Tudor Era, Dotted Line Split Classic

NEW YORK (AP) — The King Ranch mare Dotted Line and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Tudor Era won the split sections Saturday as 21 grass course specialists raced for $225,100 in the Man o' War doubleheader at rain-splashed Aqueduct.

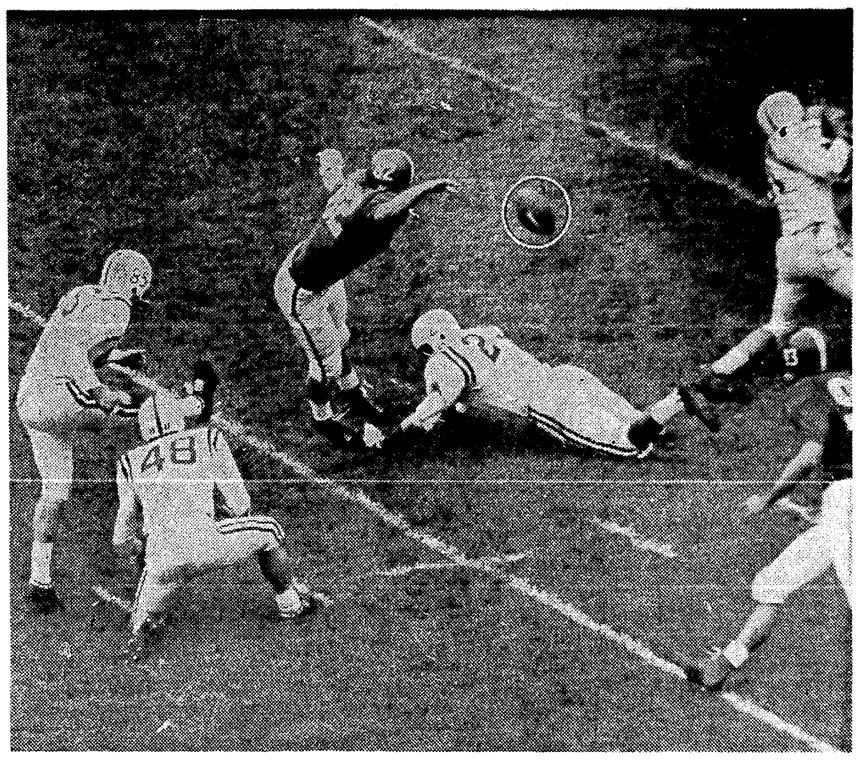

This was the initial running of the Man o' War, honoring the great American champion of 40 years ago. The management made racing history by adding $100,000 to each division.

Dotted Line, a 6-year-old American-bred daughter of Princequillo-Inscribe, was the only mare in either division and she provided most of the thrills by overhauling Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's English-bred Amerigo at the head of the stretch in the first division. They fought it out for over an eighth of a mile before Dotted Line drew away for a 1¼ length victory. Bill Boland rode Dotted Line and Bill Hartack piloted Amerigo.

Amerigo, the co-favorite at 2-1 with the Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle, took second by three quarters of a length over William C. McMillan Jr.'s Prince Willy. Bald Eagle was fourth in a field of 10.

Hartack wasn't to be denied in the second division as he sent the favored Tudor Era to the front at the start and kept him there for the entire 1½ miles. Tudor Era is a 6-year-old Briths-bred son of Owen Tudor-Erica Fragrans.

Tudor Era romped home by three lengths over Sidney M. Barton's Marlow Road, who took second by a head from E. M. F. Guerrico'sArgentina - bred Anisado. Alfred Vanderbilt's Find was fourth, another 12 lengths back in the field of 11.

Basketball Muscles In On Jackson Parish Football

By TOMMY AYRES
Staff Correspondent

JONESBORO, La. — Mingled with the shouts and groans of grid gladiators, the drumming sound of basketballs upon hardwood floors indicates another sport is making its way upon the Jackson Parish scene.

Five roundball squads in the area (Jonesboro - Hodge, Eros, Quitman, Chatham and Weston) have given fans their money's worth in the past, and this season will be no exception, according to respective coaches.

Three of the schools, including Weston, Chatham, and Eros are expected to be much stronger than last year, while Jonesboro - Hodge and Quitman, after compiling outstanding records in 1958, are both rebuilding.

Over 100 basketball games (including four tournaments) will be played in Jackson this year with some of the top competition in the state slated to participate.

Following is a rundown of each club in the area:

JONESBORO-HODGE

Head Coach Sam Ledbetter, who has guided the Tigers for the past four seasons says, "We might play .500 ball this year," but opposing coaches are inclined to disagree with him.

With all-state candidate for center Jimmy Walker 6-4, and hard driving guard, Chuck McClain 6-0 back in the lineup this season, the Bengals are a bet to give anyone a tough game. Both were first stringers last year, when JH wound up with a 28-11 record.

On the dark side, the Tigers have filled the gaps left by graduation with inexperience. Showing promise are five newcomers: Clifton Gresham, 5-11; Ardner Cheshire, 5-10; Jerry Smith, 5-7; Maurice Peel, 6-1; Claude Smedley, 6-0.

They will attempt to take up some of the slack left by the graduation of three year all-state John Baily, who is this year at LSU.

Playing in the ever-tough District 2-AA with Ruston, Neville and Haynesville, the Tigers believe they will have to improve considerably to be a contender. They should however play better than .500 ball.

WESTON

The 1958 champions of District 6-C are a good bet to repeat the accomplishment this year, but they will face stiffer competition, according to coach Bill Busbice.

The soft spoken Busbice, who put basketball squarely on its feet during his three-year stay at Weston says, "We should win as many as we lose, but we are playing a rough schedule."

He refers to a twenty-game slate boasting 10 games with opposition ranging from class B to AA.

Three starters from last year will be back from a team which split their schedule down the middle with a 23-23 record.

Charles "Red" Free 5-10 forward, and Carey Staples, 5-10 were both all-district selections in '58, and will probably lead the Wolves.

In all, four lettermen and three starters return to give Weston depth. After averaging nine points per game last season, Gus Toombs, 6-0 center, will lend a hand. Toombs, who weighs 200 pounds, is an excellent rebounder. Larry Watkins, the sixth man last year, is only 5-7, but an abundance of hustle makes up for his statute.

Newcomers Hayward Smith, 5-10, and Richard Barlow, 5-11 are expected to battle for the remaining forward position.

"We don't have height," said Busbice, "but hustle should make the difference."

CHATHAM

The District 6-C Eagles are looking for their best season in several years, says head coach A. E. Hood, who has seen the ups and downs of Chatham basketball during his 20 odd years as mentor of the school's team.

"We have fairly good size this year," he said, "and I think that factor might overcome some of our inexperience. I believe we can score, and our success will depend upon how well our defense comes through." Hood went on to say he planned to play man-to-man, and throw out the zone he has used for so many years.

Top man on the list of six returning lettermen is Alvin Barr, 5-9 guard who played on a club which compiled a 14-18 record last season. Helping him over the rough places will be Donnie Edmondson, 6-2 215 pounder at forward, and junior guard Jimmy Tidwell, 6-1. Both are experienced roundballers. Hood sites Edmondson as a tremendous defensive rebounder, and Tidwell as one of the best outside shooters on his club.

Other members of the squad expected to come through for the Eagles this season are: Lee Tolar, 6-3 center; Eddie Conn, 6-1 forward; James Fenn, 5-10 forward.

QUITMAN

With a new coach, and a few new players, the Wolverines are rebuilding this year, after a very good record (27-13) in 1958. Monty Montgomery, former all - state guard from Jonesboro - Hodge, and a graduate of Centenary College is taking on his first coaching assignment in a rebuilding capacity.

All is not dark at Quitman, however, with two starters back for another campaign. Arnold Ramsey, 6-2 center averaged 12 points per game last year, and should improve. Jerry Hanes, also 6-2, was a starter in '58, and will fill a forward slot. Both Ramsey and Hanes are juniors.

Other probable starters will be, Dickie Vail, 5-9 guard, Stanley Thrift, 5-11 guard, and Eugene Norred, a 6-1 freshman forward.

To give the Wolverines depth, Montgomery has Dale Duck, 5-11 forward, and David Hammonds, 5-10 guard, both capable of playing first string ball.

EROS

Probably the most improved team of the lot will be Eros which has two-year all District 6-C guard Curtis Bunn, 5-11, back to lead the way. The three-year letterman dropped over 700 points through the net last year while averaging 21 per game.

Claude Pesnell, 5-10 guard, was averaging better than 15 ppg last season when a leg injury forced him to the sidelines. He is expected to operate at full speed for 1959.

Eros compiled a 15-20 record last year, but coach Crawford Vines is looking for a better season this time, and thinks his squad is capable of going a long way. They are off to a good start, and have already downed Mer Rouge 65-48, and Downsville 76-32 for a 2-0 record this season.

Lennie Hayden, 6-2 center was a starter in '58, along with 6-1 forward Alton Spillers. The lone position not manned by a letterman will probably be filled by Robert Crowe, 5-11 forward.

"We have good depth this year," says Vines. "I have eight men capable of playing varsity ball."

Six-foot four inch sophomore Eugene Harper is expected to improve with game experience, and be an aid to the team.

Penn Battles To Tie With Middies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) I Pennsylvania and Navy fought to a gruelling 22-22 tie Saturday when Penn fullback Ed Shaw booted a 24-yard field goal with two minutes left to leave 25,696 spectators wilting in their seats.

The frenzied finish came after Penn built up a 19-8 halftime lead and a frantic Navy eleven hurled them back twice in the third period following two intercepted passes inside the 25-yard line.

Then Penn, grabbing a fumble by Ronnie Brandquist on the Navy 24, set up the tieing points. A penalty - aided first down put the ball on the 12 and after three plays were hurled back, Shaw, a junior with a marksman's eye, booted the field goal which tied the score with 1:46 left. A Penn interception with 17 seconds left spiked Navy's final hopeful surge.

It was a whale of a game in which Navy outrushed Penn 191 to 71 and outpassed them 163 to 128. But George Koval, a slim junior quarterback from Wilkes - Barre, Pa., arched two touchdown passes for Penn as the Quakers built up their first half 19-8 half lead.

Two interceptions kept Navy on the defense early in the third period. But then, a short punt gave them the ball on the 30 and they began to roll. Correll was the big gainer in an 11-play march which brought Navy within striking distance. He closed the march by taking a 29-yard touchdown pass from Maxfield for the score.

Then aroused Navy took the ball on its own 27 with 12 minutes left. A penalty for delay set them back five but then they began an uninterrupted drive until Maxfield sneaked over from the two with six minutes left.

Navy, which had run for two pointers on its first two touchdowns, missed a kick on the third conversion attempt. That left Penn only three points short of a tie and the Quakers cashed in on the opportunity set up on Brandquist's fumble, recovered by center John Gillen.

Talley Leads Northwestern Over Notre Dame, 30 To 24

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Unbeaten Northwestern produced another scoring hero Saturday in John Talley, a third - string quarterback, who threw three long touchdown passes and sprinted 61 yards on his own to pace the Wildcats to a 30-24 victory over Notre Dame.

It was the fifth straight victory for second - ranked Northwestern, which has turned up outstanding performances by substitutes filling in for the "irreplaceable" Dick Thornton, lost since the first game of the season, through injuries.

The Wildcats thoroughly outclassed the underdog Irish. Notre Dame scored twice after Wildcat fumbles and got its only "honest" touchdown with a 52-yard scoring pass from Don White to Bob Scarpitto in the third period.

Talley, a senior, started the season as a third - string bench warmer. But he played almost the full 60 minutes Saturday as Notre Dame took its third loss of the season. It was only the fourth Northwestern victory in 29 meetings between the two schools, but it was the highest score ever recorded in the series.

Talley got the wildcats off to an early lead with an 18-yard scoring pass to El Kimbrough in the first period. Less than two minutes later he handed off to Ray Purdin, who swept three yards for a touchdown.

Talley moved the Wildcats from their own 36 to the 46 in the second period and then threw 54 yards to Purdin for another touchdown.

But the senior quarterback from Delaware, Ohio, gave the sellout crowd of 59,078 its biggest thrill in the third period when he rolled back from his own 22 and rifled a 38-yard shot to Irv Cross who ran the remaining 40 yards for a touchdown. The 78-yard scoring play was a Northwestern record.

Talley couldn't find a receiver free among an aroused Notre Dame secondary later in the period. But this was an option play and the tricky quarterback made the most of its by sprinting 61 yards up the middle for a score.

Talley's only fault in an otherwise perfect day was his failure to connect on three passes for conversions.

Lasater Sparks TCU To 13-3 Win

By JOHN CARROLL

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Halfback Marv Lasater ripped off six big gains, made a touchdown-saving tackle and scored in the fourth period Saturday to lead Texas Christian to a 13-3 victory over Pittsburgh.

Pitt took a 3-0 lead in the first few minutes of play on senior guard Norton Seaman's 40 - yard field goal but the Panthers ran into nothing but frustration from there on.

TCU took command the first time it had possession of the ball and marched 61 yards in 13 plays with fullback Jack Spikes hurdling the middle of the Pitt line for the first Horned Frog score.

Lasater, who carried 14 times for 102 yards, applied the clincher in the final period by racing eight yards with a hand off for another touchdown.

Although shaky at times, the TCU defense held strong in the clutch to stop two Pitt drives deep in Horned Frog territory.

One was early in the second period when Lasater shot into the Panther backfield on fourth down to tackle halfback Andy Sepsi on the TCU four-yard line. In the third-period — when Pitt was on the move — the Texans threw up an immovable defense on their own 20.

For the second consecutive week Ivan Toncic, Pitt's ace quarterback, was throttled in his bid to stir the sluggish Panthers into action. He passed 14 times, but completed only three and one toss was intercepted.

Lasater, on the other hand, had a field day. Among his efforts were runs of 13, 15, 11 and 17 yards. He was a one-man wrecking gang to the Pitt forward wall. He also sparkled on defense.

Yanks' Fall Top Baseball Story

NEW YORK (UPI) —The decline and fall of the New York Yankees—a tragicomedy in six month-long acts — was selected Saturday as the No. 1 major league baseball story of the year by the United Press International.

Harvey Haddix pitched and lost the greatest game ever pitched. . . a third major league was formed . . .and the Chicago White Sox won their first Ameican League pennant in 40 years. . .but the story that reaped the greatest headlines of the 1959 season was the "sad sack" performance of the one-time masters of all they surveyed.

That is the decision of the United Press International's board of 44 baseball experts which also took into account the amazing relief work of Elroy Face, the incredible debut of Willie McCovey, the Frank Lane vs. Joe Gordon fiasco, a record - equalling 18-strikeout performance by Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers' rags-to-riches rise from a seventh-place team to the championship of the baseball world.

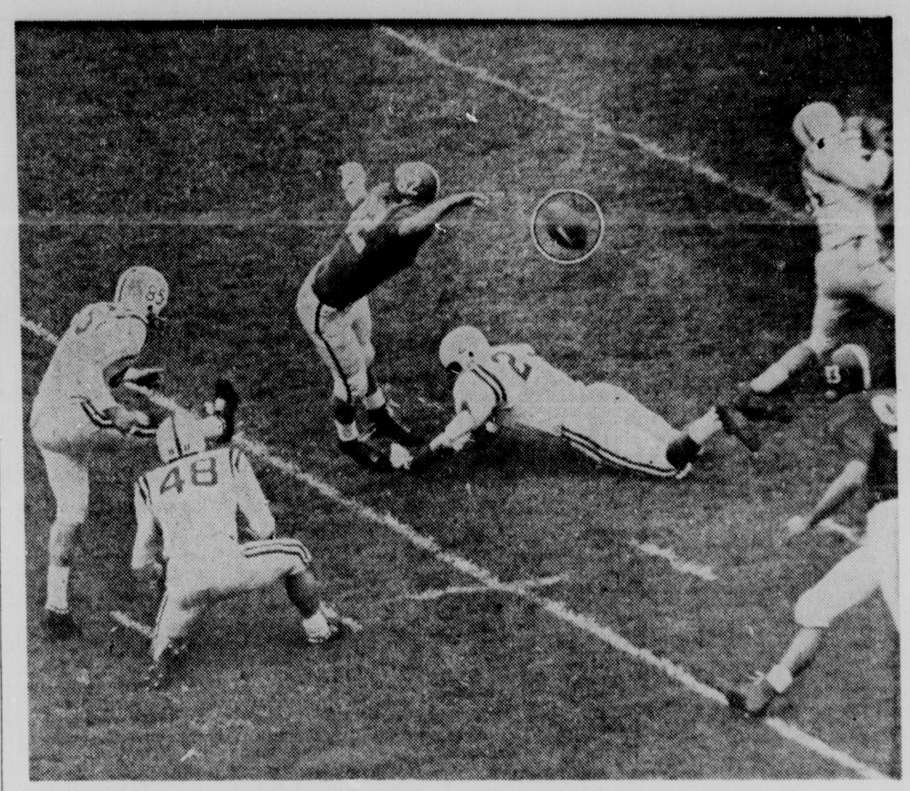

The fact that the formation of a third major league rated only the third choice in the voting may be accepted as proof of the immense public interest created by the stories ranked 1-2: The Yankees' collapse and the heartbreak story of the little pitcher who didn't come out on top even when he was perfect.

Overwhelmingly favored to win their fifth straight pennant, the Yankees did what so many of their rivals have been praying they would do: They fell apart—Mysteriously, sudddenly and completely. They hit last place on May 20, first time a Yankee team had been last since 1940, and never were a pennant factor even though they finished third.

Haddix, a sad-faced 34-year-old left-hander with the Pittsburgh Pirates, kept his date with the history books on May 26 when he pitched 12 perfect innings against the Milwaukee Braves — only to lose, 1-0, in the 13th inning. No pitcher ever had hurled more than 10 perfect innings and Haddix had, in effect, lost the best game ever pitched!

The formation of the Continental League, with founding franchises in New York, Houston, Toronto, Denver, and Minneapolis-St. Paul, was announced by New York attorney William A. Shea on July 26. A few weeks later, on August 18, it was revealed that Branch Rickey, 77-year - old elder statesman of baseball, would serve as the league's first president.

The White Sox, without a pennant winner since the 1949 Black Sox scandal, moved in front of the Cleveland Indians in July and clinched the flag on Sept. 22 when Early Wynn beat the Tribe, 4-2. Face, who had a carry-over winning streak of five games from the 1958 season, won 17 straight this year and finished with a record 18-1 mark. McCovey broke in with a wave of base-hits that gave the San Francisco Giants' pennant drive terrific impetus and wound up hitting .356 in 52 games and Lane rehired Gordon as manager of the Indians after first forcing him to resign.

FIELD GOAL ATTEMPT BLOCKED—Indiana end Ron Miller (85) tries for a field goal in yesterday's game with Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., but Spartan end Jim Corgiat (82) blocks the ball (circled). Vols Outclass Chattanooga By 23-0 Score

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Tennessee Volunteers scored in every period and turned back a single scoring thrust by Chattanooga to outclass the Moccasins 23-0 before 25,000 spectaors here Saturday.

A couple of relatively untried sophomores, tailback Glenn Glass and fullback J.W. Carter, figured in the Tennessee win which gave the Vols a 3-1-1 season mark.

Glass pulled in a punt in the first period and ripped off 47 yards for the first tally of the game played under cloudy but rainless skies.

Carter scored on a two - yard plunge in the second period.

Unsung blocking back Jim Cartwright intercepted a Moccasin pass in the third period and snake hipped 54-yards for a touchdown.

Tailback Gene Etted who kicked two extra points in the game, booted a 26-yard field goal in the final period.

The Mocs threatened only once. They started a march goal ward in the second period when a kick-off by end Cotton Letner dribbled to the Chattanooga 45-yard line.

The Moccasins drove 54 yards for a first down on the one but the Vol line stiffened and the ball went over after four futile attempts to crack the Tennessee middle.

The Vol defenders were led by tackle Lebron Shields, guard Jack Kile and Cartwright.

Three starters from last year will be back from a team which split their schedule down the middle with a 23-23 record.

Charles "Red" Free 5-10 forward, and Carey Staples, 5-10 were both all-district selections in '58, and will probably lead the Wolves.

In all, four lettermen and three starters return to give Weston depth. After averaging nine points per game last season, Gus Toombs, 6-0 center, will lend a hand. Toombs, who weighs 200 pounds, is an excellent rebounder. Larry Watkins, the sixth man last year, is only 5-7, but an abundance of hustle makes up for his statute.

Newcomers Hayward Smith, 5-10, and Richard Barlow, 5-11 are expected to battle for the remaining forward position.

"We don't have height," said Busbice, "but hustle should make the difference."

CHATHAM

The District 6-C Eagles are looking for their best season in several years, says head coach A. E. Hood, who has seen the ups and downs of Chatham basketball during his 20 odd years as mentor of the school's team.

"We have fairly good size this year," he said, "and I think that factor might overcome some of our inexperience. I believe we can score, and our success will depend upon how well our defense comes through." Hood went on to say he planned to play man-to-man, and throw out the zone he has used for so many years.

Top man on the list of six returning lettermen is Alvin Barr, 5-9 guard who played on a club which compiled a 14-18 record last season. Helping him over the rough places will be Donnie Edmondson, 6-2 215 pounder at forward, and junior guard Jimmy Tidwell, 6-1. Both are experienced roundballers. Hood sites Edmondson as a tremendous defensive rebounder, and Tidwell as one of the best outside shooters on his club.

Other members of the squad expected to come through for the Eagles this season are: Lee Tolar, 6-3 center; Eddie Conn, 6-1 forward; James Fenn, 5-10 forward.

QUITMAN

With a new coach, and a few new players, the Wolverines are rebuilding this year, after a very good record (27-13) in 1958. Monty Montgomery, former all - state guard from Jonesboro - Hodge, and a graduate of Centenary College is taking on his first coaching assignment in a rebuilding capacity.

All is not dark at Quitman, however, with two starters back for another campaign. Arnold Ramsey, 6-2 center averaged 12 points per game last year, and should improve. Jerry Hanes, also 6-2, was a starter in '58, and will fill a forward slot. Both Ramsey and Hanes are juniors.

Other probable starters will be, Dickie Vail, 5-9 guard, Stanley Thrift, 5-11 guard, and Eugene Norred, a 6-1 freshman forward.

To give the Wolverines depth, Montgomery has Dale Duck, 5-11 forward, and David Hammonds, 5-10 guard, both capable of playing first string ball.

EROS

Probably the most improved team of the lot will be Eros which has two-year all District 6-C guard Curtis Bunn, 5-11, back to lead the way. The three-year letterman dropped over 700 points through the net last year while averaging 21 per game.

Claude Pesnell, 5-10 guard, was averaging better than 15 ppg last season when a leg injury forced him to the sidelines. He is expected to operate at full speed for 1959.

Eros compiled a 15-20 record last year, but coach Crawford Vines is looking for a better season this time, and thinks his squad is capable of going a long way. They are off to a good start, and have already downed Mer Rouge 65-48, and Downsville 76-32 for a 2-0 record this season.

Lennie Hayden, 6-2 center was a starter in '58, along with 6-1 forward Alton Spillers. The lone position not manned by a letterman will probably be filled by Robert Crowe, 5-11 forward.

"We have good depth this year," says Vines. "I have eight men capable of playing varsity ball."

Six-foot four inch sophomore Eugene Harper is expected to improve with game experience, and be an aid to the team.

Penn Battles To Tie With Middies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) I Pennsylvania and Navy fought to a gruelling 22-22 tie Saturday when Penn fullback Ed Shaw booted a 24-yard field goal with two minutes left to leave 25,696 spectators wilting in their seats.

The frenzied finish came after Penn built up a 19-8 halftime lead and a frantic Navy eleven hurled them back twice in the third period following two intercepted passes inside the 25-yard line.

Then Penn, grabbing a fumble by Ronnie Brandquist on the Navy 24, set up the tieing points. A penalty - aided first down put the ball on the 12 and after three plays were hurled back, Shaw, a junior with a marksman's eye, booted the field goal which tied the score with 1:46 left. A Penn interception with 17 seconds left spiked Navy's final hopeful surge.

It was a whale of a game in which Navy outrushed Penn 191 to 71 and outpassed them 163 to 128. But George Koval, a slim junior quarterback from Wilkes - Barre, Pa., arched two touchdown passes for Penn as the Quakers built up their first half 19-8 half lead.

Two interceptions kept Navy on the defense early in the third period. But then, a short punt gave them the ball on the 30 and they began to roll. Correll was the big gainer in an 11-play march which brought Navy within striking distance. He closed the march by taking a 29-yard touchdown pass from Maxfield for the score.

Then aroused Navy took the ball on its own 27 with 12 minutes left. A penalty for delay set them back five but then they began an uninterrupted drive until Maxfield sneaked over from the two with six minutes left.

Navy, which had run for two pointers on its first two touchdowns, missed a kick on the third conversion attempt. That left Penn only three points short of a tie and the Quakers cashed in on the opportunity set up on Brandquist's fumble, recovered by center John Gillen.

Indian Runners Beat SLC Easily

Northeast's cross-country runners, paced by sophomore speedster Buddy Eiland, took an easy 16-41 victory over Southeastern Louisiana College Saturday.

Coach Lew Hartzog's thinclads swept the first four positions and sewed up five of the first six to take their second meet in three outings this season.

Eiland covered the three-and-a-half-mile grassy course at Bernstein Park in 17:21. Teammate Bill Frye was 10 seconds behind at 17:31, and reliable Jack Williams finished in 17:39.

George Abbott's time was 17:52, well ahead of the 18:39 of Lawrence Jacob, the only Southeastern man to finish in the top five.

The Indian runners opened the season with an easy win over Memphis State in Memphis and finished second last week in a triangular meet between the halves of the Northeast football game. Louisiana Tech took first place and McNeese finished third in that event.

The finish:

Buddy Eiland, Northeast, 17:21.
Bill Frye, Northeast, 17:31.
Jack Williams, Northeast, 17:39.
George Abbott, Northeast 17:52.
Lawrence Jacob, Southeastern, 18:39.

Cadets Whip Colo. State Univ. 25-6

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — Bob Anderson and Joe Caldwell handled a rain-soaked football as if it were covered with glue Saturday and carried Army to a 25-6 football victory over Colorado State Univ.

Warming up for their big game with the Air Force at New York's Yankee Stadium next Saturday, the Cadets resorted to a daring air game to set up two first period touchdowns, a 37-yard second period field goal by Frank Blanda and a final score early in the fourth.

Blanda kicked two extra points and a 2-point conversion was added on a pass into the end zone from Anderson to Army's famous "lonesome end," Bill Carpenter.

Thwarted at every turn and held back of the mid-stripe most of the game, Colorado State struck for its lone score in the fading minutes.

After a drive died deep in Army territory, end Al Fortune blocked a punt by Army's Harold Hodges and Dick Harris, a second string guard, recovered in the end zone for a touchdown.

Caldwell completed eight of 15 passes to set an Army record for completions in a single season. His 64 "hits" this year top the mark of 63 set by Pete Vann in 1953. In all, Army threw 37 passes.

Army's first touchdown drive covered 48 yards from the short opening kickoff and has climaxed when Carpenter recovered a fumble by teammate Don Bonko in the end zone.

Bonko plunged over from the 1 for the second score. The third touchdown in the final period, ended and 85-yard drive in which Anderson's running and passing were the principal driving force, came on Caldwell's 5-yard run.

Okla. State Gives Wichita First Defeat

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State added a covey of ground gaining backs to quarterback Dick Soergel's sharp passing to whip Wichita 34-14 Saturday.

A homecoming crowd of 34,000 watched in clear, cool, weather as Oklahoma State jumped to a lead, lost it, then came back with three touchdowns in the second half.

It was the first loss of the season for Wichita and the Cowboys' fourth straight victory against two losses.

Halfbacks Dave Cross and Tony Banfield with fullbacks Vernon Sewell and Jim Dillard led the Cowboy assault, sweeping the Wichita flanks with ease and ripping off good yardage through the outmanned Wheatshocker line. Soergel added 176 yards by hitting on 15 of 19 passes.

Aside from a 71-yard touchdown jaunt by halfback Tom Wright and a 7-yard scoring run by halfback Howard Roe, the Shockers had little to cheer about.

VMI Shellacks Davidson, 34-7

LEXINGTON, Va. (UPI)—Junior quarterback Howard Dyer heaved a mud-caked football for three touchdown passes to end Dick Evans Saturday to lead Virginia Military Institute to a 34-7 Southern Conference shellacking of dispirited Davidson.

All four VMI tams saw action in the rout which left 5,000 homecoming fans well pleased. The win was VMI's second in the conference against one tie.

HE MADE IT — Mississippi fullback Charlie Flowers slams his way to his second touchdown yesterday at Memphis despite the strong arms of two Arkansas linemen who were braced and ready. The score came early in the second period. In the background are Ole Miss quarterback Jake Gibbs and halfback Bobby Crespino (31). Flowers comes from Razorback territory, Marianna, Ark. FULLBACK SCORES TWICE

Rebs Manhandle Arkansas, 28-0, As Flowers Sparkles

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)— With powerhouse fullback Charlie Flowers ripping Arkansas' line to tatters, mighty Mississippi manhandled Arkansas, 28-0, Saturday.

Flowers rammed over two Ole Miss touchdowns in a bitter first half scramble that left the Razorbacks reeling. Halback Dewey Partridge and quarterback Jake Gibbs also hit paydirt for the rebels.

The heavy but agile Mississippi line kept the frustrated Porkers bottled up most of the game. A ferocious goal line stand late in the game stopped the Hogs' best effort on the Ole Miss five.

Ole Miss, a 10-point favorite, controlled play from the starting horn, piling up 201 yards rushing to Arkansas' 106 and using just enough passes to keep the defense off balance.

It was a tremendous bid for a higher berth in the national football rankings. Ole Miss stands fourth in The Associated Press poll. Arkansas was tenth.

The Rebel cheering section set up a roaring chant of "Mississippi Number One" as the seconds dripped off the clock in the final period.

The Rebel touchdowns came on strictly engineered drives of 80, 56, 49 and 20 yards.

The 20-yard setup came in the second quarter when Arkansas halfback Lance Alworth, back to punt, fumbled a low snap from center. Four plays later, Flowers dived over from the three.

But Ole Miss already had shown who was boss on the 80-yard drive that wound up the first period. The Rebs crashed the distance in 13 plays.

The big bite came when quarterback Bobby Franklin, with Arkansas' secondary up to stop the power plays, faked a handoff and passed to halfback Cowboy Woodruff for 36 yards to the Arkansas 40.

From that point on it was quick openers and handoffs with Flower packing the ball on six of 11 plays, bulling from three to six yards a whack. He dived over a squirming mass of linemen from the one for the touchdown.

Gibbs directed another touchdown drive before the half ended. The 56-yard, nine-play push included three Gibbs' passes to Partridge. James Anderson made the final yard over center.

The final Ole Miss score saw Gibbs again, the man calling plays in the 49-yard surge against the reeling Porkers. He scooted the final seven yards.

Bob Khayat, the Rebel's expert toe, booted all four extra points but was short with an attempted field goal from the 24 when a fourth quarter Ole Miss drive bogged down.

Arkansas fought the Rebels on even terms for the first 10 minutes of the game. Then the hulking Ole Miss line began giving a host of fleet Rebel backs a little running room.

As it turned out, Mississippi not only had the advantage of speed and weight. The Rebels also got most of the breaks. Three of their pass interceptions crippled the Porker air arm.

The first sustained drive managed by the Porkers came in the third period. It moved 69 yards to the Mississippi 19 before sophomore quarterback George McKinney's pass was intercepted by Anderson.

The most dangerous Razorback surge carried from the Arkansas 9 to Mississippi's 2. But there the Hogs stalled.

McKinney was thrown back to the 7 by guard Marvin Terrell who submarined under the Porker center and nabbed George as he faded back to pass.

McKinney then sent Alworth into the line to the Ole Miss 5. But on the big fourth down play, McKinney's pass fell incomplete.

That was the end. There were just seven seconds left in the game.

DIETZEL HAPPY

LSU Looks Ahead To Ole Miss, Tenn.

By F. T. MACFEELY

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Coach Paul Dietzel was radiantly happy as he shook hands with well wishers and congratulated his Louisiana State team—No. 1 in the nation—for its 9-0 victory over Florida Saturday.

Then he turned away from the glory of the 18th straight victory by his national champions and looked a little way into the future.

"I don't know what I'm so happy about," he said. "We have to play Mississippi and then go up to Knoxville and play Tennessee the following week."

Dietzel observed that the Southeastern Conference opponents give him a harder time than those in the Southwest Conference.

"I don't mean those in the Southwest aren't as tough," he said, "but those in our own league go after us harder. And the Southeastern is really tough this year."

If there was a turning point in Saturday's game, Dietzel said, he thought it was when Wendell Harris' 28-yard plackkick hit the goal post and fell through good for a field goal.

Another key play, he said, was when LSU end Mickey Mangham rushed Florida's Bobby Joe Green and prevented a fourth down punt. The play gave LSU the ball at Floriada's 48 and the Tigers marched to their touchdown in nine plays.

Dietzel praised Florida's hard play, though he pointed out this Florida team is far less experienced than the one that gave LSU a 10-7 tussle last year.

"We had the best team, the most experience, and should have won," Dietzel said. "I thought Florida did a real good job."

Florida coach Bob Woodruff said LSU has a better team than last season.

"Nobody has scored a touchdown on them," Woodruff pointed out. "We came close and we had our chances to win but there were a couple of big breaks that turned it."

One break, he said, was when Green was unable to get off the fourth down punt and Florida gave up the ball. The other break was a pass interception that led to LSU's field goal.

Soph Sparks Spartans Past Indiana, 14-6

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Gary Ballman, a sturdy Detroit sophomore playing with a finger in a cast, scored two touchdowns and kept Michigan State in Big Ten contention with a 14-6 victory over Indiana here Saturday.

Ballman, a right half who was an uncertain starter because of the painful injury, caught a 20-yard pass from Dean Look for the first score in the second quarter. He bolted 25 yards through left guard for the second touchdown in the third period.

Art Brandstatter, another sophomore, kicked both extra points.

Indiana was put in position for its last period touchdown by a 49-yard pass from John Henry Jackson to Ted Aucreman, who escaped to the 1. Three plays later, Jackson passed to Earl Faison for the score. A Jackson pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Michigan State, an outfit with alternate losing and winning Saturdays the first of the season, looked like a team that had finally jelled to the 54,611 homecoming fans at Spartan Stadium.

Michigan State defenders were forced to make a magnificent goal line stand in the closing minutes of the game.

The Spartan line held the Hoosiers on four plays at the Michigan State 4 and took over on downs.

The Spartans now have won two and lost one in the conference. Indiana has won one and lost two.

Missouri Beats Nebraska In Big 8 Battle

COLUMBOA, Mo. (AP) — Fullback Ed Mehrer kicked a 31-yard field goal and halfback Mel West set up a touchdown with an 86-yard kickoff return to give the Missouri Tigers a 9-0 Big Eight football decision over Nebraska's Cornhuskers Saturday.

The victory, scored bffore a homecoming crowd of 25,000, boosted Missouri's conference record to two victories against one loss and kept the Tigers very much in the running for an Orange Bowl date.

Mehrer's first quarter field goal was kicked at the Nebraska 21 from a side angle and into a 25-mile an hour wind. Nebraska had halted a Tiger attack that reached the Cornhusker 9.

Engineers Whip Inspired Tulane

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Heavily-favored Georgia Tech oiled its offense with three second half touchdowns Saturday night to defeat inspired Tulane 21-13.

Tulane had a Homecoming crowd of 30,000 cheering as it held a 13-0 lead until midway of the third period.

But Tech, ninth ranked team in the nation in the Associated Press poll, jelled its attack and quickly put across three touchdowns.

The victory was Tech's fifth against one loss, while Tulane took its fourth setback against two victories.

After a scoreless first quarter, Tulane started a touchdown drive with quarterback Phil Nugent scoring from the seven. The conversion attempt failed and Tulane, a two-touchdown underdog, led 6-0 at halftime.

In the opening minutes of the third period, Nugent lobbed a short pass to halfback Tommy Mason who sped 43 yards for a touchdown.

Tech got its attack rolling in the closing seconds of the third period. Graning capped a 35 yard drive following a poor punt by driving over from the five.

Tech took the lead with eight minutes left in the final quarter. Another bad Tulane punt gave Tech the ball on the Tulane 40 and seven plays later halfback Floyd Faucette went over from the five. A pass from quarterback Fred Braselton to Fausette for 16 yards was the big play in the march.

Tech found the Tulane defense a rugged outfit in the first half. The Tulane forward wall, anchored by tackle Joe Lesage and guard George Buillot, limited Tech to 84 yards rushing in the first two periods.

But Tech was a tough team to handle in the last two stanzas. Braselton's passing was a good deal sharper than before intermission and the Tech backs found good holes in the Tulane line.

Faucette was Tech's top ground gainer with 58 yards in 10 attempts. Substitute halfback Jimmy Nail added 41 on six carries.

In the passing department, Braselton and Marvin Tibbetts completed five of 13 for 88 yards.

Tulane's top yardage producer was sophomore halfback Terry Terrebonne, who accumulated 35 yards in 12 attempts. Nugent connected on five of 11 passes for 70 yards.

Center Maxie Baughan as usual was the guiding light in Tech's defense. But the Engineers got good line play from guard Harold Erickson and tackle Billy Shaw.

Erickson had eight individual tackles and two assists, while Baughan stopped seven Tulane ball carriers and assisted in five others.

Penn State Cruises Past Illinois, 20-9

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Seventh ranked Penn State, capitalizing on fumbles and pass interceptions, and sparked by the running and passing of quarterback Richie Lucas, extended its unbeaten streak to six games Saturday with a 20-9 victory over Illinois.

The Nittany Lions, stung by an Illinois field goal in the first period, roared back with two quick touchdowns to take the lead and stay in front as 15,045 fans watched the intersectional battle.

Two of the Penn State touchdowns were set up by Illinois fumbles as the hard charging Lions completely outplayed the heavier Big Ten team.

Illinois drew first blood when Cliff Roberts split the uprights with a three-pointer at 5:30 of the first period.

A 20-yard pass from Lucas to end Henry Oppermann, and a 33 yard dash by Kerr highlighted the first Lion drive which carried 79 yards. Lucas slanted off tackle to score.

Illinois halfback Marshall Count fumbled on the Penn State 40 to set up the second touchdown early in the second quarter. Dick Pae smashed over from the one.

The Illini took advantage of a pass interception by halfback Ethan Blackaby to strike back and slashed the deficit to 14-9 in the second period.

Penn State got its third scoring opportunity on a platter. Illinois halfback Gary Kolb intercepted a Lucas pass on his own two. Bill Brown fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and Penn State recovered.

Blanda kicked two extra points and a 2-point conversion was added on a pass into the end zone from Anderson to Army's famous "lonesome end," Bill Carpenter.

Thwarted at every turn and held back of the mid-stripe most of the game, Colorado State struck for its lone score in the fading minutes.

After a drive died deep in Army territory, end Al Fortune blocked a punt by Army's Harold Hodges and Dick Harris, a second string guard, recovered in the end zone for a touchdown.

Caldwell completed eight of 15 passes to set an Army record for completions in a single season. His 64 "hits" this year top the mark of 63 set by Pete Vann in 1953. In all, Army threw 37 passes.

Army's first touchdown drive covered 48 yards from the short opening kickoff and has climaxed when Carpenter recovered a fumble by teammate Don Bonko in the end zone.

Bonko plunged over from the 1 for the second score. The third touchdown in the final period, ended and 85-yard drive in which Anderson's running and passing were the principal driving force, came on Caldwell's 5-yard run.

DART — HARV

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dartmouth upset Harvard 9-0 in their 63rd football meeting Saturday on a 15-yard pass play from Bill Gundy to Al Rozycki and Ben Urban's 35-yard field goal. The contest was played in a driving rain.

Okla. State Gives Wichita First Defeat

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State added a covey of ground gaining backs to quarterback Dick Soergel's sharp passing to whip Wichita 34-14 Saturday.

A homecoming crowd of 34,000 watched in clear, cool, weather as Oklahoma State jumped to a lead, lost it, then came back with three touchdowns in the second half.

It was the first loss of the season for Wichita and the Cowboys' fourth straight victory against two losses.

Halfbacks Dave Cross and Tony Banfield with fullbacks Vernon Sewell and Jim Dillard led the Cowboy assault, sweeping the Wichita flanks with ease and ripping off good yardage through the outmanned Wheatshocker line. Soergel added 176 yards by hitting on 15 of 19 passes.

Aside from a 71-yard touchdown jaunt by halfback Tom Wright and a 7-yard scoring run by halfback Howard Roe, the Shockers had little to cheer about.

VMI Shellacks Davidson, 34-7

LEXINGTON, Va. (UPI)—Junior quarterback Howard Dyer heaved a mud-caked football for three touchdown passes to end Dick Evans Saturday to lead Virginia Military Institute to a 34-7 Southern Conference shellacking of dispirited Davidson.

All four VMI tams saw action in the rout which left 5,000 homecoming fans well pleased. The win was VMI's second in the conference against one tie.

HE MADE IT — Mississippi fullback Charlie Flowers slams his way to his second touchdown yesterday at Memphis despite the strong arms of two Arkansas linemen who were braced and ready. The score came early in the second period. In the background are Ole Miss quarterback Jake Gibbs and halfback Bobby Crespino (31). Flowers comes from Razorback territory, Marianna, Ark. FULLBACK SCORES TWICE

Rebs Manhandle Arkansas, 28-0, As Flowers Sparkles

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)— With powerhouse fullback Charlie Flowers ripping Arkansas' line to tatters, mighty Mississippi manhandled Arkansas, 28-0, Saturday.

Flowers rammed over two Ole Miss touchdowns in a bitter first half scramble that left the Razorbacks reeling. Halback Dewey Partridge and quarterback Jake Gibbs also hit paydirt for the rebels.

The heavy but agile Mississippi line kept the frustrated Porkers bottled up most of the game. A ferocious goal line stand late in the game stopped the Hogs' best effort on the Ole Miss five.

Ole Miss, a 10-point favorite, controlled play from the starting horn, piling up 201 yards rushing to Arkansas' 106 and using just enough passes to keep the defense off balance.

It was a tremendous bid for a higher berth in the national football rankings. Ole Miss stands fourth in The Associated Press poll. Arkansas was tenth.

The Rebel cheering section set up a roaring chant of "Mississippi Number One" as the seconds dripped off the clock in the final period.

The Rebel touchdowns came on strictly engineered drives of 80, 56, 49 and 20 yards.

The 20-yard setup came in the second quarter when Arkansas halfback Lance Alworth, back to punt, fumbled a low snap from center. Four plays later, Flowers dived over from the three.

But Ole Miss already had shown who was boss on the 80-yard drive that wound up the first period. The Rebs crashed the distance in 13 plays.

The big bite came when quarterback Bobby Franklin, with Arkansas' secondary up to stop the power plays, faked a handoff and passed to halfback Cowboy Woodruff for 36 yards to the Arkansas 40.

From that point on it was quick openers and handoffs with Flower packing the ball on six of 11 plays, bulling from three to six yards a whack. He dived over a squirming mass of linemen from the one for the touchdown.

Gibbs directed another touchdown drive before the half ended. The 56-yard, nine-play push included three Gibbs' passes to Partridge. James Anderson made the final yard over center.

The final Ole Miss score saw Gibbs again, the man calling plays in the 49-yard surge against the reeling Porkers. He scooted the final seven yards.

Bob Khayat, the Rebel's expert toe, booted all four extra points but was short with an attempted field goal from the 24 when a fourth quarter Ole Miss drive bogged down.

Arkansas fought the Rebels on even terms for the first 10 minutes of the game. Then the hulking Ole Miss line began giving a host of fleet Rebel backs a little running room.

As it turned out, Mississippi not only had the advantage of speed and weight. The Rebels also got most of the breaks. Three of their pass interceptions crippled the Porker air arm.

The first sustained drive managed by the Porkers came in the third period. It moved 69 yards to the Mississippi 19 before sophomore quarterback George McKinney's pass was intercepted by Anderson.

The most dangerous Razorback surge carried from the Arkansas 9 to Mississippi's 2. But there the Hogs stalled.

McKinney was thrown back to the 7 by guard Marvin Terrell who submarined under the Porker center and nabbed George as he faded back to pass.

McKinney then sent Alworth into the line to the Ole Miss 5. But on the big fourth down play, McKinney's pass fell incomplete.

That was the end. There were just seven seconds left in the game.

DIETZEL HAPPY

LSU Looks Ahead To Ole Miss, Tenn.

By F. T. MACFEELY

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Coach Paul Dietzel was radiantly happy as he shook hands with well wishers and congratulated his Louisiana State team—No. 1 in the nation—for its 9-0 victory over Florida Saturday.

Then he turned away from the glory of the 18th straight victory by his national champions and looked a little way into the future.

"I don't know what I'm so happy about," he said. "We have to play Mississippi and then go up to Knoxville and play Tennessee the following week."

Dietzel observed that the Southeastern Conference opponents give him a harder time than those in the Southwest Conference.

"I don't mean those in the Southwest aren't as tough," he said, "but those in our own league go after us harder. And the Southeastern is really tough this year."

If there was a turning point in Saturday's game, Dietzel said, he thought it was when Wendell Harris' 28-yard plackkick hit the goal post and fell through good for a field goal.

Another key play, he said, was when LSU end Mickey Mangham rushed Florida's Bobby Joe Green and prevented a fourth down punt. The play gave LSU the ball at Floriada's 48 and the Tigers marched to their touchdown in nine plays.

Dietzel praised Florida's hard play, though he pointed out this Florida team is far less experienced than the one that gave LSU a 10-7 tussle last year.

"We had the best team, the most experience, and should have won," Dietzel said. "I thought Florida did a real good job."

Florida coach Bob Woodruff said LSU has a better team than last season.

"Nobody has scored a touchdown on them," Woodruff pointed out. "We came close and we had our chances to win but there were a couple of big breaks that turned it."

One break, he said, was when Green was unable to get off the fourth down punt and Florida gave up the ball. The other break was a pass interception that led to LSU's field goal.

Soph Sparks Spartans Past Indiana, 14-6

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Gary Ballman, a sturdy Detroit sophomore playing with a finger in a cast, scored two touchdowns and kept Michigan State in Big Ten contention with a 14-6 victory over Indiana here Saturday.

Ballman, a right half who was an uncertain starter because of the painful injury, caught a 20-yard pass from Dean Look for the first score in the second quarter. He bolted 25 yards through left guard for the second touchdown in the third period.

Indiana was put in position for its last period touchdown by a 49-yard pass from John Henry Jackson to Ted Aucreman, who escaped to the 1. Three plays later, Jackson passed to Earl Faison for the score. A Jackson pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Michigan State, an outfit with alternate losing and winning Saturdays the first of the season, looked like a team that had finally jelled to the 54,611 homecoming fans at Spartan Stadium.

Michigan State defenders were forced to make a magnificent goal line stand in the closing minutes of the game.

The Spartan line held the Hoosiers on four plays at the Michigan State 4 and took over on downs.

The Spartans now have won two and lost one in the conference. Indiana has won one and lost two.

Missouri Beats Nebraska In Big 8 Battle

COLUMBOA, Mo. (AP) — Fullback Ed Mehrer kicked a 31-yard field goal and halfback Mel West set up a touchdown with an 86-yard kickoff return to give the Missouri Tigers a 9-0 Big Eight football decision over Nebraska's Cornhuskers Saturday.

The victory, scored bffore a homecoming crowd of 25,000, boosted Missouri's conference record to two victories against one loss and kept the Tigers very much in the running for an Orange Bowl date.

Mehrer's first quarter field goal was kicked at the Nebraska 21 from a side angle and into a 25-mile an hour wind. Nebraska had halted a Tiger attack that reached the Cornhusker 9.

Engineers Whip Inspired Tulane

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Heavily-favored Georgia Tech oiled its offense with three second half touchdowns Saturday night to defeat inspired Tulane 21-13.

Tulane had a Homecoming crowd of 30,000 cheering as it held a 13-0 lead until midway of the third period.

But Tech, ninth ranked team in the nation in the Associated Press poll, jelled its attack and quickly put across three touchdowns.

The victory was Tech's fifth against one loss, while Tulane took its fourth setback against two victories.

After a scoreless first quarter, Tulane started a touchdown drive with quarterback Phil Nugent scoring from the seven. The conversion attempt failed and Tulane, a two-touchdown underdog, led 6-0 at halftime.

In the opening minutes of the third period, Nugent lobbed a short pass to halfback Tommy Mason who sped 43 yards for a touchdown.

Tech got its attack rolling in the closing seconds of the third period. Graning capped a 35 yard drive following a poor punt by driving over from the five.

Tech took the lead with eight minutes left in the final quarter. Another bad Tulane punt gave Tech the ball on the Tulane 40 and seven plays later halfback Floyd Faucette went over from the five. A pass from quarterback Fred Braselton to Fausette for 16 yards was the big play in the march.

Tech found the Tulane defense a rugged outfit in the first half. The Tulane forward wall, anchored by tackle Joe Lesage and guard George Buillot, limited Tech to 84 yards rushing in the first two periods.

But Tech was a tough team to handle in the last two stanzas. Braselton's passing was a good deal sharper than before intermission and the Tech backs found good holes in the Tulane line.

Faucette was Tech's top ground gainer with 58 yards in 10 attempts. Substitute halfback Jimmy Nail added 41 on six carries.

In the passing department, Braselton and Marvin Tibbetts completed five of 13 for 88 yards.

Tulane's top yardage producer was sophomore halfback Terry Terrebonne, who accumulated 35 yards in 12 attempts. Nugent connected on five of 11 passes for 70 yards.

Center Maxie Baughan as usual was the guiding light in Tech's defense. But the Engineers got good line play from guard Harold Erickson and tackle Billy Shaw.

Erickson had eight individual tackles and two assists, while Baughan stopped seven Tulane ball carriers and assisted in five others.

Penn State Cruises Past Illinois, 20-9

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Seventh ranked Penn State, capitalizing on fumbles and pass interceptions, and sparked by the running and passing of quarterback Richie Lucas, extended its unbeaten streak to six games Saturday with a 20-9 victory over Illinois.

The Nittany Lions, stung by an Illinois field goal in the first period, roared back with two quick touchdowns to take the lead and stay in front as 15,045 fans watched the intersectional battle.

Two of the Penn State touchdowns were set up by Illinois fumbles as the hard charging Lions completely outplayed the heavier Big Ten team.

Illinois drew first blood when Cliff Roberts split the uprights with a three-pointer at 5:30 of the first period.

A 20 - yard pass from Lucas to end Henry Oppermann, and a 33 yard dash by Kerr highlighted the first Lion drive which carried 79 - yards. Lucas slanted off tackle to score.

Illinois halfback Marshall Count fumbled on the Penn State 40 to set up the second touchdown early in the second quarter. Dick Pae smashed over from the one.

The Illini took advantage of a pass interception by halfback Ethan Blackaby to strike back and slashed the deficit to 14-9 in the second period.

Penn State got its third scoring opportunity on a platter. Illinois halfback Gary Kolb intercepted a Lucas pass on his own two. Bill Brown fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and Penn State recovered.

Washington Tips Oregon, 13 To 12

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Halfback George Fleming kicked the only conversion of the game to provide a 13-12 victory margin for underdog Washington against previously undefeated Oregon Saturday.

Washington had driven 64 yards for its second touchdown in the third quarter to set the stage for Fleming's extra-pointer.

BULLDOGS RALLY

Tech Beat Northwestern, 27-14, In State Fair Game

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech took a stronger hold on the Gulf States Conference lead here Saturday night with a 27-14 win over Northwestern in their annual State Fair battle.

Tech's Bulldogs now have a 3-0 conference record. The loss dropped Northwestern's Demons to a 1-1 mark.

The Canines had to come from behind to take the victory on two scoring passes, a blocked punt and an six-yard run.

Scoring touchdowns for Tech werback B. K. Miller, on a 42pass play from quarterbacny Hudson; tackle Bobby L on a recovered of NSC blocunt in the end zone; Paus, on an eight-yard pass fronson; and Hudson, on a six-run.

Nestern's scoring was done by ick Jimmy Alredge on a six-pass from quarterback Larowe and a 75-yard pass fronwe.

Al scoreless first quarter, Nortern broke the scoring ice in the second period when Crowe passed six yards to Alredge. Jim Griffin kicked the PAT and NSC took a 7-0 lead.

The Demons got a break that aided them in scoring their first TD when a Tech kick went only five yards to the Tech 21. Runs by Jerry Lott, Ray Eddy and Alredge got a first down at the 10. Two plays later, the Demons were at the six and them came the scoring pass.

Tech tied it up two minutes later on the 42-yard pass from Hudson to Miller to climax a 67-yard drive. Jerry Hudson returned the Demon kickoff to the 34.

Two plays later, Jack Howard ripped off 14 yards to the NSC 42. Hudson then found Miller for the scoring pass.

J. W. Slack kicked the PAT and knotted the score at 7-7.

Minutes later, Tech went ahead, 14-7, on a drive starting when tackle Bobby Hinton recovered a short kickoff after Tech's kickoff on the NSC 46. Fullback Max Rudd and Hudson got a first down at the 34. Hudson then passed 19 yards to end Jerry Hudson. The Demons drew a five-yard penalty. Rudd got two yards to the eight and then Hudson found Hynes in the end zone for the score.

Slack's PAT attempt split the upright and Tech had a 14-7 lead at the half.

A recovery of a NSC blocked punt gave Tech a 21-7 lead five minutes into the third period. NSC quarterback Dale Hoffpauir was back to punt almost on his goal line. The snap from center was bad and Tech blocked the punt. The ball bounded into the end zone where tackle Bobby Hinton covered it for the touchdown. Slack again converted.

Northwestern's last touchdown came with only seconds remaining in the third period on a beautiful 75-yard pass play. Aldredge got behind Tech's defense, gathered in Crowe's heave on the Tech 40 and raced untouched for the score. Griffin kicked for the extra point and it was 21-14.

Tech wrapped up the game with a final TD with 1:36 remaining on the clocks on a six-yard end sweep by Hudson. Hudson's run capped a 46-yard drive by the Bulldogs.

Tech got the ball on the Demon 46 on downs. Slack's 12-yard run gave Tech a first down on the Demon 32 and moments he had another at the NSC 19. Johnny Hudson passed to Jerry Hudson at the NSC six before Johnny Hudson found running room on fourth down and went over.

Johnny Hudson tried to run for the extra points but failed.

Tech's rushing leaders were Hynes and Slack. Slack picked up 54 yards in 11 carries and Hynes 48 yards in nine attempts.

Ralph Conrad led Northwestern's rushing with 42 yards in 10 carries and Aldredge had 30 yards in eight attempts.

TV GAME

Purdue Mdders Beat Iow 14-7

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Platoon-deep Purdue proved the better m u d d e r s and whipped Iowa's defending Big 10 football champions Saturday 14-7.

Iowa escaped being shut out for the first time in 61 games by pushing over a touchdown in the final four minutes. The last time the Hawkeyes were blanked was in a season finale against Notre Dame, 27-0, in 1952.

Neither club had much chance to show its defensive stuff in the nationally televised game, played in intermittent rain on a slippery gridiron before 40,000 fans. But the two tallies Purdue scored in the second period were enough to keep the boilermakers in the tight conference title chase.

Iowa, going into the game as the second best offensive club in the nation with an average of 411.5 yards per game, gained only 88 yards rushing and 81 yards passing.

Most of the passing came from the flashy Olen Treadway, who sparked his club to its lone touchdown. But it was too late then to catch Purdue, which played it safe throughout the second half for its second conference victory in three starts.

Purdue rolled 61 yards in 14 plays for its first touchdown. Jim Tiller set it up with a 17-yard sprint and fullback Jack Laraway got the final three yards on a plunge. Bernie Allen kicked the first of two conversions.

The Boilermakers were back in the end zone only four minutes later after Laraway recovered one of four Iowa fumbles on the Hawkeye 19. The b o b b l e by Eugene Mosley turned out to be the deciding factor in this scrap, because seven plays later fullback Bobis plunged over from the one.

Icdidn't get rolling until Trey connected on six of ninows with the clock ticking off inal minutes. He connected ff Langston for 35 yards, to Jeter for 11, and to Bill Whi for 13 to get the ball to the lue 10. Three plays later, full Don Horn ran over from the and Allan Miller converted.

Southern Cal Barely Avents Defeat, 30-28

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's unbeaten Trojans ran into a band of Stanford Indians on the warpath Saturday but managed to escape a scalping and edge their rivals 30-28.

Stanford, a team beaten in four of its five games, went into the game 19 - point underdogs, but amazed a crowd of 44,209 in Memorial Coliseum by leading the Trojans 21-12 at the half.

Southern Cal came back with a touchdown in the third quarter and two more in the fourth to win.

Hero of the winning team was Clark Holden, a bull-like 200-pound fullback who scored four of the five Trojan touchdowns. His markers came on runs of 22, 21, 4 and 1 yards.

The Trojans started out as if this was to be an easy one. But they soon found out otherwise. Norman finished the afternoon with a passing record of 16 completions out of 32 throws for 207 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

SMU Rallies To Tip Texas Tech, 21-13

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Glynn Gregory, Max Christian and Don Meredith pulled desperate Southern Methodist across for a last quarter 21-13 victory over Texas Tech Saturday.

Gregory intercepted a pass to set up the second touchdown, which Meredith passed for, then kicked the extra points that insured victory.

Christian batted down Ken Talkington's pass for the conversion that would have put Tech ahead and might have won for the Red Raiders.

After that the thinly - manned Raiders collapsed before a fresh SMU team, piloted by sophomore Harold Morgan, which swept 67 yards for another touchdown with only 1:41 left in the game.

Frank Jackson ran 87 yards for the first SMU touchdown. Meredith passed 31 to Pat Neill for the second and Morgan rammed across from 3 inches away for the final.

Talkington, Tech's thin man, passed to sophomore star Bake Turner for 17 yards and the first Raider touchdown. He scored the second with a one - yard smash after Mickie Barron had taken a kickoff back 72 yards to the SMU 18.

Georgia Defeats Kentucky, 14-7

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)— Georgia's Bulldogs, working toward a bowl b i d, s e i z e d on Kentucky's errors for both touchdowns Saturday night to beat the Wildcats 14-7 and remain undefeated in Southeastern Conference play.

Georgia never was able to get inside Kentucky's 37-yard line on its own power, but a 43-yard return of a pass interception by halfback Bobby Towns accounted for one touchdown and a blocked punt set the stage for Bobby Walden to sweep 13 yards for the other.

Kentucky, with Charlie Sturgeon slashing off tackle, and Calvin Bird sweeping the ends, rolled 61 yards in eight plays for its touchdown in the second period, which came on an eight yard pass from quarterback Jerry Eisaman to end Tom Rodgers.

Kentucky had punched to the Georgia 15-yard line from the opening kickoff before it bogged down and was backed into its own territory by Walden's brilliant punting as the first period ended.

Wisaman tried to pass on the first play of the second period, but his throw was short and Towns cut in front of Bird to snatch the ball and streak 43 yards down the sideline to score.

Kentucky then bounced back for its touchdown with Sturgeon's 25-yard dash to the Georgia 24 high-lighting the drive. That left the score tied 7-7 at the half.

When Kentucky was unable to advance after the second half kickoff, Sturgeon tried to kick from his own 24, but tackle Larry Lancaster crashed through to block it and guard Pat Dye recovered for Georgia on the 21.

Sophomore fullback Bill Godfrey, who was the key man in the Georgia attack and a defensive standout all evening, bulled to the 11. Towns cut to the eight, but Georgia was penalized to the 13 before Walden took a pitchout from Francis Tarkenton and swept right end to score the winning touchdown.

Durward Pennington kicked his second conversion.

Kentucky rolled up 271 yards by rushing 144 of them by Sturgeon, but had nothing to show for it but its fifth conference defeat in as many games.

Pease Wins Seniors Title Over Dunkel

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Walter Pease, 56-year-old Plainfield, N. J. attorney, won four of the last six holes Saturday to defeat Paul Dunkel of Hackensack, N. J. 4 and 3 in the finals of the North and South Seniors Golf Tournament.

Rain was falling again on the soggy No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club when the two longtime golfing friends bogied the 15th and final hole.

Pease was 5 over par of 72 for the 15 holes. Dunkel, a 65-year-old export - import businessman, was 10 over.

Dunkel took the first two holes with pars as Pease took a double bogey on No. 2. But Pease won the next three with pars and a birdie. The sixth was split and Dunkel won two of the next three, leaving it even at the turn.

Pease then took the 10th, 11th, 13th and 14th go 4-up. Dunkel's ball was buried in a bunker on No. 10, he shot between two traps on No. 11 and was trapped on the 13th.

It was Pease's second year in the tournament. He and Dunkel often had played friendly matches, but never had faced one another in a tourney.

Southwestern Tumbled By Wildcats, 21-6

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Underdog Louisiana College showed a varied offensive and surprised Southwestern Louisiana 21-6 Saturday night before 5,000.

Behind 6-0 at the outset, LC pushed across a score in each quarter to make its season record 5-2.

SLI halfback Ralph Davis opened the scoring, picking off a nine-yard pass from John Arms for a touchdown. LC tied the score at 6-6 when halfback Bob Corley slanted off tackle for a five-yard touchdown.

In the second quarter, end Don Graft made it 12-6 as he gathered in a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Sonny Huft. Halfback Buddy Spring booted a 22-yard field goal in the third quarter.

LC closd the scoring in the final period as Bobby Satcher clicked on a 14-yard pass to end Bill Gardner.

Jack Collins Leads Texas To 28-6 Win

AUSTIN, Texx. —Sophomore speedster Jack Collins slashed for two short touchdown scampers and passed for another a unbeaten Texas rolled over arch foe Rice 28-6 Saturday night.

The stampeding Steers proved their No. 3 national ranking before a full house of 57,000 who turned out in Memorial Stadium.

The Southwest Conference victory avenged last year's stunning 34-7 loss to Rice when Texas was ranked as the nation's fourth best.

Texas pulverized the Rice ends on the key touchdown play with quarterback Bobby Lackey calling for either the long laternal or for a running halfback pass.

Rice fumbles, a 21-yard punt and blocked kick led to three of Texas touchdowns. The Owls rolled up a big margin in statistics but opportunistic Texas cashed in on the visitor's miscues to win.

Lackey rolled end for one score from four yards out, Collins made one from four yards out and tossed seven yards to halfback Ramirez for another.

Professional Grid Test Slated For Minneapolis

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minneapolis takes the pro football test Sunday. The city which almost lost pro basketball and has yet to field major league baseball can make a big impression on the National Football League expansion committee with an enthusiastic turnout for the game between the Chicago Cardinals and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Cardinals, a shaky franchise with a sputtering offense, apparently are in the market for a new home. They tried Buffalo last year and the upstate New York City flunked the test. This year the Cards have scheduled two homes games at Minneapolis and moved the other four from Comiskey Park to Soldier Field in Chicago.

After a fine exhibition season and a one - sided victory over Washington on opening day, the Cards have lost three straight and are in the Eastern Conference cellar. The Eagles are in a four-way tie for second with Washington, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Defending conference champ New York leads with 3-1.

The Cards will not have King Hill, their No. 1 quarterback, ready for the Eagles. He and his sub, M. C. Reynolds, were hurt last week, but Reynolds will play. The Eagles, with veteran Norm Van Brocklin in the passing role, are one-point favorites.

In other Eastern games Washington is at Cleveland with the Browns favored by 9 points, and New York is at Pittsburgh in a pick 'em contest.

In the Western Conference, the NFL champion Baltimore Colts are 13-point home favoites over Green Bay, Los Angeles rates 12 better than visiting Detroit and San Francisco gets the nod by one point over the traveling Chicago Bears.

The Colts, Packers and 49ers are in a three-way tie for first at 3-1. The Rams are 2-2, the Bears 1-3 and the Lions 0-4.

Minneapolis fans will see the league's leading pass receiver in Woodley Lewis of the Cards, and the top player in both punt and kickoff returns, Art Powell of the Eagles.

The Giants-Steeles game will match the NFL's two top teams in rushing defense. The Giants, No. 1 in that department, also lead in both total offense and passing offense. The Giants' Don Chandler has the best punting average.

Although Green Bay won its first three games before being thrashed 45-6 by Los Angeles last week, it does not boast a lead in any team or individual statistics. The Colts are second best in pass defense and two of their defensive backs, Andy Nelson and Milt Davis, share the lead in pass interceptions.

San Francisco hae scored the most points, has the leading point maker in rookie placement specialist Tommy Davis and leads in rushing yardage. But Detroit's defensive strength is best against passing.

Los Angeles ranks second in total offene and second in rushing and Ollie Matson is third in individual rushing. The Bears, who have failed to fulfill pre-season expectations, have no departmental leaders.

Oregon State Cops 24-20 Win Over California

BERKELEY, Calif (AP) — Oregon State sophomore tailback Don Kasso returned to his home town Saturday and engineered a fourth quarter scoring drive that gave the Beavers a 24-20 victory over the California Bears.

Used only sparingly in the first three periods, the former Berkeley High School star came on to throw the winning 31-yard touchdown pass to Amos Marsh with less than 4 minutes remaining.

Kasso figured in all five plays on the winning 73-yard march. He completed four passes and ran once for five yards. The 178-pound back also ran over the final two-point conversion before 41,000 fans.

The victory was the Beavers second of the season. California took its fifth straight defeat after winning its opener.

1ST WIN IN 13 YEARS

Wisconsin Stops Ohio State, 12-3

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin's hard - charging linemen contained Ohio State h a n d i l y Saturday and the Badgers scored in every possible fashion for a 12-3 triumph to move into a tie for second place in the tight Big Ten football race.

It was Wisconsin's first win over the Buckeyes in 13 years.

Dale Hackbart rambled seven yards for Wisconsin's only touchdown, but the Badger hero was tackle Danny L a n p h e a r, who blocked a punt to set up a safety, and then led the tacklers on nearly every play thereafter.

Lanphear, aided by linebacker Jerry Stalcup, eliminated Ohio State's biggest offensive threat, fullback Bob White, an All-America last year, with a jarring tackle early in the second period. White suffered a shoulder separation on the play and was out of action the rest of the afternoon.

Quarterback Jim Bakken was an important cog in the strategy, punting out of bounds three times inside the Buckeye 16 and Hackbart left one punt dead on the Ohio State seven and kicked another out of bounds on the Buckeye 19.

But Lanphear got the Badgers off to a proper beginning when he dove through the blocking line-up to block Jerry Field's second punt before the game was four minuts old.

The ball, kicked from the Ohio State 14, rolled into the end zone and though Allan Schoonover attempted to fall on it, he pushed it instead out of the field of play for the two points.

The Badgers came back immediately for their touchdown, driving 54 yards in 13 plays before Hackbart went over. Karl Holzwarth place kicked the extra point. Holswarth accounted for the Badger's final points, with a field goal from the 17-yard line only 14 seconds before the half ended.

Dave Kilgore booted a 27-yard field goal for Ohio State's points, on the Buckeyes' best drive of the day, stretching from Ohio State's three to the Badger's nine.

Cincinnati Tops Pacific, 21-14

CINCINNATI (AP) — Time ran out on College of Pacific Saturday and Cincinnati, led by the passing of Jack Lee and Ed Kovac's three touchdowns eked out a 21-14 victory.

The Tigers from the Pacific Coast were only a foot from the goal line on second down when the game ended. They had driven all the way from their own 1 in the final three minutes of the game.

North Texas Squeezes Past Houston, 7-6

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Undefeated North Texas State moved 63 yards with the opening kickoff on the power of Abner Haynes and the quarterbacking of Vernon Cole to defeat the University of Houston 7-6 Saturday night.

The victory gave North Texas the lead in the Missouri Valley Conference title race.

Houston also scored on a 65-yard march the first time the Cougars had the ball, but Eddie Mitchamore's conversion attempt was wide.

Houston did not threaten seriously again but North Texas was held on downs at the Cougar 8 in the second period and saw a fumble stop a 54-yard drive at the 8 less than three minutes before the final gun.

Cole scored the North Texas touchdown from the 3 on the first play after Haynes, the nation's third leading ground-gainer, had scampered 22 yards. Halfback Morris Rose converted.

Fullback Charlie Rieves moved for 41 yards in eight carries as Houston struck back quickly by hitting the left side of the North Texas line on 14 consecutive plays. Halfback Ken Bolin scored from the 3.

Tech Beat Northwestern, 27-14, In State Fair Game

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech took a stronger hold on the Gulf States Conference lead here Saturday night with a 27-14 win over Northwestern in their annual State Fair battle.

Tech's Bulldogs now have a 3-0 conference record. The loss dropped Northwestern's Demons to a 1-1 mark.

The Canines had to come from behind to take the victory on two scoring passes, a blocked punt and an six-yard run.

Scoring touchdowns for Tech were back B. K. Miller, on a 42pass play from quarterback Hudson; tackle Bobby L on a recovered of NSC blocount in the end zone; Paus, on an eight-yard pass fronson; and Hudson, on a six-run.

Nestern's scoring was done by ck Jimmy Alredge on a six-pass from quarterback Larowe and a 75-yard pass frorwe.

A scoreless first quarter, Nortern broke the scoring ice in the second period when Crowe passed six yards to Alredge. Jim Griffin kicked the PAT and NSC took a 7-0 lead.

The Demons got a break that aided them in scoring their first TD when a Tech kick went only five yards to the Tech 21. Runs by Jerry Lott, Ray Eddy and Alredge got a first down at the 10. Two plays later, the Demons were at the six and them came the scoring pass.

Tech tied it up two minutes later on the 42-yard pass from Hudson to Miller to climax a 67-yard drive. Jerry Hudson returned the Demon kickoff to the 34.

Two plays later, Jack Howard ripped off 14 yards to the NSC 42. Hudson then found Miller for the scoring pass.

J. W. Slack kicked the PAT and knotted the score at 7-7.

Minutes later, Tech went ahead, 14-7, on a drive starting when tackle Bobby Hinton recovered a short kickoff after Tech's kickoff on the NSC 46. Fullback Max Rudd and Hudson got a first down at the 34. Hudson then passed 19 yards to end Jerry Hudson. The Demons drew a five-yard penalty. Rudd got two yards to the eight and then Hudson found Hynes in the end zone for the score.

Slack's PAT attempt split the upright and Tech had a 14-7 lead at the half.

A recovery of a NSC blocked punt gave Tech a 21-7 lead five minutes into the third period. NSC quarterback Dale Hoffpauir was back to punt almost on his goal line. The snap from center was bad and Tech blocked the punt. The ball bounded into the end zone where tackle Bobby Hinton covered it for the touchdown. Slack again converted.

Northwestern's last touchdown came with only seconds remaining in the third period on a beautiful 75-yard pass play. Aldredge got behind Tech's defense, gathered in Crowe's heave on the Tech 40 and raced untouched for the score. Griffin kicked for the extra point and it was 21-14.

Tech wrapped up the game with a final TD with 1:36 remaining on the clocks on a six-yard end sweep by Hudson. Hudson's run capped a 46-yard drive by the Bulldogs.

Tech got the ball on the Demon 46 on downs. Slack's 12-yard run gave Tech a first down on the Demon 32 and moments he had another at the NSC 19. Johnny Hudson passed to Jerry Hudson at the NSC six before Johnny Hudson found running room on fourth down and went over.

Johnny Hudson tried to run for the extra points but failed.

Tech's rushing leaders were Hynes and Slack. Slack picked up 54 yards in 11 carries and Hynes 48 yards in nine attempts.

Ralph Conrad led Northwestern's rushing with 42 yards in 10 carries and Aldredge had 30 yards in eight attempts.

Purdue Mdders Beat Iowa 14-7

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Platoon-deep Purdue proved the better m u d d e r s and whipped Iowa's defending Big 10 football champions Saturday 14-7.

Iowa escaped being shut out for the first time in 61 games by pushing over a touchdown in the final four minutes. The last time the Hawkeyes were blanked was in a season finale against Notre Dame, 27-0, in 1952.

Neither club had much chance to show its defensive stuff in the nationally televised game, played in intermittent rain on a slippery gridiron before 40,000 fans. But the two tallies Purdue scored in the second period were enough to keep the boilermakers in the tight conference title chase.

STATISTICS	Iowa	Purdue
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Statistics of Saturday's Purdue-Iowa football game:
First downs	9	10
Rushing yardage	88	198
Passing yardage	81	1
Passes	9-11	2-6
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	7-28.1	6-39.3
Fumbles lost	4	0
Yards penalized	30	35

Iowa, going into the game as the second best offensive club in the nation with an average of 411.5 yards per game, gained only 88 yards rushing and 81 yards passing.

Most of the passing came from the flashy Olen Treadway, who sparked his club to its lone touchdown. But it was too late then to catch Purdue, which played it safe throughout the second half for its second conference victory in three starts.

Purdue rolled 61 yards in 14 plays for its first touchdown. Jim Tiller set it up with a 17-yard sprint and fullback Jack Laraway got the final three yards on a plunge. Bernie Allen kicked the first of two conversions.

The Boilermakers were back in the end zone only four minutes later after Laraway recovered one of four Iowa fumbles on the Hawkeye 19. The b o b b l e by Eugene Mosley turned out to be the deciding factor in this scrap, because seven plays later fullback Bobis plunged over from the one.

Icdidn't get rolling until Trey connected on six of nineows with the clock ticking off inal minutes. He connected ff Langston for 35 yards, to Jeter for 11, and to Bill Whi for 13 to get the ball to the lue 10. Three plays later, full Don Horn ran over from the and Allan Miller converted.

Southern Cal Barely Avents Defeat, 30-28

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's unbeaten Trojans ran into a band of Stanford Indians on the warpath Saturday but managed to escape a scalping and edge their rivals 30-28.

Stanford, a team beaten in four of its five games, went into the game 19 - point underdogs, but amazed a crowd of 44,209 in Memorial Coliseum by leading the Trojans 21-12 at the half.

Southern Cal came back with a touchdown in the third quarter and two more in the fourth to win.

Hero of the winning team was Clark Holden, a bull-like 200-pound fullback who scored four of the five Trojan touchdowns. His markers came on runs of 22, 21, 4 and 1 yards.

The Trojans started out as if this was to be an easy one. But they soon found out otherwise. Norman finished the afternoon with a passing record of 16 completions out of 32 throws for 207 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

SMU Rallies To Tip Texas Tech, 21-13

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Glynn Gregory, Max Christian and Don Meredith pulled desperate Southern Methodist across for a last quarter 21-13 victory over Texas Tech Saturday.

Gregory intercepted a pass to set up the second touchdown, which Meredith passed for, then kicked the extra points that insured victory.

Christian batted down Ken Talkington's pass for the conversion that would have put Tech ahead and might have won for the Red Raiders.

After that the thinly - manned Raiders collapsed before a fresh SMU team, piloted by sophomore Harold Morgan, which swept 67 yards for another touchdown with only 1:41 left in the game.

Frank Jackson ran 87 yards for the first SMU touchdown, Meredith passed 31 to Pat Neill for the second and Morgan rammed across from 3 inches away for the final.

Talkington, Tech's thin man, passed to sophomore star Bake Turner for 17 yards and the first Raider touchdown. He scored the second with a one - yard smash after Mickie Barron had taken a kickoff back 72 yards to the SMU 18.

Georgia Defeats Kentucky, 14-7

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)— Georgia's Bulldogs, working toward a bowl b i d, s e i z e d on Kentucky's errors for both touchdowns Saturday night to beat the Wildcats 14-7 and remain undefeated in Southeastern Conference play.

Georgia never was able to get inside Kentucky's 37-yard line on its own power, but a 43-yard return of a pass interception by halfback Bobby Towns accounted for one touchdown and a blocked punt set the stage for Bobby Walden to sweep 13 yards for the other.

Kentucky, with Charlie Sturgeon slashing off tackle, and Calvin Bird sweeping the ends, rolled 61 yards in eight plays for its touchdown in the scond period, which came on an eight yard pass from quarterback Jerry Eisaman to end Tom Rodgers.

Kentucky had punched to the Georgia 15-yard line from the opening kickoff before it bogged down and was backed into its own territory by Walden's brilliant punting as the first period ended.

Wisaman tried to pass on the first play of the second period, but his throw was short and Towns cut in front of Bird to snatch the ball and streak 43 yards down the sideline to score.

Kentucky then bounced back for its touchdown with Sturgeon's 25-yard dash to the Georgia 24 high-lighting the drive. That left the score tied 7-7 at the half.

When Kentucky was unable to advance after the second half kickoff, Sturgeon tried to kick from his own 24, but tackle Larry Lancaster crashed through to block it and guard Pat Dye recovered for Georgia on the 21.

Sophomore fullback Bill Godfrey, who was the key man in the Georgia attack and a defensive standout all evening, bulled to the 11. Towns cut to the eight, but Georgia was penalized to the 13 before Walden took a pitchout from Francis Tarkenton and swept right end to score the winning touchdown.

Durward Pennington kicked his second conversion.

Kentucky rolled up 271 yards by rushing 144 of them by Sturgeon, but had nothing to show for it but its fifth conference defeat in as many games.

Pease Wins Seniors Title Over Dunkel

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Walter Pease, 56-year-old Plainfield, N. J. attorney, won four of the last six holes Saturday to defeat Paul Dunkel of Hackensack, N. J. 4 and 3 in the finals of the North and South Seniors Golf Tournament.

Rain was falling again on the soggy No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club when the two longtime golfing friends bogied the 15th and final hole.

Pease was 5 over par of 72 for the 15 holes. Dunkel, a 65-year-old export - import businessman, was 10 over.

Dunkel took the first two holes with pars as Pease took a double bogey on No. 2. But Pease won the next three with pars and a birdie. The sixth was split and Dunkel won two of the next three, leaving it even at the turn.

Pease then took the 10th, 11th, 13th and 14th go 4-up. Dunkel's ball was buried in a bunker on No. 10, he shot between two traps on No. 11 and was trapped on the 13th.

It was Pease's second year in the tournament. He and Dunkel often had played friendly matches, but never had faced one another in a tourney.

Jack Collins Leads Texas To 28-6 Win

AUSTIN, Texx. ¾—Sophomore speedster Jack Collins slashed for two short touchdown scampers and passed for another a unbeaten Texas rolled over arch foe Rice 28-6 Saturday night.

The stampeding Steers proved their No. 3 national ranking before a full house of 57,000 who turned out in Memorial Stadium.

The Southwest Conference victory avenged last year's stunning 34-7 loss to Rice when Texas was ranked as the nation's fourth best.

Texas pulverized the Rice ends on the key touchdown play with quarterback Bobby Lackey calling for either the long laternal or for a running halfback pass.

Rice fumbles, a 21-yard punt and blocked kick led to three of Texas touchdowns. The Owls rolled up a big margin in statistics but opportunistic Texas cashed in on the visitor's miscues to win.

Lackey rolled end for one score from four yards out, Collins made one from four yards out and tossed seven yards to halfback Ramirez for another.

Professional Grid Test Slated For Minneapolis

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minneapolis takes the pro football test Sunday. The city which almost lost pro basketball and has yet to field major league baseball can make a big impression on the National Football League expansion committee with an enthusiastic turnout for the game between the Chicago Cardinals and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Cardinals, a shaky franchise with a sputtering offense, apparently are in the market for a new home. They tried Buffalo last year and the upstate New York City flunked the test. This year the Cards have scheduled two homes games at Minneapolis and moved the other four from Comiskey Park to Soldier Field in Chicago.

After a fine exhibition season and a one - sided victory over Washington on opening day, the Cards have lost three straight and are in the Eastern Conference cellar. The Eagles are in a four-way tie for second with Washington, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Defending conference champ New York leads with 3-1.

The Cards will not have King Hill, their No. 1 quarterback, ready for the Eagles. He and his sub, M. C. Reynolds, were hurt last week, but Reynolds will play. The Eagles, with veteran Norm Van Brocklin in the passing role, are one-point favorites.

In other Eastern games Washington is at Cleveland with the Browns favored by 9 points, and New York is at Pittsburgh in a pick 'em contest.

In the Western Conference, the NFL champion Baltimore Colts are 13-point home favoites over Green Bay, Los Angeles rates 12 better than visiting Detroit and San Francisco gets the nod by one point over the traveling Chicago Bears.

The Colts, Packers and 49ers are in a three-way tie for first at 3-1. The Rams are 2-2, the Bears 1-3 and the Lions 0-4.

Minneapolis fans will see the league's leading pass receiver in Woodley Lewis of the Cards, and the top player in both punt and kickoff returns, Art Powell of the Eagles.

The Giants-Steeles game will match the NFL's two top teams in rushing defense. The Giants, No. 1 in that department, also lead in both total offense and passing offense. The Giants' Don Chandler has the best punting average.

Although Green Bay won its first three games before being thrashed 45-6 by Los Angeles last week, it does not boast a lead in any team or individual statistics. The Colts are second best in pass defense and two of their defensive backs, Andy Nelson and Milt Davis, share the lead in pass interceptions.

San Francisco hae scored the most points, has the leading point maker in rookie placement specialist Tommy Davis and leads in rushing yardage. But Detroit's defensive strength is best against passing.

Los Angeles ranks second in total offene and second in rushing and Ollie Matson is third in individual rushing. The Bears, who have failed to fulfill pre-season expectations, have no departmental leaders.

Oregon State Cops 24-20 Win Over California

BERKELEY, Calif (AP) — Oregon State sophomore tailback Don Kasso returned to his home town Saturday and engineered a fourth quarter scoring drive that gave the Beavers a 24-20 victory over the California Bears.

Used only sparingly in the first three periods, the former Berkeley High School star came on to throw the winning 31-yard touchdown pass to Amos Marsh with less than 4 minutes remaining.

Kasso figured in all five plays on the winning 73-yard march. He completed four passes and ran once for five yards. The 178-pound back also ran over the final two-point conversion before 41,000 fans.

The victory was the Beavers second of the season. California took its fifth straight defeat after winning its opener.

1ST WIN IN 13 YEARS

Wisconsin Stops Ohio State, 12-3

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin's hard - charging linemen contained Ohio State h a n d i l y Saturday and the Badgers scored in every possible fashion for a 12-3 triumph to move into a tie for second place in the tight Big Ten football race.

It was Wisconsin's first win over the Buckeyes in 13 years.

Dale Hackbart rambled seven yards for Wisconsin's only touchdown, but the Badger hero was tackle Danny L a n p h e a r, who blocked a punt to set up a safety, and then led the tacklers on nearly every play thereafter.

Lanphear, aided by linebacker Jerry Stalcup, eliminated Ohio State's biggest offensive threat, fullback Bob White, an All-America last year, with a jarring tackle early in the second period. White suffered a shoulder separation on the play and was out of action the rest of the afternoon.

Quarterback Jim Bakken was an important cog in the strategy, punting out of bounds three times inside the Buckeye 16 and Hackbart left one punt dead on the Ohio State seven and kicked another out of bounds on the Buckeye 19.

But Lanphear got the Badgers off to a proper beginning when he dove through the blocking line-up to block Jerry Field's second punt before the game was four minuts old.

The ball, kicked from the Ohio State 14, rolled into the end zone and though Allan Schoonover attempted to fall on it, he pushed it instead out of the field of play for the two points.

The Badgers came back immediately for their touchdown, driving 54 yards in 13 plays before Hackbart went over. Karl Holzwarth place kicked the extra point. Holswarth accounted for the Badger's final points, with a field goal from the 17-yard line only 14 seconds before the half ended.

Dave Kilgore booted a 27-yard field goal for Ohio State's points, on the Buckeyes' best drive of the day, stretching from Ohio State's three to the Badger's nine.

Score By Periods
Wisconsin	9	3	0	0	—12
Ohio State	0	3	0	0	— 3

Cincinnati Tops Pacific, 21-14

CINCINNATI (AP) — Time ran out on College of Pacific Saturday and Cincinnati, led by the passing of Jack Lee and Ed Kovac's three touchdowns eked out a 21-14 victory.

The Tigers from the Pacific Coast were only a foot from the goal line on second down when the game ended. They had driven all the way from their own 1 in the final three minutes of the game.

North Texas Squeezes Past Houston, 7-6

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Undefeated North Texas State moved 63 yards with the opening kickoff on the power of Abner Haynes and the quarterbacking of Vernon Cole to defeat the University of Houston 7-6 Saturday night.

The victory gave North Texas the lead in the Missouri Valley Conference title race.

Houston also scored on a 65-yard march the first time the Cougars had the ball, but Eddie Mitchamore's conversion attempt was wide.

Houston did not threaten seriously again but North Texas was held on downs at the Cougar 8 in the second period and saw a fumble stop a 54-yard drive at the 8 less than three minutes before the final gun.

Cole scored the North Texas touchdown from the 3 on the first play after Haynes, the nation's third leading ground-gainer, had scampered 22 yards. Halfback Morris Rose converted.

Fullback Charlie Rieves moved for 41 yards in eight carries as Houston struck back quickly by hitting the left side of the North Texas line on 14 consecutive plays. Halfback Ken Bolin scored from the 3.

State Vocal Conference Scheduled

The State Vocal Conference slated on the Louisiana Tech college campus October 29 through October 31 has attracted widespread interest, officials said yesterday.

Designed in cooperation with the State Department of Education, the program is expected to draw music teachers and choir directors from neighboring states as well as from the La. area. There is no registration fee for the event.

A number of widely recognized and well-known figures are scheduled to appear as featured guests at the event. Lara Hoggard, nationally famous clinician and former Washington, D. C. conductor of the NBC Navy Radio Series; Dr. Lilla Belle Pitts, Columbia University and past president of the Music Educators National Conference; Dr. Farrold Stephens of Southern Methodist and formerly of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; and Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, noted lecturer-columnist-author will all appear and actively participate in the vocal conference.

A special Music Department program is being prepared by officials and the general public is invited to attend the event, slated for 8 p.m. in Howard Auditorium on October 30.

State Vocal Conference Scheduled

The State Vocal Conference slated on the Louisiana Tech college campus October 29 through October 31 has attracted widespread interest, officials said yesterday.

Designed in cooperation with the State Department of Education, the program is expected to draw music teachers and choir directors from neighboring states as well as from the La. area. There is no registration fee for the event.

A number of widely recognized and well-known figures are scheduled to appear as featured guests at the event. Lara Hoggard, nationally famous clinician and former Washington, D. C. conductor of the NBC Navy Radio Series; Dr. Lilla Belle Pitts, Columbia University and past president of the Music Educators National Conference; Dr. Farrold Stephens of Southern Methodist and formerly of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; and Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, noted lecturer-columnist-author will all appear and actively participate in the vocal conference.

A special Music Department program is being prepared by officials and the general public is invited to attend the event, slated for 8 p.m. in Howard Auditorium on October 30.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Got First Newspaper Carrier Boy

10 year old Barney Flaherty became America's first newspaper carrier boy when he answered this Want Ad:

To the unemployed — a number of steady men can find employment by vending this paper. A liberal discount to those who buy and sell again.

The ad appeared in the old New York Sun on September 4, 1833.

$5 to first sender of each true newspaper Classified Advertising result story we accept. Howard Parish Associates, P. O. Box 126, N. W. Br., Miami 47, Fla.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Got First Newspaper Carrier Boy

10 year old Barney Flaherty became America's first newspaper carrier boy when he answered this Want Ad:

To the unemployed — a number of steady men can find employment by vending this paper. A liberal discount to those who buy and sell again.....

The ad appeared in the old New York Sun on September 4, 1883.

$5 to first sender of each true newspaper Classified Advertising result story we accept. Howard Parish Associates, P.O. Box 126, N.W. Br., Miami 47, Fla.

ECONOMY HOME

Located just a few minutes from DOWNTOWN WEST MONROE is this neat 2 bedroom home. It's compact, but not crowded. The living room is 12x16. Mom will be proud of her kitchen with excellent cabinet space and vent-a-hood. Economy is written all over this home as it is priced less than $7,500 and only $250 plus closing costs will make it yours.

YOU'LL SEE!
YOU'LL SIGH!

And we know you'll want to buy this home FOUR BLOCKS FROM PLUM STREET SCHOOL. This neat 3 bedroom home is just nine months old. The kitchen is appealing with its many natural finish cabinets, built-in oven and range. The living room is spacious and has the drapes included. Ceramic tile bath with shower over the tub is another plus feature of this attractive and conveniently located home. You can relax without money worries as a low assumption and payments less than $80 will make this home yours.

BRIGHTEN YOUR FUTURE

With a home of your own. NEAR OLIN MATHIESON is this cozy 2 bedroom home which has so much to offer. There's a spacious living room that will win any woman's heart. This neat home is in excellent repair and has over 1100 sq. feet of living area. There's a workshop in back for Dad. This charming home can be bought for just $250 and closing (total price below $8,000).

STERLINGTON
ASSUME 4½% LOAN

This neat 3 bedroom home is just a few minutes drive from the business district of Sterlington. The tastefully carpeted and draped living room radiates gracious living. All 3 bedrooms are extra large. Two cheery baths eliminate "traffic problems". This lovely home is situated on a 1.6 acre hillcrest site for beauty and privacy. There's no "rich man's price" on this feature rich home, as it's priced below $13,500.

FINEST IN DESIGN

You're sure to agree this is one of the best constructed new homes in Monroe. It's on the NORTHSIDE, just ONE BLOCK FROM LEE JUNIOR HIGH. The 1½ tile baths add to the convenience of this modern as the minute home. Mom's kitchen is beautiful with its built-in Tappan oven and range and Nutone hood. The 1500 sq. feet of this lovely home is adequately cooled by the central air conditioning. Dad's heart will be made glad at the sight of the double carport. Quality usually cannot be bought for this price (less than $20,000).

BAYOU PRESTIGE

Will be yours in this elegant home in a very desirable BAYOU LOCATION. The bedrooms (one's 17x18) will easily accommodate even the most massive bedroom furniture. Beautiful oak paneling and oak block floors help dramatize the spacious den which overlooks the patio and bayou. Luxurious living room carpet and fine draperies are designed to show your furnishings to best advantage. The ultra modern kitchen has built-in oven and range and 9' refrigerator. Year 'round comfort will be yours with York heating-air conditioning system. This bayou home has features galore, for which you'd expect to pay far more than the low price (below $36,000).

PRESTIGE LOCATION

Is a feature of this 3 bedroom NORTHSIDE HOME. Even the largest of families will enjoy entertaining or relaxing in this "extra large" living room. An added attraction of this home is the 2 complete baths. Dad and Mom will both find the small office in this home to be an asset. The 2400 sq. feet of living area can be adequately cooled by 3 air conditioners. For your future happiness the price (less than $26,000) cannot be beat.

HONEYMOON HOUSE

Located near PLUM STREET SHOPPING CENTER is this charming home. You'll thrill to the luxury of carpeting in the spacious living room and front bedroom. There'll be no winter sniffles with the wall heaters in this home. This home rates an "excellent" on price (less than $10,000).

3 BEDROOMS AND DEN

This attractive home is JUST ACROSS FROM LEXINGTON SCHOOL. The house is exceptional as it is so well planned there is not an inch of wasted space. The den is ideally located for quiet hours with friends. The large corner lot has many trees which shade the barbecue pit for outdoor cooking. You'll agree not even the low price on this home could be improved, less than $15,000.

DO YOU HAVE A YEN

For a cute bungalow style home on a large lot (100x435) away from the hustle and bustle of the city? You'll thrill, then, to this home that's less than 4 years old. The living room is spacious (15x20). Few kitchens can be found that will "outshine" this one with pine paneling, natural finish cabinets, hood, pantry, and China cabinet with sliding glass doors above the breakfast bar. The splashproof all-tile bath (even ceramic tile floor) makes bathing fun instead of a chore for the children. Once you've seen this charmer, you're sure to have a yen to own it.

SOUTHSIDE DUPLEX

You'll never pinch pennies again once you own this money-making furnished duplex. Each apartment has 2 bedrooms, comfortable living room, kitchen with ceramic tile counter tops and bath. Wall heaters add to the convenience of the apartments. There's more than ample closet space (4 in each apartment). There are money possibilities here as the monthly income from both is $108 per month, while the selling price is less than $9,000.

THE HOME OF DISTINCTION

In a SELECT NORTHSIDE LOCATION is this home with 2,000 sq. feet of living area. The living room is beautiful with wall-to-wall carpet. The kitchen has every feature imaginable — Mahogany cabinets, built-in oven and range, dishwasher, and disposal. The Mahogany paneled family room with its quarry tile floors will be everyone's favorite spot for family fun and informal entertaining. Next summer will be anxiously awaited by all the family as there is central air conditioning inside and a private swimming pool for refreshing relaxation outside. This is truly a gracious home in a gracious setting.

ECONOMY HOME

Located just a few minutes from DOWNTOWN WEST MONROE is this neat 2 bedroom home. It's compact, but not crowded. The living room is 12x16. Mom will be proud of her kitchen with excellent cabinet space and vent-a-hood. Economy is written all over this home as it is priced less than $7,500 and only $250 plus closing costs will make it yours.

YOU'LL SEE!

YOU'LL SIGH!

And we know you'll want to buy this home FOUR BLOCKS FROM PLUM STREET SCHOOL. This neat 3 bedroom home is just nine months old. The kitchen is appealing with its many natural finish cabinets, built-in oven and range. The living room is spacious and has the drapes included. Ceramic tile bath with shower over the tub is another plus feature of this attractive and conveniently located home. You can relax without money worries as a low assumption and payments less than $80 will make this home yours.

BRIGHTEN YOUR FUTURE

With a home of your own, NEAR OLIN MATHIESON is this cozy 2 bedroom home which has so much to offer. There's a spacious living room that will win any woman's heart. This neat home is in excellent repair and has over 1100 sq. feet of living area. There's a workshop in back for Dad. This charming home can be bought for just $250 and closing (total price below $8,000).

STERLINGTON

ASSUME 4½% LOAN

This neat 3 bedroom home is just a few minutes drive from the business district of Sterlington. The tastefully carpeted and draped living room radiates gracious living. All 3 bedrooms are extra large. Two cheery baths eliminate "traffic problems". This lovely home is situated on a 1.8 acre hillcrest site for beauty and privacy. There's no "rich man's price" on this feature rich home, as it's priced below $13,500.

FINEST IN DESIGN

You're sure to agree this is one of the best constructed new homes in Monroe. It's on the NORTHSIDE, just ONE BLOCK FROM LEE JUNIOR HIGH. The 1½ tile baths add to the convenience of this modern as the minute home. Mom's kitchen is beautiful with its built-in Tappan oven and range and Nutone hood. The 1500 sq. feet of this lovely home is adequately cooled by the central air conditioning. Dad's heart will be made glad at the sight of the double carport. Quality usually cannot be bought for this price (less than $20,000).

BAYOU PRESTIGE

Will be yours in this elegant home in a very desirable BAYOU LOCATION. The bedrooms (one's 17x18) will easily accommodate even the most massive bedroom furniture. Beautiful oak paneling and oak block floors help dramatize the spacious den which overlooks the patio and bayou. Luxurious living room carpet and fine draperies are designed to show your furnishings to best advantage. The ultra modern kitchen has built-in oven and range and 9' refrigerator. Year 'round comfort will be yours with York heating-air conditioning system. This bayou home has features galore, for which you'd expect to pay far more than the low price (below $36,000).

PRESTIGE LOCATION

Is a feature of this 3 bedroom NORTHSIDE HOME. Even the largest of families will enjoy entertaining or relaxing in this "extra large" living room. An added attraction of this home is the 2 complete baths. Dad and Mom will both find the small office in this home to be an asset. The 2400 sq. feet of living area can be adequately cooled by 3 air conditioners. For your future happiness the price (less than $26,000) cannot be beat.

HONEYMOON HOUSE

Located near PLUM STREET SHOPPING CENTER is this charming home. You'll thrill to the luxury of carpeting in the spacious living room and front bedroom. There'll be no winter sniffles with the wall heaters in this home. This home rates an "excellent" on price (less than $10,000).

3 BEDROOMS AND DEN

This attractive home is JUST ACROSS FROM LEXINGTON SCHOOL. The house is exceptional as it is so well planned there is not an inch of wasted space. The den is ideally located for quiet hours with friends. The large corner lot has many trees which shade the barbecue pit for outdoor cooking. You'll agree not even the low price on this home could be improved, less than $15,000.

DO YOU HAVE A YEN

For a cute bungalow style home on a large lot (100x435) away from the hustle and bustle of the city? You'll thrill, then, to this home that's less than 4 years old. The living room is spacious (15x20). Few kitchens can be found that will "outshine" this one with pine paneling, natural finish cabinets, hood, pantry, and China cabinet with sliding glass doors above the breakfast bar. The splashproof all-tile bath (even ceramic tile floor) makes bathing fun instead of a chore for the children. Once you've seen this charmer, you're sure to have a yen to own it.

SOUTHSIDE DUPLEX

You'll never pinch pennies again once you own this money-making furnished duplex. Each apartment has 2 bedrooms, comfortable living room, kitchen with ceramic tile counter tops, and bath. Wall heaters add to the convenience of the apartments. There's more than ample closet space (4 in each apartment). There are money possibilities here as the monthly income from both is $108 per month, while the selling price is less than $9,000.

THE HOME OF DISTINCTION

In a SELECT NORTHSIDE LOCATION is this home with 2,000 sq. feet of living area. The living room is beautiful with wall-to-wall carpet. The kitchen has every feature imaginable —Mahogany cabinets, built-in oven and range, dishwasher, and disposal. The Mahogany paneled family room with its quarry tile floors will be everyone's favorite spot for family fun and informal entertaining. Next summer will be anxiously awaited by all the family as there is central air conditioning inside and a private swimming pool for refreshing relaxation outside. This is truly a gracious home in a gracious setting.

STEVE CANYON

by MILTON CANIFF

AND WHERE DO WE THINK WE'RE GOING, COL. CANYON?

STAND BACK, CAPTAIN! THE BOSS SAWBONES TOLD ME LITTLE OLEY AND I COULD CUT OUT OF THIS ANTISEPTIC HOTEL TODAY!...

GOTTA GO PICK UP MY FELLOW FIREMAN— THEN GET HIS MOM AND---

—OH, MRS. OLSON WAS CALLED BACK EAST... SHE HAD A MESSAGE THAT MR. OLSON WAS NOT WELL...

IN ALL THE EXCITEMENT I GUESS NO ONE THOUGHT TO TELL YOU

THEN OUR COMMANDING OFFICER HAD A CALL FROM MISS COPPER CALHOON HERSELF!

LET'S SEE—IT WAS JUST AFTER YOU'D HAD YOUR SLEEPING PILL LAST NIGHT...

—OF COURSE! NATURALLY!

MISS CALHOON SAID THAT IN THE MOTHER'S ABSENCE SHE WAS LOOKING AFTER THE OLSON BOY PERSONALLY—IMAGINE—THAT BUSY WOMAN!

SHE SENT A PRIVATE AMBULANCE AND HER PERSONAL PHYSICIAN TO CARRY LITTLE OLEY TO THE CIVIL AIRPORT!

MISS CALHOON HAD HER PERSONAL AIRPLANE WAITING—THEY TOOK THE BOY TO JOIN HIS MOTHER AND MISS C. BACK EAST...

THEN THEY WERE ALL TO FLY TO LONDON!

WHAT A CONSIDERATE EMPLOYER MISS CALHOON MUST BE!

ARE YOU ALL RIGHT, COLONEL?

WHY—YES, IT'S JUST AN OLD HURT THAT COMES RIGHT HERE FROM TIME TO TIME!

MEANWHILE — ON LONG ISLAND, NEW YORK...

WE'VE DONE ALL WE CAN WITH HER—FROM HERE ON IT'S UP TO THE WIND BOYS...

THEY'VE BROUGHT PHILERIE OUT OF CIVILIAN LIFE, GIVEN HIM A STAR—AND A FREE HAND TO PICK A CREW AND WRING HER OUT!

POOR GUYS!

BRINGING UP FATHER

IT'S TOUGH GITTIN' UP SO EARLY--ESPECIALLY AFTER COMIN' HOME AT THREE IN THE MORNIN'-

I'M SURE MAGGIE HEARD ME COMIN' IN - SO I'VE GOT TO GIT OUT OF HERE BEFORE SHE WAKES UP!

EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT SO FAR —

AH — I MADE IT!

DID MAGGIE CATCH YOU COMIN' HOME AT THREE A.M., JIGGS?

NO - BUT I'M SURE SHE HEARD ME -- SO I GOT UP EARLY THIS MORNIN' AND SNEAKED OUT!

THE TROUBLE IS - I'LL STILL HAVE TO FACE HER WHEN I GO HOME TONIGHT!

I HEARD FATHER COMING IN AT THREE A.M. — BUT I'M NOT GOING TO SAY A WORD TO HIM - HE DESERVES A NIGHT OUT OCCASIONALLY!

THAT'S THE RIGHT ATTITUDE, MOTHER-

GRANDMOTHER IS ON THE PHONE -- SHE'S ENTERTAINING TONIGHT AND SHE WANTS TO BORROW SOME DISHES -

BY ALL MEANS--

WE HAVE MORE DISHES THAN WE NEED, MOTHER! YOU CAN KEEP THEM --- JIGGS WILL DRIVE OVER WITH THEM LATER --

I HOPE MAGGIE WON'T BE TOO MAD ABOUT MY GITTIN' HOME SO LATE LAST NIGHT--

PUT THEM ON THE TABLE -- I WANT TO HAVE THEM READY WHEN MY HUSBAND COMES HOME!

STEVE CANYON

by MILTON CANIFF

AND WHERE DO WE THINK WE'RE GOING, COL. CANYON?

STAND BACK, CAPTAIN! THE BOSS SAWBONES TOLD ME LITTLE OLEY AND I COULD CUT OUT OF THIS ANTISEPTIC HOTEL TODAY!...

GOTTA GO PICK UP MY FELLOW FIREMAN— THEN GET HIS MOM AND---

—OH, MRS. OLSON WAS CALLED BACK EAST... SHE HAD A MESSAGE THAT MR. OLSON WAS NOT WELL...

IN ALL THE EXCITEMENT I GUESS NO ONE THOUGHT TO TELL YOU

THEN OUR COMMANDING OFFICER HAD A CALL FROM MISS COPPER CALHOON HERSELF!

LET'S SEE—IT WAS JUST AFTER YOU'D HAD YOUR SLEEPING PILL LAST NIGHT...

—OF COURSE! NATURALLY!

MISS CALHOON SAID THAT IN THE MOTHER'S ABSENCE SHE WAS LOOKING AFTER THE OLSON BOY PERSONALLY—IMAGINE—THAT BUSY WOMAN!

SHE SENT A PRIVATE AMBULANCE AND HER PERSONAL PHYSICIAN TO CARRY LITTLE OLEY TO THE CIVIL AIRPORT!

MISS CALHOON HAD HER PERSONAL AIRPLANE WAITING—THEY TOOK THE BOY TO JOIN HIS MOTHER AND MISS C. BACK EAST...

THEN THEY WERE ALL TO FLY TO LONDON!

WHAT A CONSIDERATE EMPLOYER MISS CALHOON MUST BE!

ARE YOU ALL RIGHT, COLONEL?

WHY—YES, IT'S JUST AN OLD HURT THAT COMES RIGHT HERE FROM TIME TO TIME!

MEANWHILE — ON LONG ISLAND, NEW YORK...

THEY'VE BROUGHT PHILERIE OUT OF CIVILIAN LIFE, GIVEN HIM A STAR—AND A FREE HAND TO PICK A CREW AND WRING HER OUT!

POOR GUYS!

BRINGING UP FATHER

IT'S TOUGH GITTIN' UP SO EARLY--ESPECIALLY AFTER COMIN' HOME AT THREE IN THE MORNIN'-

I'M SURE MAGGIE HEARD ME COMIN' IN - SO I'VE GOT TO GIT OUT OF HERE BEFORE SHE WAKES UP!

EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT SO FAR —

AH — I MADE IT!

DID MAGGIE CATCH YOU COMIN' HOME AT THREE A.M., JIGGS?

NO - BUT I'M SURE SHE HEARD ME -- SO I GOT UP EARLY THIS MORNIN' AND SNEAKED OUT!
